Scholarship Awards Now Open To All

Vice-president Barker To Donate Cup for Entire Campus

HALLS EQUAL HOUSES

Year Basis Revised for Its Presentation; Junior Week-end is Date

Award of scholarship cups for every men's and women's living organization on the campus has been made possible by a donation given by Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, who was announced yesterday by Hugh Biggs, assistant dean of men.

The cups, which will be known as the Vice-Presidential Scholarship awards, were given by Vice-President Barker in response to a demand for more adequate representation of student leadership, and especially to permit dormitories and other living organizations to compete for prizes. The Pan-hellenic and Interfraternity council awards were limited to Greek-letter organizations.

Includes Spring Term
Instead of presenting the Vice-presidential cups at the beginning of each year for the highest grade average for the preceding year, Dean Biggs said, they will include the spring term of the preceding year and the fall and winter terms of the year of the award. Junior Week-End has been set as the date for presentation in order that the award shall come appropriately after the year of endeavor.

It is expected that Vice-president Barker's donation will be ranked high among the many special recognitions given during the Week-End.

Alumni of Sigma Nu and alumnae of Chi Omega have presented a plaque and a cup each year for a long period of the University's life, but the awards were limited in the number of those eligible. Although occasionally ineligible organizations led the grade lists their number was so small that the restriction was not felt until the building of the new dormitory and the formation of several clubs and other living organizations.

Emerald Cites Need
Previous to the time of the award given by Vice-president Barker there were twelve living groups which had no goal before them. Grade averages proved that some of them might eventually lead the University, and at this juncture the Oregon Daily Emerald pointed out in a series of editorials the need for university-wide awards, showing that sorority or fraternity leadership meant less than University leadership, and that worthy groups were being slighted.

After a delegation of several of the groups interested visited the dean of men asking for equal opportunity for all groups, Greek-letter houses, dormitories, and clubs alike, Vice-president Barker made his donation.

Dean Stone's Journalistic Career Packed With Thrills

By BOBBY REID
The doubtful "thrill" of almost being the chief actor at a necktie party, being incarcerated in a "bull pen" with the ring leaders of a strike because he was thought a suspicious character at Coeur d'Alene, reporting the desperate, tense struggle of the corrupt political gangs in the early days of Montana history are bright threads woven into the fabric of the life of Dean Arthur L. Stone, for 16 years dean of the school of Journalism at the University of Montana, who is to be the principal speaker of the 10th Annual High School Conference, held here Friday and Saturday.

The years between 1890 and 1905 were filled with an intense rivalry between miners in Montana, and this rivalry extended into politics. Political feeling was very high, explained Dean Stone, the legislature was divided into two factions on account of the famous Clark-Daly mining feud. W. A. Clark was running for United States senator and Daly, representing opposite claims, opposed him; thus began the notorious bribery scandal.

Dean Stone was reporting on the Anaconda Standard, then probably the greatest newspaper in the far west, and was assigned to the stirring, glamorous political struggles.
"The most dramatic happenings that I ever had to report occurred one day at noon when the state legislature had a joint session. A fellow named Whiteside, representative from northern Montana, who had constituted himself a detective, suddenly rose from his seat and waved thirty $1,000 bills in his hand, offering them as evidence against Clark for bribery, claiming that they had been given to four men of his party. The atmosphere electrified, I thought

Conference Best In History, Says Prexy Stoddard

Leader of Student Body Returns to Studies At University

President Made Chairman Of Standing Group

Delayed in his return to school by attendance at the annual conference of the National Student Federation of America in Palo Alto January 1-4, Tom Stoddard, president of the associated students, registered at Johnson Hall yesterday morning, and was back at his office in Friendly Hall yesterday afternoon.

Stoddard is enthusiastic over the conference. "The old timers say it was the best ever staged," he said. "Representatives of the student governments of more than 100 colleges and universities in all parts of the United States were in attendance."

Leads Group
While at the conference, the Oregon president was chairman of one of the eight discussion groups, leading the symposium on student body publications. He was honored by being elected national delegate at large on the executive committee of the federation, and was made chairman of a standing committee on publications.

His position as national delegate will require Stoddard's attendance at a meeting of the executive committee to be held in New York City on June 30, and at the next annual congress, scheduled for Georgia Tech late next December.

"Stanford proved to be a wonderful host," said Stoddard. "All the delegates to the congress were honor guests at the Stanford-Army football game New Year's day; a wonderful dance was given us in Toyon hall, on the campus, and the banquet held the last evening of the congress was a very entertaining affair."

Spears Back Home; Denies Interest Here

Minnesota Man, Thought Best Possibility as Coach, Says 'No'

OFFICIALS ARE SILENT
Captain McEwan Contract Unsettled; No Meetings Scheduled

By RYAN VANE
Just as the Oregon campus is about the possibilities of C. W. Spears, head coach at the University of Minnesota, being the next head of the Oregon football team, from Minneapolis, the official of the rotund personage at Gopher headquarters. It bears immediate denial that he was at all interested in the grid coaching job at Oregon. The story stated that Spears had taken an extended vacation through the west.

Not in Eugene
Spears was not content with merely stating that he was not interested in the position but he emphatically stated that he had not been in Eugene. Reports from Portland and California stated that Spears had stopped over here on his way back to Minnesota.

Oregon athletic heads were non-committal when questioned about the rumored visit, although they admitted that Dr. Spears had been interviewed while he was in California.

The denial has again thrown the football coaching situation open to plenty of discussion, with Oregon athletic heads continuing their tight-lipped policy. There are plenty of backers of Bill Reinhart, assistant coach, to fill the head coach job, while others favor the importation of a mentor from the middle-west.

Beneficial Away
Jack Benefiel, graduate manager, could not be reached last night to determine whether or not Spears had been dropped from the list of possibilities.

No settlement of Captain John J. McEwan's contract has been made, according to Tom Stoddard, student body president. There is no meeting of the finance committee scheduled for the remainder of this week, Johnny Anderson declared yesterday. When a settlement is made it is probable that a special meeting of the committee will be called.

Dr. Delbert Stannard, alumni member of the athletic committee, declared that he was unaware of any meetings of that body in the near future.

BOOKLET HONORS MURRAY WARNER

A pamphlet of memoirs on Major Murray Warner, to be permanently buried in the cornerstone of the Memorial Arts building, was dedicated by his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Bass Warner, was completed yesterday by the University Press.

The pamphlet includes an introduction by President Arnold Bennett Hall; memoirs on Major Warner by Leonard Metcalf, one of his classmates at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and a memorial by Captain Phillips H. Mallory, who worked under him in the quartermaster corps during the World war.

Except for a few extra copies for Dr. Hall's personal use, only one copy of the pamphlet was made. The printing, which is of high artistic quality, was worked out and directed by Robert C. Hall, superintendent of the University Press.

Oregon Professor's Book To Be Published

Harold S. Tuttle of the school of education has just received word from the Abington Press that the material for his book had been accepted by them for publication. The title of this work is: "Character Education by State and Church."
Mr. Tuttle's book is one of a series on different phases of education, each by a different author, edited by George H. Betts of Northwestern university. It probably will be off the press during the early part of May.

French Play May Show in Portland

Instructors, Students Work For Parts

"Leopold le Bien Aime," the three-act French play which is to be presented near the end of the term by French instructors and students, probably also will be given in Portland, it was announced yesterday by Louis Myers, who is directing the play.

The double cast, which met Wednesday evening for the first practice, consists of Charles Howell, Mrs. C. B. Beall, Cornelia Pipes, and Louis Myers, instructors; and Barbara Barker, Janet Fitch, Barbara Hedges, Jewel Ellis, Diana Deininger, Anne Kistner, Maurice Baker, Arthur Gray, Richard Givens, and Bob Gould, students. The final cast will probably be selected about the middle of the term.

The play, according to Mr. Myers, is a very light comedy by Saumont, a modern French author, and ran for several months in a Paris theatre last year.

Frosh Glee Only Week Off; Plans Shaping Up Well

Dance To Be Hotter Than Bonfire, Chairman of Affair Says

Decorations and Music Is Well Planned

"The Frosh Glee is going to be the traditional bigger and better and best Frosh Glee that has ever been given, just like our frosh bonfire, only even hotter than that," declared Chuck Gillespie, general chairman, enthusiastically last night about plans for the annual frosh contribution to the terpsichorean entertainment of the campus, which will be held January 18 at the Igloo.

"The Glee is only a week off, but we have had our committees lined up for several days now and they are all quite well along with their plans to make this the best event that any freshman class has ever put over. It's going to be some struggle, what I mean," Chuck added.

"As for decorations," put in Marion Frost, in charge of that part of the affair, "they're pretty hot. Any further than that, I think I shall emulate Cal Coolidge."

Johnny Robinson's orchestra has been secured to help make the Glee a memorable event of the year, according to the general chairman. Programs are also under way, as are arrangements for decorations. The dance will be formal for women, informal for men.

The members of the committee in charge are:
Charles Gillespie, general chairman; assistant chairman, John Finley; decorations and programs, Marion Frost, chairman, Georgia Miller, Melvyn Lofton; floor, Bob Near; patrons and patronesses, Jane Stange; clean-up, John McCulloch; publicity, Peggy Slauson; electrician, Myrl Lindley; treasurer, Wes Edwards.

O. K. BURRELL HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED

To have the lead article in one of the leading publications of his field is the honor recently won by O. K. Burrell, professor of business administration.

The article, "Capital Stock Valuation in Tax Cases," appeared in the January issue of the Journal of Accountancy, which is one of the leading accountant magazines in the country.

Professor Burrell believes that the article, which deals with the value of stocks left in wills that must be taxed under inheritance laws, is the first dealing with the subject that has been published.

Vespers Postponed Until Sunday, Jan. 19

There will be no vespers this Sunday, it was announced at the dean of women's office yesterday. The concert to be given by the University orchestra on January 12, at the Music building at 2:45 will take its place. The programs will be resumed next Sunday, Jan. 19.

Oregon Five Starts Title Play Tonight

Varsity Team To Tangle With Cougars in Opener

NORTHERNERS STRONG

Reinhart Will Introduce Revamped Aggregation To Campus

By JACK BURKE
With a successful preliminary program behind them, the varsity basketball team will open its campaign for the Northwest conference title tonight in a game against the Washington State Cougars, at McArthur court. The time of the contest will be 8 o'clock.

Jack Friel, coach of the Pullman team, is anxious to start off his conference season with a win and will have a team of experienced men on the court, three of the starting lineup being lettermen. This is Friel's second year of basketball coaching at Pullman and he is determined to make a good showing.

Bill Reinhart, the Webfoot mentor, has had some difficulty this season due to a lack of experienced material, but his team has been coming along rapidly and should be able to meet the Cougars on even terms.

Last year the Washington State team finished well up in the race for the Northwest title and but three men from the 1929 squad were absent when the call was sent out for candidates this season. The men Friel lost were McDaniel, Gilleland and Rohmer. These men have been replaced on the regular lineup by sophomores, who showed to good advantage on the freshman team.

In addition to the starting lineup, which Bill Reinhart has issued for tonight's clash, the coach will have a strong list of reserves ready to use. These men have shown their worth in the preliminary games and may aid materially in the fight to score a win over the Cougars. Chastain, a veteran of the varsity of two years ago, has returned to the lineup and will, when he hits his stride, be of use. Hughes and Keenan are also to be reckoned with. Another man who has shown to be a scoring threat is Steve Fletcher, who showed to good advantage in the game with the Willamette Bearcats.

The lineup for tonight's game as issued by the two coaches follows:
Wash. State Pos. Oregon
Van Tuya*.....F.....Dolp
Carleton.....F.....Calkins
Endslov*.....C.....Eberhart
Holsten.....G.....Olinger
Pesco*.....G.....Horner*
*Lettermen.
Referee, Coleman; umpire, Morris.

OPERA SELECTIONS ON BAND PROGRAM

Selections from Irving Romberg's "Desert Song" are expected to prove popular numbers on the program which the University band will play at its first Sunday afternoon concert January 12 at the school of music auditorium.

The program will be made up chiefly of light opera music, according to John Stehn, director of the 33-piece University organization. This will be the first concert appearance of the band under Mr. Stehn and much interest has been shown on the campus and by Eugene people in the event. A large audience is expected.

The program which is to be free will be of from half an hour to 45 minutes duration.

Men in Regular Jobs Here Earn Thousands

From regular jobs obtained through the employment bureau of the University, men on the campus earned a total of $15,910 last term, according to a report issued by Mrs. Charlotte R. Donnelly, secretary of housing and employment.

In addition to this the amount obtained from odd jobs is estimated at $3,000, bringing the total to $18,910, which is an increase of $591 over the same period last year.

Goebel Will Preside

As Press Meet Head; Many Preppers Here

There is still a good chance for students to win a free Oregon, says Lester McDonald, editor of the yearbook, who reported yesterday that only a few snapshots had been turned in for the contest and that unless more were received between now and the close of competition, someone will get practically a free gift of an Oregon.

Few Snapshots in For Free Oregon

January 15 Final Date To Enter Photos

There is still a good chance for students to win a free Oregon, says Lester McDonald, editor of the yearbook, who reported yesterday that only a few snapshots had been turned in for the contest and that unless more were received between now and the close of competition, someone will get practically a free gift of an Oregon.

January 15th is the closing date, and all contributions must be mailed or turned into the office at the Shack by 8 p. m. of that day.

"Any snap, yourself, your roommate, your girl, are all acceptable," said McDonald. "The craze for the better, the worse the picture, but we do want pictures. Turn in your album."

Class Absences To Be Watched by Personnel Group

Relation Between Laxness In Attendance, Activity Work Investigated

Effect on Student Work Will Be Determined

An investigation of absences from classes and their effect on the work of students was authorized by the faculty at a recent meeting. The personnel council, of which Dr. Howard R. Taylor is in charge, will have direct charge of the research; Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the department of psychology, is chairman of the committee making the study.

One of the things which it is hoped will be brought out as a result of this work is the relation between absences from classes and the participation of the student in activities. The policies of the various departments in requiring attendance at classes will also be revealed, it is expected.

In speaking of the investigation, Dr. J. H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science, and the arts, stated that it was not for the purpose of changing the present policy of the University in regard to this matter, but to find what the facts are, and their possible bearing on the future policy of the University.

LIBRARY OF LEWIS REACHES EUGENE

The collection of renderings given by Ion Lewis and the estate of William Whidden will be exhibited in the little art gallery very soon. The Ion Lewis library, given by the Whidden estate to the University of Oregon, has reached the campus and is now being catalogued and installed.

Mr. Lewis was the only surviving member of Whidden and Lewis firm which, for 40 years, was the leading architectural firm in Portland. Among the important buildings designed by this firm are the city hall in Portland, the Multnomah county courthouse, the Arlington club, and the forestry building.

Phi Delta Phi Pledges Nine to Membership

Phi Delta Phi, international honorary legal fraternity, met Wednesday evening, and elected the following pledges: William Beatty, Winsor Calkins, Roy Herndon, William Knight, William Kuykendall, Joe McKeown, Don Moe, Ellis Reiter, and Delbert Richmond. Initiation will take place later in the term.

McClure Gives Over Position To Grant Man

Student Body Assembly To Welcome Delegates This Morning

A. L. Stone, Montana Dean, To Be Speaker

Word was received from Portland last night that Dick Goebel, of Grant high school, vice-president of the High School Press association, will preside at the state-wide press conference to be held on the campus today and tomorrow, in place of Dudley McClure of Benson Tech, president, who telegraphed at the last minute that he would be unable to attend.

McClure, who is now working for the Oregon Journal, is a former editor of the Benson Tech Pep, while Goebel was editor of the Grantonian last year.

The press conference is one of four divisions of the tenth annual convention of Oregon high school editors and leaders, which will assemble in McArthur court at 9 o'clock this morning for its first session.

All 9 o'clock classes are dismissed, and President Tom Stoddard has called a special student body assembly for the purpose of welcoming to the campus the 500 convention delegates who will be guests here for the week-end. Both Stoddard and President Arnold Bennett Hall will deliver messages of welcome from the platform.

The main address will be by Arthur L. Stone, dean of the school of journalism at the University of Montana. His topic is to be "What and Why?"

Another high point of today's program is the annual banquet for all delegates, to be held at 5:45 this evening in the men's dormitory. The banquet is sponsored by the associated students, and President Stoddard will be toastmaster.

It is at this function that the winners of the annual high school journalism contest will be announced by the committee of judges. Sixty-four high school publications have been entered in the competition.

The committee will award five

Oregon Prexy Gives Welcome To H.S. Visitors

To the High School Delegates:
On behalf of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon, I deem it a pleasure to welcome you to our campus. It is our hope that this convention which we sponsor may be of benefit to you along the lines of increasing the efficiency of your student government and making your school papers and yearbooks more professional. We are sure that if you take advantage of the opportunities which this conference affords, you shall take back to your respective high schools a real message.

In addition to the sessions of the convention there has been arranged for your special benefit many interesting events, including a Coast conference basketball game and a mammoth banquet. Be sure and take advantage of attending these functions, for they will long be remembered by you.

Again let me welcome you and extend to you that real "Oregon" welcome of which we so proudly boast.

TOM STODDARD,
President, A. S. U. O.
