

Stipe Maps Sophomore Activities

Committee Named To Meet With Calkins, Straub To Select Work

CLASS NOW DORMANT

Meeting of All Unaffiliated Students Planned For Future

To keep the sophomore class from "dying on its feet" during the course of winter and spring terms as has heretofore been the custom, a committee under the leadership of Jack Stipe, sophomore president and Elizabeth Strain, chairman, is planning to confer with Jeannette Calkins, secretary of the Alumni association, and Dean Straub, for the purpose of finding out why, such as the Junior Vodvil or fresh bonfire, for the sophs.

Stipe Explains Speaking of this plan Stipe said: "It has been the prevalent custom in former years for the sophomore class to almost entirely cease functioning during the last two terms of the school year from lack of things to do. This year we intend to remedy this by finding some activity which should be done on the campus but which has no organization to put it over."

Another thing which is to be settled in the near future, according to Stipe, is the status of the class members who live outside of the living organizations and halls and who receive no appreciable benefit from their class affiliation.

"These students pay their $1 class fee, but they seldom get to meetings, and, living outside of organizations, they usually are acquainted with few of their class members and are unable to enter into the class spirit," said Stipe.

Stipe Explains He is planning to carry out an idea whereby a list of the unaffiliated members of the class will be arranged and they will hold a mass meeting under the leadership of Carlos Teague and will discuss suggestions on class administration and ways in which they can receive the full benefit of their class affiliation.

In the absence of Sally Runes, sophomore class secretary who was married during the Christmas vacation, Stipe has appointed Dorothy Jean Murphy to carry on the duties of the position.

Announcements of Scholarships and Fellowships are Received by Dean

ANNOUNCEMENTS of scholarships and fellowships for graduate students to the leading colleges of the world have been received at the dean of women's office; the scholarships are available to women who are graduates of any college of good standing and the fellowships for women who have done at least a year of graduate work. The colleges and universities who offer these chances for graduate study are Bryn Mawr, Oxford, Radcliffe, and Mills.

Leading the list is Oxford university. The admission of the American women students is due to the request of the principals of the five Oxford Women's societies, and through the American Association of University Women will receive applications from American women who wish to study for degrees at Oxford.

Candidates for this honor must present at least one personal letter as a reference, two references from former professors as to the standard of previous work, and either her diploma or an official

Hold Everything or Sit Down and Slide More Cold Forecast

WARNING: Do not pour water on your front steps to-night—not even warm water. If you do you're liable to land on your neck on the sidewalk tomorrow morning. For the weather is to continue cold, according to the weather reports. The Webfoots are enjoying the snow. With the introduction of an old-fashioned horse and sleigh winter sports on the campus received an added impetus. The Pioneer with an icicle dripping icy water down his back, looks on while students on speeding toboggans, students on skis and students slipping and sliding down snow-balling one another.

Next Senior Will Be Chosen After Declaration

Location of Dances Yet Undecided; Consider Three Places

Head Names Twelve To Act As Directorate

The Senior Ball will be given February 22. Where? "Ah, that's a secret," says Day Foster, chairman of the Senior Ball directorate, meaning, of course, that the place hasn't been decided yet, but among those being considered are McArthur court, Gerlinger hall and the Eugene hotel.

Day Foster "We are also planning to lower the price," he said.

Those appointed on the directorate are Edwina Grebel, vice-chairman; Margaret Edmunson, secretary; decorations, Joan Patterson, chairman, Kenton Hamaker, vice-chairman; floor, Dean Creath; refreshments, Shirley Belle; invitations and programs, Marjorie Chester; music, Billy Slevers; features, Boone Hendricks; patrons and patronesses, Dorothy Belle Endicott; clean-up, Russel Baker.

The directorate will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Bachelor house, to discuss plans, announced Day Foster.

Infirmiry Sick List Increased by Four

Margaret Litscher, Allan Scovell, and Dessel Helrich are still inmates of the infirmiry. The list of new inmates includes the names of Kenneth Allen, Rhoda Gallehr, Mildred Deck, and Philip Bell.

Great Things Predicted Of Play Tonight

'The Last of Mrs. Cheyne' Sponsored by National Collegiate Players

TRYOUT IS PROMISING

Late Permission Granted Women Students of Oregon Campus

By BOB GUILD

"The Last of Mrs. Cheyne," the all-campus play sponsored by National Collegiate Players, is to be presented tonight at the Heilig theatre, at 8:15. With our mind on the startling things said lately by those in charge of the production, we went last night to the dress rehearsal.

From 11 p. m. to 4 a. m. is a long time, and our patience was short, so it is well that it was good. We can safely predict great things of this play, since it kept us awake through those long cold hours of early morning. And cold it was, in the Heilig theatre. It was a shame to cover those beautiful formal with fur coats, those lovely tuxedos with topcoats.

Play Sparks "The Last of Mrs. Cheyne" almost sparkled last night. It would have sparkled, had the players not been so bundled in wraps. Even then the brilliance of the lines shone through, and now and then some one of those on the stage dazzled us with a flash of acting. Every time Jimmy Lyons walked on the stage the atmosphere became electric. He was excellent, alive. It seems that Master Lyons is stealing the play. . . . Nancy Thielsen was beautiful, but we knew she would be. . . . Jewel Ellis smoked cigarettes with rare abandon. . . .

Hopkins Good Marshall Hopkins afforded real comedy. His lines were good, and his portrayal excellent. . . . In fact, he didn't wane even when dawn broke down the street. He was still funny. . . . Cecil Matson was sufficiently dapper and suave. . . . almost svelte, especially is his bouidoir scene. . . . But imagine anyone really being glad to see him in her bedroom!

Florence McNerney was impressive, almost startling in the stage lights. She looked sardonic. . . . Leleta Jaeger was a good sweet woman very convincingly. . . . Karl Klippel was smooth in his portrayal. He was almost feline in his suggestion of hidden things.

Allow Late Permission Director Cecil Matson beamed, and said that the dean of women had granted late permission for women who wished to attend. He also said that the time was, emphatically and undeniably, 8:15, the day Wednesday, and place the Heilig theatre. But through it all he beamed. He was happy. He joined us in predicting a success.

In fact, we were all happy, in a tired sort of way, as we walked out into the early morning and to breakfast across the street.

UNIVERSITY GIVEN PRIZED VOLUMES

A book with print so fine that it requires a powerful magnifying glass to read, is on exhibit on the first floor of the main library. The book, "Covarrubias's Dictionary" is part of a collection of Spanish books given to the University by the Hispanic society of New York. The exhibit includes a facsimile copy of "Don Quixote," a catalogue of the library of Ferdinand Columbus, a fourth edition copy of "Don Quixote" and several modern volumes.

The total value of the books sent to the University by the society exceeds $1,000 according to Leavitt O. Wright, professor in the romance language department, who arranged the exhibit. The Hispanic society, interested in the advancement of the study of Spanish has sent the University a large number of books.

Famous Director to Appear

Willem van Hoogstraten, eminent conductor of the Portland Symphony orchestra, which will be heard in joint concert with the University chorus at McArthur court next Monday evening, January 20, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. van Hoogstraten is recognized as one of the ablest of American conductors, and under his directorship the Portland orchestra has become ranked as one of the country's best.

Schedule Changes In Radio Contest Told by Norton

List of Prizes To Be Made Public Soon Says Chairman

Still Time for Houses To Enter Competition

A revised schedule for the final week of broadcasting in the Emerald-KORE radio contest was announced last night by Fred Norton, contest director, to include two groups, Pi Beta Phi and the International club, which were inadvertently omitted from the schedule given out in yesterday's paper.

A complete rearrangement of the week of February 25 has been made necessary, with programs presented on four days instead of three, as in the first seven weeks of competition. Pi Beta Phi will bring the contest to a close on Friday, February 28.

Rearrangement Given The revised schedule for the week is as follows: Feb. 25—Susan Campbell; at 8:30, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Feb. 26—Girls Oregon club; at 8:30—Independents.

Feb. 27—Alpha Omicron Pi; at 8:30, International club.

Feb. 28—Pi Beta Phi. Norton, who has asked the advice of the campus in the matter of prizes for the awards, reports that he will have the contests ready for publication within the next one or two days.

Merchants Interested "Local merchants who are interested in the contest have expressed a willingness to cooperate," said Norton, "but we have not yet decided what awards will prove most satisfactory to all houses participating. At present we are negotiating with a large eastern manufacturing company, and will announce the prizes shortly."

Norton also announced that it is still possible for living groups to enter the contest. These late entries will be given places near the end of the schedule, in order that they may have sufficient time to prepare a program.

JANUARY 18 IS LAST DAY TO ADD

Saturday, January 18, is the last day to add courses to be registered in the University for the winter term, according to announcement from the office of Earl M. Pallett, registrar. Students entering until then are required to pay a fine, and after noon of that day no more registrations or additions of courses will be accepted.

Hoogstraten Will Present His Orchestra

Oregon's Mixed Chorus Is Also in Monday's Concert

EVANS TO DIRECT 110

Colorful Program To Be Offered to Music Lovers

A colorful program, designed to appeal to the person who has heard few symphony programs as well as to the most sophisticated music-lover, has been arranged by Willem van Hoogstraten and John Stark Evans, respective directors of the Portland Symphony orchestra and the University of Oregon mixed chorus, which are scheduled to appear together in concert at McArthur court, next Monday evening, January 20.

Numbers Listed The Fifth Symphony of Tchaikovsky, Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol," and orchestral and choral selections from Wagner's opera, the "Meistersingers," will be highlights of the concert. Other numbers will be Weber's "Oberon" Overture, Bach's "Air for Strings," and the "Valse Triste" of Sibelius. Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, although perhaps not as well known as his Sixth, which is better known as the "Symphony Pathétique," is a colorful and beautifully orchestrated work, and critics now recognize it as at least the equal, if not the superior, of the "Pathétique."

Favorite Scheduled Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol" is a universal favorite. It is arranged in five "scenes," representing gypsy life in Spain, and has the distinctive fire and brilliance which only Korsakov. The "Meistersinger" group will consist of the orchestral rendition of the overture of the opera, followed by the "Churchyard Chorus" from Act I, and the Wach auf Nauf chorus from Act III, presented by chorus and orchestra together.

COLONEL HAZZARD TO SPEAK TODAY

"The Battle of St. Mihiel" is the subject of a lecture to be given in the assembly room at Villard hall at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon by Colonel O. P. M. Hazzard, who is in charge of Organized Reserve Affairs of the Ninth Corps Area with headquarters at San Francisco.

The lecture, which will be about 45 minutes in length, is to be illustrated with slides, according to Major F. A. Barker, and should be of interest to all R. O. T. C. members and history students. Major Barker urges anyone who is interested to attend this lecture, which is the first of several lectures to be given by Colonel Hazzard at universities in the northwest.

RAE WILL ACT AS FIELD MANAGER

Arne G. Rae, assistant professor of journalism, is leaving today for McMinnville, where he will confer with Jack Bladine, publisher of the McMinnville Telephone-Register, on the proposed installation of a complete new book-keeping and hour cost system on the paper. Mr. Rae will act in his capacity as field manager of the Oregon State Editorial association.

From McMinnville Mr. Rae will go on to Sheridan, where he will attend a dinner meeting of the Publishers of Yamhill County Friday evening. He will advise the newspaper men on their plan to organize as a subsidiary group of the state association. Mr. Rae plans to return to Eugene Monday.

Vandals Beat Oregon Five by 41-34 Count; Stowell Main Scorer

Best Biscuits Baked By Blushing Boy; So Are Worst Ones

SOON that time-honored joke about the bride's biscuits will have to be discontinued. By present campus indications, they'll be the groom's biscuits in the future, and they won't be anything to joke about, either.

For the champion campus biscuit baker is a man. He is a member of Miss Lillian Tingle's camp cooking class which recently had its first lesson in biscuit baking. One enthusiastic housewife, beholding the champ's fluffy marvels, admitted that she had never equalled them herself, after years of practise. In order that the girls should not feel too bad, however, Miss Tingle made the following statement: "Yes, the best biscuits of the school year were made by a boy—but so were the worst!"

Idaho Starts Scoring With First Tipoff

Keenan Tallies Fifteen Points for Losing Quintet

New Combination Tried By Reinhart

In a game which was marked by the excitement of rough play, rather than the thrill of good basketball, the Idaho Vandals last night scored a comeback, defeating the Webfoot team, 41 to 34.

The Idaho team started right off on their scoring spree and had scored seven points before Vinc Dolp opened the Oregon scoring, with a field goal. The Vandals then ran the score up, leading at one time as much as 19 to 6. At this point Billy Reinhart made some substitutions which bolstered the Oregon defense and the score at half time was 23 to 17.

Home? Dickson, who was sent in to replace Gene Eberhart at center just prior to the half time gun, was a bit nervous at first but soon steadied down, to play an air-tight defensive game, seldom allowing the opposing center to take a shot. He played all of the last half as well as the closing minutes of the first.

Stowell Leads Scorer The most outstanding man on the floor was Harold Stowell, who accounted for 18 points with eight field goals and two free throws. He was a consistent shot and capitalized on the majority of his chances at the basket. He was prevented from scoring a larger total by the close guarding of Cliff Horner, who was sent in, in place of Winsor Calkins.

Bill Keenan was the scoring ace of the Webfoot attack, with a total of 15 points to his credit. Even though his total was large, he lost out on a lot of chances, being forced to hurry his shots by the close checking of the Idaho players. At half time the play was getting rough and the majority of (Continued on Page Two)

Consul to Cuba Will Speak Here This Afternoon

Diplomat To Be Guest of Foreign Trade Students

Ernest A. Wakefield, recently named American consul to Neuvitas, Cuba, will be a visitor on the campus today, and the guest of foreign trade students in the school of business administration. At a meeting scheduled for 105 Commerce building at 4 this afternoon, the American consul will relate many of his experiences as a consul officer for the government. A banquet will be given in honor of the guest at the Anchorage at 6 this evening. The meeting is open to all students on the campus who are interested in international affairs.

'Mail Student' Wins Short Story Honors

A student in Prof. P. Morriette's correspondence course in short story, Edna M. Boyle, has not only sold one of the stories which she handed in for class work, but has had it starred as distinctive by O'Brien in his collection of Best Short Stories for 1929. Miss Boyle's story was printed in "The Frontier" of Missoula, Montana, under the title, "Let's Wait Till Spring."

Law Instructor Attacks Hoover's Crime Commission in Editorial

An attack on the Hoover crime commission is made by Wayne L. Morse, instructor in the law school, in an editorial by him appearing in the December issue of the Oregon Law Review, the official organ of the Oregon State Bar association. Mr. Morse makes the criticism of the crime commission that it is a politically appointed body, whose findings will be subject to the dangers of partisan politics, since the eleven members of the commission were appointed by President Hoover. He also points out that ten of the eleven members were drawn from the legal profession while the other social sciences are not given representation.

Should Use Sciences Hoover should turn to the social sciences for aid, in the opinion of Mr. Morse, and should not leave the problem entirely to lawyers and judges, who admit their incompetence to handle crime without the help of social scientists and the individual citizen. Mr. Morse doubts that the commission will discover anything which has not already been found by state crime surveys, whose findings have brought little improvement to the administration of criminal justice. The education of morality to a higher sense of moral consciousness, and the cooperation of the social sciences are emphasized by Mr. Morse as fundamental in the solution of the crime problem.
