

Released Oregon Swimming Schedule Shows Five Meets on List

Outstanding Trials Made By Webfoots

University of California May Come North for One Contest

Washington State Date Is Said Tentative

SWIMMING SCHEDULE OF OREGON

- Feb. 8—Multnomah Club at Portland.
 - Feb. 15—Oregon State at Corvallis.
 - Feb. 22—Washington State at Pullman.*
 - March 1—Multnomah Club at Eugene.
 - March 8—Oregon State at Eugene.
- *The Washington State meet is tentative. The University of California may come north and meet the Webfoots at Eugene on that date.

More time trials were held last night for the Oregon swimmers. Chuck Silverman turned in a 220-yard distance in the time of 2 minutes 31 seconds, which unofficially just about equals the Northwest record. Al Edwards made the 50-yard dash in 26.4, which was very good time. Johnny Anderson has a bad cold and was not in condition to swim.

Other varsity men made the following times:

Ron Lewis—100-yard breast stroke, 1:19.2; 200-yard breast stroke, 2:57.2.

Palmer McKim—50-yard dash, 27 seconds flat.

Some of the frosh times were: James Travis—100-yard breast stroke, 1:21.

Harrison Spain—100-yard back stroke, 1:24.3.

Francis Oglesby—50-yard dash, 29.2.

Harrison Loses Tennis Exhibition To S. Lockwood

Broken Racquets Cause Handicap; Game Called Off

In an exhibition match in McArthur court last night after the basketball game, Sherman Lockwood, first ranking player on the Oregon varsity tennis team, defeated Bradshaw Harrison, one of the stars on last year's squad, 6-4.

Lockwood took the advantage from the start, playing a swift, steady game. Harrison was handicapped by the fact that he broke both his rackets, and the match had to be called off at the end of the first set on that account.

to add to his, and the team's total missing the majority of the many free throws he had.

By virtue of winning last night, Washington takes possession of second place in the Northwest conference and Oregon is relegated to third place. The golden opportunity to gain undisputed title to second place has been lost to Oregon for a while at least, but tonight's game offers the chance to a tie.

The summary:

Montana Gets Revenge for Ousting

Dr. Clarence W. Spears coming to Oregon on a professional basis or isn't he? That seems to be the question which is being debated around the state, with arguments pro and con. Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall was the originator of the term in this part of the country and he declares that Spears is to be here on a professional basis.

The nom de plume has been the bane of sports writers up and down the coast and eastward. Many of them never thoroughly understood just what all the requirements of a professional coach were. The typographers on the newspaper were constantly making errors in the spelling of the word and frequently set it up as professional. After reading some recent statements we, too, have decided that we do not understand all the intricacies of the term.

One of the terms of a professional contract, as originally stated by Dr. Hall was that the coach would be on "an indefinite tenure." This meant that no contract of a stated length would be drawn up. Dr. Spears has a contract for five years, and we don't think he is on a real professional basis. Student opinion has been rampant on this subject.

Just What Is a Professorial Contract

A SCHOOL that was not considered powerful enough to offer the right amount of competition for the other members of the Northwest conference has recently risen to unthought of heights and smote the holder of the top rung in conference basketball standings a mighty blow on the chin. In other words, we mean that Montana beat Washington State at Pullman, and the Grizzlies did it up in fine fashion.

Washington State did not take the game too easily, either, and the Cougars started their regular lineup. The Grizzlies, led by Chinskie, could not be stopped and their revenge must have been very sweet. Montana has always been severely handicapped by a very small student body, and also by being stuck away off the beaten trail of coast colleges.

If Oregon students will remember back to last year they will recollect that Montana was a thorn in the side of the Webfoots. The Grizzlies won both games from the Webfoots and helped to send Coach Reinhart's men down in the standings. The Grizzlies have developed some great individual stars in all lines of sport, and are one of the hardest fighting outfits on the coast.

Wrestling Squad Hit by Injuries; Riehl, Jansa Out

Elliott Grooming McKey To Take Heavy's Place; Hopes Still Held

If accidents continue to happen to his best grapplers, Coach Harry Elliott may have to call for reinforcements in order to stage the mat tourney, scheduled for January 30-31. Art Riehl, crack 125-pounder, and Joe Jansa have been the last to join the ranks of the injured, which already consisted of Floyd Bowers, promising middleweight.

The loss of Riehl, due to a probable shoulder fracture, is a very serious blow to the squad inasmuch as the stocky Pacific northwest amateur champion was counted on to repeat his successes this year.

McKey, another ex-West Pointer, is being groomed for Jansa's place, if the burly 240-pounder does not recover from a rib injury in time to enter the coming meet. There is hope that Jansa and Bowers may get into action next week, but Riehl's injury may keep him from the mat this year.

List of Entries for Intramural Swim Competition Ends

Contest Will Be Held Next Tuesday Evening in Women's Tank

The list of entries for the men's intramural swimming meet which will be held in the women's tank next Tuesday evening, closed last night.

Houses to enter men were Sigma Nu, Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Tau Omega, and Sigma Chi. The officials for the meet have been selected as follows: Diving judges: Don Neer, Len Thompson, and Joe Brown. Timers: G. L. Hermance, Jack Hewitt, and Don McCormick. Starter: Johnny Anderson. Clerk of the course: Jim Raley, assistant clerk, Ken Moore. Judge: Charles Silverman. Scorer: Harold Fraundorf. Equipment and arrangements: Bill Hedlund.

Suits will be furnished contestants and swimmers will not be allowed to use their own suits.

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM RECEIVES HIGH PRAISE

cific coast men, Mr. Tozier, a California man, and Mr. Brodie of Oregon City, recently appointed to the United States consular service to Finland, and father of Madelon Jane Brodie, a freshman on this campus.

Mrs. Weathered attended her first national press convention about 30 years ago. Her brother being unable to go, sent her to represent the Oregon Press association at the meeting in New York City. That was her first trip to New York and her first experience in journalistic work. Coming from such a distance, and a woman at that, Mrs. Weathered was treated with a great deal of respect. They even went so far as to elect her a member of the supervisory board, a position which she held for five years.

One of the southern delegates to the convention, interested in coffee production in Hawaii, and hearing that Mrs. Weathered was from Portland, which he supposed to be only a short jaunt from the islands, requested that she write an article for him on the subject of coffee raising in Hawaii.

"Hawaii," Mrs. Weathered explained incidentally, is mispronounced by most Americans. Its real pronunciation has no "w" sound, but rather a "v" sound.

To get the article as requested, she interviewed several steamship companies and did some research work in the New York libraries. She obtained the material and

Oregana To Picture Wives of Presidents

The Women's section of the Oregana of this year is devoting a section to the pictures of the wives of the various presidents of the University of Oregon, with a short sketch of each.

Friends of Dr. Alice Hall Chapman, wife of C. H. Chapman, second president of the University of Oregon, are urged to look for a picture of Dr. Chapman. Anyone who will volunteer information as to Dr. Chapman's present address or knows someone who might, to the Oregana staff will be appreciated. As the Oregana will go to press in a few weeks, it is asked that any pictures or information be handed in before next Wednesday, January 29.

Nona Peterson was accompanist. Dale Cooley had charge of the stage setting, and lighting was provided through the courtesy of McMorran & Washburne.

The presentation is part of the term's work in Madame McGrew's class in opera.

Bell Requests Frosh to Attend Yearling Game

ALL freshmen are requested to be at the Igloo tonight at 6:45 for the second Frosh-Rook basketball game, according to Phil Bell, yearling yell leader.

Bell hopes to be able to have organized rooting and urges house presidents to require the attendance of all first-year men. As this game is a preliminary to the varsity game, with Washington at 8 o'clock, there should be no reason for anyone missing the game, according to Bell.

She told of her associations with many nationally and internationally known people. Such women as Dorothy Dix are included on her list of friends. Mrs. Weathered was interested in learning that Dean Allen had talked with Dorothy Dix while at the national journalistic convention he attended recently in the south. She told some of the students later that she had danced five different times with Theodore Roosevelt. That was during the ten years she spent in journalistic work in New York.

It has been a decade since Mrs. Weathered last visited Eugene and the University. She expressed interest in the wonderful growth evidenced here. She was a guest of the University at Hendricks hall Thursday evening.

Captain McEwan Leaves Eugene; Going To Europe

Ex-Coach Wants No More Long Time Coaching Contracts

Capt. John J. McEwan, Oregon ex-football coach, who left Eugene yesterday noon for New York, said that upon arriving in the eastern city he and his family would leave at once for Europe.

McEwan declared before leaving that he had had enough of long contracts. He said, "I may accept a position as a college coach again sometime, but not for longer than three months at a time."

When he returns from Europe the Captain said he intended to conduct a coaching school in New York. He will feature line work and feature plays.

Campus Filipinos Regret Riots Race Trouble Is Believed Temporary

"We regret it." This is the sentiment of the Filipinos of the University in regard to race riots which resulted in the death of one Filipino and the stabbing of an American youth in California yesterday, according to Antonio Jimenez, president of Casa Filipina, campus living group.

"It is a matter of struggle for existence," Jimenez said, when asked what he considered the cause of the trouble. "The immigration question is part of it. There are so many Filipinos on the Pacific coast that they are taking the Americans' places as workers on the farms."

The Filipinos should be protected by the government until the trouble blows over, Jimenez believes. "I think the Americans were on the aggressive," he said, "but I feel certain that the rioting will soon die out."

Carnegie Group Gives Honor to Local Professor

Dr. Ethel Sanborn Invited To Join Expedition Into Tropics

Coming as a national recognition of her research in plant biology, Dr. Ethel I. Sanborn, of the University of Oregon, has been invited by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., to join its expedition this spring into the tropics for the purpose of studying ancient and modern flora.

Dr. Sanborn has recently completed a study of the flora of Goshen, Oregon, which has attracted the notice of scientists all over the country. The work was done under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution, and has revealed new species of flora which have not heretofore been found in North America, and which show definite affinities with certain tropical plants.

Since the expedition is to leave very soon, Dr. Sanborn does not know definitely whether or not she can accept the invitation, but if it is possible to arrange her work in a satisfactory manner, she plans to make the trip.

Honoraries Will Discuss Campus Talent Magazine

Ye Tabard Inn, Pot and Quill May Put Out New Publication

Pot and Quill, women's writing honorary, and Ye Tabard Inn, men's writing honorary, will hold a joint meeting Tuesday, January 28, in the Men's lounge of Gerlinger hall, to discuss plans for the publication of a campus literary magazine.

Last spring term Ye Tabard Inn published a magazine of prose and verse written by the members of that organization, and called it Tabard Tales. Not since 1922 have the members of Pot and Quill published any of their work. Before that time "Green Ink," a magazine of short stories, sketches and verse was published. Both of these were successes, hence plans are under way for a joint publication, says Joe Brown, president of Ye Tabard Inn, and Serena Madsen Scheffer, president of the women's writing honorary.

LAW BOOK TO BE OUT THIS MONTH

The sixth edition of the "Outline of Government of Oregon," compiled by a committee of professors of the law school, Oregon State college, Willamette university, and Linfield college, according to James D. Barnett, head of the department of political science, will be out this month.

This book is a condensation of the constitution and statutes relating to state government, and is used in college classes and by teachers in public schools.

Science Bringing Northland Nearer, Is Agent's Report

Letter to Dean Rebec Tells Of Advancement of Great Slave Lake Lands

That the far north will soon be no longer far, but just a little more north than the rest of the continent, is to be expected in the very near future, if conditions in the region of Great Slave lake, Northwest territory, Canada, are characteristic of all of northern Canada. In a letter to Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, C. Bourget, the Indian agent at Resolution on Great Slave lake, whom Dean Rebec met while on his canoe trip with Amos Burg this summer, tells of the latest inroads which civilization has made there.

The coming of mining companies into the territory is a most convincing sign of the approach of modern civilization, according to the letter, and airplanes are so numerous that the Indians don't even bother to look at them when they fly over. The agent has a radio, receives news bulletins from the wireless station, gets his magazines and papers once a week—quite an innovation for that part of the country. And what is more, his mail comes by air.

Comments on the weather in M. Bourget's letter are particularly apropos at this time. He says, "The weather has been exceedingly mild until New Year, with an average of 10 to 20 above zero. Since then we had a week of 40

PADILLA SLATED TO LEAD TALKS

At the meeting of the Industrial study group, Monday night at 8:30 in the Y. W. Bungalow, Leland Fryer and Eugenio Padilla will lead a talk on the "Wage Theory." The facts of the question will be presented first and a general, informal discussion will follow.

"The meeting is open to anyone interested, particularly to professors on the campus," said Ann Baum, chairman of the group, in announcing the meeting.

Dear Friends:

This snow is beautiful all right, but speaking from experience it's tough on a fellow who lives on a corner lot. All corner lot dwellers in Eugene have my sympathy.

So has the fellow who has to get up early these winter mornings.

He has more than my sympathy—he has my suggestion. Get one of these Big Ben Alarm Clocks in here at Skeie's store and start the day out right.

They come at only $3.25, and they're on the job day or night.
