

Student Speaker Picked to Appear Before Oregon Journalists

'Girls in the Game,' Chosen As Topic by Margaret Clark

Dr. John Henry Nash To Be Chief Lecturer During Annual Press Conference; Many Discussions Are Slated by Newspaper Men

Margaret Clark, a senior in the school of journalism, will be the student speaker at the twelfth annual Oregon Press conference, which is to convene on the University of Oregon campus a week from tomorrow.

At the annual banquet to be given Friday evening in honor of the visiting newspaper men, Miss Clark will give an informal talk on "Girls in the Game." Eric W. Allen, dean of the school, will act as toastmaster, and more than 150 editors and publishers from all over the state are expected to attend.

A member of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalistic honorary, Miss Clark has been prominent in both Emerald and Oregon work. She will speak as a representative of the women students of the University.

Dr. John Henry Nash, world-famous San Francisco printer, and a member of the Oregon journalism faculty, will be the chief speaker of the conference. At 10:30 Friday morning, in the general session, he will address the delegates on "Printing," taking up its finer and more artistic aspects.

Special Lecture Slated

In addition, Dr. Nash will give a special lecture Saturday afternoon in Alumni hall, for the benefit of interested students and townspeople. A limited number will be accommodated.

The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Mabel McClain, chairman, Dean George Rebec, Dean Eric W. Allen, Mrs. J. Bishop Tingle, Miss Gertrude Stephenson, and Prof. Nowland E. Zane.

The first meeting of the conference is scheduled for 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, with Earle Richardson, of The Dalles Itemizer-Observer, presiding. Registration will be dispensed with at this time.

Dinner Is Planned

Thursday evening, representatives of the 31 daily newspapers of the state will hold a no-host dinner at the Eugene hotel. Ben R. Litfin, editor of The Dalles Chronicle, will be toastmaster and chairman.

Among the prominent speakers at the Friday sessions of the conference, other than Dr. Nash, will be Prof. Carlton E. Spencer of the law school, who will talk on "Law of the Press," and Glenn Rada-baugh, of the Roseburg News-Review, whose topic will be commercial printing in its relations to the newspaper plant.

President Hall to Speak

President Arnold Bennett Hall will speak at the banquet Friday evening on "Leadership in the Press." Lester Adams, of the Portland Telegram, will discuss the editorial page.

R. G. Callvert, editor of the Portland Oregonian, will be the main speaker at the Saturday morning session.

"A Queer Policy That Pays" will be the subject of an address by Benjamin Kimber of the Grants Pass Bulletin. Jessica L. Longston, of the St. Helens Sentinel, is to talk on "Turning Dull Months Into Live Ones" in local advertising.

To End With Elections

The election of new conference officers will wind up the official business of the morning, and the delegates will adjourn to the new men's dormitory, where they will be guests at a University luncheon.

Further entertainment for the newspaper men will be provided at the Oregon-O. S. C. basketball game Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, to which they will be admitted free.

In conjunction with the press conference proper, the Oregon State Editorial association will meet Saturday morning, under the leadership of George K. Aiken, president. Arne G. Rae, assistant professor of journalism at the University, will give a report as field manager of the association.

Another feature of the week-end will be the Graphic Arts Leaders Exhibit, a display of specimens of the nation's finest printing, which will be open for inspection in the Journalism building throughout the conference.

Men Rate High, Sororities Low In Radio Census

Of the 22 sororities and women's halls of residence on the campus, six own radio sets.

Out of 28 living groups for men, 17 have complete receiving apparatus.

These statistics were unearthed yesterday in a survey being conducted by Dean Eric W. Allen's class in elementary news writing, dealing with student interest in local and national broadcasts.

All of the seven men's halls have sets, it was discovered. Ear-phones outfits were not taken into account in the survey.

ALL INFIRMARY BEDS OCCUPIED

For the first time since last spring term, all the beds at the infirmary are full. This last week 12 beds were occupied, but yesterday the limit was reached when 13 patients were listed.

The five new patients admitted yesterday were: Gerald Jensen, Lillian Terrell, Richard Schroeder, Margaret Ramsey, and Donald McCall.

The list of patients confined there for the last few days includes the names of Margaret Litscher, Tom Johns, Marguerite Looney, Mary Ann Musgrove, Kenneth Owens, Velma Powell, and James Raley.

TO FEATURE FOOD AT CAMPUS DANCE

The hungry multitude—up to 500—will be fed Thursday afternoon when Associated Women Students hold their first all-campus waffle dance from 2 to 5:30 o'clock at the Craftsman's club with Alice Wingate as chairman.

"We are prepared to serve 500 during the afternoon and we have made arrangements so that there will be no delay," declared the chairman.

Waffle-dances have been given on other campuses and have been very popular during the past few years, according to Miss Wingate. At Oregon State college Associated Women Students make an annual affair of a waffle-dance, she explained.

George Weber's music will be provided during the afternoon.

Moll Gives Talk On Australia at Rotary Luncheon

Sidney Reported Larger Than San Francisco; Has Many Resorts

The continent of Australia, its features and its people, was the subject of an address by Ernest G. Moll, instructor in the English department, at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday at the Osburn hotel.

Dr. Moll, who is a native of Australia, described Sidney, where the next international Rotary convention will be held, as a city larger than San Francisco, with excellent boating facilities on the harbor, with an interesting zoo, and numerous pleasure resorts.

The typical Australian he pictured as of an easy-going character, a person who enjoys life and who "works as few hours as possible and as slowly as possible." However, the Australian is politically very much awake, Dr. Moll said, and enjoys freedom of speech to an extent not found in America.

Sports of every kind are engaged in on the continent, and at these athletic events there is no organized cheering by groups, as at local football and basketball games, but there is, Dr. Moll stated, a good amount of individual "razzing" or praise of the players.

Seventy-five per cent of the country's population of about seven million people is located in the large cities within 25 miles of the east and west coasts, he said, leaving the interior to the large ranches, some of which consist of nearly three million acres, and own from 250,000 to 300,000 sheep.

There is almost no "poor" or illiterate class in Australia, and of these the few uneducated persons are found in the distant interior, five or six hundred miles from a railroad.

THETA SIGMA PHI SCHEDULES TEA

Members and alumnae of the Oregon chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honorary for women, will meet Sunday afternoon at 2:30, at the home of Mrs. Eric W. Allen.

Elise Schroeder, president of the organization, will give a report on the national Theta Sigma Phi convention held at Columbus, Ohio, last summer, to which she was a delegate. Mary Frances Dilday, treasurer, will be in charge of refreshments.

SAMARA TO HAVE INFORMAL LUNCHEON

The luncheon for Samara members which was to have taken place several days ago, but which was postponed on account of the illness of the two "cooks," will be given Thursday, according to Mrs. Jeannette Edge, biology lab assistant and hostess to the club.

Margaret Ramsey, graduate assistant in biology, is the other hostess. The two have planned for some time to give an informal lunch in the biology laboratory.

Ohio State fraternities are in a quandary over charges of pledge-stealing by several of the houses. Ignorance of rush rules on the part of rushees is blamed for the condition.

Movies

AT THE HEILIG—

One man and two women, the great west and nature in the background, these are the big factors in "The Great Divide," now playing at the Heilig theatre. Dorothy Mackail has a part something that cannot be denied and Myrna Loy possesses the most provocative eyes we know.

AT THE McDONALD—

Ramon Navarro has always had a lot of savoir faire and he hasn't lost any in his newest picture, "Devil May Care," opening at the McDonald today. Then, too, there are many romantic songs that only the dark-eyed, Ramon could put over.

"Woman Trap," at the Rex has the most perfect talkie voice of Evelyn Brent to give it quality as well as the inimitable Hal Skelly to make it funny.

AT THE STATE—

"Battle of the Sexes," at the State, is really not as warlike as it sounds, but with flat irons and rolling pins at their command it seems the victory is already assured the female element.

AT THE COLONIAL—

The Colonial is closed for a short time for repairs to its heating system.

Y.W. Discussion Group Will Meet at 5 Today

The Y. W. C. A. discussion group on "The Spiritual Relations of Life," with Hazel Prutsman Schwing, assistant dean of women, as leader, will meet today at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. bungalow.

This is the second meeting of the group, and discussion will be continued from last time. The meeting is open to anyone interested.

Extension Students Favor Winter Term

For the first time in the history of the University extension division, the registration for the winter term Eugene evening classes has exceeded that of fall term, and this although the registration is not yet complete, according to Miss Mozelle Hair, head of the correspondence department. Last term's registration was 95.

"Stepping out" is found to bring high grades to co-eds, according to a survey at Ohio State university. Findings of the survey are mainly that the practice of going out in the evening results in a more balanced college life, and helps with concentration when studying is done.
