Calls Flood KORE Studio For Requests

Many Ask for Numbers on 'No Idea' Program of Sigma Nu Group

NORBLAD IS DIRECTOR

Kappa and Delta Gamma Plan Performances for Emerald Contest

TONIGHT'S CONTESTANTS
8:00—Delta Gamma
8:30—Kappa Kappa Gamma

By STERLING GREEN

Walter "Guv'nor" Norblad last night led a group of Sigma Nu entertainers through a half-hour radio program which, for lack of a better title, was called the "No Idea" idea. Two women's houses, Delta Gamma and Kappa Kappa Gamma, will go on the air tonight at 8 and 8:30 respectively, to present programs Nos. 17 and 18 in the Emerald-KORE radio contest, in competition for the Majestic cabinet radio offered by McCormoran and Washburne as first prize.

The Sigma Nu program, which was the first to be announced as a "request program," served as an excellent index of the popularity of the student radio presentations. Two telephone lines were kept constantly busy handling the request calls that were received from campus groups and Eugene townspeople.

Many Requests Sent in
Most of the requests were for additional solo numbers by Bob Goodrich, who appeared in almost every number on the program in some capacity, either as soloist, banjo accompanist, or as part of the Sigma Nu trio, composed of Goodrich, Bill McClaren, and Kelly Slocum. Goodrich also acted as program chairman.

Walt Norblad, son of Governor Albin W. Norblad, proved to be an efficient radio announcer, and put his performers through their paces in rapid-fire order.

Delta Gamma announces for their program tonight a "Collegiana Travelogue," which will take the listener on a tour of various American campuses. Sally Addleman is program chairman, and Jewel Ellis will act as announcer.

All Must Appear on Time
Because of the withdrawal of several houses within the last few weeks, Fred Norton, contest director, requests that every living group which has accepted a place on the contest schedule go through with its broadcast at the appointed time.

"When a group fails to present a program, a great deal of trouble and expense is entailed, both for the contest sponsors and for the management of station KORE," Norton said last night.

Emerald and KORE officials praised the efforts of the Chi Psi's, who pieced together a last-minute program rather than forfeit their broadcast hour, and Sigma Nu, who, although handicapped by not having a pianist, nevertheless worked up a program that continued on page three.

Dunn's Picture Collection Tells Life Story of Lincoln

Pictures showing the life of Lincoln, from the cabin in which he was born to the statues erected after his death, are contained in one of the volumes belonging to Professor F. S. Dunn, Latin instructor and head of the classical department.

Collecting pictures of the presidents is a hobby of Professor Dunn, and he has in his library a fat volume for every president, in which he puts pictures from old and new magazines. This collection was first begun in 1900, shortly after Professor Dunn came here to teach.

The volume on Lincoln contains reproductions of some of the earliest authentic pictures and portraits of Lincoln, tracing his life pictorially through his childhood, young manhood, during his life as a country lawyer, his campaigns for the Illinois legislature and presidency of the United States, and through the remainder of his life to his assassination. The Moving Finger

ON THE JUDICIARY . . . ITS PURPOSE . . .

By OLIVER POLITICUS

The judiciary as a new branch of the A. S. U. O. student government seems assured. Tentative plans indicate that its members will be three, none of them students, but having a secondary student representation. First will be the dean of the law school, then the executive secretary of the University, and finally the dean of the law school. Necessary legal ability will be found in such a body, representative for students. But there is really no need for representation at all. The court will not be a legislative body, it will not be composed of delegates of any particular groups, it will not formulate its opinions according to the desire of any group.

The purpose of the judiciary will be only to define any disputed points of the new constitution, and probably to provide machinery to determine facts relevant to student procedure. It is true that it will formulate its own policies and procedure, but it will not be given the power to legislate.

Some matters will undoubtedly be brought before the body as soon as it is organized if for no other reason than to determine any weaknesses in the new constitution. New parts may seem theoretically practical, but the main worry of the revision committee is whether they will actually work in practice.

There is little room for superfluous details in a constitution, and too much verbosity may cloud the meaning of any clause. Thus the document is expected to be short, clear, and open to interpretation of the judiciary.

Band To Present Concert Sunday

Better Than Any Yet Given Is Announcement

In a program described as superior to any it has ever before presented, the University of Oregon band will appear in its second Sunday afternoon concert, February 16, at the music auditorium at 4 o'clock.

John H. Stehn, leader, will direct. Friedeman's "Slavonic Rhapsody" is the most important number, musically, to be played. March selections include the celebrated "Washington Gray's March" by Grafulla, considered one of the finest Italian marches.

Y. National Secretary Due To Arrive Today

David R. Porter, national secretary of the student division of the Y. M. C. A., and Raymond B. Culver, student secretary of the northwest division of the association, will arrive on the campus this afternoon to aid in the membership drive of the campus Y, and to assist in plans for International week.

An open meeting will be held at the Y hut at 4 o'clock, and will be addressed by Mr. Porter. All interested men are urged to attend the meeting.

Wood Returns From Meeting With Norblad

State's Economic Outlook Deemed Good, Reports Oregon Professor

BOARD OF 20 IS PLAN

Constructive Policy Made Basic Idea of Slogan For Organization

ing from Portland where he was invited by the Governor, a meeting of representative citizens of Oregon, Louis Wood, associate professor of economics, brings back to the campus a report of optimism on the part of the delegates as to the economic welfare of the state.

The meeting was the first held in the state since President Hoover's exit a few weeks ago when he together leading industrialists to discuss present questions of the business world, and attempt to find solutions for the problems arising.

Mr. Wood says that the meeting took as its byword for the economic growth of Oregon, the slogan, "construction in large doses." Plans were also made at the conference, which was held in the Multnomah hotel, Portland, for the establishment of a permanent advisory board, which will probably be composed of 20 members, having representatives from both the University of Oregon and O. S. C.

Agricultural, industrial, contractor, chamber of commerce, and municipal interests will also hold positions on the board. The group will act as a consultant body for the governor, recommending changes and advising him generally.

Mr. Wood states that it is probable that the University representative will act as a secretary of the board, handling the material collected by the body.

Permeating the whole meeting, according to Wood, was a spirit of optimism as to the economic future of the state, and as each report was made by the different committees, this spirit was strengthened and supported.

Plane Lands on Football Field

Ship Will Be Displayed At Auto Show

An airplane belonging to the Lee Inman school of flying of Eugene, made a successful landing back of McArthur court yesterday afternoon. It will be on exhibit at the auto show to be held in the Igloo.

The ship, a two-seater monoplane, 21 feet long and with a wing spread of only 32 feet, was built in Eugene under the direction of Lee Inman of the flying school by that name.

Circling the field several times to take bearings, the pilot dropped down, made a landing and came to a complete stop in less than half the length of the field.

"It is powered with a 60-horsepower, 5-cylinder Le Blande engine," Lee Inman said. "The ship has a cruising speed of 85 miles an hour and a high speed of 102 miles an hour. Its landing speed is about 30 miles an hour. The gas tank holds 30 gallons which is sufficient fuel for about 500 miles of flying. The engine burns four and a half gallons an hour," the flying instructor smiled.

Mr. Inman designs and constructs his own ships, and directs the teaching at his flying school which at the present time has 27 students. Two of them are girls, he said.

There is plenty of room for a take-off from the football field, the aviator declared, and he anticipates no trouble on that score. This particular ship is sold to a Eugene man who had it built to suit his special need for a small ship. It is valued at $3,200.

Professor Goes East; Sister Seriously Ill

Prof. James D. Barnett, head of the department of political science, left Tuesday evening for Monmouth, Ill., where his sister, who is a teacher at the college there, is critically ill with pneumonia.

During his absence of two weeks his classes will be provided with reading sets, which will soon be posted. These readings will take the part of regular class work.

Studes Make Odd Request For Libe Books

Many curious requests for books come to the circulation desk at the main library. One student came in looking for a certain speech. "I don't know the author or the title," she said, "but I know it commenced with 'Mr. President.'"

Another student wanting to read "Twenty Years at Hull House," asked for "Twenty Years at Hell House." During the presentation of the play "The Last of Mrs. Cheyne" someone called for the "Death of Mrs. Cheyne."

A student left her telephone number for volume two of a two-volume book of poetry, because it said "paged continuously" in the catalogue. "Black Oxen" was asked for under the name of "The Purple Cow."

M. H. Douglass, librarian, remembers when "To Have and to Hold" was popular that someone asked for "Getting to Keep."

Eugene Schools Provide Practice For 88 Students

Bossing Directs Classes Under Guidance of Cadet Teachers

Supervisors Hold Meetings To Discuss Problems

Eighty-eight University students are doing cadet teaching in the schools of Eugene this term, according to Dr. Nelson L. Bossing, director of supervision for cadet teaching on this campus.

Instruction by student teachers in regular academic subjects is being limited to Roosevelt junior high school for the junior high work and to University high school for senior division work. Qualified supervisors in these institutions have direct charge over students doing cadet teaching.

Few Jobs for Specials
Harley A. Notter, principal, is general supervisor at the former school, and Ralph U. Moore, principal, holds the same position at University high school.

However, on account of the lack of teaching positions along the line of special subjects, as art, music, and physical education, at these two schools, University students are sent to the various public schools throughout the city for their teaching experience.

A record of last term shows that there were six cadet teachers in art, 21 in music. Six men and 19 women received credit for their work in teaching physical education.

Bossing Directs
Dr. Bossing is director of supervision and in general charge of cadet teaching activities. His major interest, however, in supervision and personal contact is with the academic teachers.

It is customary for him to visit the classes under the guidance of student teachers and to hold conferences with them for the purpose of aiding them in their work. Every second and fourth Tuesday of the month general supervisors' meetings are held to discuss the many problems of supervision that arise as well as to consider the investigations and studies reported from other teacher training centers.

Infirmary Turns Away Applicants

Quota for Thirteen Filled For the Past Week

Those now on the list of infirmary patients are: Genevieve Gresham, Ronello Lewis, Holbrook Watts, Marian Musgrove, Lorenzo Matthews, Sadie Pondelick, Juanita Young, Mildred Deck, Vernon Arnett, Scott Wells, David Wilson, and Tom White.

Howe Is Recuperating From Gout Operation

H. C. Howe, of the English department, is recuperating from a gout operation which he underwent last Friday at the Pacific Christian hospital, Mrs. Howe said yesterday.

Plan System For Checking Low Grades

Personnel Bureau Pushes Scheme To Raise Low Marks

ADVISORS WILL HELP

Students Will Be Advised Of Standing After Mid-term Tests

Students frequently claim that they failed in their studies because they did not know they were low in their work. In view of this, the administration of the University is informing all students with low mid-terms as to their status by means of cards sent to their residences, and the personnel bureau is instigating a plan to help these students if they desire it.

Many small colleges pride themselves," Dr. W. H. Taylor, director of the personnel bureau, said, "on the fact that small classes and enrollment enable them to have a closer personal contact between the faculty and the students. But the University of Oregon, in common with the more progressive large institutions, has endeavored to do the same thing through the faculty advisor system and with the aid of personnel information."

Believes Advisors Can Help
"I believe," he continued, "the advisors on our campus can help students plan their work and locate their difficulties by means of the personnel information which we have collected quite as well, or even better, than they could by personal acquaintance in small classes."

Dr. Taylor explained that the mid-term grades of all students for whom the University had a special responsibility were collected by the registrar's office. Under this class come athletes, students using loan funds, both from the school itself and from other special sources, and students on probation.

Notices To Be Sent
Students in these special classes will receive notices if they have a flunk, a condition, or a V in any subject, and all other students having a flunk, 2 conditions, or 2 V's will likewise be informed.

Blanks are being included with these cards for the benefit of the students. These blanks contain questions on how the student studies, how much time he allows for studying, what his general health is, and in what number of campus activities he is engaged. It is thought that by answering these questions himself and then talking the matter over with his advisor, the student may determine where his difficulties lie.

Cards To Be Sent Soon
Fifty lower division advisors as well as those in major departments and schools have been requested by the personnel bureau to make a special effort to be available to the students whom they are advising for the purpose of personal conferences.

These opportunities are not restricted to students who are having scholastic difficulties. Faculty advisors, the dean of men, the dean of women, the health service, and the personnel office are always glad to confer with students about any personal problems, according to Dr. Taylor.

He announced that the cards with low mid-term reports will be sent out tomorrow.

All in Readiness For Soph Dinner, States Edlefsen

Tickets for Friday Evening Affair on Sale at Co-op Today

With the exception of a few minor details all arrangements for the sophomore banquet to be held at the men's dormitory Friday at 5:45 have been completed, according to an announcement made last night by Jack Edlefsen, general chairman of the event.

"Yep, everything's all fixed," he said. "Omar Palmer has all the features lined up and they sound pretty good."

The decoration motif will be one in keeping with St. Valentine's day, said Mary Gray, decorations chairman.

Walter Evans, in charge of the ticket sale, has announced that tickets will be placed on sale at the Co-op today.

Auto Show Opens At Igloo Today

Truck and Aircraft Take Place in Display

The auto show being sponsored by the Eugene Automobile Dealers' association February 13-14-15, opens today in McArthur court. Approximately one hundred autos and trucks will be on exhibit, according to Hugh Rosson, manager of the show. There will be 25 exhibits of auto accessories, and two exhibits of aircraft, a monoplane from the Lee-Inman school of flying and an airplane motor and propeller from the Hobi Airways company.

Much work has been expended in decorating the show-room. Music will be furnished during the evening. A small admission price will be charged.

Two Professors Invited To Speak At Student Confab

Dr. Mez and Dr. Morris To Lead Discussions at Northwest Meet

Selected Student Group To Attend From University

Dr. John R. Mez of the political science department and Dr. Victor P. Morris of the economics department will be speakers at the northwest student Pan-Pacific conference being held at Portland, February 21, 22, 23.

Dr. Mez will speak on "Hands Across the Pacific" at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Portland library, and Dr. Morris will lead a discussion group on topics arising from previous lectures at 3:30 in the same place.

Students interested in attending are asked to speak to Victor P. Morris before the end of the week, according to LaWanda Fenlason, secretary of the committee in charge of the conference.

Also Bristol is chairman of the committee in charge of the conference and the executive committee consists of Frank Shimizu, Margaret Brooks, Mildred McGee, and Dr. N. L. Bossing.

Modernistic Idea To Be Decoration Featured at Ball

Theme Also To Be Carried Out in Stage Revue, Says Chairman

Lanterns, Mirrors Will Be Used in Plan

"A Modernistic Dream" is to be the motif of the Senior Ball, it was announced yesterday by Joan Patterson, chairman of the decorations committee.

This theme will also be carried out in the stage revue, given as the feature.

Gold cloth on black will be used for the greater part of the decorating, and yellow, green, and orange, red, and green will be used in combination with these colors.

Large lanterns suspended from the ceiling will be used as the lighting scheme, according to Miss Patterson.

One feature of the decorative scheme is to be kept secret, and will be the surprise feature of the dance, Miss Patterson says.

Miss Patterson is being assisted by Kenton Hamaker, who is assistant chairman of the committee.

Music Professors To Appear in Recital

Dr. John J. Landsbury, pianist, dean of the school of music, and Arthur Boardman, head of the voice department, will appear in joint-recital on March 6, according to announcement yesterday.

The program had previously been announced but the date was not definitely scheduled until Tuesday.

Dr. Landsbury has not been heard in concert here for a number of years, and announcement of his program was received with great interest.

Campus Activities Get Sanction at Meeting Student Body Officers

Plans for Spears' Celebration Near End, Says Raley

New Coach Due To Arrive February 22; Rally At McArthur

Public Banquet for Mentor In List of Events

Plans for the student assembly and business men's banquet in honor of Dr. C. W. Spears, new University of Oregon football coach who will arrive in Eugene February 22, are nearing completion.

Dr. Spears will arrive in Eugene from Portland on the 12:20 Southern Pacific train on Saturday, and will disembark at Villard hall about 12:35, where he will be greeted with a student rally.

From the rally Coach Spears will be transported to McArthur court where the student assembly in charge of James Raley will take place. Speakers for this assembly will be President Hall of the University, Tom Stoddard, president of the student body, and Dr. Spears, Raley announced.

Will Meet Officials
After the assembly Dr. Spears will become acquainted with his football players and assistant coaches, and with the city of Eugene. He has also been asked to be one of the patrons at the senior ball being held Saturday night.

The banquet being given at the Osburn hotel is in charge of Eugene S. Kelly, while Ronald Robnett, assistant graduate manager, is in charge of entertainment. Tom Stoddard, president of the student body, is chairman of the joint chamber of commerce and students' committee for the banquet, and Lynn McCready is chairman of the chamber of commerce committee.

Banquet Is Public
The banquet is open to the public, McCready announced, but due to the lack of seating capacity, the attendance has been limited to men only. Tickets may be obtained from C. F. Hyde of the Hi Twelve club, chairman of ticket sales, or his committee, or from Mr. McCready at the First National bank. A block of tickets will be disposed to Legionnaires, since Dr. Spears is a member of the American Legion.

Governor Norblad will be among the distinguished guests at the banquet, and later, a guest at the senior ball.

Extension Student Has Plays Produced

A student who has taken three writing courses from the University of Oregon correspondence division has recently had three original plays produced over the radio and has been offered the chance to sell them to outside markets.

Mrs. Nellie E. von der Hellen says, "The plays are all humorous incidents of every day life—no tragedy." Very favorable comments have been printed concerning Mrs. von der Hellen's plays in the Medford Mail Tribune.

Slides To Illustrate Dr. Reinhardt's Talk

"The development of modern art and religion" is the subject of a talk which Dr. K. Reinhardt, of the German department, will give tonight at 7:30 in 107 Oregon.

Dr. Reinhardt will illustrate the speech by showing slides, and an informal discussion will follow.

Mildred French, chairman of the meeting, urges that everyone interested attend this lecture.

Two Studio Plays Scheduled For Today; Students to Direct

Today's program of studio plays includes Stuart Walker's "Very Naked Boy," and "The Eligible Mr. Bangs," by Robert Housum. "The Very Naked Boy," which is being repeated with a different cast, is directed by Margaret Frey and Gwendolyn Foss. The cast is as follows: He, Harvey Welch; She, Dorothy Foss; Boy, Eddie Crebs.

"The Eligible Mr. Bangs" is directed by Betty Cook and Gwen Pantan. The cast follows: Jane, Louise Webber; Lucile, Jewel Ellis; Tom, Verne Elliott; Mr. Bangs, Charles Jones.

Executive Council Gives Authority for Band, Quartet To Feature At Portland Banquet

Appointments for Music Managers Made; Song Contest Given Power

Upon the sanction of the executive council last night the University of Oregon band and quartet will represent the associated students at the reception banquet in honor of Dr. Spears, being held in Portland under the direction of the Oregon Dads and Portland active clubs, February 21, according to Tom Stoddard, student body president.

The committee in charge of the banquet earnestly requested that the associated students co-operate in sending representatives to this affair, which led to the council's action.

Song Contest Sanctioned
A recommendation that the interfraternity song contest be held the last week in February in order to comply with the rest of the term's schedule was also passed. This song contest has been traditional in previous years, but due to lack of space in the schedule last year it was not continued. Two cups are offered, the one for women now held by Pi Beta Phi and the other for men now held by Theta Chi.

The following appointments for music managers were made upon recommendation of the music committee to the executive council: Jasper Reynolds, orchestra manager; Joe Freck, band manager; Stewart Ralston, men's glee club, and Don Carver, women's glee club.

Policy Mentioned
The policy of the University band giving concerts was also formally sanctioned, and February 16 accepted as the date for the second appearance of the band this term.

Approval was given for a freshman get-together dance to be held in the men's gymnasium next Saturday, February 15. This dance will be similar to those given by the freshman class last year.

Cheating Causes Grief for Frosh

Loss of Term Hours Only Part of Punishment

Found guilty of cheating in a mid-term examination, a freshman student was fined four hours of work and placed on probation for the rest of the year by the student advisory committee early this week.

Being placed on probation means that the student is subject to immediate dismissal from the University if he subsequently violates any University regulation.
