

Many Co-Eds Attend Initial Vodvil Tryout

Girls Will Continue Their Exhibitions Today In Villard

SPECTATORS BANNED

Men To Compete for First Time This Afternoon, State Officials

A record-breaking group of Oregon's most beautiful women were present at the initial tryouts for the chorus of the annual Junior Vodvil, held Wednesday afternoon in Villard hall.

Virginia Moore, dancing director. The men will get their first chance to shine between 4 and 5:30 p. m. today, when the first tryouts for the masculine chorus will be held at Villard.

Directors Are Busy Miss Moore and Vinton Hall, vodvil director, were kept busy all Wednesday afternoon viewing the prospective stage stars and both judges announced that they were more than satisfied with the turnout.

"It is not yet too late for more women to try out," Miss Moore declared. "All those who failed to turn out yesterday are requested to be on hand this afternoon. The many would-be chorus girls were handled in very systematic order by the judging committee. There were no spectators allowed in the hall and only six girls were taken in at one time. Each girl was asked to walk across the stage after which she was requested to do a few steps.

Names To Be Announced The names of the women selected to appear at the second elimination tryouts, to be held next week, will be announced Friday morning, according to the dancing director.

"Some of those turning out for the chorus showed much promise," Miss Moore said. "We expect to select a chorus which will be better trained than any ever appearing in a campus vodvil show."

Hall urged that all men performers be on hand for the tryouts this afternoon. Those turning out will be put through a similar test to that given to the women and the first regular rehearsals are expected to get underway sometime next week.

Will End Season's Matinee Programs

This afternoon at 4:15 will witness the close of the season's program of weekly matinee performances of studio plays, with the presentation of Stanley Houghton's "Fancy Free," and Lady Gregory's "Rising of the Moon."

The Oregon affirmative team maintained throughout the debate that armaments cause fear, suspicion, hatred and distrust, and inevitably are a cause for war, hence, if world peace is to exist, armaments, as one of the causes of the obstacles in the way of peace. It pointed out that a police force would take care of the few economic and political "sore spots" in the world, and since other armed forces no longer existed a feeling of distrust and confidence would be built up as a basis for world peace.

The visiting negative team stated that world peace, on the other hand, was dependent on a worldwide state of altruism, and that education might bring this about, regardless of an armed situation, and armaments would then go out of existence naturally, as an institution no longer useful.

Grade System Accepted With One Addition

Joint Committees Pass on Plan of Change in Figuring List

UNFAIR RATE FEARED

Status of Group Members Must Pass Through Dean's Office

Advocated changes in the system of figuring the grade list were passed upon by the heads of houses in a meeting held yesterday.

But for one exception the recommendations made by the joint committee from interfraternity council and heads of houses were accepted as they were originally compiled.

The amendment added by heads of houses was likewise brought up in the meeting of interfraternity council last Thursday. It was felt that some arrangement must be made for the possibility of a loophole being created by the change regarding the listing of members as active and inactive.

Revisions Listed The revisions as passed on by both organizations were as follows:

- 1. Pledges and members of houses living in dormitories shall not be considered members of the dormitories.
2. Members of houses shall include active members and pledges and affiliated transfers.
3. Grades of law students, fifth year architecture students, and graduate students shall not be counted.
4. No student shall be excluded on the ground that he is carrying less than the normal number of hours.
5. Honor grades shall be weighted as follows: honors I, 7 points; honors II, 6 points; honors III, 5 points.
6. (a) Any student who receives a grade of incomplete in one-half or more of his hours shall not be counted on the grade list.
(b) Incompletes in less than one-half the hours must be made up within one month after the beginning of the term, otherwise to count as hours not earned.
7. The list of membership is to be filed in the offices of the deans of men and women the day before final examinations each term.

Ammunition Supply Said To Be Defective

The rifle range at the R. O. T. C. barracks has been closed until further notice, which will be at least for the duration of this term and probably longer, Major Frederick A. Barker, head of the military department, announced yesterday.

The reason for this action, Major Barker stated, is that the present issue of ammunition has been found defective and dangerous to use. Although no serious accidents have occurred, so far, some of the men who have been firing have met with minor injuries.

The range will not be opened until the present ammunition can be officially condemned, and new supplies are issued by the government.

Week-End Will Show Profits, Says Paddock

Junior Vodvil Will Cost More Than Any Other Of the Events

TOTAL TO CLEAR $460

Canoe Fete Expense $600; Campus Luncheon Will Have Deficit

Final budget estimates for the annual Junior Week-end activities have been worked out and will soon be turned over to the individual committee chairmen of the directorate, according to an announcement made Wednesday by Hal Paddock, chairman of the finance committee.

As usual the profits from the annual Junior Vodvil are expected to be the largest single income source on the list of events. The show is planned to be the largest and most pretentious ever held on the campus.

Paddock predicts that Junior Prom will break even in financial matters, with the huge dance expected to cost approximately $650.

Some idea of the large scale production intended for the Junior Vodvil may be obtained when it is realized that it will cost more than the combined other events. The rent of the theatre will be the largest single item but it is planned to spend almost $300 for the stage sets.

The gross income from the Canoe Fete is expected to amount to $800, with the costs amounting to $600, leaving an estimated net profit of $200. Campus day, Mother's day, campus luncheon, water carnival, and miscellaneous events will cost $340, with net income estimated at $300, leaving a $40 deficit.

The annual campus luncheon will be better than it has ever been, according to Paddock. There will be plenty of food for everybody and it will be of the highest quality.

Five Organizations Face 'Mike' Tonight In Finals of Emerald-KORE Contest

The Moving Finger PUBLICATIONS PAY . . . 5TH-YEAR SCOPE WIDE . . .

By OLIVER POLITICUS

To supplant an unconstitutional method of procedure, the publications sub-committee and general constitutional revision committee has approved changes setting definite minimum salaries for editors and managers of both the Emerald and Oregona. After those minimum salaries are paid, the executive council is given the power to set additional pay as it sees fit.

The old constitution and by-laws set compensation on a profits basis. When that document fell into disuse through faulty wording, the council took upon itself, perhaps as a temporary expedient, the power of setting the sums paid. It was generally considered by the editors and managers of the publications that they should not be subjected to a pocket-book threat of the executive council.

Passing through a hotly contested session of the regular publications committee, this agreement was reached. The editor and business manager of the Emerald shall each receive a minimum of $400. For several years the pay has been $200 more. Any amount above the surplus shall be fixed by the executive council.

The Oregona officers shall each receive a minimum of $150, and shall share in any profits until they shall each receive a total of $300, after which sum a small percentage is fixed as a goal for further profits for the A. S. U. O.

Save for the new measure of insuring at least $100 each to the managing editor and advertising manager of the Emerald, no other changes were made except in changed wording and placing of articles.

One problem to be settled if the fifth-year status is changed to an approved standing, is candidacy for editorial or managerial office. Whether there is to be consistency in elective and appointive offices depends on the policy approved in the other articles.

French Play Will Be Unusual

'Leopold, Le Bien-Aime' Good Comedy

By BOB GUILD It's a wise producer that knows his own play. . . . And what I didn't learn about "Leopold"! "Leopold" is the French play to be given Friday and Saturday nights at Guild hall. All I had to do was mention the name, and I was buried under an avalanche of waving arms and excited French vowels, that bumped and banged all around me. . . . Once in a while the cast spoke English, and this is what I found out.

Majestic Set Winner Will Be Selected

Theta, Phi Sig, Kappa Sig, Independents, Sigma Chi in Finals

Program Will Continue From 7:30 to 10

Four men's organizations and one women's house will face the microphone at station KORE tonight to make their last bids for victory in the final eliminations of the campus-wide radio contest sponsored by the Oregon Daily Emerald with the cooperation of station KORE. This program, which will determine the winner of the 9-tube Majestic radio set offered by McMorrin and Washburne, will start at 7:30 p. m., and will continue for two and a half hours.

Kappa Alpha Theta, only girls' group to reach the finals, will start the broadcasting with a half-hour of musical entertainment. The Independents, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Chi, and Kappa Sigma will follow in the order named. Winners of the first three grand prizes will be announced in the Emerald Saturday.

Everything Arranged Fred Norton, contest director, reported last night that all details of preparation for the event had been arranged for, and requested that all houses aid as much as possible to facilitate the smooth functioning of the program by being punctual in appearance at the studio, in order that the program consume as little time as possible after 10 o'clock, when the student programs are scheduled to end.

Owing to the fact that the studio will probably be crowded, Frank Hill, manager of station KORE, requests that competing houses bring with them no one who is not to participate in the programs.

Paul D. Green is donating his regular advertising half-hour, 7:30 to 8, to the contest.

Thetas Start Program Rules drawn up to govern the finals permit competing houses to make slight variations in their programs from the original presentation, but require that theme and continuity be essentially the same. Slight changes in personnel will also be permitted, so long as the rules of eligibility are not violated.

Kappa Alpha Theta, under the direction of Marian Camp, will present a musical skit entitled the "Jungle Idea," which will recount (Continued on Page Four)
