

Webfoot, Corvallis Splashers in for Aquatic Contest Saturday

Oregon Will Have 27 Men In Aquatic Tilt

Varsity Frosh To Seek Revenge Against Oregon State Squads Will Hold Water Polo Game

Twenty-seven Webfoot swimmers, comprising the personnel of both the varsity and frosh teams, will embark at 12:45 Saturday for Corvallis, where they will attempt to conquer the Orangemen.

Each of the Oregon teams has dropped a dual contest to the Beavers previously this season. The frosh were whipped by the rooks and the score wasn't very close. The Oregon varsity, however, lost on a technicality. The two teams tied at 42 points, but the Staters, on account of winning one more first place, were able to apply a rendition from the rule book and claim a victory.

Polo Scheduled

The frosh-rook contest will start at 2:30 in the afternoon and will be followed by a water polo game between the two squads. The varsity meet will be held in the evening. Oregon's varsity team will be stronger than any time previously this season, and particularly in better shape than in the meet two weeks ago with O. S. C. Paul Lafferty and Steve Fletcher, two very good breast stroke men, did not compete against the Beavers before. Lafferty was not in condition and Fletcher was out for basketball. Yesterday, Fletcher nosed out Lafferty in a 100-yard time trial, winning in 1:13.2. Ron Lewis, varsity letterman, in this event was third.

Silverman Improves

Fred Sears, a new man in the back stroke, is expected to account for a second or third, while if Bill McNabb keeps up his regular performance he will take first in this event. Johnny Anderson, captain, should win both dashes, merely because no one in the northwest ever beats him. Whether Chuck Silverman can defeat Fred Wadley in the distance swims is a question. Wadley, the O. S. C. ace, won last time, but Silverman is in better condition and will make a harder fight. He still holds the northwest record in the 440.

Although Oregon State won the diving last time, either Len Thompson or Joe Brown has a good chance of taking first tomorrow, for the Orangemen did not have a great margin of superiority. The two Oregon relay teams will be about the same. The Webfoots lost the 160-yard relay last time and won the medley.

Team Listed

There will be no practice today, but all men will meet at 4:30 at the pool. Varsity swimmers who will make the trip are: Chuck Silverman, Charles Foster, Al Edwards, Art Hansen, Johnny Anderson, Palmer McKim, Paul Lafferty, Steve Fletcher, Bill McNabb, Fred Sears, Len Thompson, Joe Brown, Dick Stevenson, Rosser Atkinson, and Bob Bishop. Frosh swimmers include: Bob Needham, Fred Anderson, Lloyd Knufson, Max Calandra, Maurice Pease, Harrison Spain, James Travis, Jean Grady, Francis Oglesby, Stanley Kidder, Bill Palmer, and Clifton Culp. Ken Moore will accompany the team as manager.

Tennessee Wins In Rifle Contest

Schedule for This Week Is Cancelled

The only report of last week's intersectional rifle match, that of the University of Tennessee, which made a total of 3,667 points, as compared to Oregon's 3,580 points, gives the local team another defeat for the week.

Because the rifle range at the R. O. T. C. barracks has been closed, due to defective ammunition, the matches scheduled for this week, which was the last of the series, have been cancelled. The matches which were set aside were with the following schools:

Louisiana State university, University of Michigan, University of Delaware, Indiana university, New Mexico Agriculture and Mechanical college, State University of Iowa, and the University of California.

Shifting of Reinhart and Callison Rumored

DUMOR has it that there will be two new coaches listed among the ranks of Oregon mentors this spring, but the two former coaches will still be busy handling other branches of Oregon athletics and acting in an advisory capacity over the new mentors. In other words, Bill Reinhart and Prink Callison are expected to relinquish their duties as varsity and freshman baseball coaches, respectively, in order to devote full time to helping Doc Spears inaugurate his system of football play here.

If the proposed move is carried out, Doc will have his full staff of four assistants on hand for the spring training season. Gene Shields is already at work, along with Reinhart and Callison, and John O'Brien, new end mentor, will be on hand at the start of spring term. We think the move to shift Reinhart and Callison to the football staff is the logical one in as much as Spears has plenty of work to do to introduce his system to the large squad of candidates turning out every night. As long as we are going in for football on such a large scale we might as well do it up right.

Suitable mentors for the baseball squads are available and the shift will not materially affect the strength of the teams. Both Reinhart and Callison will supervise their respective teams, but will devote the major portion of their attention to the football squad. With the large elaborate program outlined for spring football by Doc Spears it is only logical that he should have his full staff on hand. We notice that both Washington and Oregon State have larger staffs for spring work this year than ever before—seems as though spring practice is almost as important as fall.

Anderson Does Good Work With Swimmers

With all the sob stories about the poor swimming schedule making the rounds some students have been misinterpreting the news stories to gather that the blame for the whole fix lies at the feet of Johnnie Anderson, who has been leading the Webfoot swimmers. This is the wrong impression, indeed, as members of the varsity swimming team have frequently declared that the coaching they have received this year has been up to the regular standards. The way the boys have been performing clearly bears out their statements.

We think that Anderson has been doing a good job of coaching the team, in view of the problems he has had to confront. In the first place, Johnny has his academic work to keep up just the same as other regular students. Secondly, he has to work hard to keep himself in condition to compete in the meets. Add to those two factors the job of coaching the rest of the men on the squad and you can get an idea of the amount of work that confronts Anderson.

For various reasons no more swimming meets have been scheduled and the Webfoots will have only one after the Oregon State meet at Corvallis this Saturday. Multnomah club will meet the Oregon water splashers here on March 15, to close the season unless another meet is scheduled, which is highly improbable. Anderson has his men in fine fettle for the Beaver meet and the Webfoots are determined to wipe out that technical win which Oregon State scored over them when the squads clashed here.

Track Men Will Run Nine Events Saturday at Two

180 Men Will Compete in Meet, With Varsity Lettermen Barred

Initial competition for track men will be started tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with nine events listed. With the exception of lettermen all members of the varsity and frosh track squads may enter.

As it is too early in the training season for the cinder men to run the full distance, approximately one-fourth will be clipped from the regular measures. When the weather warms and the runners' wind and legs develop, the distance will be lengthened out to standard requirements. However, it will give the new candidates a chance to see how they stack up against the more experienced men and also give Bill Hayward the opportunity of looking over green material.

Sprint men will run 75 yards in place of the century and 150 yards in place of the 220 dash. The quarter-milers will spin off 300 yards, the half-milers 660 yards, and the mile runners three-quarters of the distance. High hurdlers will travel 70 yards. The special events consist of shot put, high jump, and pole vault.

With 180 men in training there are sure to be plenty of entries. As the lettermen are out of it, spectators will see some close competition among the lesser-known men.

Jessie Puckett New President Of Athletic Club

Frances Haberlach Is New Vice-prexy; Lou Hill Is Secretary

Edna Kerns Will Serve as W.A.A. Treasurer

Jessie Puckett was elected president of the Women's Athletic association, according to the announcement made at the banquet last evening. It is a tradition that the names of the newly elected officers are withheld until the W. A. A. banquet, the election being held last Wednesday.

Frances Haberlach was elected vice-president, Lucille Hill, secretary, and Edna Kerns, treasurer. Miss Puckett, the new president, is a junior majoring in physical education, and was vice-president of the organization this year. She has been prominent in sports during her college year.

A stripe was awarded to Naomi Moshberger for winning 1500 points in intramural sports. Sweaters and letters were also awarded at the banquet.

Orpha Ager was in charge of the banquet; entertainment was furnished by those who received sweaters.

Miss Phyllis Gove announced the all-star basketball teams as follows: Vivian Coss, Dorothy MacLean, and Lucille Murphy, forwards; Marjorie Kelly, jumping center; Dorothy Barthel, running center; Ella Redkey and Edna Kerns, guards. Three forwards were selected as in the voting there was a tie between Dorothy MacLean and Lucille Murphy.

The second all-stars are: Dena Alm and Marie Daly, forwards; Lucille Hill, jumping center; Naomi Moshberger, running center; and Ruth Johnson and Stephanie Lampshire, guards.

LANDSBURY, BOARDMAN APPLAUDED AT CONCERT

(Continued from Page One) the lobby as well. Something of an ovation was paid in the long ripples of applause that demanded repeated encores. There was, perhaps, an especially personal spirit in the audience's response to Dr. Landsbury. He has not been heard here in about six years, so that his appearance again last night was a rare event.

Dr. Landsbury's playing is first of all filled with deep emotion. He plays with tone of great sweetness and depth and he has amazing power. In his opening sonata, the Mozart D-major, the University dean played with great delicacy and fine shading. The "Rondo in E-flat" (Weber) he gave much vivacity. It displayed the facility with which he plays. Dr. Landsbury's Chopin group, cili-

"All-in-One" Garments of Dainty Rayon

$1.49

No need to fear the new lines of the 1930 silhouette. Here is a clever garment that does many things to give a smart figure! Slim-fitting across the abdomen . . . brassiere in up-lift style . . . "evening" back . . . and a slide-closing for graceful fit! Of dainty rayon in pastel shades. Decidedly low-priced!

maxed with the A-flat polonaise, took heartiest applause. He gave a richness and mellowness to his preludes and waltzes, along with a warm brilliancy and grace of playing. The full grand chords of the polonaise were high-lights of the evening.

Dr. Landsbury's last group included two Schumann numbers, the "Aufschwung" and "Romanza in F-sharp Major." His final number was the "Erlkoenig" (Schubert Liszt). It was a thing of great intensity and power, magnificently played.

Mr. Boardman used first a group of German music, with two Brahms numbers and Wagner's "Reproof to Elsa." Mr. Boardman is considered one of the finest exponents of Wagnerian music known to the coast. His second group opened with Du Parc's lovely "Chanson Triste" and "Le Manoir de Rosamonde." In both these was the lingering charm of Mr. Boardman's voice felt. He sings with great power and color, yet there is deep sweetness to his voice. Two Italian numbers by Respighi, one impressionistic of snow and one of fog, were particularly enjoyed by the audience. The second Mr. Boardman repeated, so charmed was the audience.

Mrs. Aurora Potter Underwood was Mr. Boardman's excellent accompanist.

Frosh and Sophs Play Close Game

Even Score Is Maintained By Opposing Teams

Winning by a score of 30-25 the freshman first brought to an end a close and exciting game played against the sophomore first team, Thursday evening.

During the first half the freshmen led by a few points, but in the second half the sophomores put up a hard fight and gained points over their opponents' score.

The junior first team piled up a score of 28-6 against the junior second team in the game played Thursday. The first team kept up their rapid scoring from the first, maintaining a strong lead until the end of the game.

Frosh Paddlers Outswim Squad From Salem High

Seven Out of Eight Firsts Captured by First Year Men

The frosh swimming team swamped Salem high, 52 to 22, in a dual meet held yesterday in the men's pool. The frosh won seven out of eight first places.

James Reed was the biggest man on the Salem team and also just about the whole team. He participated in five events, placing in all of them and winning the 40-yard back stroke, the only victory for his team. Bob Needham starred for the frosh.

The summary: 160-yard relay—won by the frosh (Palmer, Knutson, Anderson, Needham). Time, 1:27.6.

40-yard free style—Needham, frosh, first; Knutson, frosh, second; Dirks, Salem, third. Time, 20.8.

100-yard breast stroke—Travis, frosh, first; J. Reed, Salem, second; E. Reed, Salem, third. Time, 1:18.2.

100-yard dash—Anderson, frosh, first; Cross, Salem, second; Knutson, frosh, third. Time, 1:03. J. Reed, Salem, third. Time, 2:54.2. 40-yard back stroke—J. Reed, Salem, first; Spain, frosh, second; Grady, frosh, third. Time, 27.2. 220-yard free style—Oglesby, frosh, first; Culp, frosh, second; Time, 1:14.8.
