

Profits From Last Year's Campus Luncheon May Reduce Tax

$400 Reserve Will Go Into Junior Fund

Like Amount To Be Available Each Year By Lowered Fee

Students May Pay 35-cent Levy Spring Term

By REX TUSSING

A reduction in the tax assessed students for the Junior Week-end campus luncheon this spring, and a reserve of $400 each year to cover possible future losses—that probability came to light last night, when Ronald Robnett, assistant graduate manager, announced that a reserve of approximately $400 in profits from last year's luncheon is being held in a separate fund by the comptroller's office for use for the Week-end affair.

Plans suggested to the graduate manager's office by Arthur Schoeni, editor of the Emerald, for cutting the tax from 50 to 35 cents for each student are entirely feasible, according to Robnett. Although no definite action can be assured until Comptroller L. H. Johnson gives his approval, present indications point to the 35-cent reduction.

Class Budget Unhurt
This change, it was pointed out, does not threaten the junior class with a deficit on their budget. Last year approximately $400 profits were made by what is now the senior class, but since the amount is collected from all students, the profits from the luncheon have been kept in a separate fund. This $400, supplemented by the $800 or more which would be gained by the reduced levy, would still amount to over $1,200, the amount received last year.

If the expenses are kept within those of last year, it is pointed out, then there will again be a profit equal to the sum advanced in the first place. Each year's luncheon will return the $400 advanced.

Profits Carried On
Receipts from the vodvil, canoe fete, and other functions of the junior class which are financed and promoted entirely by the class alone will go, according to present plans yet unconfirmed, in the regular class funds. The separate funding for the luncheon was made because the money comes from a general student levy, not a class tax.

The junior class last year made a profit of slightly less than $200, according to Robnett's statement last night, all of which has been carried forward to the credit of this year's senior class.

certainly one of Edna St. Vincent Millay's best known things, and in it she manages to delicately and prettily paint a picture of life. Bob Guild will play Pierrot, and Elva Baker, Columbine. The play will be directed by Renee Nelson.

Handsome settings are being planned for these three plays, since they lend themselves remarkably well to color and movement in stage design. The sets are being planned and constructed by Fred Harris of the art department, who has done sets for all the important productions of the year. Tickets for the bill will go on reserve in the ticket office at Johnson hall Tuesday.

S. A. E. Convention Schedule Meet Here Today

The first province convention of Sigma Alpha Epsilon to be held in Eugene is having its sessions here today and tomorrow, with Oregon Beta, the University of Oregon chapter, as hosts.

One of the features of the gathering will be the annual Founder's day banquet, to be held tomorrow evening at the Eugene hotel in observance of the 74th anniversary of the founding of the fraternity. All members of the Oregon Alpha, the chapter at O. S. C., will be guests at this dinner, in addition to the delegates. Delegates will be present from the five other chapters of the province, in addition to the two chapters in Oregon, these being located at the University of Washington, Washington State college, University of Montana, Montana State college, and University of Idaho.

Sessions of the convention will be held at the chapter house here, with Rene P. Banks, province president, presiding. Lawrence Shaw, president, and Paul Branin, treasurer of Oregon Beta, will represent the local chapter.

Call for Adjournment Only Business Done

Eighty-six freshmen, 9.55 per cent of their class, were present at the class meeting which was called for 7 last evening at Villard hall. This not being a quorum, no business could be transacted. President Larry Bay took the stand long enough to admonish his charges in regard to the freshman class spirit, which he termed "rotten." He said that the meeting had been called to determine the fate of the traditional spring term picnic and the amount of the class tax which it would be necessary to add to the spring term fees in order to finance said picnic.

The meeting not being formal, the reading of the minutes of the last meeting and the reading of a financial report for the year were crossed off the agenda. The only motion made from the floor was one for adjournment.

purpose. Probably some pin will be given the student prey.

Mention of the Order of the O again brings the query as to the right of the Order and of the Oregon Knights to dictate campus traditions, and to enforce them. No mention of that delegation of power will be made in the constitution.

It is possible that some erring freshman or on-the-campus smoker may question that power before the judiciary. Whether it would have reached that body under the first proposed system is doubtful, yet there seems little question that the matter is a constitutional one.

Performance of Two Plays Ends Winter Matinee Season

By BOB GUILD
The winter program of matinee performances of one-act plays closed on a rather sour note, with the presentation of Lady Gregory's "Rising of the Moon." "Fancy Free" was nicely done, but the other play started inauspiciously, and then coasted downhill to a gentle stop.

The whole performance of the Irish scene seemed remarkable for its lack of color. The stage lighting effects, which should have been impressive, were merely dark enough to lend atmosphere to the generally dead feeling of the play. Too bad, because it is a nice play, and very enjoyable when done well.

One of the policemen (I suspect Ray Foss), had one good line; something about hanging a poster on a barrel, which was a sympathetic line. For some reason or other he emoted very well, that once. The other high spot of the performance was Miles Shaw's tenor voice. Shaw sang ballads.

"Fancy Free" was enjoyable. In fact, it was so English that it hurt, which was, of course, exactly as intended. Helen Mielke as the wholly feminine Fancy turned in a very nice performance. It was Miss Mielke's first appearance on the campus stage, and she was heartily appreciated. There has been a tendency to overwork the old faithfuls, and after all, variety is a spice.

Charles Gillespie was good opposite Helen. That is, he was good once he got his throat cleared so that we could hear him in the audience. Rumor has it that he and Miss Mielke played opposite one another in high school dramatics. This seemed borne out by a certain facility about their performance, and they do look very nice together.

Inez Simmons did well in her part, which wasn't long enough. And as for Bart Siegfried, we were disappointed. He was not nearly as convincing as he has been and as he could have been in his part.

P. E. Instructor Accepts Position At Rice Institute

G. Hermance Will Teach At Texas School Next Year

Gilbert Hermance, instructor in physical education and supervisor of men's physical work, will sever his relations with the University at the end of the spring term to accept a similar position at the Rice Institute, Houston, Texas, he announced Thursday. Mr. Hermance has been a member of the Oregon faculty since his graduation from the University in 1927. Before entering upon his official duties at Rice, Mr. Hermance will complete his requirements for his master's degree at Columbia university this summer. He has attended the summer sessions at the Teacher's college there for the past three years.

Rice institute is a comparatively new institution, according to Mr. Hermance, and it was only last year that Harry Scott, former Oregon professor, established a school of physical education there. Mr. Hermance will serve as an instructor in physical education at the southern school, and will also serve as an assistant to Mr. Scott. He will have charge of the theoretical work and supervision over the required and major activity programs.

Mu Phi Epsilon To Give Vespers Sunday, March 9

Mrs. Jane Thacher, Famed Pianist, Will Assist In Program

Mrs. Jane Thacher, pianist and member of the school of music faculty, will be among those who appear in the Mu Phi Epsilon program at vespers Sunday afternoon, March 9, at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Thacher is an artist who has had important concert engagements in the eastern coast states, in the middle west and on this coast. She was a student of Leschetisky. Mrs. Thacher's numbers on the Mu Phi Epsilon program will be an etude by Scriabine and "Drifting" by Gardner Eyre.

Agnes Petzold, contralto, who is a senior in music at the University, is another Mu Phi Epsilon, who will appear. Others on the program are alumnae, numbering among them some of the most prominent Eugene musicians. There will be voice, piano and organ solos and there is to be an interesting vocal quintet arrangement. Mrs. Leah Perkins Wyatt is in charge of the program.

The newspapers of the United States are the most informative of the world, says Professor Sidney B. Fay of Harvard university.
