A dance recital sponsored by the Master dancing group, major students and regular University physical education classes will be presented Friday evening, April 11, in Gerlinger hall, under the direction of Marjorie Forchemer, instructor in dancing. The presentation will start at 8 o'clock.

The program, according to Miss Forchemer, will be made up of humorous sketches as well as some of a more classical and dramatic nature. More than 50 students will take part in this production.

Women Archers Use Valuable Bows; Oregon Yew Wood Best

By BETH SALWAY
"The women's department of physical education owns bows for archery that are 60 years old, and ranging in value from $17 to $150. They are made from yew wood found in the high Cascades, the only standing supply now left in the entire world," said Miss Harriett Thomson, coach of archery for women.

"The ordinary life of a good bow is 200 years, subject to accidents, of course. If the bow remains straight at the end of a season of use, its value increases about $20. "The yew from which the best bows are made are very tall, and straight-grained. The supply of

Fate of Vodvil Up To Affairs Group Today

Directors Submit Plans To Continue Show; Group To Accept or Reject

O MEET AT 4 TODAY

Faculty Say Plan Calls For Undesirable and Banned Rehearsing

When the student affairs committee meets today at 4 o'clock the fate of the 1930 Junior Vodvil will be placed in their hands. Being their objections after a complete report had been turned in by Vinton Hall, vodvil director, officials declare that the show cannot continue in the form which has already gone under way. They declare that any continuity, such as the musical comedy plan of the present, necessitates much rehearsing, resulting in a waste of the participant's time. The alleged levity at former vodvil rehearsals was also attacked.

Many Concessions Made

A statement drawn up by vodvil officials containing every concession possible to still allow the staging of this year's show will be presented to the student affairs committee today. Hall declared. If this plan is rejected, reports show that the performance will be abandoned. Impossibility of changing the show fundamentally at this late date was shown yesterday.

According to the plan submitted to authorities, the following concessions were made:

1. A complete schedule of all rehearsals for each division of the show will be drawn up and submitted to the dean of men and the dean of women. Rehearsals will be held between the hours of 4 and 5 in the afternoons, four a week with the exception of an earlier Saturday afternoon practice. All-night rehearsals at the Hellig theater will be discontinued, one morning practice between the hours of 8 and 12 being substituted.

2. Schedule cards to determine the hours of work will be required of each participant. These, or copies of these, will be turned over to officials.

3. The three faculty advisers will agree that one shall be present at each rehearsal.

4. Directors of the vodvil give their word that no liquor or levity will be sanctioned at rehearsals or during performances. Those indulging will be immediately dropped from the cast.

5. Names of each participant will be submitted to the dean of men, dean of women, and the head of the health service immediately.

6. Vaudeville will be kept at a high standard and any word in the dialogue which may appear undesirable will be withdrawn.

Divot Diggers Prepare for Opening Emerald Spring Handicap Tourney; Plan Cup for Winners in Each Flight

Three days remain for men and women to enter the Emerald's spring handicap golf tournament. Faulkner Short, who is in charge of the golf meet, urges everyone to get their entry blanks in by Saturday noon for the qualifying round will start next Monday.

Cups will be given the victors of each flight and in addition a golf bag will be awarded to the runner-up in the men's championship flight.

Participants will be placed in flights according to their qualifying scores and will be given a handicap for the match play. The 16 lowest scorers will be in the championship flight and the winner of this group will be declared the best player in the tournament.

The matches will furnish the first opportunity for feminine golfers to compete in a campus tournament.

Persons entering the Emerald's divot-digging competition will have the use of the Eugene Country club any time except Sunday mornings. The green fee tickets which have been reduced one-half in price may be obtained at either the men's or women's physical education offices. One ticket entitles a player to an all-day workout.

New Law Allows Students To Mail Primary Ballots

Eugene-Registered Voters Need Not Send for Clerk's Blanks

Students who are absent from home may now vote by mail, according to a change in the law, which says that the privilege of voting is no longer restricted to a person who anticipates being away from his home county on business, but is implied to one who is absent for any reason.

The voter must have registered in his county before April 15, as the books close on that date. He must then make an application for a ballot to the county clerk after the 30th day preceding the election, and must return the ballot at least ten days before the election so that it may be in the hands of the clerk six days before the vote is taken.

The Portland League of Women Voters is carrying on an extensive campaign to get a fuller registration before the primaries which are on April 15, says an announcement from the president's office today.

The above law does not apply to students who have already registered in their precincts in Eugene.

Butler Receives Prize Fellowship

Year's Study in Geology Is Given at Columbia

John Butler, at present research assistant to Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, of the geology department, won the James Furman Kemp fellowship to Columbia university, New York, according to Dr. Hodge. Butler will go to Columbia next year and will work toward his doctor's degree in the department of geology. He will receive his master's degree from the University this spring.

The Kemp prize fellowship is annually competed for by geology students through the United States, including the 30 or 40 in the Columbia school of geology.

For three consecutive years, Oregon students have won fellowships to Columbia. Eugene Calaghan and Don Frazer each won a fellowship to the eastern school, although that received by Butler is the greatest honor of the three, Dr. Hodge said.

Kirk Declines Bid to Enter A. W. S. Race

Last-minute Nomination For President Jolts Women's Politics

ELECTION SET TODAY

Withdrawal of Late Entry Leaves 2 Candidates For Executive Job

Until 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon women's politics, anticipating today's A. W. S. elections, were merely more lively than usual.

And then came a jolt, that set femmes buzzing and humming—and created, for a time, one of the most unusual situations ever to come up in Women's league elections.

That jolt was the nomination, by Diana Deininger from the floor of the mass meeting at Villard hall, of Dorothy Kirk for president.

About two hours after the meeting Helen Peters, president, announced that Miss Kirk had declined the nomination. Coming as an abrupt surprise to her, Miss Kirk did not decline immediately, it was explained.

No upset in the race between Margaret Cummings and Bess Templeton had been expected and prospect of a three-party contest created for awhile, some excitement.

Elections will be held today in front of the old library from 9 to 5 o'clock, with Bernice Woodard, retiring sergeant-at-arms in charge.

Gracia Haggerty is running alone for vice-president, following the withdrawal of Reba Brogdon who will run for senior woman.

Lucille Catlin and Ann Baum will contest for secretary and Helen Chaney and Juanita Kilborn for treasurer.

The quartet of frosh lined up for sergeant-at-arms are Jean Whitney, Eileen McIntyre, Margaret Luce, and Virginia Patterson; Betty Ann Macduff and Louise Smith are running for reporter.

Dean Virginia Judy Esterly and Helen Peters have urged every woman on the campus to vote today.

To Probe House Grading System

Committee To Talk Plans For New Way of Rating

The University personnel council appointed at its last meeting a special sub-committee to consider the house grading system. Dr. Howard R. Taylor, associate professor of psychology; Earl M. Pallett, registrar; and Dean John F. Bovard, of the school of physical education are the members of the sub-committee, with Dr. Taylor acting as chairman.

The purpose of the group, according to Dr. Taylor, is to investigate the merits and demerits of the present house rating system, and to find, if possible, a new and better system that would be plausible. The group in a final report will recommend the simplest, most easily computed, and fairest system it is able to find.

New System Started For Women's Tennis

In an effort to produce keener competition, a new system will be inaugurated in women's intramural tennis this year. According to Miss Margaret Duncan, instructor in tennis, players will be divided into intermediate and advanced classes and there will be separate tournaments for each.

If the turnout is large enough there will be elimination tournaments within each class. Another innovation is the resumption of singles and doubles play among women.

Figures Shatter Feminine Theory

Co-eds Prove Reliability As Grade-getters

Ancient saws and modern wise cracks to the contrary notwithstanding, women, as exemplified by University of Oregon co-eds, are not less predictable than men, but slightly more so.

Figures released yesterday by Dr. Howard R. Taylor, director of the personnel bureau, show that both during rush week and after a term or more of college, the bureau can dope out the future grades of women students a little more accurately than those of men.

Frosh Debaters Take Match From Albany's Varsity

Cecil Espy and Gordon Day Win Close Contest by Margin of One

Roy Craft and Joel Booth Go to Albany

The freshman men's negative debate team defeated the Albany college varsity in a dual debate held in 105 Commerce building at 8 o'clock last night. The Oregon debaters were Cecil Espy and Gordon Day. James Hendrickson and S. E. Harris represented Albany.

The question for debate was, "Resolved: That the nations of the world should adopt a plan of complete disarmament except for such forces necessary for police protection."

Waldo Schumacher, professor of political science, acted as critic judge. In summing up his criticism, he said: "The burden of proof lies upon the affirmative. Upon this basis I give my decision to the negative."

"A scheme of disarmament is Utopian," said Gordon Day, second negative speaker. "When we have reached this state, disarmament will be unnecessary, it will already be an accomplished fact."

Oregon's affirmative team composed of Joel Booth and Roy Craft traveled to Albany last night to meet their varsity negative team. The results of this debate have not yet been received.

Alex Tamkin, senior in journalism and a member of Ye Tabard Inn, designed the cover, a modernistic conception of the troubadour. The art work throughout the book carries out the medieval idea. With the exception of one realistic work, the rest are modernistic. The frontispiece is a sketch of a campus courtyard, and Serena Madson Scheffer's poem, "Courts," is used with it.
