

Oregon Graduate Returns to Tell of Conditions in European Schools After Absence of Six Years

Lewis Martin Shows Vienna Living Cheap

Impossible for Students to Work Way Through Schools of Europe

Co-eds Make up Small Part of Entire Enrollment

By RUFUS KIMBALL

Twenty-three dollars a year for fees, $5 a month for room, 50 cents a day for meals, and a total expense of $20 to $30 per month, everything included, is a normal budget for a student in the University of Vienna. In Constantinople, Bulgaria, and many other parts of Europe, similar conditions prevail. In Vienna practically no students work their way through, there being over 300,000 unemployed workers in the city at the present time.

Dr. Lewis C. Martin, University of Oregon ex-'24 and until recently a professor of psychology and sociology at Geuz Tepe college in Constantinople, gave the above estimates when interviewed yesterday on his experiences in European education. After six years of absence from the United States, he arrived on the campus Tuesday, for a brief visit before returning to his home in The Dalles.

In Europe, according to Doctor Martin, university students are very economical, and quite serious about their work. There are no fraternities or sororities, and in most cases no dormitories connected with the institutions. In many cities, however, such as Vienna, large independent dormitories are maintained by the students for their own use.

Co-eds Small Part

In most European colleges co-eds make up less than 20 per cent of the student body, he declared.

Being mistaken for the king of Bulgaria while driving in the country with a friend, and officiating in the capacity of carrier of dead at a Communist bombing and attempted revolution in 1925, are among the experiences enjoyed by Doctor Martin during the years he spent in the Balkans. The uprising which he witnessed occurred in Sofia, Bulgaria, where the Communist element, having assassinated General Georgiev, a high official in the national army, tried to bomb the church in the course of his funeral.

Some Bombs Fail

"The bombs in the ceiling," Doctor Martin explained, "went off at the appointed time, killing several high officials; but those which were laid in the basement failed to operate, and the killing, from the Communists' viewpoint, was disappointing. In all, about 150 people were crushed by the falling roof. The king, by arriving late for the funeral, was lucky enough to escape."

Before going to Constantinople, Doctor Martin was a tutor of psychology and sociology at the American college of Sofia, Bulgaria, from 1924 to 1926. He introduced intelligence tests into Bulgaria for the first time in 1925, making up and giving an examination of his own authorship. This test was later adopted by the American college as a requirement for all entering students.

Takes Degree at Vienna

Doctor Martin took his Ph.D. degree at the University of Vienna in February and came directly to the United States, arriving in New York City a month ago.

Society

By DOROTHY THOMAS

Daffodils furnished the table decorations and theme of the annual formal Y. W. C. A. banquet which was held Tuesday evening at Lee-Duke's.

The affair honored members of the retiring and incoming cabinets. Toasts, carrying out the daffodil idea, were given by Mrs. C. L. Schwering, Margaret Edmunson, Eldress Judd, and Daphne Hughes. Gracia Haggerty was in charge of arrangements for the banquet.

Delta Zeta Entertains Province President

In honor of Mrs. Alice Wieman, of Portland, province president of Delta Zeta, members of the sorority will entertain this evening with a formal dinner at the chapter house. Alumnae and patronesses will be special guests for the occasion.

Mrs. Wieman arrived in Eugene on Tuesday. Her visit with the local chapter will end Thursday night.

Green-McAllister

Howard Green of Portland, first year student in the law school, was married on March 23, to Miss Audrey McAllister. The wedding was held in Portland at the home of the bride who was graduated from the Oregon State normal at Monmouth last spring. Mr. Green is employed in the circulation department of the library.

he was a guest of Sigma Pi Tau, of which he is a member. He is leaving this morning for The Dalles, where he will spend the rest of the summer ranching. As his plans now stand, Doctor Martin will teach in America next year and probably return to Bulgaria in the fall of 1931.

Named Secretary

Rex Tussing, junior in journalism, was elected secretary of Sigma Delta Chi, to take the place of Clarence Crow, who left school at the end of last term.

A meeting will be held a week from Thursday, at which Dean Collins, well known writer for the Portland Telegram, has been asked to speak.

Preliminary details concerning the publication of the Green Goose, scandal sheet published at the end of spring term each year by Sigma Delta Chi, were discussed yesterday. It was decided that the paper should be of tabloid size of at least 12 pages.

A study of the relations between the United States and the Latin-American nations, has led a group of Princeton university students to recommend that the Monroe Doctrine be amended, to make it clearer to both Americans and South Americans, what is exactly meant by the terms of the document.

French Play Sparkles Wit Too Subtle For Audience

By CAROL HURLBURT
"Unhappiness comes to him who sins," says the Abbe in the French play given last night in Guild theatre, and Leopold answers, "There was only one sin and that was Eve's."

This was one of the lines of subtlety from "Leopold, le Bien Aime." The play was well done, the main objection being that the humor, as spoken in French, was too far above the heads of most of the audience to be very amusing.

It was a sophisticated comedy with little action, the plot revolving around the conversation. It is one of the most important plays to appear in Paris since the war. Louis Meyers, as Leopold, is almost 50 with his arteries hardening, but he is still optimistic about cupid, and has a naughty raise to his eyebrows that is worth half the admission price.

Mrs. Paulette Beall, as Marie-Therese, was worth the other half of the price. She has a fascinating pair of slim feet and ankles, and a voice that is seductively alluring. Being French, one begins to wonder about these French women that ex-officers talk about.

L'Abbe, Charles Howell, was typical enough and a puritan in the part, but after taking a cocktail, his head was so light that he prayed le bon Dieu to send him some lead to weight it down.

Arthur Gray as Monsieur Ponce left his matinee roles behind, had humped shoulders, sunken cheeks, and a dry humor. Cornelia Pipes, as a prim, old maid, was horrified beyond words, when Leopold kissed the back of her neck. Dick Givens, contrary to all every-day actions, was misty eyed in love. Janet Fitch, as Lucienne, had a very nice accent and a good understanding of her part. Patricia Howell, as Felicie, made a true French bonne, clumsy-footed, wooden-faced, and humped-shouldered.

Commerce Honorary Has Formal Initiation

Formal initiation into Phi Chi Theta, national commerce honorary for women, was held this week for ten, recently elected pledges. Installation ceremonies were held at the Sigma Kappa house Sunday morning, and were followed by a breakfast at the Anchorage.

The new members are Gladys Benner, Gladys Collins, Josephine Jacobson, Juanita Kilborn, Alice Redetzke, Aerna Kyle, Frances Rupert, Vera Smolinsky, Margaret Wahlstrom, and Clarisse Witham.

Phi Beta Kappa at Ohio State university voted recently to extend membership to members of the Colleges of Commerce, Administration and Education instead of restricting it to the College of Arts and Sciences.

Two Women Selected For Business Staff

Virginia Peyton, sophomore in English, has been appointed by George Weber, associate business manager of the Emerald, as his secretary. Miss Peyton is from Klamath Falls, where she gained her experience in a law firm.

Genevieve Hinkle, freshman in English, is a new office girl on the staff of William H. Hammond, business manager, and Margaret Long has been appointed copy reader.

WOMEN ARCHERS USE VALUABLE YEW BOWS

(Continued from Page One) and California, but Oregon is lagging behind," said Miss Thomson. "Tournaments are being held, and archery clubs, or sections of clubs are being organized all over the country. Oregon has no archery club at all. Campus classes are full, and it is hoped that many will come out for intramural archery, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 6 o'clock."
