

Young Socialist Executive To Arrive Tomorrow Noon

Clarence Senior, 27-year-old Party Head To Discuss Labor Problems

A YOUNG man who worked his way through high school and college as a mechanic, night watchman, truck driver, shipping clerk, and laborer in a soap factory, and who found time on the side to organize the Midwest student conference, representing 25 colleges, help edit a militant college newspaper, achieve high scholastic honors, and campaign for La Follette in 1924, will step off the train tomorrow at noon to pay a brief visit to the Oregon campus.

He is Clarence Senior, 27 years old and already executive head of the Socialist party of America, who will address several University classes Monday.

Senior, who has held the positions of field secretary of the Adult Education association and organizer of the 1929 Negro Labor conference, will attend a luncheon in his honor Monday at the Westminster house, after which he will speak on "Vienna Socialism." Admission to the luncheon will be 25 cents a person.

After a dinner to be held at 6 o'clock in the new men's dormitory, Senior will give an informal talk on "Social Conditions and Labor Conditions." Tickets for the dinner may be obtained from Arthur Markewitz, at the International house, for 50 cents a plate. Those who are unable to attend the dinner but who are interested in the lecture will be permitted to enter after the dinner free of charge.

Y. W. C. A. Sponsors

Senior's appearance here is being sponsored by the Industrial Research group of the Y. W. C. A., under the direction of Ann Baum. He will be entertained Sunday afternoon at the International house. In the evening he will be the guest of Dr. John H. Mueller, professor of sociology.

A schedule of Senior's talks, which will be open to any who care to attend, follows:

8 a. m., Villard assembly—"Labor's International Relations."
10 a. m., 105 Deady—"The European Youth Movement."
4 p. m., Y. W. C. A. hut—"Negro Labor in the Union."

pinch hitting in the seventh, got a good hit. For the Bearcats, Moore smashed out a double and a single while George Scales knocked the ball over the fence in the fifth and although it bounced back into the park again, he got credit for a homer. Fast work on the part of the Webfoot infield in tagging out Bearcat runners held Willamette to a low score.

POLITICAL PARTIES ALL SET FOR BATTLE

Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Kappa Sigma.

Those who remember the campaign of a year ago will recall the importance attached to the vote of the unaffiliated students, who comprise about 50 per cent of the student body. Upon the strength of having two independent candidates upon its ticket, one group called itself the "Independent Party" and called upon the unaffiliated students to combine and cast the fraternities from power.

Editor May Have New Post On Exec Council

Moving Finger

Emerald Head Replaces Soph Member in Plan

In again, out again. The old verse fits the plans for the executive council, with the editor of the Emerald given a place on that body in line with new suggestions from the executive committee on constitutional revision, the newly-proposed sophomore man or woman out again, and the faculty member still out.

The Finger is glad to be able to second the move. Replacing a sophomore of ability rather doubtfully proved in three beginning terms at school would become a man whose three-year experience would be augmented by a desire for co-operation between two previously semi-antagonistic departments of student government.

Whether it is openly admitted or not, the executive branch and the publications division of the student government have been in the past somewhat jealous of increase in the power of the other. That jealousy came mainly through incomplete comprehension of the problems and aims of each.

An attempt was made to bring the two in closer understanding with the standing invitation to the editor to attend all council meetings. That has helped, but still, friction has arisen.

To the presumed greater ability of the editor over the sophomore would be added the need for closer co-operation. The second is the greater argument.

Schmidt Will Address 11 State High Schools

Emerson P. Schmidt, professor of economics, will leave Eugene this morning for a week's tour of eastern Oregon cities, in the course of which he will address the graduating classes of 11 high schools on the courses and opportunities offered at the University.

Fire Carries 'O' Men's Hay To High Heavens

IT WAS a beautiful moonlight night. Baled hay was occupying a prominent place on the University campus. Suddenly a bright light appeared, reflections playing on the windows of Condon and Johnson hall. Soon the hay was singed and charred.

This is the history of a little advertising scheme played by Oregon athletes, commonly known as members of the Order of the O. Baled hay was advertising the Barn Bust tonight at the Igloo. Whether the "flaming" scheme was originated by a contingent is a mystery, but the heroism for quenching may be laid to Frank Ison and Tom Johns.

election may have had something to do with the fact that not a single independent candidate has as yet been placed on either ticket. Both parties are endeavoring to "line up" the vote of the men's and women's halls through their outstanding residents, but it is well-known that the political discipline prevalent in fraternities is not very strong in the halls, and it appears that the hall vote will be sadly split.

Bryan Has Surprise

Cal Bryan, the third candidate for president of the student body, has not as yet announced a ticket. He is said to have remarked in conversations yesterday that "he has something new and extraordinary to offer the student body, which will be announced soon."

Meanwhile the houses which are not primarily interested in the campaign are watching closely to see which party's chances look the brighter before casting their lot with one or the other. The next week will bring a host of affiliations and promises of support, some of which will be kept.

Only 20 days till election. Do your candidate shopping early!

Large Crowd Sees Staging Of Dance Fete

Stipe Reads Poem 'Congo' While Gladys Clausen Interprets

Marjorie Forchheimer Head Of Recital This Year

By BETH SALWAY

The poem "Congo" which Jack Stipe read, and Gladys Clausen danced to, without any music, was one of the most impressive parts of the dance recital program last evening, which was held in Gerlinger hall. It was decidedly primitive and Jack Stipe's rendition of the poem was real and vital.

The dance recital is an annual event given by the Master Dance group, the intermediate and advanced classes in interpretive dancing, and this year was under the direction of Marjorie B. Forchheimer, instructor in dancing. Admission was free this year, and a record crowd attended the performance.

Humor Lends Variety

There were several humorous dances on the program to lend it spice and variety. The gnomes dance, by Naomi Moshberger, and Marjorie Goff, was very clever, emphasizing angular poses. Betty Beam and Juanita Kilborn enacted an enchanting love scene. The Russian peasant's dance was very jolly, and complete from baggy pants to black-patent leather boots.

The fire ritual contained almost the whole cast, and was remarkably worked out, and the costuming and lighting added much to the effectiveness, particularly the fire on the altar which was worked out by means of lighting effects.

Dundore Twins Attract

The companionship dance executed by Ruth and Dorothy Dundore, the "Dundore twins," was an attractive dance with a touch of pathos in it. It was especially effective because the two are twins. "La Soiree Dans Grenade," by Lucille Worth and Betty Thacher, in costume, was cleverly done. Elinor Fitch's dance, "Contentedness," was very soft and pretty and demonstrated Miss Fitch's remarkable control of her hands. The "Dance Moderne" by Eleanor Cleaver and Lucille Hill was quite modernistic in its treatment, and very well staged. Miss Cleaver had quite a bit of work under Miss Martha Hill, the instructor last year.

The volcano, done by the senior class, was effectively modernistic and was without music, using only the primitive beats of the tom-tom. Peggy Tournay's waltz was a symphony of rhythm and grace. Another modernistic dance was the Prelude by the junior class majors; and it was primitive in its treatment, the costumes, and the big sticks used. The Tarantella by Ruth and Dorothy Dundore, and Marjorie Kelly was another dance of the more humorous nature, and effective as such.

Frosh Balls up Halls

Asks Proxy by Proxy

Absolutely new, and believed to be without precedent in fraternity initiations anywhere, is the note struck by an erring freshman in Phi Delta Theta yesterday, in inviting Vinton H. Hall, managing editor of the Emerald, to officiate at one of those things this coming Sunday.

The fact that Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall is, at the moment, away from the campus on a tour, and also the fact that he cannot ordinarily be reached at 655, the phone number of the Oregon Daily Emerald, apparently are unknown to the erring Phi Delta.

Asked "Is this Mr. Hall?" Vinton H. Hall of the Emerald said "Yes"—whereupon over the wire came a flow of words naturally somewhat startling to a junior in journalism and a member of Phi Sigma Kappa.

The freshman at the other end—name withheld for obvious reasons—probably was considerably startled in his turn to hear, instead of dignified acceptance, a reply of muffled laughter and "I'll let you know later."

Society

By DOROTHY THOMAS

An informal all-campus dance was given last night at the Old Mill under the auspices of the Associated Women Students. The affair was held to aid in financing the cabin retreat recently built by the association on the Willamette river.

Patrons and patronesses for the dance included: Mr. and Mrs. M. F. McClain, Dean and Mrs. J. F. Boyard, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fowler, and Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Schwerling.

Reba Brogdon made arrangements for the dance.

Drama Department to Be Party

Honoring Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt, head of the drama department, members of the department will entertain tonight with a dancing party in Gerlinger hall. It will be a no-date affair. Celene Lauterstein is in charge of arrangements.

Members of Phi Chi Theta, women's commerce honorary, will be entertained Sunday evening at

Sigma Nu Has Formal Upperclass Dance

Sigma Nu held its upperclass formal last night at the chapter house. Those who acted as patrons and patronesses were: Captain and Mrs. George F. Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hayslip, Mr. and Mrs. David Bauman, James Kerron was in charge of the dance.

Librarian Suggests Reading for Contest

A list of 100 books has been prepared by Mrs. Mabel E. McClain, librarian, as suggestions to those planning to enter the freshman reading contest. This list was planned to supplement the list published in the Library Handbook. This reading contest is open to all freshmen and prizes will be awarded next fall. Copies of this list of books, which is also valuable for general reading, may be secured at the circulation desk in the main library.
