Bryan to Run For Position Minus Ticket

Hopes To See Break-up of
Political Party
System

MAY SUPPORT OTHERS

Motto Is 'Vote for the Individual and Not
For The Ticket'

By DAVE WILSON

Cal Bryan, "third party candidate" for student body president, said yesterday that he hopes to "bring a new era in political methods to the Oregon campus" by entering the race alone, without a ticket of candidates for the other offices to be filled.

"I hope," said Cal, "that this year's campaign will be the beginning of the end of the party and ticket proposition at Oregon, and of the pork barrel grafts that are always tied up with it."

Bryan Reveals Platform

"My slogan will be 'vote for the individual instead of the ticket.' I believe that the best candidates for the various offices are divided between the two tickets in the field, and I think that the students who have the interests of the student body at heart will vote for the candidates whom they believe to be best qualified for the jobs, regardless of their party or ticket affiliations."

Political observers predict that Bryan's next step will be to publicly endorse certain other candidates for the various offices, and that those recommended to the voters by him will be from both Hal Johnson's and Chuck Laird's tickets.

According to Bryan, "individual politics" will enable each candidate to present his own platform.

Selfish Rivalries Scored

"It is regrettable that platforms have played so little part in our politics heretofore," he declared. "The really important issues of the policies of the rival candidates have been hidden under a maze of personal, party and house rivalries."

"I am much in favor of the idea of having the presidential candidates present their platforms in person at the nominating assembly. This is the only way the majority of the students can judge the candidates on a basis of their abilities. Personally, I am willing at any time to present my platform to any group which requests it."

Many Books Missing From English Reserve

Many books have recently been lost from the English reserve library. Some of these have merely been misplaced by careless students but in other cases fictitious names have been signed. These are being traced and severe penalties will be imposed on those found guilty by the discipline committee as the taking of a book from the library is a serious offense.

Knave of Hearts, Toy Soldier, and Teddy Bear Will Cavort in Children's Plays at Guild Theater on Saturday

By CAROL HURLBURT

Did he steal the queen's heart, too?

That's the question we are asking about the Knave of Hearts, "who stole those tarts and with them ran away."

This nice, but naughty, question will be answered in the annual children's play, "The Knave of Hearts," by Louis Saunders, which will be presented Saturday, May 17, at Guild theatre by the class in dramatic interpretation.

At the same time, this class will also present, "The Toy Soldier," by Dorothy Holloway, a dramatization of the Hans Christian Andersen fairy tale. You remember which one it was; the one where the steadfast soldier fell in love with the crisp paper lady, but when the window was left open, the wind came in with great gusts and blew them both into the fireplace.

Have You Registered?

EDITORIAL

ARE you going to vote in the primary elections for governor in May? If so, have you registered?

It is the duty of every student, registered or not, to take an interest in the affairs of his state government. If you have not already registered, today is the final chance. The county clerk's office will close its books at 9 o'clock this morning.

The gubernatorial race this year is especially interesting to Oregon students because of the fact that the sons of two prominent Republican candidates, Charles Hall and A. W. Norblad, are students at the University and also because Ed Bailey, Democratic candidate, is a former football star here and has been active in alumni affairs. Other aspirants include H. L. Corbett, George W. Joseph, J. E. Bennett, John A. Jeffrey, George Wilbur, A. C. Hough, and E. S. Piper.

If you have not changed residence in the past two years and have been registered, you are still registered. Cards sent out recently merely announced the change in precinct. New voters and old ones who were registered in some other town have until 9 this morning to get on the voters' books.

Businesses for Social Good Economic

Clarence Senior
How Unemployment
Is Fought Against

Stated Case Where 2000
Sought 20 Posts

"Unemployment and old age insecurity are two things against which people are fighting today," Clarence Senior, executive secretary of the socialist party, said last night in a talk to the Industrial Study Group of the Y. W. C. A. at its meeting in the bungalow.

There are four kinds of unemployment, according to Mr. Senior—seasonal, which is easiest remedied; cyclical; machine unemployment; and age unemployment. In the city of Chicago alone, the speaker announced that he had seen 2,000 people apply for 20 jobs in a Sears-Roebuck store. "Unemployment will not be solved until business is run for social good, and not individual profit," he declared, "and the only things which can be done to remedy this situation are: the taking of an unemployment census; setting up employment exchanges; long range planning of public works; unemployment insurance; and the reduction of labor hours, from eight to six hours a day."

Working Age Reduced

As for that current problem of old age pensions, Mr. Senior announced that it is practically impossible for a man over fifty to compete in the highly specialized industries today, and private industrial pension have reduced the working age of men until they now must retire soon after fifty years.

Plan Adopted

The greatest solution for this problem will be a non-contributory plan of pension which provides that the state bear the burden through taxation. Ten states in the union have adopted that plan to date, and many more are considering it, Mr. Senior averred. Clarence Senior is making a tour of the west in the interests of the League of Industrial Democracy, although his headquarters are in Chicago.

Mrs. Underwood And Roy Bryson To Be in Concerts

Pianist To Play at Music
Auditorium on Next
Wednesday

Bryson To Sing Thursday
At 8:15 o'clock

Marking appearance of both Aurora Potter Underwood, pianist, and Roy Bryson, baritone, in recital, this week glows with particular music interest.

Mrs. Underwood will be heard Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock and Mr. Bryson will sing the following night at the same hour. Both recitals are to be given at the auditorium of the school of music where both are faculty members.

Mrs. Underwood Alum

Mrs. Underwood is a University of Oregon graduate, finishing here in 1921. She studied with Jane Thacher. Later she went to New York, working for a year with Ethel Newcomb and Edwin Hughes, both Leschetizky pupils. In the summer of 1925 Mrs. Underwood studied in Fontainebleau with Philippe. She became interested in modern French music, some of which she will play on her Wednesday program.

Since about 1922 Mrs. Underwood has been piano instructor here and during her years in the University she was associated with the faculty for three years. Her work has been highly praised in previous Eugene appearances.

Bryson Wins Praise

Mrs. Bryson's former recital appearances have won for him the plaudits of a number of critics. "He beyond doubt possesses the best male voice on the campus. His voice has a carrying quality, power, and smoothness of expression... wideness of range, which is remarkable," said one Emerald reviewer.

"He has a splendid tenor voice, under perfect control, singing with a sweetness and joyousness that is a delight to every hearer," said the Oregonian, commenting on one of his appearances in Portland.

Mr. Bryson is assistant director of the polyphonic choir, and head of vespers for the University in addition to his position as voice instructor.

Civil War Styles Are Shown at Libe

Godey's Lady's Book Is
On Display

What the well-dressed women wore during the Civil War period may be seen from the exhibit in the main library. Since the thoughts of the co-ed are turning to the new spring styles, it will be noticed that puff sleeves, long skirts, and ruffles were the correct thing in the '50's and '60's as well as in the spring of 1930.

Colored illustrations from "Godey's Lady Book" and "Peterson's" are in the display under the title, "Les Modes Parisiennes." These two magazines might be called the ancestors of the Ladies Home Journal.

This is the first of a series of exhibits which will be placed in the showcase during spring term, the exhibit being changed every two weeks.

Oregana Now Prepared For Distribution

250 Copies Are Delivered;
Will Be Given Out
May 1

EAST INDIAN MOTIF

Book Is Praised by Those
Who Have Seen It;
No Ads

With 250 copies of the 1930 Oregana delivered today to the University of Oregon, and with distribution day for the campus advanced by Lester McDonald, editor, to May 1, the staff of the 1930 year-book can well feel that its task for the year is finished when it meets Thursday to make nominations for editor for next

L. McDonald year.

According to changes made in the system of selecting the Oregana editor last year, the staff of the annual suggests the names of possible candidates, and these are voted upon in turn by the publications committee and executive council.

Extra Copies Ordered

Thirty extra copies of this year's book have been printed, John Nelson, business manager, reported; and it is hoped that those not having ordered an Oregana will take advantage of this chance to obtain one. Subscriptions will be received at the graduate manager's office in the back end of Friendly hall.

This year's annual is considered by those who have seen it to be one of the finest that has been published by the associated students. Carrying out an East Indian theme, it carries colorful borders and inserts.

Turnbull Praises Book

"For the amount of money possible to devote to the book," George S. Turnbull, faculty adviser, said, "this year's staff did unusually effective work. In the matter of accuracy, the minimum number of mistakes is apparent. This annual is probably more accurate than any book that has been published within recent years."

"I believe," he continued, "that the student who purchases a 1930 Oregana will surely get his money's worth. The art work is far above the average, and it was a real achievement to publish the book without having to solicit advertising and this scheme should be continued."

Alpha Delta Sigma Takes Three Men

Rogers, Shenk, Fraundorf
Pledged to Honorary

The W. F. G. Thacher chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, at the University, has announced the pledging of Raymond Rogers, sophomore in business administration; Harry Shenk, sophomore in journalism, and formerly connected with the Oregon Journal of Portland, and Harold Fraundorf, junior in journalism.

According to George Weber, president of the organization, these men were elected because of their interest in advertising and their recognized outstanding abilities in advertising work on the campus.

REBEC HONORED

George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, was recently elected to the status of fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Pledging Problem Proves Puzzling On Many Campi; Deferred System Tried in Wide Variety of Forms

(Editor's note: This is the first of a series of articles setting forth the advantages and disadvantages of deferred pledging as found from its application at other universities.)

By RALPH DAVID

Deferred pledging as it has been tried at various universities and colleges has hardly taken the same form at any two. The different plans in use are too numerous for a definite classification. But the three plans that stand out as the most practicable are: (1) Pledging deferred until spring of freshman year; (2) pledging deferred until fall of sophomore year; or (3) pledging deferred until second quarter of freshman year.

The three forms in use, however, have the same general advantages. The fraternity has a chance to size up a man before pledging him, and at the same time the freshman has the chance to orient himself and size up the fraternity before making a definite choice.

Use First Method

The first plan of deferred pledging has been in use at Stanford for some time. Freshmen cannot be rushed until a specified period before the actual pledging may take place. This open period is regulated by numerous rushing rules.

Several other schools have variations of this same plan. Pledging (Continued on Page Three)

Emerald, Oregana Editors Selected Soon by Group

Publications Committee To Choose Heads; Staffs
To Nominate

Nomination Meeting Dates
Not Announced

While rumblings of big political movements on the campus at large for student body officers have been heard for the past several weeks, little noise has come from the publications side of student activities—namely the Emerald and the Oregana. The main reason for this silence, probably, is that the editor and manager posts of both are filled by appointment by the publications committee with the sanction of the executive council.

Meetings Slated

Sometime this week, as is laid down in the A. S. U. O. constitution, staff meetings will be called by the editors of the yearbook and newspaper and not more than four students nominated to fill the posts next year.

These nominees' names are turned over to the publications committee for consideration.

The Emerald editorial staff nomination meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the editing room, it was announced yesterday by Art Schoeni, editor.

To Make Speeches

Following the procedure inaugurated last year under Arden X. Pangborn, short speeches will be made by persons putting forth the names of candidates for the editorial post.

The dates for the meetings of the business staff of the Emerald and the editorial and business staffs of the Oregana will be announced later.

Beeson Is Appointed To Minnesota School

Lewis Beeson, graduate assistant in the history department, has just received notice of his appointment to a similar position at the University of Minnesota to start next fall. Beeson, a specialist in international relations, was granted his B. A. degree in 1928, and will receive his master's degree this June.

New Books Received By Homer Collection

Two new books for the Homer collection have been received at the library and are now at the disposal of the students in the browsing library. "A Gallery of Children," by A. A. Milne and "Education and the State," by Prince L. Campbell, former president of the University, are the two books. The latter was the gift of the University Press.

New Constitution To Be Voted on at Regular Election

Date of Voting Changed
Because of Clause
Of Present Law

Document To Be Examined
By Barker Today

The proposed new student body constitution, instead of coming up for the vote of the student body next Thursday, April 17, will be voted upon in conjunction with the regular student body election of officers to be held on May 1.

According to Tom Stoddard, student body president, the change of date has been made in order to comply with a clause of the present constitution which provides that amendments to the constitution may be voted upon only at regular student body elections.

Committee Meets

To Stoddard, Dick Horn, and Ron Hubbs, who form the executive council of the constitutional revision committee, met in an all-night session last night to complete the documentation of the new constitution, which will be turned over today to Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, for criticism as the by-laws of a legal corporation. Mr. Barker, before becoming connected with the University was one of the foremost corporation lawyers in the country.

Point Comes Up

An interesting point has come up in connection with the election of the new student member of the executive council, provision for whom will be made in the new constitution. Since the legality of said office is dependent upon the acceptance of the constitution at the election, candidates for it will be nominated subject to the passage of the constitution and their names on the ballot will be accompanied by an explanatory note stating that the office will be created if the constitution is passed.

Phi Epsilon Kappa Pledges Eight Men

Initiation of New Members
Within Two Weeks

Announcement was made yesterday of the pledging of eight men to Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education honorary, by Pat Beal, vice-president of the organization. Initiation will be held within the next two weeks.

The men just selected are: Jean Eberhart, Roy Hughes, Clifford Horner, Marshall Shields, Harold Hatton, Frank Smith, Robert Knox, and Jerome Lillie.

Clark To Write Article For Civics Textbook

Robert C. Clark, professor of history, has been appointed by the Benjamin H. Sandborn company, schoolbook publishers, to write a 20,000-word article on the government and laws of Oregon, to be used as a supplement for a civics text to be published this summer. The book, Manley's "The Pursuit of Happiness," will be submitted before the Oregon textbook commission next fall, Doctor Clark reported.

To Instruct Here

In addition to more than seventy regular staff members, the University summer session will have 30 leading educators from all parts of the country. The sessions will be held from June 23 to August 1, here and in Portland. Among the prominent staff members will be Miss Bernice Hooper, instructor in physical education, University of California at Los Angeles.

Graduate Student Will Give Organ Recital Tonight

Grace Burnett To Assist
Allan Scovell During
Music Program

One of the most interesting organ recitals of the year will take place tonight at 8 o'clock when Allan Scovell, graduate student, Klamath Falls, will appear at the music auditorium. He will be assisted by Grace Burnett, soprano. The program to be given follows:

Four Women Pledged By Gamma Alpha Chi

Four women were pledged to Gamma Alpha Chi, national women's advertising honorary, last week. They are Ruth Newman, sophomore in journalism; Alberta Reeves, junior in art; Josephine Stoffel, junior in journalism; Barbara Mann, sophomore in art.

Gamma Alpha Chi will be hostesses to the alumni of the honorary and other women advertisers at the state advertising convention to be held in Eugene on May 3.

Dubs and Slickers of Both Sexes Flock to Enter Emerald Golf Meet; Lists to be Kept Open Two Days

So popular has the Emerald spring handicap golf tourney proved that enough entries have been turned in by men to necessitate the opening of a third flight. Forty men have signed up to compete in the play. Women of the golfing clan have been slow in entering the lists for the championship silver cup, only six having enrolled thus far. An additional prize for the third flight of men is being lined up by Manager Faulkner Short.

On account of the fact that the blanks were left out of the paper recently, the lists will be kept open for a day or two more for both men and women.

Due to misunderstanding with officials of the country club the announcement in Saturday's paper as to week-end playing times was in error. Week days or Saturday mornings may be used for tournament play, but on account of crowded conditions students may not use the course after noon on Saturday or all day Sunday.

Emerald Hour Broadcasting Is Continued

Clubs and Honoraries To Take Part in Wednesday
Radio Hour

POTWIN WILL DIRECT

Slug Palmer Will Handle
Humor; Gale Chosen
News Director

Closely allied to the Emerald-KORE contest only minus the tinge of competition, is the "Oregon Daily Emerald of the Air," a radio hour broadcast over station KORE under the auspices of the Oregon Daily Emerald in which campus clubs and honoraries will participate. The hour will be inaugurated Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, with a program by an organization to be announced tomorrow by Art Potwin who has been named general director of the programs.

As his assistant, Slug Palmer has been named to handle the humor end of every program. Thornton Gale will act as news director, writing reports of the programs as well as preparing material from the Emerald to be broadcast.

Plans Announced

According to plans announced by Potwin, a comic couple will provide 15 minutes of fun over each program staged Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday at 8 p. m. This feature will be arranged in continuity with material relevant to Eugene and University activities.

Each radio hour will be divided into divisions of entertainment. The major feature of each program being put on by a club, honorary, or athletic organization will occupy 25 minutes of the hour. Ten minutes will be used for news broadcasts and announcements. Potwin states that announcements will gladly be made regarding student function of campus-wide interest. The remaining 15 minutes will be occupied by the humorous continuity.

Hill Confident

Confidence in the value of the programs has been expressed by Frank Hill, proprietor of radio station KORE through whose assistance the Emerald-KORE contest was successful. Potwin declares that there will not be a dull moment in the programs, each being carefully planned so that they may be run off quickly and smoothly.

Seven Cadet Officers Receive Promotions

Promotion of seven cadet officers was announced yesterday by Major F. A. Barker, head of the military department.

Karl S. Landstrom, promoted from captain to colonel; Eugene E. Laird, promoted from captain to lieutenant-colonel; Frank S. Ison, Harold L. Kelley, and Harvey Wright, promoted from captain to major; Benito E. Artau, promoted from first lieutenant to captain; Cadet Carl W. Nelson, promoted to first lieutenant.
