

HOW THE EMERALD ANSWERS THE QUESTIONS

PRESIDENT.

1. The president presides at all meetings of the associated students and performs all duties delegated to him by the constitution. He should represent the student body in all affairs pertaining to students.

2. The student relations committee recommends to executive council a man for yell-king, supervises and promotes worthwhile traditions, decides upon class identity of transfer students, sanctions new campus organizations.

3. It shall require all officers of the associated students to comply with the provisions of the constitution and by-laws. It has full control over all A. S. U. O. activities and funds. It appoints editors and managers of A. S. U. O. publications and also the yell-king.

4. The judiciary committee shall hear and decide upon any questions as to the correct judicial construction and interpretation of the constitution and by-laws. Any member or administrative body of the associated students can appear before them with questions.

5. Student government should be run for the best interests of the associated student body and appointments made on the basis of individual merit and not party affiliation.

6. Since the A. S. U. O. has already embarked on an active program of expansion for athletics, particularly football, the student body president should do his part in continuing this program.

7. If the building to be erected bears directly on student affairs and will be utilized by the student body primarily for student functions, then the students could be expected to contribute their share toward its construction.

8. As a student newspaper, the Emerald acts to direct and forward all creditable student body policies and affairs. That it should be expected to support every move, good or bad, proposed by a student official or committee is an infringement on the rights of freedom of speech and the press and would tend to destroy the reputation and weaken the integrity and policies adopted by the publication.

VICE-PRESIDENT.

1. He shall assume the duties of the president in his absence or inability to act. He shall have charge of A. S. U. O. elections.

2. See president question 3.

3. The graduate manager is in the employ of the student body and in that capacity oversees and carries out all student business. He schedules all games, concert trips, purchases supplies, and carries on all other business interests of the association.

4. Students should be allowed to formulate and carry out their own activity programs. The faculty should serve in an advisory capacity in regards to student affairs because of their longer experience with students and their affairs.

5. He takes charge of all student body elections.

SECRETARY.

1. The secretary shall keep a record of all proceedings of the A. S. U. O. and other duties set in the constitution.

2. Executive council, finance committee, and a non-voting member of the student relations committee.

3. See president question 3.

4. The secretary is elected by the student body and therefore should represent the student body as a whole on all committees. However, through her connections, she should be privileged to voice the unofficial opinion of women students.

EXECUTIVE MAN AND WOMAN, JUNIOR FINANCE OFFICER.

1. Executive man and woman serve on the executive council and may be appointed to subsidiary committees. Junior finance officer is on this body and also the finance committee.

2. See president question 3.

3. See vice-president question 4.

4. (For junior finance officer only.) A. S. U. O. officials, such as the editors and managers of publications, have salaries recommended by the finance committee and passed by the executive council.

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATES

Editorial

TODAY the Emerald is presenting a new feature in the way of covering student politics on this campus. Systems of questioning the candidates regarding their knowledge of essential facts and policies have been tried at other universities and have met with success in that they serve to give student voters a chance to size up the persons for whom they are voting.

The Emerald believes that the student body has a right to know something more about the men and women who will soon be directing its business than just what they hear in political meetings and through chance acquaintances.

Questions being asked political aspirants in today's paper are based upon knowledge which every one of them should know. A person who is working for an office, the duties of which he or she is totally ignorant, will be at a disadvantage to carry out such duties if elected.

If he expects to look up these duties after he is elected, but has not bothered to yet, he shows a lack of interest in the position and would better concede the position to some better-informed opponent.

The Emerald does not expect to split parties wide open by this series of political interviews, but only hopes to call the attention of the campus to politics and to give them a chance to size up their candidates. Individual merit rather than party affiliation should be the guiding principle in any election and the Emerald is making the plea that the A. S. U. O. go to the polls on Wednesday with their minds made up to vote for the best man in the field for the position.

VOTE FOR THE MEN AND WOMEN WHOM YOU BELIEVE CAN BEST CARRY OUT THE AFFAIRS OF THE STUDENT BODY!

Thinking back over past elections on this and other campuses of the nation, one recalls scandals of one sort or another, some exposed, some existent but uncovered. Oregon State college experienced one of these misdirected elections last spring.

The biggest evil which Oregon is laying itself open to is the system it employs of casting ballots. Poll clerks have a list of names and hand out a ballot whenever some student gives a name. Illegal practices creep in when political parties send men around to vote for persons they know will not appear later and ask for their ballots. Under the present Oregon system this can very easily be employed on this campus (if it has not already).

Election officials should devise some method of preventing students from voting twice or three times and protect themselves from an unfortunate situation such as Oregon State met last spring.

The Emerald suggests a possible check might be to require student body tickets before a ballot will be given the voter. It might be an easy matter to gather up spare tickets, but such a system would check somewhat any flagrant violations of the laws governing elections. Checking signatures of voters against those on the student body cards might be employed.

QUESTIONS THE EMERALD ASKS----

Answer These to Test Your Knowledge of Campus Current Events.

PRESIDENT.

1. What, in your estimation, are the most important duties of the A. S. U. O. president?
2. What are the duties of the student relations committee?
3. What are the most important duties of the executive council?
4. What is the function of the judiciary committee? Who is privileged to appear before it?
5. Do you believe in political parties? Should they rule in student government?
6. Do you favor an active program of athletics on the Oregon campus?
7. Do you think the students should be called upon to help finance the construction of campus buildings?
8. Should the Emerald as a student newspaper support every move or proposed move made by the student body?

VICE-PRESIDENT.

1. What are the duties of the vice-president?
2. What are the most important duties of the executive council?
3. What is the function of the graduate manager's office?

4. What part do you think the faculty should play in student government?
5. What part does the vice-president play in student body elections?

SECRETARY.

1. What are the duties of secretary of the A. S. U. O.?
2. Of what bodies and standing committees is the secretary a member?
3. What are the most important duties of the executive council?
4. Do you think the secretary should be an official representative of women students in student government?

EXECUTIVE MAN AND WOMAN, JUNIOR FINANCE OFFICER.

1. On what bodies or committees does the person serve who holds the office to which you aspire?
2. What is the function of the executive council?
3. Who should determine policies of the A. S. U. O., students or faculty?
4. (For finance officer only.) Through what channels do the salaries of the A. S. U. O. officials pass?

Cherry Tells Prexy's Duties CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

1. The most important duties of the A. S. U. O. president are to be the chairman of the executive council, to be chairman of the publications committee and the student relations committee. He appoints various important executives such as chairman for Homecoming, Dad's day, Mother's day. His appointments are subject to the approval of the executive council.

2. The student relations committee recommends a yell-king to the executive council; determines the class standing and eligibility for activities of out-of-state students tending the University;

George Cherry considers problems of student discipline, subject to approval of faculty officials.

3. The executive council is the center of the student administration; the standing committees are subject to the executive council; they act upon the publication committee's recommendation for editors of the Emerald and the Oregana; any extracurricular activity of the student body must have the executive council's sanction of the required budget. The finance committee is directly responsible to the executive council in its control of student body funds.

4. The function of the judiciary committee is to give decisions on problems in connection with the interpreting of the constitution. Any student may appear before the committee.

5. Under the present system, political parties are necessary. However, an administration, in order to give the students its best services, must go into office unbound by political promises. A political party should aim to have the most capable material available on the ticket, and have as its object an administration which recognizes the individual merit of the student.

6. I favor an active program of athletics because it is the University's strongest advertising medium at present, but we must bear in mind that it is not the University's first function.

7. As long as the state of Oregon is in its present state of indebtedness, it will hasten the expansion of the University.

8. I believe that the Emerald should have the right to oppose moves of the student administration which the editor believes wrong, as long as he can qualify his stand with logical arguments pointing out fallacies of the moves.

Chuck Laird Speaks CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

1. If you name five duties, you can still name five or even ten more that are of equal importance. However, his most important duties are as head of the executive council and head of the publications committee. The latter is especially important because of the selection of editors and managers of the campus publications will have a large influence on people both inside and outside the University. Since he is a member of the finance committee, he will have a large voice in the financial affairs of the University.

2. The student relations committee sends recommendations to the executive council of its choice for yell leaders. It also recommends to the executive council the whole system of student athletic managers. These are the two most important duties. The student relations committee is only a minor committee in comparison with the executive council.

3. The executive council is the governing body of the associated students. All other committees or councils are subordinate to the executive council and all their actions are answerable to it as the final authority.

4. (a) The judiciary committee is composed of the dean of men, the dean of the school of law, and the executive secretary of the University. Its function is to interpret any phase of the constitution upon which there is discussion. (b) Any student may appear before it.

5. I do not believe in political parties merely as organizations to get individuals into office regardless of their ability, but I do believe in political parties as a means of getting into office people who you believe will be the most able and who will do the most for the University.

6. I believe that a satisfactory arrangement can be worked out between the administration and the students so that the result will be to the best interests of the University. However, I do believe that in matters as important as this, the president of the associated students should be guided by the expression of campus opinion.

Charles Laird

Park Makes Bid for Post CANDIDATE FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

1. To assume the office of president in his absence; to act on committees as provided for in the constitution, such as finance, publications, student relations, and executive council; and I shall have full control of the elections.

2. The executive council—First: It has the final say in such things as athletic awards, handle the funds of publications, and the right of veto over all motions made by all committees. The executive council has the final say in important student body appointments. It has a final check on all decisions of student body officials. It O. K.'s the A. S. U. O. budget. It O. K.'s all athletic trips. It has charge of all A. S. U. O. funds.

3. The graduate manager's office handles all solicitations and collections. It is under the control of the executive council. The graduate manager is a member of the executive council. He is the agent of the executive council and is hired by the A. S. U. O. The graduate manager submits all budgets for the approval of the executive council. The graduate manager's office has no final say regarding student expenditures.

4. The students and the faculty should work in cooperation; they should not be antagonistic. There should be a committee composed of representative students and faculty members to cooperate in the solution of student problems. The consensus of opinion on the campus is that the faculty should be advisory.

5. The part the vice-president plays in student body elections is to have full control of them as specified in the constitution.

Ted Park

6. I believe that the Emerald should have the right to oppose moves of the student administration which the editor believes wrong, as long as he can qualify his stand with logical arguments pointing out fallacies of the moves.

7. I believe that students should work in conjunction with the administration in financing new buildings, but I do not believe that too heavy a load should be placed upon them.

8. I believe that the Emerald and the student body should work in harmony for the best interests of the student body; however, I do not think that the Emerald should be forced to support every move or proposed move of the student administration.

9. I believe that the Emerald should have the right to oppose moves of the student administration which the editor believes wrong, as long as he can qualify his stand with logical arguments pointing out fallacies of the moves.

Kibbee States Platform CANDIDATE FOR SECRETARY

1. To keep all the records of the student body, to act as secretary for the executive council, to act on the finance and the student affairs committees, and to act in any other capacity designated to her by the president.

2. She is a member of the executive council, of the finance committee, and of the student relations committee.

3. The executive council takes care of all the business of the A. S. U. O., such as hiring coaches and other employees. The executive council has the final say over all committees. The secretary is a non-voting member of the council. The president of the University has the final veto over the executive council. The executive council may veto any act of the student body officers.

4. I think that the secretary should be an official representative of women students in student government, but I do not think that she should be the only one. She is a representative of the student body in general and of the women students in particular.

Harriett Kibbee

Gregg Makes Statement CANDIDATE FOR JUNIOR MAN

1. The junior finance officer has a seat on the executive council and on the finance committee, and is a non-voting member of the athletic committee. He is a non-voting member of the student affairs committee.

2. The function of the executive council is either to pass or to veto measures brought up by sub-committees. It hires the graduate manager and trainers. It administers the funds of the A. S. U. O., through the senior finance manager, who is practically the treasurer of the A. S. U. O.

3. The power of the faculty should be purely advisory in determining the administration of student affairs because the members of the faculty are not in direct touch with student affairs. Their advisory power is valuable because they have been here longer than the students and know what has gone on in the past.

4. The salaries of A. S. U. O. officials come from the A. S. U. O. funds. The officials present claims, which, when signed by the senior finance officer, are passed upon by the finance committee.
