Mysterious? But Now Not A Crumb Left

Exciting things were happening; mysterious phone calls, strange packages, low whisperings. The plot thickens. Then the call of "come and get it," rent the midnight air. Ah, it is out at last. A birthday party given by the night editors in honor of Frank Evans, linotype operator. Guests included: Frank Evans, Bill Gratie, printer; George Brimlow, linotype operator; Eleanor Wood, Ed Sullivan, Virginia Richmond, Neil Taylor, Beatrice Bennett, Helen Rankin, and Harry Van Dine.

Commission Plans Discussed by YW

"Frosh Commission" was the topic of discussion at the Y. W. cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the bungalow. Edna Spenker, chairman of the commission, led the meeting, and Lucille Kraus, president of the group, spoke of the activities which had been carried on throughout the past year.

New Organization To Be Carried Out Soon

A new plan is being carried on by the "Y" in which leaders of the various groups conduct one weekly meeting, in order that the whole cabinet may be informed of the work of the different departments. Daphne Hughes led the last meeting on "Industrial Interests," since she had recently attended the national convention on that subject.

Widow Ching, did convincing and effective character work

Chuck Jones, as the Spider, sustained a feeling of grotesque horror. It is impossible to go through the whole list of some 31-odd characters, but all of them were individual. Special mention should go to Vinton Hall, George Anderson, Eugene Laird, and Frank Jackson.

Property Men Listed

The attendants and property men were: Edwin Cruikshank, Ethan Newman, Harvey Weich, and Neil Shealey. The scenery and properties for the play, by color and line, were gorgeous and Oriental. Each detail was worked out with great nicety. Fred O. Harris was the art director.

Half of the atmosphere of the production was based on the music which was planned by Rose Simons.
