

Williamson Author of Book Ranking High With Scholars

Name of University Will Penetrate Remote Corners of Europe; 'The Donne Tradition,' Title of Work

OUT of Villard hall, on the University of Oregon campus, comes a book of such genuine value and significance that it ranks as one of the most important books that has ever been written in that haunted building. This book is "The Donne Tradition" written by George Williamson, assistant professor in the English department, and came off the Harvard Press this spring.

"While the book was not calculated to sweep the nation," Pat Morrisette, instructor in English and author, said, commenting on it, "even in our own country it should have an immediate success in those rare places where poetry and scholarship are human and real. The book carries the name of the University in remote corners of England, France and Italy, where men like Read, Legouis (the younger), and Praz are engaged in re-evaluating Donne in the light of a changing age and of a growing interest in metaphysical poetry.

"The difficulty of interpreting Donne is well known, and this difficulty is complicated by the fact that Donne had a great and curious mind. Williamson has thought out these difficulties with such strength and simplicity that the inarticulateness and obscurity of Donne's packed style become lucid, clear.

"Williamson's work is individual and carries the stamp of his own mind. To him does not belong the art of borrowing opinions to thread upon a thin scaffolding of meager thought. He rebukes conclusions of men like Courthope with more accuracy than offense; he corrects a long-standing error of Dr. Johnson, and he does all this in the interest of good taste, and with such a sure accuracy, and with such trenchant simplicity that there is hardly a page of the book that does not bear the hard, clear mark of scholarly precision, blended and softened by a genuine style."

Williamson's book begins with a description of Donne and the morbid aura of death which he calls "Donne's Shroud." He gives the nature of the tradition, its background, development, decline, and extinction in the reaction which followed Dryden. The trinity of Donne's genius (his mysticism, his logic, and his passionate intensity) is traced through the century; and as for the genius of Donne, he presents it completely—from the rose to the worm in the rose with its sharp temper and morbid flavor.

PREXY HITS ANNUALS

Annuals as memoirs of college years are fast becoming obsolete in the opinion of Girtor Viereck, president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington. Viereck, speaking before the assembled executives of the Pacific Coast Student Presidents' association, held last week on the northern campus, voiced the opinion that students year books no longer create interest and cannot pay for themselves.

Tom Stoddard, Oregon prexy, is reported by the University of Washington Daily to have outlined the policy of yearbook subscriptions used at Oregon for the help of other publications. Stoddard, however, spoke against the P. I. P. news bureau, saying that it was a waste of energy to attempt to exchange news dispatches between schools, since the exchange student papers themselves served the purpose.

CO-ED SMOKING ARGUED

Up at the University of Washington they seem to be having quite a time deciding whether or no the fair sex may be officially deemed cigarette smokers. The ban on smoking among the co-eds which came up for consideration recently seems, in all probability, on the verge of death. The administration is to be the official arbitrator, but printed statements of the Dean of Women indicate that no attempt will be made to dictate to the students.

Freshman Numerals To Be Awarded Soon

Numerals for freshmen athletes will be received and distributed not later than Tuesday of examination week, Larry Bay, freshman class president, announced yesterday.

The delay in making the awards, Bay explained, was occasioned by the fact that the first shipment of numerals received was unsatisfactory in quality, and has been sent back to the manufacturers to be replaced. They are being made in San Francisco, and will be rushed to the campus as soon as they are ready.

Men students at the University of Indiana voted against compulsory military training 468 to 419 last week. The vote was the largest ever polled at an Indiana election, and means that hereafter, men at Indiana will elect to take "war" or not to take it as they wish.

International Club Plans for Big Expansion

Associate Members Are Authorized in New Arrangement

Group Will Acquire New House, Manager Says

A program for expansion to include not only most of the foreign students on the campus, but also American students interested in international affairs, to be carried out during the summer by active members of the present group, was outlined last night by Arthur Markewitz, house manager of the International club.

A corporation of backers for the club was recently organized under the direction of the University administration.

Working under the supervision of Dr. Victor P. Morris, president of the new corporation, Karl W. Onthank, secretary, L. H. Johnson, treasurer, and Burt Brown Barker, legal adviser, the group, which in its present form is exclusively a living organization, plans to admit associate members, thus broadening its field of contacts to that of a campus club.

The plan of expansion, Markewitz said, will be that now in use at Columbia University and the University of California, where the clubs are sponsored and financed by John D. Rockefeller Jr. Interested students are requested to send in their applications to the house, 968 Alder street, for admission. These will be passed upon by a board of advisers consisting of Verne G. Blue, Dr. John R. Mez, Harold S. Tuttle, and Warren D. Smith.

"With the addition to its membership," Markewitz announced, "the club expects to move to new headquarters on the campus, with full accommodations for carrying out the enlarged program. The move will be made at the opening of fall term, 1930.

"The purpose of the house," he said, "will be, as at present, mainly to widen international relations, introducing the varied nationalities and races to each other's cultures, customs, and ethical codes."

The program of the group for the past year has included helping the production of the International Pageant, open houses held in order to acquaint the foreign students with the people of Eugene, and entertainment of such celebrities as Charles G. Hurrey, national Y. M. C. A. secretary; numerous foreign consuls; D. B. M. C. Parikh, East Indian lecturer and personal friend of Mahatma Gandhi; and Dr. Kim, director of Westlake hospital, Hang Chow, China.

Restaurant owners on the University of Nebraska campus claim that unless the boy friend is along, the co-eds don't run up much of a bill. When they have escorts, say the food shop proprietors, the women eat twice as much.

Couple Plan Tour Across Continent

Herschel Landru To Work At George Washington

A six weeks' camping tour across the continent with his wife in August and September, in a Ford roadster purchased specially for the occasion, is the plan of Herschel Landru, graduate student in the department of history.

In this conveyance he and his wife, Mrs. Hortense Landru, a sophomore in the school of journalism, hope to reach Washington, D. C., early next fall. Landru was recently appointed Sanders fellow in history at George Washington university for 1930-31. While there he will work for his Ph.D. degree. Mr. and Mrs. Landru will take a tent with them on their journey, and camp out along the way. At night by the roadside, when the tent is pitched, Vagabond, a big German police dog, will be trusted to ward off his namesakes and other undersirables from the premises. Landru took his M.A. degree at the University of Oregon in 1928. The following year he taught at Alaska college, in Fairbanks, Alaska. Mrs. Landru, then Miss Hortense Parker, was a freshman in Alaska college at that time.

JOHNSON SEA-HORSES

Win Sweeping Victories in Intercollegiate Regattas

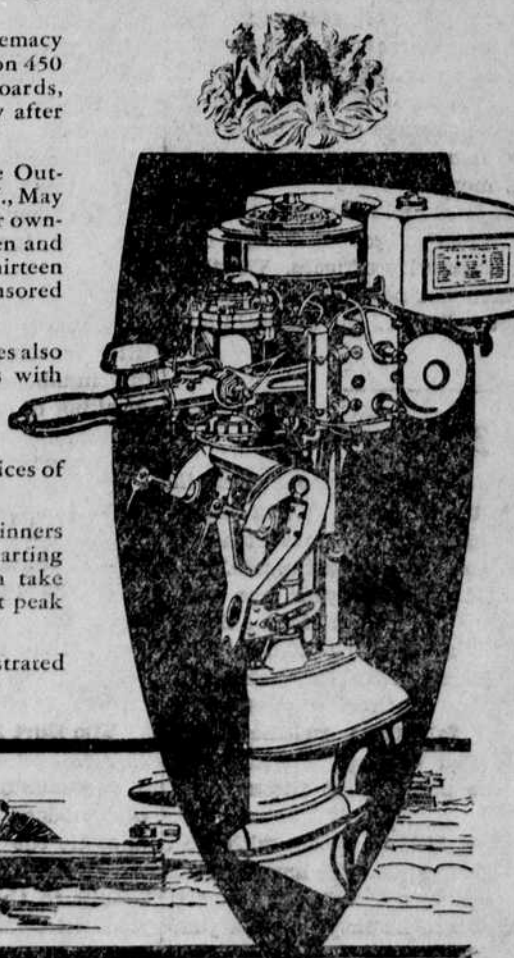

DUPLICATING their amazing supremacy of last year when Sea-Horses won 450 races, Johnson's unbeatable outboards, again this season, are piling up victory after victory and breaking all speed records.

In the first big Eastern Intercollegiate Outboard Regatta at Lake Skaneateles, N. Y., May 16, 17, Johnson Sea-Horses won for their owners first in all eight races. Second in seven and third in five. Twenty-two entrants from thirteen colleges were represented. Colgate sponsored the meet.

College men driving Johnson Sea-Horses also won all first, second and third places with but one exception in the First Annual Southern California Intercollegiate Gold Cup Outboard races sponsored by Colgate Humor Magazine, May 3, under the auspices of Occidental College, Los Angeles.

Sea-Horses are not only consistent winners but they bring innovations like Electric-Starting in motors, with boats to match, which take motor boating this season to the highest peak of enjoyment ever known.
