

Plan To Attend

Plan to attend the Oregon-Washington game in Portland. Oregon must be there in full force. Have a great time, enjoy yourself, but remember you are representing the University of Oregon.

Evans Plans Sixty Singers On Glee Club

Size of Groups Cut in Half By Conductor; Many Students Try Out

Choruses Start Practicing For Pledge Assembly; List Given

The 60 student singers who successfully passed the preliminary trials for admission to the men's and women's glee clubs of the University were announced yesterday by John Stark Evans, conductor.

In order not to duplicate the work of the large polytechnic choir, conducted by Arthur Boardman, Mr. Evans cut the number of singers in each of the glee clubs from last year's figure of 55 to 30. This meant that more than half of the 125 students who tried out had to be eliminated.

The first intensive practice was held last night, and the clubs immediately began work on their part of the traditional "Pledge day" assembly program which will be held soon.

Although for the most part the men's and women's clubs will work separately, they will join together as a choir in presenting the St. Cecilia Mass just before the Christmas holidays, and again in a joint program with the University orchestra, to be held during the winter term.

Names Announced

The list of the two clubs follows:

Men: Herbert Doran, Adrian Burriss, Kenneth Allen, Kenneth Kienzie, Dean Beistel, John McMullen, Harold King, Gifford Nash, Joe Gerot, all of Eugene; Thurston Shell, Wallawa; Harry Elide, Astoria; Donald Eva, Portland; Charles Lane, Aberdeen, Wn.; Robert Tollefsen, Central Point; Jack Allard, Portland; Lionel Lane, Portland; Jon Conder, Heppner; Wesley Steinmetz, Portland; Melvin Hieber, Vernonia; Thomas Johnson, Hood River; John McCulloch, Portland; George Harrington, Long Beach, Cal.; George Bishop, Portland; Jack Bauer, Portland; James Rodda, Portland; Charles Aetzel, Olympia, Wn.; Edward Fisher, Salem; Fred Calef, Monmouth; Rolla Reedy, Pendleton; James Gilbaugh, Portland; Ernest Swanton, Marshfield; Glenn Parker, Portland; Rolf Boddington, Portland; Lauren Buel, Tillamook.

Women: Elizabeth Gilstrap, Ruby George, Jean Beardsley, Jessie Steele, Marcella Rawson, Elaine Moore, Euphemia Laraway, Rose Simons, Juanita Kilborn, all of Eugene; Helen Ashliman, Salem; Sara Addelman, San Francisco; Harriett Roberts, Stockton, Cal.; Nancy Thielsen, Salem; Christine Baxter, Fresno; Velma Powell, Moro; Esther Lofstedt, Astoria; Margaret Steckle, Portland; Margaret Braden, Lebanon; Dena Lieutallen, Adams; Frances Drake, Portland; Alice Holmback, Medford; Edna Bird, Portland; Margaret Simms, Salem; Katherine Laughridge, Salem; Lois Reedy, Pendleton; Elsie Williams, Medford; Mary Margaret Daly, Portland.

Concert Bands Will Replace Symphonies, Thinks Stehn

Are symphonic orchestras doomed some day to give way to concert bands? Will future Soudas hold premier music rank in place of the Hoogstratens?

This is likely, believes John H. Stehn, director of the University of Oregon band. He has had intensive experience with bands in Iowa and middle eastern states where the band has reached far more musical importance than in the West.

He backed up his contention in a recent interview, with an array of arguments—chief among them was that the band has far greater variety of tone color.

"The band is a comparatively new and undeveloped organization for which instruments have only recently been perfected and good music not yet written," he declared. "On the other hand, the instruments of the symphonic or-

Webfoot Dope Is Scarce; Scribes Stay on Outside

A dense shroud of secrecy settled over Hayward field again yesterday afternoon when varsity football practice commenced. Two men guarded the only gate that was unlocked. The cold blue eye of Tommy Williams, chunky general manager of the team, recognized for admittance only a few select individuals such as Professors H. C. Crosland and W. F. G. Thacher.

The field was in excellent condition. A crisp fall chill in the air was conducive to fast action and a general friskiness among the players.

Doc Spears and assistant coaches drove the men through a series of fast breaking, hard to solve formations. A stiff hour of scrimmaging wound up the practice.

All of the plays taught by the canny and balloon-like doctor start the same way. But there are a lot of variations that bewilder second string men even when they know the possibilities.

Not much more can be said, by this writer anyway, because he wasn't able to get in last night. Hayward field will be about as hard to enter as a communist convention during practice sessions from now on until the big Duck vs. Husky battle at Portland is over.

Frosh Will Elect Officers at Polls In Villard Today

Ten Yearlings in Running; House Campaigning Remains Quiet

The freshman class will elect officers today. The polls will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning, and immediately after the polls are closed at 3 o'clock, the ballots will be counted. The ballot boxes will be set up in Villard hall, and the voting will be done by secret ballot by the same method used in student body elections.

During the final day of campaigning no changes were reported in any of the three parties.

The campaign was one of the quietest that has been held by incoming freshman classes.

The political fates of the following candidates will rest in the hands of today's freshman voters. John Kendall, Portland, president; Irene Waltz, Portland, vice-president; Joan Cox, Portland; secretary; and Jim Ferguson, Pendleton, treasurer.

Dick DePittard, McMinnville, president; Billie Eastman, Silverton, vice-president; Louise Barclay, Portland; and Bob DeGraff, Portland, treasurer.

Ray Clapp, Portland, president; Kenneth McKenzie, Tillamook, vice-president. Bill Whitely, vice-president of the student body, who is in charge of the election, has appointed the following freshmen to serve on the election board, from 10 to 11, Fred Ahern and Rosemary Walker; from 11 to 12, Don Cross and Mary Helen Corbett; from 12 to 1, Laura Drury and Bill Douthitt; from 2, Hazel Fields and Roy McCullen; from 2 to 3, George Turner and Charles White.

The "President's Own" Band Here Tuesday

University of Oregon students will have an opportunity to hear this band in McArthur court next Tuesday, where it will play a mixed program of classical and modern music. This is the first time in 20 years that the band has toured in the Pacific Northwest.

"Emerald of the Air" Opened By Song and Music of Editor

Twice-a-week Programs to Continue During the School Year

By DAVE EYRE

Quite appropriately, Vinton Hall, editor of the Emerald, opened the first "KORE-Oregon Daily Emerald of the Air" program last night, not only with an announcement of the purpose of the broadcasts for the year, but with a little musical patter and song that brought in phone calls from all parts of the campus. He proved his ability as an entertainer as well as an editor. Following his opening ditty, which he called "You've Gotta Know How to Love 'Em," Hall gave a brief talk concerning the purpose of the programs.

Said Editor Hall: "We are continuing these programs primarily because we believe they are appreciated. They are representative of campus talent and are put on wholly by students who enjoy the work and who are immensely interested in the promotion of radio entertainment for University people and town-folk."

Accredited Bible Course Offered

Dr. Smith, M. E. Pastor To Teach Class

The Wesley club, organization of Methodist University students, is offering an accredited course on "Studies in the New Testament" each Sunday morning of this term at 9:45 at the church.

Dr. Roy Leslie Smith, minister of the First Methodist church, is teacher for the course, which is accredited nationally and internationally by the International Council of Religious Education. Those who attend regularly and take notes will receive a certificate entitling them to one credit in schools of religion.

Another course in religion which is also accredited will be offered in the same manner winter term. Spring term, Miss Dorothy A. Nyland, student worker and director of religious education of the church and graduate of Boston university, will teach a course on Art in Religion.

Very Little Theatre Will Present 'Great Broxopp'

A. A. Milne's play, "The Great Broxopp" will be presented at the Hellig theatre on November 12 by the Very Little theatre, it was announced by Prof. L. K. Shumaker, business manager. The production is being sponsored by the American Association of University Women.

The leading part will be taken by Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt. Others in the cast are Grace Burnett, David E. Faville, and Edgar Buchanan. Rehearsals are taking place under the direction of Fred Harris at 538 E. 13th street.

Hall then turned the microphone over to Art Potwin, director of the broadcasts, and his assistant, Chet Knowlton. Potwin and Knowlton introduced the performers for the broadcast.

A snappy girls' trio that would require television to be thoroughly appreciated drew highest honors on the program. Maxine Glover, Sally Holloway, and Marvin Jane Hawkins were the three to harmonize on "Easy to Fall in Love," "Happy Feet," and other popular tunes of the day. "Sing" Harper drew a big hand with his "What's the Use" and "Japanese Sandman." Louise Marvin did some excellent tap dancing with Jane Fales at the piano.

One of the highlights of the evening was Maxine Glover's little act in blues work. "Exactly Like You" and "Nobody Cares" were given in true "Ruth Etting" style. Carolyn Haberlach was back at the keyboard of the studio grand with some very pretty solo numbers. A newcomer on the campus, Alice Wedemeyer, sang "Little White Lies" in a manner that is a credit to the freshman class.

YWCA Delegates Hold Conference

Six University of Oregon Women Attending

Y. W. C. A. delegates from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana, including six University of Oregon representatives, convene this week-end at Rock Creek, for the purpose of formulating the policies for the year.

From Eugene go: Mildred McGee, chairman of world fellowship; Eess Templeton, chairman of finance; Anne Baum, industrial committee chairman; Mildred Wharton, in charge of the 1931 conference; Daphne Hughes, national Y. W. C. A. president; and Dorothy Thomas, secretary.

The meeting is scheduled for October 10, 11, and 12; Miss Thomas, however, will stay until Monday, to confer with other secretaries of the entire Seabeck division.

Professor Will Conduct Crime Situation Survey

Ray to Substitute For Ed Bailey in Political Speech

Because Edward F. Bailey, Democratic candidate for governor, is off on a tour and will not return for some time, Leon L. Ray, candidate of that party for joint senator, will be the next speaker before the journalism editing class which is studying the political situation in Oregon. He will speak Monday at 9 o'clock.

"Ed Bailey and I were in the University at the same time," said Mr. Ray, "and when I undertake to explain the causes and trends in Oregon political life I intend to turn aside for a few minutes to pay a tribute to those teachers of political science and economics who helped form our minds."

An invitation has been sent to Albert Streiff, candidate of the Socialist party, to expound his position to the same audience that will have heard the case for Mettschan, Meier, and Bailey.

Assistant professor of law is conducting a survey of the crime situation in Oregon, left Eugene yesterday. Morse will return to the campus Monday.

The survey which has occupied the attention of Morse and his assistant, Mr. Bailey, for the past year, is an effort to determine the number of psychological cases among the criminal class in Oregon. Dr. Morse expects to complete the survey sometime before January.

First Meeting Is Planned By Student German Club

The German club will hold its first meeting soon, although a definite time and place has not yet been announced. Dr. F. G. Schmidt, head of the department of German said yesterday.

Miss Minnie Helzer, president of the club, has asked all who are interested in joining the club to communicate with her. Anyone interested in the German language, literature, or culture may become a member.

Margaret Erickson Is New German Instructor

Miss Margaret Erickson, who graduated from the University last June, is now graduate assistant in the German department. Miss Erickson, who was elected to Phi Beta Kappa last spring, is studying for her master's degree and teaching elementary German.

Sponsors for Philomelete Group Named

Marguerite Mauzey Picks Two Women To Act As Personal Advisers

Eight Scheduled To Meet Sunday; New Students Will Be Guests

Sponsors for the groups of Philomelete, hobby groups organization, were announced yesterday by Marguerite Mauzey, president of Phi Theta Upsilon. Two women have been named to act as personal advisers to tell new women students who are interested in these groups and to invite them to the meetings.

Eight of the ten groups are scheduled to meet Sunday, at which time freshman women not living on the campus will be guests. Phi Theta Upsilon, upper-class service honorary, sponsors Philomelete, which was organized two years ago.

Time and place of the group meetings Sunday will be as follows: Drama, Y. W. bungalow, 5 to 6; Charm School, women's lounge of Gerlinger building, 4 to 5; International Relations, Y. W. bungalow, 10 to 11; Nature Study, Westminster house, 4 to 5; Music, Westminster house, 4 to 5; Play, Y. W. bungalow, 4 to 5; Mythology, Westminster house, 5 to 6; Woman in Her Sphere, men's lounge of Gerlinger building, 5 to 6.

Sponsors of the Philomelete groups for the year will be: Charm School, Janet Osborne, Alice Redetzke; Woman in Her Sphere, Katherine Kjosness, Frances Pichard; Mythology, Dorothy Eads, Harriet Kibbee; Nature Study, Lillie Strom, Thelma Lehman; Music, Helen Parish, Elizabeth Parker; Drama, Norma Jacobs, Ann Baum; Play, Ella Redkey, Caryll Hollingsworth; International Relations, Mildred Dobbins, Helen Chaney; Arts and Crafts, Esther Malkasian; Prose and Poetry, Helen Evans, Daphne Hughes; Personnel Advisors, Dorothy Hallin and Dorothy Kirk.

Meetings of the groups are planned bi-monthly, and any women who are interested may attend the first meetings of the year, Sunday.

'Mum Sale Closes Next Monday P.M.

Time Limit Is Extended by Associated Women

By special arrangement with Tommy Luke, Portland florist, the Associated Women Students have been able to extend the closing date for the chrysanthemum sale from Friday noon to Monday. Orders must be in to Tommy Luke the first of the week so that he may get the flowers in time for the Oregon - Washington game Saturday, October 18.

Orders will be taken by representatives in living organizations, the Co-op, and McMorran and Washburne's until 6 p. m. Monday when all money must be turned in to Ann Baum at Susan Campbell hall.

The plan being used this year for the sale of 'mums for out-of-town games involves the taking of orders and cash payments by representatives in the various houses. Students will present their receipts on the day of the game at Tommy Luke's, Sixth and Alder, Portland, and receive the kind of flower they paid for.

Chrysanthemums are being sold at four prices. Small ones may be bought for 50 cents, and larger ones at 75 cents. Those for $1 have a small green "O" in the center, while really "ritzy" ones at $1.50 have small yarn dolls decorating the center of the 'mum.

Response to the sale, a traditional activity of the A. W. S., has been very encouraging, according to Miss Baum and Alexis Lyle. Proceeds from the four such sales which will be put on by the A. W. S. this year will be put in the infirmity fund.

The wearing of chrysanthemums has become one of the traditions of Oregon football games, and this year the girls will wear them in the rooting section to carry out a stunt between halves.

Cat Doesn't Know About Dissection!

CURIOSITY is said to have killed a cat, but a certain little grey feline was nearly sent to the place where all good cats go through plain, ordinary hunger, yesterday noon.

He was very, very hungry. Whiffs of cooking food floated across the street from the College Side and tickled his nose temptingly. He decided that he would investigate this smell. Stepping off the curb, he made his way across the street. A car full of students saw the cat and stopped to let it go by.

The man in the car behind didn't see the cat. He barely missed wrecking his car against the first. The cat didn't know this, but went serenely on.

That wasn't enough danger for him—no, sir! He started to visit campus buildings and when last seen was heading toward the biology lab. Poor little cat!

Honorary Slates Night for Annual Journalists' Jam

Committees Appointed for Carrying on Work of Sigma Delta Chi

November 7 was definitely selected as the date for the Journalism Jamboree at a meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, yesterday. The big bust is slated to follow close on the heels of the Frosh - Washington Babe football game.

Ralph David, senior in journalism, and Jack Burke, junior in journalism, were

Neil Taylor appointed general chairman of the affair. Burke will handle the publicity and ticket sale while the other arrangements will be taken care of by David. Costumes and no dates will feature the event as in the past.

Merlin Blais was appointed chairman of a committee to secure prominent Oregonians to speak before meetings of Sigma Delta Chi. Phil Metschan, Republican candidate for governor, and Lester Adams, editor of the Portland Telegram and substitute for Julius Meier, have already been guests of the society. Others on this committee are Willis Duniway, Bob Allen, Dave Wilson, and Deb Addison.

Rex Tussing was appointed chairman of a committee on ways and means, together with Lester MacDonald, Harry Van Dine, Mack Hall, and George Thompson.

All appointments and sub-committees for the Jamboree directorate will be announced soon, according to Burke and Davis.

Rebec in Portland

Dr. George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, will be in Portland over the week-end, to confer with graduate students there.

Treetop, Syncopating Shoe Shiner, Wins Campus Favor

By WILLIS DUNIWAY
A southbound Southern Pacific freight train ground to a stop in the Eugene yards late in the evening of September 25 and the campus acquired its most interesting and versatile personality in recent years.

Treetop, six feet three of baritone syncopation, dropped from his vantage point on the gondola car he had ridden from Portland and made his way uptown. No ride over the mountains for him that night—it was too cold.

Forty cents were in the pockets of this colored vagabond, who has gone through life with a smile and a song, but Eugene looked good to him and he stayed. Especially when he met an old buddy on Wilamette street and heard that the Log Cabin shoe shining shop next to the Colonial theatre was vacant and could be rented. Treetop went

Hal Fraundorf Named To Head Homecoming

Annual Rally and Bonfire Will Be Held Friday Preceding Game

Campus Luncheon Planned For Saturday Noon; Events Outlined

Hal Fraundorf, senior in business administration, is chairman of Homecoming this fall. His appointment was announced yesterday by George Cherry, A. S. U. O. president.

Arrangements for the week-end are already under way; and Fraundorf plans to appoint his directorate within the next few days.

In naming Fraundorf to head the work of Homecoming this year, Cherry said, "Homecoming is the most significant event of the year and requires the most able man available for chairman."

Fraundorf Active

"Fraundorf's participation in campus activities has always exemplified the highest type of efficiency. His ideas, experience and ability to assume responsibility which have marked his past work as highly successful, will be invaluable to the Homecoming plans of this year."

The week-end of November 7, 8, and 9, is the one set aside for welcoming back the alumni this fall. Saturday afternoon Oregon will meet U. C. L. A. on Hayward field, and the big Homecoming dance is scheduled for Saturday evening. Friday will be marked by the annual rally, bonfire and downtown parade. The campus luncheon, at which several thousand people will be served, is planned for Saturday noon, just before the game.

Fraundorf has outlined a week-end fully as crammed with events in honor of the alumni as the Homecomings of previous years. Everything will center around the desire of the undergraduates to have the old grads back on the campus, and to show them a good time while they are here.

More Than Football

In speaking of the Homecoming spirit, Fraundorf said last night: "It is our hope that this year Homecoming will be not merely a football game with a few incidental social contacts."

"This year my plan is to emphasize the true Homecoming spirit—to revive the memories of former years, to stimulate renewal of old acquaintances among the alumni and between alumni and faculty, and to promote contacts between the Homecoming visitors and the student generation of today. One of the regrets of visiting alumni is often their failure to get into close touch with the student life, and we hope that everything Oregon men and women can do to strengthen the ties between the old students and those of our generation will be done."

On Week-end Directorate

Fraundorf, in addition to two years' experience on Homecoming committees, served on the junior week-end directorate last spring, handling arrangements for the week-end.
