2,000 Ducks Migrate North To See Game

Rose City Will Be Invaded By Football Madness; It's Contagious

Student Special Will Leave At 3:30 p. m. Today; All Aboard!

By automobiles and special trains, more than 2,000 Oregon rooters will invade an already football-mad Portland today, and with two rousing rallies will turn the city upside down with grid enthusiasm.

The first Web-foot rally will be held at 8 o'clock tonight on the Sixth street side of the Portland hotel and upwards of 40,000 Portlanders will be present to witness the display of Oregon spirit, according to members of the student rally directorate and Aaron M. Frank, honorary chairman.

Special To Leave at 3:30
A student special train leaving the campus at 3:30 p. m., will arrive at the Union station Portland at 7:30 o'clock and will be met by the University band and yell staff. Rooters will go up Sixth street to Ankeny where a serpentine will be formed behind trucks loaded with many types of noise-makers and as many fire engines as the city can spare.

The serpentine will meet the rest of the Oregon rooters in front of the Portland hotel for the first outburst of football enthusiasm. Johnny Creech, yell king, and Kelsey Slocum and Eddie Wells, his assistants, will lead the demonstration. Brian Minnaugh, rally chairman, and members of his committee will be on deck to see that everything clicks.

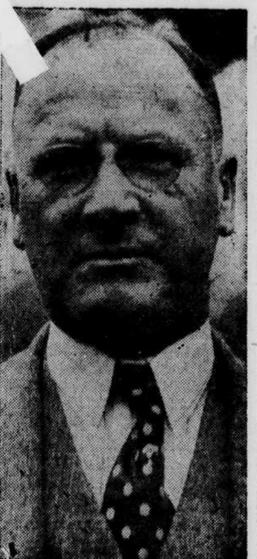

Rally Will Be Brief
"The rally will be short and snappy in order to allow students to follow their own plans while in the city," Harry Van Dine, assistant rally chairman, said last night. "That's why we expect each and every student there."

Saturday at 12:45 o'clock, about an hour before game time, the main serpentine and rally will form in front of the Portland hotel and march direct to the Multnomah stadium. No one will be admitted to the special Oregon rooters' section at the field until the serpentines have gone through the gates. "This is a doubly good reason for every rooster to enter the serpentine Saturday," Van Dine said.

Co-eds To Have Parking Space
Parking space directly across from the stadium in the John K. Leander company garage has been arranged for cars driven by Oregon co-eds who have followed the serpentine from downtown. The space will accommodate nearly 30 cars, according to Bob O'Melveny, chairman of traffic. Heretofore it has been necessary for the girls to hunt for a parking place, but in

Men's Dormitory Will Be Scene of Journalism Fray

Special Permission Given; Party Features New Carnival Dance

The ball room of the New Men's dormitory has been definitely selected for the scene of the Journalism Jamboree, according to Ralph David and Jack Burke, general managers. Late permission has been granted by the dean of women and the big blowout will hold sway from 10 until 1.

Late permission was granted a special dispensation by the dean of women and the student affairs committee, owing to the fact that a night football game would interfere with an event which has been traditional on the campus for many years.

The dance will vary a little from what it has been in the past in that it will be a Carnival dance. It was believed that it would be impossible to get into costume and make up in the time there would be left after the game. The carnival dance will enable students to go directly from the game.

Concessions and the cloak room will be handled by Theta Sigma Phi, national journalistic honorary for women.

George W. Russell, Irish Bard, May Visit Campus

Arrangements for the appearance on this campus of George William Russell (AE), noted Irish poet, are being negotiated by University officials.

Mr. Russell, who boasts the shortest pseudonym in Irish literature, recently arrived in the United States on a lecture tour. While on the West coast it is hoped that he will be obtained to speak at the University of Oregon.

All Blame For Conduct Taken By Fraternity

New Policy of Committee Is First Exercised on National Here

President Makes Statement Concerning Attitude Of House

At a meeting of the student advisory committee yesterday afternoon it was voted to place on social and disciplinary probation a prominent national fraternity. This drastic action was the result of the reconsideration of a recent liquor case involving a freshman class officer and three other students, one of whom was suspended from the University.

The rehearing was occasioned by positive and definite proof of the group responsibility of the fraternity for the conduct of its freshman member. While it was not shown that the liquor party was officially sanctioned by the house, it was admitted to have been instigated with the knowledge of several upperclass members of the fraternity, and to have been participated in by one such member.

Social Functions Lost
By the term "social probation" is meant a loss of all fraternity social functions which normally require the approval of the University administration. By "disciplinary probation" is meant a trial period during which the conduct of the offender, in this case a fraternity, must be in every way exemplary. Any violation of University regulations, responsibility for which can be fixed on the organization as such, will result in a recommendation to its national authorities that its local charter be revoked.

In imposing this penalty the student advisory committee adopted a new policy of holding responsible a social organization for the misconduct of its members, and expects this case to serve as a precedent for future cases of like nature.

Office Retained
Inasmuch as the additional proof offered at yesterday's hearing shifted the burden in part from the individual to the fraternity, the former's original penalty was modified, and the prohibition from holding class office originally imposed upon him was removed by the committee. While he remains on disciplinary probation, he is permitted to enjoy the privilege of retaining his present office.

The president of the local chapter of Sigma Chi issued the following statement to the Emerald last night, in the hopes that any misunderstanding about the probation might be cleared up on the campus:

"Rather than to leave rumor and misunderstanding prevalent on the campus in regards to the action of the student advisory committee in placing 'a national fraternity on probation' I want to make the statement that the Sigma Chi fraternity as a whole feels that in accepting the responsibility for the actions of one of its freshman members and several upperclassmen, we could best co-operate with the new policy of the committee in placing us on social and disciplinary probation. All we can say is that we are very sorry that such has occurred and the whole house is working with the intention of working off the ruling as soon as possible."

Jenkins To Speak Before Theta Sigs

'Ladies of the Press' To Be Subject of Talk

Frank Jenkins, editor of the Eugene Register, will discuss "Ladies of the Press" at the reception given by Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, for all women in the school of journalism. It will be held next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Alumni hall, Gerlinger building. Lavina Hicks has been appointed chairman of the affair by Dorothy Kirk, president.

The reception is an annual event in the school of journalism, and all women journalists are urged to come.

Spirit of Oregon Rally Makes Emerald Air Program Peppy

Creech Asks Sacrifice of Tonsils for Yelling At Game

Full to the brim with the spirit of a genuine University of Oregon rally was the third "Oregon Emerald of the Air" program broadcast over station KORE last night. "Those people who go to Portland with tonsils I want to come back without them," said Johnny Creech, yell leader, in his brief talk concerning the spirit which he hopes will prevail at Saturday's football classic. "I don't want a bunch of canaries down there, but a real bunch of yelling men to back the team," he continued.

Harry Van Dine, assistant chairman of the rally committee, discussed the plans for the rally in the Oregon metropolis and urged all rooters to come out en masse, donned with rooters' caps and loud and husky voice capacity.

Interspersed with these pep talks was a musical program of unusual merit. "Hittin' the Bottle" from Earl Carroll's "Vanities" was sung with rhythm by the girls' trio, which includes Maxine Glover, Sally Holloway, and Marvin Jane Hawkins. Maxine Glover told members of the radio audience to "Go Home and Tell Your Mother" in a manner that should get results. Several good tunes were again strummed out by "Sing" Harper. Vinton Hall, editor of the Emerald, repeated his lesson on "pigging" with "You've Gotta Know How to Love 'Em."

Eldon Woodin, Wally Palmer, Bud Nicklaus, John Pennington, Sherwood Burr, and Jess Bradley brought their instruments up to the studio and helped things along with popular dance music.

Jimmy Gilbough gave an entertaining dialogue on the Oregon-Washington football meet. The skit was in the form of a play-by-play description of the game and was a typical bit of radio announcing.

These programs are arranged by Art Potwin, director, and Chet Knowlton, assistant director, and are presented twice a week over station KORE as a means of supporting University activities and discovering campus talent.

Annual Football Dance Will Be Big Saturday Climax

Several Novel Features Are Planned for Evening; Baker To Be Guest

The annual Oregon-Washington football dance, to be given at the Masonic temple ballroom in Portland Saturday night, is expected to break all records for attendance at an event of this kind, according to an announcement made by Jack Travis, chairman of the Oregon committee. Travis also announced that the members of the football teams of Oregon and Washington will be guests of honor at the dance.

Several novel features have been scheduled for the evening, with Nolan Taylor, former member of the KSL Vagabonds of Salt Lake City, heading the bill. Talent from both schools has also been lined up to appear at the dance and the music will be furnished by George Weber and his nine-piece orchestra.

Mayor George L. Baker, of Portland, will be the guest of honor at the affair and it is planned to have student and civic leaders from Seattle as guests. The Masonic ballroom has been selected as it is the most suitable for an affair of this kind. The committee expects 900 couples to attend.

Oregon students are urged to enter the building from the Park street entrance in order that they will not become confused in finding the ballroom which is located on the second floor.

Student leaders and the rally committees from both schools have endorsed the dance as a fit place for students from the rival schools to become better acquainted. The dance has been enlarged every year. The affairs were started in 1926.

Dr. Conklin Invited To Teach at U. of Chicago

In recognition of his outstanding work in the field of psychology, Dr. Edmund S. Conklin, head of the department of psychology here, has received an invitation to teach during the winter term at the graduate school of divinity of the University of Chicago, heralded as one of the leading theological schools in the country. Dr. Conklin has not yet decided whether he will accept the invitation or not.

I wish to subscribe to the OREGON DAILY EMERALD for the current school year, ending June, 1931.

Rules Issued On Two Dad's Day Awards

Very Little Change From Last Year's System; 600 Expected

Baker, Hellberg Announce Advertising Assistants In Houses and Halls

Rules governing the awards for the two houses having the greatest percentage of Dads on Dad's Day were released last night by Hugh L. Biggs, dean of men, and Gladys Clausen, chairman of the banquet committee. There is very little material difference from the rules of last year. They are:

1. The base membership of an organization, from which will be computed the percentage of Dads returning, shall be the official house membership list submitted at the beginning of fall term to the deans' offices by the presidents of the various living organizations.

2. Only members actually living in the organization's residence are counted.

(a) Fraternity men and women living in halls of residence are to be considered members of such halls for purposes of competition.

(b) Fraternity men and women living with parents or relatives in Eugene and not actually living in their respective fraternity houses are not included in the house membership for purposes of this competition.

Dads Must Register

3. Only such Dads as are officially registered at 1 p. m. Saturday, October 25, will be credited to organizations for purposes of this competition.

4. Dads having both a son and a daughter, or sons and daughters, in competing living organizations will be credited to each such organization.

5. Legal guardians will be considered Dads for purposes of the competition.

6. The prizes will be annually awarded and will rotate from year to year until won three times by the same living organization, whereupon they become the permanent property of such organization.

7. Prizes will be awarded Saturday, October 25, at the annual Dad's Day banquet.

8. Paul W. Ager, comptroller, will audit the computations of the registration committee and will determine the prize winning houses.

Students are urged to co-operate by having their dads register as the first official act upon their arrival in Eugene. Registration booths will be in the first-floor lobby of the Administration building, and will open Friday at 9 a. m.

Reservations Come

Reservations from Dads all over Oregon and California have been pouring into the dean of men's office, and more than 600 Dads are expected to be present on October 25.

Trains will be met and the Oregon Dads arriving will be directed to the campus where they will

'History of Oregon' Text Is Revised by Dr. Clark

The committee for textbooks in Oregon will act in November of this year on the revised "History of Oregon" by Clark, Down and Blue, and the Oregon supplement of "The Pursuit of Happiness" by Edward Manley.

Dr. R. C. Clark, head of the history department, has revised the "History of Oregon" for the use of the sixth grade in the public schools. It was in use five years ago in Oregon schools.

Dr. Clark also wrote the Oregon supplement of "The Pursuit of Happiness," a textbook in civics which has not yet come off the press.

Tickets For Rally Train Being Sold At Special Booth

Tickets for the rally special for the Washington-Oregon game were placed on sale in a booth between the Oregon and Commerce buildings on the campus yesterday and indications are that the special will be a great success. The train will leave Villard at 3:30 this afternoon and will be equipped to check the baggage of the students free, and luncheon service will also be available.

The special round trip fare of $2.75, the lowest to Portland in history, has met with widespread approval and students will be able to buy their tickets on the campus right up until train time this afternoon.

Those buying tickets are requested to have their checks made out before going to the booth in order to save confusion caused by long lines of waiting students.

Baggage will be checked here by a force of clerks and will be distributed at the Portland hotel after the huge rally planned for tonight.

Tennis Tourney Favorite Is Ousted In Quarter Finals

Edmiston Defeats Weller Is Upset; Other Stars Win

Jim Edmiston of Medford served notice that he will make a bid for the tennis tourney championship by smashing out a win over Bob Weller, Portland star, after losing the first set. The score by sets was 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. Edmiston gained the quarter finals by virtue of this victory, and will probably meet Dick Golthwaite or Jack Rhine in his next match.

Al McLaren, varsity player, and Jay Downs also gained the quarter round, McLaren eking out a 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 triumph over Ray Adams, sophomore star, while Downs won his match through a default. The other quarter finalists in the singles have not yet been decided. Paired with Golthwaite, Edmiston was again victor when their doubles team conquered Overmeyer and Adams, 6-3, 6-2.

The handball events have made little progress, only one doubles match being played. The Sigma Alpha Mu duo, Director and Levoff, blasted all Kappa Sig hopes by downing Rhine and Cress, 21-12, 22-20, in hard-fought sets. Billy Keenan won the first golf match, eliminating Bill Crawe 5 up and 4 to play.

Oregon Line Strong as Ever
If the Northerners turn loose a wave of power plays, they will find seven savage, dauntless Duck linemen ready to hold them. Men like Christensen, Colbert, Forsta, Hall, and Lillie, whose individual weights range around 200 pounds and more, are able to withstand a lot of line offense.

Power Mixed with Deception
Every time an Oregon play starts, it is impossible to tell whether it is going to be a plunge through the line, a criss-cross zip around either end, a dazzling lateral pass, or a variety of other things. When the team shifts, and it does on nearly every play, each motion is with perfectly calculated and well-timed precision; it is impossible to tell what the formation will evolve into before it is well under way.

Professor From Iowa To Visit Campus Sunday

Dr. Carl Seashore, dean of the graduate school at the University of Iowa, will be a visitor on the campus Sunday and Monday. In honor of the guest a no-host luncheon is to be given at the Faculty club on Monday.

Anyone interested in graduate work, psychology, and psychology of music is invited to meet Dr. Seashore at this time. Reservations may be made by calling Dean Landsbury at the school of music, or Mrs. Turnipseed at the men's dormitory.

Social Congeniality Praised By New Sociology Professor

The social congeniality at the University of Oregon is unequalled in the opinion of Dr. Samuel H. Jameson, associate professor of sociology, who has taken the place in the faculty left vacant by Dr. James M. Reinhardt.

"The people here seem to be ever ready to do their utmost for their fellow men. This institution is not mechanical. People here are deeply interested in each other."

Dr. Jameson makes this statement not as a sheer complimentary remark, but after careful comparison with other schools where he has been.

Dr. Jameson comes here directly from the University of California at Los Angeles summer session. He taught last year at the University of Minnesota. Before that he taught on the first Floating University, which went around the world in 1926 and 1927. He instructed in history and sociology at Lafayette college, Pennsylvania, from 1921 to 1924, when he organized and became head of the department of sociology there. He served in this capacity until 1926.

Team Leaves For Portland At 1:30 Today

Thirty-two Picked Men To Have Final Practice This Morning

Airtight Pass Defense Is Being Developed To Hold Huskies

At 10 o'clock this morning, 32 varsity gridmen will meet on Hayward field for a final light workout before 1:30, when they climb aboard the train that will carry them to Portland to meet the Washington Huskies tomorrow afternoon.

After a three-hour practice session last night, Coach Clarence W. Spears sent his picked men galloping to the showers and admonished them to come to morning practice ready to go, and with their traveling bags packed. In spite of their long workout none of the men were weary when they loped through the early evening darkness to the McArthur court locker rooms.

Trainer Bill Hayward says that the team is in perfect physical condition. They are trained to the last notch of efficiency, and the famous Oregon fighting spirit is blazing in the heart of every player.

Pass Defense Stressed
There's a man up at Seattle named Bill Marsh, a halfback, who is reputed to be able to heave a football within a three-foot circle, any distance up to 30 and even 40 yards. And, accordingly, the Oregon team has been perfecting an airtight long-distance pass defense during the past week. So Marsh won't make many connections with any of Phelan's speedy pass receivers, because the Webfoots are expecting an air raid.

Donohue May Start at Fullback
John Donohue has been showing up brilliantly in the fullback position during the past three days. It is considered probable that Spears may start him against the Huskies, and hold big Ed Moeller in reserve. John Landahl has the edge as candidate for halfback. Don Watts, who left that position vacant when he broke his right collar bone in practice Monday, left the hospital yesterday afternoon.

Famous Art Salon to Exhibit Work of Mrs. Edwin Hodge

The Salon D'Autumn, one of the two most famous art salons in the world will exhibit "The March of the Primitive Woman," a three-foot bronze figure by Mrs. Edwin T. Hodge, according to a cablegram received by her last Saturday. The exhibitions are held yearly in the Grande Palais, one in the fall and one in the spring and it is the ambition of every artist to have a piece of work accepted for exhibition in one of the two.

Mrs. Hodge has just returned from a ten months' study in a Paris studio and a tour of Egypt, Italy, Greece, Palestine, and Syria where she has been tracing out the various types of sculpture developed by the different civilizations. "My stay in Paris was very interesting," she said, speaking of her work there. "I had my own studio and spent my time working on the various types of sculpture. I studied principally the French sculptures and the modern school of art. Paris is one of the most unusual cities in the world. It is the art center of everything and it is difficult to conceive the number of artists who live and work there.

"Because they wish to have the light just right for their work some of the more well-to-do artists purchase old buildings and adapt them to the needs of a studio. Then, having themselves taken the main studio, they sub-let the rest of the building to other artists. This practice has created a district known as the Montsures. It is similar to the Greenwich village of New York as its tenants are principally those studying art.

"The Tuilleries exhibition, held in the spring, is perhaps the largest in the world. It housed last
