Julius Meier Emphasizes Importance of Education

By MERLIN BLAIS
Julius Meier does not impress one as being a politician, as the word is commonly understood. He is too quiet, too unimpressive, at least, for platform dynamics, to make a good politician. But he has the earmarks of a business man, and that is, admittedly, his realm. Meier is a business man even in his conversation. His words, his sentences, have the directness and lack of adornment which characterizes the man of industry or commerce, but he has acquired a vigilance over his every statement, which is so religiously followed, that he seems to speak almost with reluctance.

The independent candidate for governor received the Emerald reporter at his fourth floor apartment at the Eugene hotel, but, owing to a speaking engagement or two immediately in the offing, the interview was cut so short that the minutes could be counted on the fingers of both hands.

Meier graduated from the University of Oregon in 1895, having

Twin Daughters Welcome 'O' Dad

OREGON grad and track letterman 22 years ago is the history of one Oregon Dad who will be a guest on the campus for Dad's Day. He is Leslie P. Miller, superintendent of schools at Drain, Oregon, and graduate of the University in 1908.

Mr. Miller will be the guest of his twin daughters, Juanita Miller and Willetta Miller Hartley, who are juniors on the Oregon campus. In answer to an invitation to attend the Dad's Day activities on the campus, Mr. Miller wrote: "Did I ever miss a chance to see a good game? Of course I will come, for now I have two additional attractions."

Dr. Lufer Plans Research Work On Rare Fossils

Ex-graduate Returns To Study Fossils Found In Oregon

Dr. R. L. Lufer, a graduate of this University in '26, has returned to the geology department to do research work on fossils taken from an old bed which Dr. Earl Fackard, geology professor, discovered in 1926 in central Oregon.

After graduation Lufer went to the California Institution of Technology in Pasadena where he received his doctor's degree in paleontology. He was there three years, and it was there that he became interested in the great fossil bed in central Oregon. This fossil bed is an old island which protrudes up through the lava in central Oregon. Millions of years ago there was a series of seas and upheavals that left one of the most revealing fossil areas in this country.

Dr. Lufer is working on the Cephalopods, fossils that were created during the Jurassic period some 80 million years ago. He hopes to relate these to similar deposits in Great Britain and France which took place about the same time.

He is able to come here through the Storrow Fellowship given him by the National Research Council, and also by a grant given him for field work done in central Oregon last summer. Dr. Lufer will stay here until December, when he will go to the University of Washington at Seattle to work under Dr. Charles E. Weaver, head of the geology department there.

Robert F. Jackson Gives Speech Before Seminar

Robert F. Jackson, graduate student in the physics department, was the speaker at the weekly physics seminar Wednesday afternoon. His subject was on the application of new wave mechanics to the measurement of the charge and mass of electrons. Prof. A. E. Caswell will be the speaker next week.

Junior Class Will Sponsor Campus Hop

Junior Jinx Is First of Its Kind in History of The University

Jack Edlefsen Headed By Potwin To Head Committee

For the first time in history, the junior class will "open up" in the fall term. On November 14, immediately following the frosh-rook game, an all campus informal dance, sponsored by the class of '32 will be held in McArthur court.

Art Potwin, president of the class, in announcing the plans for the Junior Jinx, said, "This year the class voted to do something different and have a fall term dance. The best time will undoubtedly be after the night football game between the O. S. C. rooks and the Oregon frosh. It is to be an informal dance for the whole campus, with a charge of only 50 cents for each man; women will be considered free guests."

First Junior Jinx
This is the first Junior Jinx and it is the hope of the junior class that this event shall be the start of a precedent in the form of an annual Jinx. The decorations for the dance will be of a most novel sort, according to Potwin, the main theme being that of football.

Jack Edlefsen has been appointed chairman of the Jinx committee by Potwin and will announce the members of his committees the first of next week.

"Jack has always been one of the best workers in our class and certainly deserves the faith and support of all its members in preparing this all-campus dance," Potwin declared. "He has headed and served on many committees in the past. Some of his activities are: He was chairman of the sophomore banquet committee, served on the sophomore informal directorate, and was assistant chairman for the Homecoming decorations committee and materials committee last year."

AWS Plans Two More 'Mum Sales

Women To Sell Flowers at U.C.L.A., O.S.C. Games

Following their overwhelming success at the Oregon-Washington game in Portland last week-end, the A. W. S. are launching plans for two more chrysanthemum sales, to be held for the Oregon-U. C. L. A. game at Homecoming, and the following week-end for the Oregon State game at Corvallis.

Chrysanthemums for the two coming sales will be of two prices, 75 cents and $1. The 75-cent variety will be large and have a green ribbon on them, while the dollar group will have green "O's" in the center as well as the green ribbons.

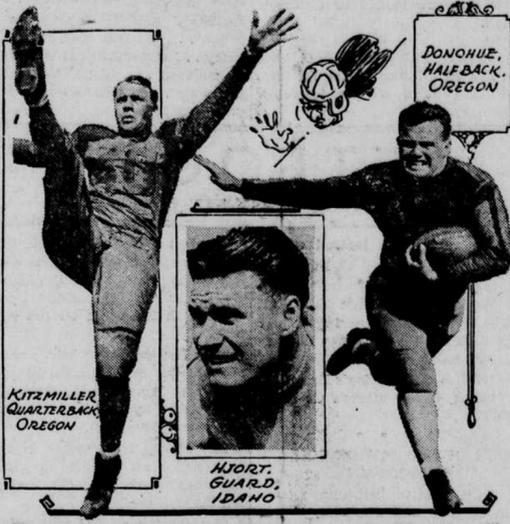

Delivery of chrysanthemums in Eugene has been guaranteed by the A. W. S. for both sales. "Mums of as fine quality as were sold in Portland are promised."

The A. W. S. cleared about $60 on the Portland sale. The money is being put in the infirmary fund. Ann Baum and Alexis Lyle are in charge of the sales.

Survey by O. K. Burrell in National Trade Magazine

"The Operating Cost of Oregon Plumbers in 1929," a survey of plumbers' operating costs completed last spring by O. K. Burrell, professor in the school of business administration, has been recently published in serial form in Domestic Engineering, a national trade magazine publication, according to Dean Faville of the school of business administration.

"Dutch, Danish, and Scotch"

Here we have descendants of three foreign nationalities who will appear tomorrow in an American football battle.

All Male Talent Feature of KORE Radio Broadcast

Many Features Presented By Campus Musicians And Actors

A program, featuring talent consisting entirely of men, reached a new high point for campus broadcasts Thursday night when the fifth "Oregon Daily Emerald of the Air" was presented over station KORE.

Barney Miller, new continuity editor for the programs, took the part of little Cynthia McMudmask perfectly and told the radio audience all about the trials and tribulations of a freshman girl during rush week. The first installment of the all-thriller bedtime story, "Shredded," was also given by Editor Miller.

Also taking honors on the program were the arrangements of "Confessing" and "Singing in the Rain" by Dale Brown, piano, and Wilbur Thibault, violin. Each of these boys also did some splendid solo work. "I'm Yours" and "It Seems To Be Spring" were sung by Bob Goodrich with Dale Brown at the studio grand.

"That's Grandma," given by Johnny Smedburg, drew a big hand among the numbers on the program. Smedburg and Dave Eyre gave a piano novelty in the form of "Happy Feet."

Between these special radio acts the Midway Varsityians did some excellent orchestra work. Members of the Midway band are George Nieme, business manager, George Barron, Leo Lohikoser, Joe Hastingler, Byron Patterson, and Morgan Johnson.

A program including a new array of campus talent, along with the regular numbers by the Midway Varsityians, is slated for Sunday night's broadcast, according to Art Potwin, director of the Emerald hour, and his assistant, Chet Knowlton.

California Dads Oregon Boosters

Several Coming Today for Week-end Activities

Oregon students have the spirit which reaches beyond Oregon into several states, and especially into the sister state, California. The Californians brag about their climate and their scenery, but when it comes to colleges many of them send their children to Oregon.

An organization of Oregon Dads was formed in California last year, with Rufus Kimball of Palo Alto, elected president of the group. He is the father of Rufus Kimball Jr., sophomore in journalism, and will be one of the enthusiastic dads to attend the week-end celebrations of the University campus, Saturday and Sunday.

The Oregon Dads from California formed the organization with the purpose of discussing and studying conditions in which their sons and daughters live and study. Several of the dads plan to be in Eugene for Dad's day.

Mr. Kimball, who is also a member of the executive council of all Oregon Dads, will arrive in Eugene Friday.

Tonkon Elected Fraternity Head In Nelson's Place

Alpha Delta Sigma Elects Five New Men for Membership

Harry Tonkon, senior in business administration, was elected president of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising honorary for men, at a meeting last Wednesday. He will succeed John Nelson who didn't return to school this year.

Tonkon was connected with the Botsford-Constantine advertising agency in Portland for two years and has acted as publicity director for several campus functions. He won the McMorrin and Washburne advertising contest last year.

Fletcher Udall, senior in economics, was elected vice-president, and Harold Fraundorf, senior in business administration, secretary-treasurer.

Pledges Named
Five new pledges were chosen for membership. They are: Roger Bailey, Gibson Danes, Francis Mullins, John Panton, and Harry Van Dine.

Bailey is a sophomore in business administration and advertising manager of the Oregonian. Danes is a sophomore in architecture and allied arts, is art editor of the Oregonian, and associated with McMorrin and Washburne.

Mullins is a senior in journalism and was formerly connected with the Edmund C. Bechtold advertising agency in Portland. Panton is office manager of the Emerald and served as solicitor on the advertising staff last year. He is a sophomore in business administration.

Van Dine is advertising counsel for the University Cooperative store and was sports editor of the Emerald last year. He was connected with the Foster and Kleiser advertising company last summer. He is a senior in journalism.

Plans were started at the meeting for the Krazy Kopy Krawl, an event which is sponsored by the organization each year.

Men Outnumber Women In Infirmary, Says Nurse

Infirmary statistics show that men are more inclined to use the infirmary service than are the women, according to Helen Fleming, nurse in charge.

The situation is very definitely perceptible, she says, as only rarely do women outnumber the men in the sick ward. She accounts for this by the fact that women are more inclined to nurse and care for each other than are the men. At the present time there are eight men and four women confined to the infirmary.

Rally Dance Slated Today At Men's Gym

Affair To Last From 4 to 6, To Be Free, All-campus, No-date Party

Weber's Orchestra Will Play; Students To Bring Dads to Event

The men's gym will be the mecca of football-minded students from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon when the first pre-game rally dance of the school year will be given under the direction of Brian Minnaugh, chairman of the rally directorate, and his corps of student workers.

The rally dance will be an all-campus, informal, no-charge, no-date affair, according to the rally directors, planned to arouse pep for the Idaho game Saturday.

It was announced yesterday that the dance would be held at McArthur court, but as the Igloo floor could not be obtained, the rally celebration was switched last night to the men's gym.

Dads Invited
Students were urged last night by Minnaugh to bring their dads to the dance and let them join in the rally spirit.

Music for the dance will be furnished by George Weber and his four-piece orchestra.

Although the dance is being held early and before the game with the Vandals, members of the rally committee felt yesterday that the affair would prove a better feature than a post-game celebration.

It is the plan of the rally chiefs to get Oregon rooks as keyed up over the Vandal invasion as they were over the Washington game in Portland last Saturday. Pep and lots of it will be generated at the dance today to instill enthusiasm into every rooker.

Speakers will visit all campus living organizations this noon in the interests of the rally dance.

Students Sponsor Education Group

Undergraduate students in the school of education met Wednesday evening, October 22, for the purpose of organizing a group to cultivate the professional side of teachers' training and to bring a closer contact between students and workers in the field.

Juanita Hannah, senior in English and transfer from the University of Florida will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Dr. E. O. Sisson, of the Reed college faculty in education and philosophy, addressed the meeting on the subject, "The Outlook of the Profession."

The new education organization is sponsored by Phi Delta Kappa, education honorary, and Phi Lambda Theta, women's education honorary.

'Desert Island' Added To Library Collection

"Desert Island," a colorful drama somewhat resembling Robinson Crusoe, and which was recently reviewed by the Morning Oregonian with some marvelous illustrations by Rex Whistler, has been added to the general collection of the library.

Another new novel which is attracting attention is Bobby Jones book, "Down the Fairway." This is his latest book and rather expensive as it is valued at about $12. Some more new books which are in the general collection are: "Venice Its Arts," by Powers; "The Stubborn Root," by Flexner; "Jungle Portraits," by Akeley; "Seed," by Geo. G. Norris; "Blanche," by Marie Corelli; and "The Ocean Parade," by Mickelson and Byrne, the latter is an old Oregon grad.

Granddad Dads Get Special Table

OREGON granddads will receive their share of the limelight during the Dad's Day celebration this year, with a special section reserved for them at the football game and a special table at the banquet.

Arrangements for their entertainment are being made by Gladys Clausen, chairman of the reception committee, who will act as hostess for all visiting granddads.

Last year six attended Dad's Day, and it is expected that several will be here this year.

Vesper Services Will Begin Sunday With Dads Invited

Schwering, Women's Dean, To Have Management Of Worship

A special "Dad's Day" program will open the series of Sunday afternoon vesper services to be given at the school of music auditorium during the year next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

John Stark Evans, organist, and Howard Halbert, violinist, will each play several selections, and James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, will give a reading and a prayer.

The vespers services for the year will be under the direction of Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women. She urges all of the students who will be hosts to their fathers this week-end to bring them to the vespers service with them.

"Let your fathers see that there is a side to our college life that is distinctly spiritual," she urged; "an aspect quite apart from football games and even the academic routine."

Mrs. Schwering has written an explanation of the scope and purpose of the University vespers which will be printed on Sunday's programs.

It has been announced that the Murray Warner Oriental Art museum and library, located on the third floor of the Gerlinger building, will be open at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon to permit those who attend the vespers to visit the museum, which contains one of the finest collections of Oriental art in the country.

Sorority Girls Purchase Pedigreed House Canine

The Alpha Delta Pi sorority has purchased a pedigreed Boston bull house dog—or pup—4 months old. His registered name is Wee Bobby Burns, coming from the Boston Bull Kennels, five miles east of Eugene.

A schedule will soon be worked out whereby each freshman pledge will take care of him for one week—when they can get him away from the upperclassmen.

Scotch Very Americanized Is Report of Dr. E. P. Kremer

"One is struck by the great differences between the countries of Europe while traveling through them," said Dr. Edmund P. Kremer, of the Germanic languages department, who traveled in Europe this summer.

"Scotland, for instance, is very Americanized. There are filling stations on nearly every corner of the cities. There are a great many automobiles, too. Of course, the country and the mountains have a natural beauty which cannot be lost."

"England is quite different. The people are not so hurried as those in Scotland. The English gentleman is too anxious to keep the crease in his trousers just right, to hurry like the Scotch and the Americans do. The ladies, too, seem to have their minds fixed on shopping and clothes."

"I like the cleanliness of the northern cities. The Swedish and Norwegian people are very intelligent and courteous. I enjoyed myself thoroughly while there."

"The Austrians are very like the Americans. They are always ready

Jean Eberhart, Mickey Hall and Maurice Pease are putting on a tumbling act that will hold the audience for five minutes. A 15-minute wrestling match between Vincent Miesen and Art Reeves will finish the program.

Organizations on the campus are asked to have some sort of entertainment in store for the Dads on Friday night and following the banquet on Saturday.

Bill Hayward, varsity trainer and track coach, will act as referee for all of the matches. "This will be a high class program," said Knowlton, "and will be run off rapidly without the usual delay between events."

Arrangements for the banquet were nearing completion last night according to Marguerite Tarbell. More than 1000 places will be set in expectation of the horde of Dads and students who will attend.
