

Rooks Defeat Frosh Eleven By One Point

Final Score 7 to 6 When Joslin Drop-kicks for Extra Tally

Game Has Much Running; Penalties Total Over 200 Yards

In a rough and tumble game, featured by brilliant open field running and over 200 yards of penalties, the Oregon frosh eleven lost the first of the big little games by a 7 to 6 score last night on Bell field at Corvallis.

Joe Lillard, speedy halfback, was the outstanding man on the field. He scored the yearlings' only touchdown by a 50-yard run, and made a 60-yard punt return over the goal line only to have the ball returned and an off side penalty enforced.

The Rooks' score was made early in the third quarter of an intercepted pass. Joslin, fullback, caught one of Lillard's passes in midfield and outran the frosh tacklers to score. Joslin also added the deciding point on a drop kick.

Lillard's run came a few minutes later after the Frosh took the ball on the 50 yard line. He carried the ball off left tackle, reversed his field, and easily outran Biancone, Rook safety, for the only Frosh score. Kennedy's attempt to add the extra point failed.

The Frosh made valiant attempts to score in the last few minutes with long passes which were knocked down.

Lillard was badly hurt at this time after being kicked in the head by Valz, Rook guard, when he was tackled on a punt return.

Lillard, Kennedy, Morgan, McLellan, and Wishard played outstanding ball for the Frosh. The Rooks' best were Biancone, Joslin, and Adams.

Starting lineup:
Frosh: Mikulak, Curtin, Morgan, LGR, Kinna, McLellan, C, Danforth, Meredith, RGL, Peterson, McCallum, RTL, Parsilly, Wishard, REL, Anderson, Eabbitt, Q, Biancone, Lillard, LHR, Harnes, DePittard, RHL, Adams, Kennedy, F, Joslin
Officials: Referee, Sam Dolan; umpire, Shy Huntington; head linesman, Wade Williams.

Five Pledged by Theta Sigma Phi

New Members Prominent in Journalism

Five women were pledged yesterday afternoon by Theta Sigma Phi, journalistic honorary.

The pledges are Henrietta Steinke, Mildred Dobbins, Lois Nelson, Lenore Ely, and Eleanor Jane Ballantyne.

Henrietta Steinke, senior, is editor of the Oregana and has had considerable other journalistic experience.

Mildred Dobbins, senior, is an experienced linotype operator and is editor of the College Year section of the Oregana.

Lois Nelson, junior, is a star reporter on the Emerald and has done considerable publicity work.

Lenore Ely, junior, is a day editor on the Emerald and is editor of the senior section of the Oregana.

Theta Sigma Phi chooses its members from junior and senior women in journalism. Their election is based on journalistic activities, interest, and scholarship.

Lutheran, Presbyterian Students To Hear Talk

Rev. Frank Beistel, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will address a combined group of Lutheran and Presbyterian students at the regular Sunday evening meeting at Westminster house this week.

Dr. Beistel's talk will deal with the origin and characteristics of the Lutheran church, with regard particularly to the prospects of a union of all denominations. This talk is one of a series on church union which will continue throughout the term.

Following the talk the meeting will be thrown open for discussion and questions. A social half hour will be held from 6 to 6:30, with the meeting following, from 6:30 to 7:30. All students are invited.

'Doc' and Some of his Crew

Former Oregon All-Star Athlete Here Now as Dad

In the Dad's section at the game tomorrow will be one Oregon Dad who has had the real fighting Oregon spirit. He is George Hug, superintendent of schools at Salem, Oregon, and star in three major sports at the University of Oregon prior to his graduation in 1907.

Mr. Hug was an all northwest football star in 1907, two years a member of the Oregon track team, and a famed basketball player of the old days. He also served one year as president of the University student body.

This prominent alumnus will be a Dad's day guest of his son, Wallace Hug, a freshman on the campus. Wallace is a Beta Theta Pi pledge this year. His Dad was a member back in 1907.

and noble adventure of education. —ARNOLD BENNETT HALL, President, University of Oregon.

On this fourth annual Dad's day celebration, it is a real pleasure to extend a student welcome to the largest group of Oregon Dads ever to be on the campus at one time. The student committees have left no detail undone in making your all too short stay here a pleasant one.

The value students see in having parents understand their problems cannot be over-emphasized; it is our sincere wish that Dad's day will continue to double in magnitude each year.

Business Administration School To Make Program

The school of business administration has been asked by the Oregon state board of horticulture to organize a program on November 13, to discuss the subject of an overseas market for dried prunes.

The meeting will probably be arranged by and be under the direction of H. C. Hawkins, according to Dean Faville.

J. H. Nash To Be In Eugene Sunday

Famous Printer To Inspect Fine Arts Building

John Henry Nash, famous printer and sport enthusiast, who is now in Seattle with the University of California football team, plans to be in Eugene on Sunday. The purpose of his visit is to inspect the new Fine Arts building. Mr. Nash, known as a most artistic printer, is interested in all things pertaining to art, and is eager to find out all details in regard to the new structure.

Besides his artistic interests Mr. Nash is a keen football fan and has not missed a game which the University of California has played in 35 years.

Amphibian Lists 17 New Pledges

Swimming Club Holds Its Second Tryout

Amphibian club, local swimming honorary for women, announced yesterday that 17 women had successfully passed the pledge requirements and were now eligible to work for initiation requirements into the club.

Two try-outs were given this term, and more will be given later in the year, but not this term. Those passing the tests are: Caroline Card, Portland; Jane Carter, Sacramento; Dorothy Cunningham, Portland; Marie Daly, Seaside; Mary Daniels, San Francisco; Helen Dunhee, Portland; Edith Greene, Portland; Isabelle Jenkins, Honolulu; Frances Keene, Silverton; Anita Knotts, El Paso, Texas; Dorothy Lou MacMillan, Portland; Fanny Vick Pierce, Portland; Ann Powell, Manila; Helen Raitanen, Astoria; Agnes Stewart, Powers; Mary Jane Vinson, Cottage Grove; and Vivian Vinson, Portland.

Miss Troemel, adviser to the club, requests that the pledges be at the women's pool at 8 on Tuesday evening for their first meeting.

Free Ice Cream Delivery Softens Infirmary Life

Patients at the infirmary are not compelled to live such a hard life after all. Along with their medicines and treatments they now receive free ice cream at regular intervals each week.

This unusual situation is the result of a kindness of heart on the part of the Sandwich Delivery company. Three times each week the delivery man calls and delivers a carton of ice cream to each of the students confined to the infirmary. The infirmary officials, however, hope that the ice cream situation won't increase their business.

Dads' Executive Council Will Visit Peters Lodge

Members of the executive council of the Oregon Dads and of Peters Lodge committee are to meet at the Administration building, in cars, and with 30 cents, Sunday morning at 9 a. m., to go to Peters Lodge for breakfast, it was announced late Friday by Betty Cook, member of the committee.

From the Ad building the Dads will drive to the lodge on the Wilamette, where they will be served breakfast. Since the executive council of the Oregon Mothers visited the Lodge last year, it was thought appropriate to have the Dads also see what their daughters have in the way of a retreat.

Graduate Qualifies for Master of Arts Degree

Florence James, graduate assistant in the English department, has qualified for her master of arts degree. Miss James passed her oral examination, and her thesis, "Three Representatives of Evil as Seen in Paradise Lost, Cain, and Dr. Faustus," was accepted.

Miss James graduated from the University in 1928 and has been working in the English department since.

Organized Dads Have Been Aid To College Aims

When President Hall speaks to the 700 Oregon Dads at the fourth annual Dads' Day banquet this evening, he will feel that one of his cherished dreams for the University has come true.

President Hall brought to Oregon from his Mid-Western connections the belief that a strong organization of the parents of Oregon students could do much to aid the students and the University. The rapidity with which this year's freshmen have taken to the life of the school is, in the opinion of Dean Karl Onthank, concrete proof of the success of President Hall's undertaking.

At the first meeting of the Oregon Dads in 1927 there were a scant 300. In 1928 nearly 400 Dads saw the game with Staforf and attended the banquet, presided over by Bruce Dennis of Klamath Falls, first president of the Dads. Last year about 500 Dads saw the Oregon football victory over U. C. L. A., 27 to 0, and met at the banquet under the leadership of Paul T. Shaw of Portland, who is president of the organization this year also.

Portland sent 134 Dads to last year's meeting, and this year's representation will exceed that number by nearly a hundred, if yesterday's registration is any indication.

"Bigger and better year by year" is the history of the Oregon Dads. The University yearly grows stronger and more powerful through them and through their families. Welcome, Oregon Dads! extension faculty.

OREGON IS HOST TO DADS FOR WEEK-END

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, will deliver the main address of the evening. This will be followed by the presentation of the Norblad and Shaw prizes by Paul T. Shaw.

Report of the annual business meeting will follow and the introduction of the new officers. "Au Revoir," by Paul T. Shaw, and the after-dinner entertainment with Bill Hayward as referee will complete the program.
