

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

McDonald — Saturday only, "Scotland Yard." Sunday and Monday, Charles Farrell in "Lillom."

Heilig—Saturday only, Barthelmeis in "The Dawn Patrol." Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Numbered Men."

Colonial — Saturday only, Wheeler and Woolsey in "Cuckoos." Sunday and Monday "With Byrd at the South Pole."

State — Sunday and Monday, "Hell's Island."

Rex — Saturday and Sunday only, Buck Jones in "The Lone Rider."

Farrell Coming

"Lillom," playing at the McDonald Sunday and Monday, is taken from the famous play by Ferenc Molnar and is starring Charles Farrell. It is rated as being one of the "big ten" of the season.

"Lone Rider" Tomorrow

Buck Jones, one of the best in westerns, is playing in "The Lone Rider" at the Rex on Sunday. It is booked as a breath-taking, rough ridin' epic of the old West.

Byrd Picture Scheduled

The great venture of Richard Byrd into the Antarctic was recorded in films by some of his companions, and can be seen in all its tremendous glory at the Colonial

Sunday. It is a breath-taking record of one of the world's great adventures.

"Cuckoos" Return

"The Cuckoos," playing the Colonial today only, is a comedy built to fit for those two laugh-makers, Wheeler and Woolsey. The theatre is letting all Dads in free today, if accompanied by an ed or co-ed.

"Scotland Yard" Here

Edmund Lowe has a new role in the film "Scotland Yard," playing the McDonald today only. He wears a number of disguises which make him a master of make-up.

"Numbered Men" Coming

In a love story woven around the background of convict life, Conrad Nagel is starring at the Heilig Sunday and Monday, in "Numbered Men." He is supported by Bernice Claire and Raymond Hackett.

"Hell's Island," a serious drama that covers all countries and climates before the curtain, is playing the State Sunday and Monday. Jack Holt and Ralph Graves have the leads.

This is the last day to see Richard Barthelmeis's film of the war in the air. It is titled "The Dawn Patrol." Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. has a fine part as the buddy.

Thirteen Students To Miss Thrill of Meeting Their Dads

Several Faculty Members Have Children Who Are Attending University

For at least 13 students the thrill of going down to the station to welcome Dad and showing him off to friends is going to be missing. To them the fact of Dad's day is not going to be any excuse either to get out of classes. These are 13 whose fathers are members of the University faculty.

There are altogether 18 Oregon Dads on the faculty list, 12 of these having sons or daughters attending school now. These 12 are Professor Percy P. Adams of the school of architecture, Dean Eric W. Allen of the school of journalism, Professor R. C. Clark of the history department, Professor F. S. Dunn of the Latin department, Dean Jas. H. Gilbert of the college of literature, science and the Arts, Professor R. C. Hall, superintendent of the University Press, Professor H. C. Howe of the English department, Dean E. F. Lawrence of the school of architecture and the arts, Dean George Rebec of the graduate school, Professor F. L. Shinn of the chemistry department, Professor W. F. G. Thacher of the English department, Professor O. F. Stafford of the chemistry department, and Professor H. S. Tuttle of the school of education.

Others of the faculty "Dads" having sons and daughters who are alumni are: Professor W. G. Boynton of the physics department, Professor E. W. DeBusk of the school of education, Dean Sheldon of the school of education, Dean Emeritus John Straub, and Professor E. H. McAlister of the department of mechanics and astronomy. The latter's son, E. D. McAlister, was until this year assistant professor of physics at the University and is now with the Smithsonian Institute.

Those who have sons and daughters graduates of the University as well as attending the University now are, Professor Adams, Professor Dunn, Professor Howe, Professor Shinn, and Professor Tuttle.

Evelyn Hamilton Made President Of Organization

New Club Sponsored by Physical Ed. Majors Strictly Social

Evelyn Hamilton, senior in physical education from Central Point, was elected president of the women's new physical education club that was recently organized on the campus. Ella Redkey, junior in physical education from Klamath Falls, was elected secretary-treasurer, and Joyce Busenbark, freshman in physical education, from Roseburg, will handle publicity.

The club, which is being sponsored by Hermian, physical education honorary for women, was organized with a strictly social purpose in view. It is designed to bring other departments and campus organizations closer together. All physical education majors and minors are eligible to join.

"A committee will be appointed in the near future to draw up a constitution," said the new president in discussing the club's plans. "Physical education clubs are sponsored in most colleges having major departments in physical education and this long-needed organization will be a step forward."

Robinson Exhibit To Be Shown for Dads' Benefit

The Doraland Robinson exhibit of water color paintings and oils, will be hung tomorrow for the Dad's day exhibit in the museum of the architectural building. Besides this group of approximately 30 pictures there will be a group of prints owned by the University. The Doraland Robinson group was donated by the parents of Doraland after her death, to the school of architecture. She was a former Oregon student. The museum will be open tomorrow from 1 o'clock to 4:30, and Sunday from 2 until 5.

Account Bulletin To Soon Be Ready For Distribution

Oregon Research Bureau Devises New System For Cities

Word was received yesterday at the school of business administration from Secretary of State Hoss that a bulletin covering the "System of Accounts for Oregon's Municipalities" is now being printed and will soon be ready for distribution.

The accounting system as presented in the bulletin was prepared under the direction of C. L. Kelly, professor in the school of business administration, and took nearly a year to complete.

The 1929 legislature passed a bill providing for a uniform system of accounting for the municipalities of Oregon. The bureau of business research of the school of business administration volunteered to work out a system.

Under the projected plan the state of Oregon and the various municipalities will be able to furnish more information about activities than ever before and at the same time the costs should be considerably less than under the present system in use since much duplication of work is reduced, according to Dean Faville.

The bulletin has been rushed through its preparatory stages in order that it will be ready for the next accounting period beginning January 1, 1931.

1893 WEBFOOTS ARE IN EUGENE FOR REUNION

(Continued from Page One) and after the first team was picked we used to line the others up three and four deep and send the first string through. It was good practice for the boys.

"This year I have sent letters to all that remain of that old original team, inviting them to attend a reunion luncheon with me at the Eugene hotel today. I am sure that three of the original eleven will be present, and I am expecting a fourth to show up this morning. Charles Wintermeier, lawyer of Eugene, who played right end;

Frank Mathews, pastor of the First Baptist church of Corvallis, quarterback; Clarence Keene, now a physician and surgeon at Silverton, halfback, are sure to be present. I expect Howard Davis, automobile dealer in Portland, and formerly halfback, to be here when the luncheon begins. There are a few others who can not be present because of the distance of their homes from Eugene. Some of them live in New York. Four of the old team that I know of have passed away.

"This is the first reunion that the team has ever held, and we are sorry that all the boys can't be here."

EMERALD CHIPS

Wesley Club Meeting— "The Single and Double Standard" is to be the topic for discussion at the Wesley club meeting Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the Methodist church.

Carpenter Confined— Dr. Charles E. Carpenter, dean of the law school, was confined to his home yesterday with a severe attack of influenza. It is not known when the professor will be able to return to his office.

Students Must Show Cards— Admission of students to the Idaho game will be by student body ticket only. Students failing to present cards at the gate will be denied admittance.

Leave Cars at Home— To relieve the traffic congestion that attends every game on Hayward field, the Eugene police department requests that students walk to the game instead of driving in cars.

Boynton Goes to Portland— Prof. W. P. Boynton of the physics department left for Portland over the week-end. He will bring his wife back with him when he returns.

Betty Carpenter About Undies

The last wrinkle in underwear is no wrinkle at all. Step-ins are made with a circular theme, and there is no elastic at the waist. Just a binding of the same material is all that is necessary. Slips are no longer the commonplace affairs that they once were, for they have become complex affairs of crepe and lace, close fitting and decorative. The Eugene shops are showing undies in all of the new styles, so it is a wise woman who realizes the necessity for wearing "wrinkle-less" undies, and does something about it. And don't forget the Emerald Shopping and Style Service. OREGON DAILY EMERALD

Program for Day Finished Despite Serious Setbacks

In spite of many difficulties, Hal Johnson, of the Dad's Day directorate, in charge of the program, fulfilled all of his duties.

Hal had been in the infirmary with the flu for 13 days when he received a leave of absence for a few hours Friday afternoon. He prepared the banquet program and invited the various prominent persons to make speeches. They include, Mrs. Walter M. Cook, president of the Oregon Mothers' organization, Governor Norblad, and C. L. Starr, of the board of higher education.

Much of this was finished before the illness came on.

Dr. William F. Pierce, president of Kenyon college, has entered a sanitarium at Washington, Pa., to recuperate from an appendix operation undergone in August. He plans to take a month's vacation at Hot Springs, Va., before resuming his duties at Kenyon in December.

Dads Rate As Best Daters Tonight Tonight is the big night for Oregon Dads; and it is the Dads who will rate as the big daters of the campus. It is their turn to feel "young and foolish" again. The night is closed to house dances, but last night ten of them were given.

Susan Campbell— The predominating motif for three of the dances was autumn. Susan Campbell gave a "cord and print" dance at the Craftsman's club, where all of the decorations were tawny autumn leaves.

Chi Omega— Autumn leaves lined the walls, the centerpiece on each table was composed of leaves, and the programs were shaped as leaves, at the Chi Omega pledge dance.

Hendricks Hall— An informal dance was given by Hendricks hall in the "gold" room. Corn stalks, red autumn leaves, fat yellow pumpkins, and subdued lights were used for decorations. The programs carried out the Halloween idea.

Kappa Kappa Gamma— The house alive with trophies of the hunt: bear skins, deer heads, mountain lions, Kappa Kappa Gamma honored its pledges with a dance carried out with an Indian motif. Navajo blankets and Indian rugs were hung on the walls.

Alpha Upsilon— Another autumn dance was that given by Alpha Upsilon honoring its pledges. Sam Mushen was general chairman for the dance.

Delta Gamma— Delta Gamma entertained for

Increase Shown In ROTC Numbers

All Men To Have Uniforms By January

There are approximately 100 more men in the military department this year than the total enrollment last year, according to Major F. A. Barker, professor of military science. The combined number of freshmen and sophomore students in the training at present totals more than 680. The uniforms, which are entirely new this year, are complete with the exception of the leather waist belts. The belt equipment is expected to arrive within two weeks. Those who were not able to be fitted with uniforms at the first of the term are gradually being supplied as the extra suits arrive. By January every man will have his full equipment, it is hoped.

Mothers To Have Dinner At Anchorage Tonight

Oregon Mothers who accompany the Oregon Dads to the campus this week-end are asked to register with the dean of women upon their arrival. Provisions have been its pledges with a colonial dance. Men in knee breeches and frills around the neck, women in hoop-skirts, bowed and courtesied on the walls. Corsages were stiff and old-fashioned, and the programs carried out the motif with silhouettes as frontispieces.

Sigma Nu— Don't be disappointed when you hear the funeral knell. For we will run the chapter in the very depths of Hell. The Sigma Nu dance was a Hell dance, a veritable inferno with devils prancing all around. The rooms were done in red.

Alpha Xi Delta— It was a "Hell of an Idea" dance which the Alpha Xi Deltas gave for their pledges. Ghostly sheets draped the walls, wierd lighting effects made skeletons shine grotesquely in secluded corners.

Pi Beta Phi— Shades of blue and silver, stars and moons hung suspended from the ceiling, and palms for a romantic and tropical atmosphere gave effect to the Pi Beta Phi pledge dance.

Sigma Pi Tau— A patrol wagon, driven by two uniformed cops and madly blowing its siren, called for all the fair convicts who attended the prison dance which was given by Sigma Pi Tau. A barred gate closed behind the prisoners as they entered the house. The orchestra was behind bars and all the windows were barred.

Rally Dance— Almost a thousand students jammed the floors of the men's gym yesterday afternoon at the rally dance. Campus clothes were the order of the day.

made by Dean Schwering for mothers to get together for dinner on Saturday night at the same time as the dads' banquet. Reservations may be made at the Anchorage for those who care to meet with the other mothers by notifying the dean or registering with her at her office in Johnson hall. Mothers are invited to listen-in on the speeches at the dads' banquet, and to attend the luncheon at McArthur court Saturday noon and the football game Saturday afternoon.

Number of Dads Here To Exceed All Records

Eugene hotel managers report complete sell-outs, which indicated the number of Dads planning to be on the Oregon campus this week-end. All out of state attendance records will be shattered, the registrar's office reports. California and Washington are sending a number of Dads, while Oregon will have representatives from all cities. Portland will send the largest number.

Norman Rushton and Alvin M. Kelligon, of San Francisco; Ed. M. Sehorn, of Willows and C. A. Stutsman, of Los Angeles are among the Dads coming from California.
