Victorious Webfeet Romp Through First Practice Session of Home Stretch

Spears Gives His Reserves A Sound Test

UCLA Should Make Good Practice Game for OSC Clash

Second String Backs Fail To Make Impression In Vandal Game

With two conference victories behind him Coach Spears last evening put his men through the first practice session of what might be termed the home stretch.

U. C. L. A. is the next hurdle and after Stanford gets through venting their spleen on these poor lads next week the following week they should provide Doc with just what kind of opposition he needs in preparation for the tough game to follow, that with the Oregon State Beavers, whose strength is undenied.

Idaho put up a fight last week and showed that the Webfoots had developed a few weaknesses since handing a decisive beating to Washington. With this in mind and two weeks to develop for the Southern California school, a strong showing is in the offing.

The coming game should prove interesting from two aspects. One that it is the only conference game in which the Lemon and Green meets a California school and that, it is the annual homecoming game.

Reserves Worked One of the weaknesses shown in last Saturday's game was the apparent inability of the second backs to utilize the holes made by the line and it is evident from last night's work with the reserves that Doc is trying to bolster his reserve strength.

One of the high spots of the Vandal game was the manner in which the Webfoots returned the ball after the kickoff following the lone Vandal score. Had the timekeeper been a bit slower an almost certain score would have resulted.

Danes Appointed To Oregana Staff

Photographs To Be Taken Of Independents

Announcing the art staff for the 1931 Oregana, Henrietta Steinke, editor, yesterday made known the appointment of Gibson Danes, of Portland, as art editor. Danes is a sophomore in architecture. Helen Dunham will fill the position of assistant art editor, and Jewell Ellis will be poster art editor.

Minor jobs on the art staff are still open, and may be obtained through Danes, it was announced. Photographs of independent students for the Oregana will be taken next Saturday, November 1.

Oregon Graduate To Edit Mortar Board Quarterly

Two students who graduated from the University of Oregon in 1929 are now members of the staff of the Mortar Board National Quarterly, according to a letter received at the school of education recently.

Dorothy Baker, graduate in journalism and alumni member of Alpha Xi Delta, is editor of the Mortar Board publication.

Katharine Kneeland, alumnus of the school of education and member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, is alumni editor of the Quarterly. Both girls are living in Chicago.

Football Different In 1894 Says Oregon's First Coach

Cal Young Avers Spears, Rockne Best Coaches In Country

In the days when the flying wedge was football's greatest play, and tacklers could be evaded by a straight arm to the face, Cal Young was coaching Oregon's first football team and doing a mighty fine job of it. On a day in March, 36 years ago, Mr. Young's team smothered Albany college to the tune of 43-2, thus beginning Oregon's football history.

The interview with Mr. Young took place in the lobby of the Eugene hotel. He wore high cowboy boots and a big sombrero hat. His hair was white, but his figure was straight as an arrow and his eyes a clear blue. Mr. Young looks like he could turn out a good football team today if called upon to do so as he was one day back in 1894. But let Mr. Young tell his own story:

"I learned to play football at Bishop Scott academy in Portland, which is now Hill Military academy. Jack Gavin, who introduced football to the state of Oregon, was an instructor there.

"I was in business in Eugene at the time they asked me to coach football at Oregon, but I accepted and we got started in the spring. That is how we happened to play our first game in March. I had a pretty hard job ahead of me. The boys didn't know football from a cow.

"Football was very different then. They used mass formations, and couldn't use the forward pass. A pass had to be made laterally or backwards. The game of today is more interesting, but it was rougher then and harder on the men physically. But I whipped up a team, and I don't think there was another team in Oregon as good as our team of 1894 with the possible exception of Bishop Scott.

"Yes, I think Doctor Spears is a wonderful coach. In fact, I believe that he and Knute Rockne are the two best coaches in the country without exception. I told Doctor Spears when he first arrived in Portland that what the people of Eugene and Oregon want is a winning team like some of those we have had in the past. I believe Spears will make a great success. He has splendid material in these Western boys.

"I particularly like the way Spears conditions his men through hard training. You can't carry a man on a cushion and expect him to play football."

Mr. Young lives just outside of Eugene and is, of course, an ardent follower of the team. He was in the city Friday for the occasion of the first reunion of the team he coached in 1894.

Mrs. Warner Returns Mrs. Gertrude Bass Warner, director of the museum, returned to Eugene yesterday from the East. She has taken up her residence at the Osborne hotel.

Gym Staff Heads Declare Forfeits In Tournaments

Tourneys Show Advances Since Department Took Action

After dallying with tardy participants in the campus golf, handball, and tennis tourneys the physical education department grew weary and declared a number of forfeits in favor of those willing to play on the scheduled time. This decision advanced the handball singles to the quarter finals and the doubles to the semi-finals, placed golf in the third round, and sent the tennis doubles to the semi-finals.

Only three matches were necessary to advance the handball singles—Director, Whitley, and Levoff winning over Hughes, Vanderheit, and Bredeen, respectively. Cress, Eberhart, and Les Johnson were handed their matches by the department. Harvely Benson, who won last fall's tournament, was one of the losers by the gym staff's edict. Al Schmidt, Ken-Swan, Duane Frisbie, Bob Stevens, Sam Gordon, and Homer Stahl were the beneficiaries in golf while Ike Kafoury, Dan Olsen, and Bob Adelsperger defeated Bill Ott, Bob Near, and Vernon Mapes, respectively. Bob Weller and Bud Meyer moved into the semi-finals of the tennis doubles.

"The first round in horseshoes must be disposed of by Wednesday or the department will take the same steps to promote action," said Earl Bouchey, director. "We were willing to grant a certain amount of delay but when the tournaments seemed certain to drag along for an indefinite period drastic action had to be taken."

by a forfeit from the A. B. C. matadors, but this afternoon at 4 o'clock the Fijis will meet Kappa Sigma in the second round of the tournament in swimming and polo. The Wild Cats will endeavor to best Chi Psi at 5 p. m. in both events.

The weaker teams are beginning to fall by the wayside now as the second round gets under way. The matches are real thrillers and are very popular with the spectators.

Team Will Train On Pee-Wee Golf

RAY O'DONNELL'S miniature golf course will be turned into a gridiron tonight when the entire football team, the managers, the trainers, coaches, water-boys and even the sports writers will be Ray's guests for the evening.

A big evening is promised the guests by the owner and his side-kick, Brian Mimmugh, both hosts emphasizing the fact that for the evening and as much of the evening as they desire the football contingent shall rule the place.

A tournament is planned with a novel prize to be awarded the winner.

Barnett Receives Book Collection From Yale Press

The Yale University Press has sent to Professor James D. Barnett, chairman of the department of political science, a shipment of 39 books published by the Yale University Press. This gift is made "in memory of William Howard Taft (E. A. Yale, 1887), president and later chief justice of the United States, who was one of the first to interest himself actively in the work of the Yale University Press when this was founded in 1908; and in memory of Arthur Twining Hadley (E. A. Yale 1876) and president emeritus of Yale university, who himself declared shortly before his retirement that the one development on which he looked back with the greatest satisfaction in his whole administration was the development of the publishing work of the University following the establishment of the Yale University Press, and the recognition it had obtained throughout the world." These books are to be placed in the University library, according to M. H. Douglass, librarian.

Royal Russian Chorus

COMING TO EUGENE
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1930

No more closely knit artistic unit exists than the Royal Russian choir, founded by Prince Dmitry Alexandrovitch Agrenov-Slaviansky at the command of the Czar, in 1858. For nearly ninety years this venerable choral organization has brought its interpretation of Slavic music to every civilized country of the world.

Now Eugene music lovers have the golden opportunity to hear the pride of all Russia. Don't miss it.
