Baxter Has Desert Role

At the McDonald theatre today and Saturday, Warner Baxter is playing in his latest talkie, "Renegades," with Myrna Loy supporting him.

All the romance, gusto, color and dash of the French Foreign Legion brighten this story of a brave man who joined up to escape the memories of his past, only to have that past rise up and confront him when the woman who betrayed him appears to carry on her deadly work. He becomes a deserter when his attempt to kill her fails, and, joining with Arabs, finds himself committed to lead the latter in an attack on his former comrades. He finally squares his account at a terrific price.

Rex Has Western

Hoot Gibson, starring in "The Concentrat' Kid," which opens today at the Rex, merits the reputation of a peerless interpreter of western roles. Since winning the all-round champion cowboy trophy in the Pendleton Roundup, he has taken many honors in roping and horsemanship in annual rodeos. His leading lady in this picture is Kathryn Crawford who sings.

Heilig Has Divorce Film

A cast of well known screen personalities is supporting Ruth Roland in her first talking picture, "Reno." It is a story of the divorce problem, and the meaning of this "new freedom." The cast includes Montagu Love, Kenneth Thomson, Sam Hardy, Alice McCormick, and Gayne Whitman.

"Dance Hall at State

Vina Delmar's story, "Dance Hall," has been filmed by Melville Brown. The director has shown a shrewd appreciation of the original story, and the film, now showing at the State theatre, is filled with many fine comedy touches. Arthur Lake and Olive Borden take the leading roles.

Double Show at Colonial

A sizzling array of well known S. A. appears in the Colonial film, "The Golden Calif." It is being

Hall Will Conduct Two Expeditions

Invitation Is Received by University

Josef Hall, better known by his pen name, Upton Close, of the University of Washington, has sent an invitation to the University of Oregon to go on one of the cultural expeditions which he has conducted for the past four years.

He is well known on the campus, having lectured here in previous years.

There are two expeditions on tour from which to choose, one to the Orient, which leaves the last week of June and will return early in September, and the other to South America, which leaves the first week of July and will return about September first.

The South American cruise is limited to 30, but the membership is open to any students, faculty members, or townspeople.

The rates are exceedingly reasonable, making it possible for a student to make the trip to the Orient for as low a sum as $525. The other tour is slightly higher.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Pacific Era Travels, Inc., "Upton Close Expeditions," 307 Crary Bldg., Seattle, Washington.

Infirmiry Is Depleted Of Average Enrollment

Yesterday the number of patients confined to the infirmary had sunk to its lowest ebb this term. There were only three students, Clyde Gilbert, Jean Beardsley and Virgil La Claire, registered there.

"This is quite an unusual situation during the mid-term examinations," said Helen Fleming, nurse in charge. "The students generally patronize the infirmary to quite an extensive degree when mid-terms are in vogue. It may not be a standardized rule but nevertheless this is the lowest registration we've yet had during the examinations."

Progress Predicted for Furniture Manufacturing

Process Considered With Other Industries of Oregon

Substantial progress in furniture manufacturing, especially with a view to supplying the Pacific coast and adjacent states, is predicted for Oregon by O. K. Burrell, professor of business administration at the University of Oregon, in a recent research study, "An Industrial Audit of Oregon." In this the future of the furniture industry is considered along with that of other industries of this state.

"It hardly seems possible that Oregon manufacturers of furniture will offer any serious competition in the national market, for the market of Oregon producers is now, and will undoubtedly continue to be in the Pacific coast area", says Professor Burrell.

"Oregon does have an opportunity for limited expansion in the manufacture of the higher grades of furniture for while the local market has been supplied by western manufacturers for low and medium priced articles, most of the high quality period, antique, and modern furniture sold in this section has been supplied by the middle west and eastern manufacturers. Oregon manufacturers, by turning out a quality product, can compete successfully in this field."

Since 1919, when the value of furniture manufactured in Oregon was $1,961,000, the output has doubled, and in 1927 it totalled approximately $4,000,000. The same ratio holds forth for the entire United States, although the growth in the entire country for all industries was but 52 per cent, Mr. Burrell points out.

Furniture is something of an "optional purchase," it is stated, and the increase in volume is held due to the prosperity enjoyed during the period covered above. With the country emerging from a depression, a bright future should be in prospect for furniture men, the figures show.

Oregon is slightly ahead of Washington in volume output of furniture, but is behind California. Washington's total for the year 1927 was only slightly over $3,000,000, while California turned out $22,404,000 for the same year.

The bulletin in which these statistics are found is number six of the series issued regularly by the school of business administration of the University of Oregon.

Former Oregon Hurdler Now Prof. at Cincinnati

Ralph Tuck, who was a famous hurdler for Oregon six years ago, has been made an assistant professor of economic geology at the University of Cincinnati. Tuck states in a letter received by Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of geology.

It is a remarkable achievement, according to Dr. Hodge, to have attained such a position in so short a time. Tuck was a research assistant for Dr. Hodge in 1927, when he took his master's degree. He later received his Ph.D. at Cornell. This past summer was spent working for the Standard Oil company.

SECOND FLOOR

Biology Student Fractures Skull

A SCRAPING noise, a crash, and then all was silent. Students rushed to the rescue but it was too late. They surrounded the object on the floor of the biology lab in horrified silence. Someone stooped and examined the thing on the floor.

"No use—we can't do anything now. The skull is fractured," she said.

The girl who had caused this tragedy gazed at her work with frightened eyes.

"That was a bad break," she said tearfully.

And then the biology students picked up the cracked skull and put it back in its place on the shelf.

Hallowe'en

"Sue" is going out and have a good time tonight, and she does hope to see all her friends doing the same. While having a good time don't forget that Dame Fashion is following you and probably will meet you at any corner, so be careful. Three cheers for Hallowe'en!

Light Rains Ahead

According to the weather man, and this means that your shoes will need to be shined often unless you don't mind them looking unkept and rain-spotted—and of course you want to look well-groomed. The best money saver "Sue" has found yet is a "shine-ticket" from the Campus Shine Shop on Thirteenth, where eleven shins may be purchased for only $1.00. Isn't it worth that to know that your shoes are always looking their best? Of course it is!

There's No Excuse for Forgetting

now that you can keep in your purse a small pocket flaskon. Laraway's Jewelry store carries the last word in Paris notes for perfumes. "Rare Orchid" and "Delta" come in these dainty flacons which are surprisingly low priced—from $8c to $1.75. Also Renoud is introducing a new perfume, "L'Acacia," for $2.95 an ounce.

Did you see Louise Chessman the other day on the campus in a darling blue crepe sport dress and blue turbin to match?

Means something more than a number. It's the answer to your problem the next evening you want food delivered to the house. In other words, 3204 means the Sandwich Delivery at your service. Just call this number—3204—and send for a delicious toasted sandwich made and delivered in "Vine's" best style. You'll declare that 3204 is one number you are not going to forget as long as you like good food!

May be short or long—blond, black or bronze-colored hair, but it must lay in waves about your face. So deprecates Fashion. This is to give you the feminine look that you need to wear the modern fluffly frocks. The Eugene Beauty Shop, in the Eugene Hotel building, will give you any sort of wave you prefer. The operators here will also be glad to arrange the curl in a most becoming and individual fashion.

Out-of-Date

Are the old types of Christmas cards, and in their place "Sue" finds clever greetings, which, following the modern trend, reflect personality and unusual charm. The Oriental Art Shop, on Broadway just off the Eugene Hotel lobby, has an exclusive agency in Eugene of Brownie block print Christmas cards, which are the very essence of modern greetings. They are so reasonably priced and so clever that you are surely going to do your Christmas "card shopping" early!

Hallowe'en

Just the time to decorate the house with bronze and gold mums. For the informal or barnyard bust mums will be appropriate and will give that "final" touch of completeness. Call the University Florists on 13th and they will decorate your house completely and then you need have no fear of ghosts getting you.

Found: A Bargain

Mary Margaret Stevens at tea the other day looked stunning in a powder blue georgette and lace semi-formal with pink velvet trim. Harmonizing pink accessories completed the outfit.

By "Sue" at the Buster Brown Shoe Store, where $1.50 shoes are now being specially priced at $1.00! And that is a bargain, especially when you know that the hose are "perfects" in both the new fall shades and lighter tones. By the way, while we are on the subject of bargains, don't forget that Buster Brown's is still ready to dye your fabric shoes any shade you desire to harmonize with your new formal.

Animal Families!

Have you seen those darling glass animal families at the U. of O. Ko-Ed shop next to the College Side? They come in different colors and have the cutest expressions on their faces. There are cat families, dog families and many individual animals which are so attractive. The families take their places quite naturally on a hanging shelf, table, or even your dresser. Perhaps we'll be able to hear the cat orchestra play! Let's all go and find out!

To Keep In Step

It is necessary to wear a type of shoe that will enable you to do so. McMorran and Washburne have the best-looking shoes—Duo-Flex—for only $6.50. They come in black and brown kid or calf skin with simulated lizard trim. Heels! Most any type you prefer, such as—boulevard, military, french or flat. Just the shoe for the occasion and your taste.
