

SOCIETY

By CAROL HURLBURT

Week-end to Honor Home-coming Alumni

Welcoming the alumni who have come "Home to Honor Oregon" is the main business of the week-end, and all social activities have been put aside except for those which will entertain graduates.

Sunday afternoon open house will be held by all sororities and fraternities from 2 o'clock in the afternoon on. Alumni will find that many new houses and many new decorations have been added in the last few years.

Rally Dance To Be Most Hilarious Function

The biggest single social event will be the Homecoming dance which will be given tonight in McArthur court.

A thousand balloons will be suspended from the ceiling; Homecoming signs will be hung against the wall; green and yellow lights will be focused on the floor, and everything else will be decorated in green and yellow.

The committee in charge is: Chet Knowlton, general chairman; Carol Hurlburt, assistant chairman; Marguerite Tarbell, secretary; Treve Jones, tickets; Margaret Ansley, patrons and patronesses; Fred Hellberg, floor; Jack Gregg, business manager; John Penland, decorations; Dorothy Derleth, programs; Beth Ann Johnson, reception; and Hugh Chapman, clean-up.

Informal Reception Will Precede Dance

The reception, of which Beth Ann Johnson is in charge, will be an informal affair and will be held from 8 o'clock until 9:30, immediately preceding the Homecoming dance.

Not only all alumni, members of the faculty, but all students and persons connected with the campus are invited to attend.

After-dinner coffee will be served at the reception instead of at the various living organizations.

Janice Hedges is in charge of flowers; Virginia Grone of refreshments; Sally Reed, music.

Pouring are: Alice Morrow, Frances Humphrey, Nancy Thielson, Elizabeth Martin, Bess Templeton, and Margaret Cummings.

Those who will assist about the rooms are: Barbara Barker, Betty Ann Macduff, Janet Thacher, Lois Nelson, Carol Hurlburt, and Beth Ann Johnson.

Journalists Come Out Of Bohemia for Jam

Costumes, masks, balloons, confetti, characterized the gay jam-boree which the journalism students held last night, coming out of their bohemia of typewriters and advertisements.

Prizes were awarded for the best and the funniest costumes; the best and the worst dancers.

Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalistic fraternity for men, sponsored the jam.

Fourteen Exchange Dinners Are Given

Fourteen exchange dinners were given Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

On Wednesday Phi Mu entertained for the freshmen of Phi Delta Theta; Phi Sigma Kappa for Alpha Omicron Pi; Phi Gamma Delta for Kappa Alpha Theta; Delta Gamma for Phi Kappa Psi; Chi Omega for Sigma Chi; Sigma Nu for Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Thursday night Sigma Alpha Epsilon entertained for Alpha Omicron Pi; Theta Chi for Alpha Xi Delta (this was a Halloween dinner with pumpkins on the table and goblins on the wall); Alpha Beta Chi for Hendricks hall; Alpha Upsilon for Zeta Tau Alpha; Kappa Kappa Gamma for Chi Psi;

Sigma Chi for Alpha Phi, and Alpha Delta Pi for Sigma Nu.

Tuesday evening Alpha Phi was invited to the Beta Theta Pi house, and Alpha Xi Delta to Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Sigma Kappa honored members of the faculty at dinner Wednesday.

Hermian Entertains Physical Ed. Faculty

Hermian, physical education honorary for women, entertained the members of the women's physical education faculty Tuesday afternoon at tea from 4 to 6.

Virginia Hunter and Jessie Puckett were in charge of arrangements.

Theta Omega Has Covered-dish Dinner

Theta Omega members and pledges had a covered-dish supper at the chapter house Monday evening. The dining room was decorated with pink carnations and tall tapers. Besides the active members and pledges those present were alumna members: Corrine Carpenter, Marguerite Carpenter, Mildred McCallister, Fay McCallister, and Catherine Stone. Patronesses were Mrs. Earl M. Pallett and Mrs. John Hershner, house chaperon.

Marjorie Shane Gives Typing Exhibit

Marjorie Shane, of the English department, was guest artist at the Journalism building from 11 to 12 on Wednesday, where she gave a typing recital. Graceful interpretation of the spirit of Underwood characterized her work.

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

McDonald — Saturday only, "Up the River." Sunday, "Eyes of the World."

Heilig — Saturday only, Lowell Sherman in "The Pay Off." Sunday till Tuesday, "Maybe It's Love," with All-American Football nine.

Colonial — Saturday only, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland." Sunday, George Arliss in "Disraeli."

Rex — Saturday and Sunday, Buck Jones in "Men Without Laws."

"Disraeli" at Colonial Sunday "Disraeli," starring George Arliss, the foremost actor on the English speaking stage today, comes to the Colonial theatre for Sunday and Monday.

"Disraeli" has been one of the big box-office successes for the year, and stands an excellent chance to win the Academy award for the outstanding film of the past year.

George Arliss, seen several times on the stage in Eugene, has his finest screen role in this, his favorite play. It is the story of Disraeli, the eminent premier of Britain during the reign of Victoria, the pure. It depicts the struggle of a Jew for recognition socially and politically.

Buck Jones at Rex Buck Jones is the last of the famous "hard-ridin'" western stars. He appears at the Rex theatre today and Sunday in "Men Without Laws," a gripping drama of the West. Jones is an able actor and this film gives him his chance to display his athletic prowess.

McDonald Has Prison Farce Today is your last chance to see the hilarious takeoff on serious prison dramas, "Up the River," playing at the McDonald theatre. With an equal division of farce and satire, the film, for sheer hilarity, has seldom been approached. It deals primarily with two amateur

Dean Straub Not At Homecoming For First Time

The Grand Old Man of Oregon is not on the campus today. He will be missed by every grad, for there are none who do not know him. Homecoming this year is the first graduate-reunion in 52 years that has commenced and ended without his colorful presence.

Yesterday, through Mrs. Straub, the following message was given to the Emerald from Emeritus Dean John Straub:

"I regret deeply that I cannot attend at Homecoming, but, in spirit, I'll be there, as always."

Since July, Dean Straub has been confined to his home, and a month ago his physicians forbade his receiving visitors. For the past several days he has not been allowed to leave his bed. Absolute rest and quiet, such as he never dreamed during his days as an Oregon professor, are now his daily employment.

Indeed, peace and seclusion are harder for him than all the heavy burden of the office of the dean of men. But in that quiet and rest lie his future strength.

His rapid, swinging stride and squared, broad shoulders will not be seen in the groups of old timers on the campus today, but he'll be there just the same, as every year in the past half century.

"In spirit, I'll be there, as always."

Willox To Attend Meeting W. R. E. Wilcox, professor of architecture, will leave today for Omaha, Nebraska, where he will attend the annual meeting of the American Inter-Professional Institute, to be held November 14 and 15.

Colonial Has Comedy Today Carrying their habit of getting into amusing and embarrassing situations across the Atlantic to Scotland, "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" are closing their Colonial run today. These two families find a series of adventures that rival Gulliver; they are among the premier laugh getters of the screen. Charlie Murray does the finest work as "old man Kelly," belligerent Irishman.

Sherman in Heilig Film Lowell Sherman, one of the best known actors on the legitimate, is playing at the Heilig today in "The Pay Off." The theme of this drama is the business of racketeering—Sherman playing the role of one old in the game who finally sees his house of cards collapse. It is a fine, gripping story with some thrilling moments of dramatic action.

All-American Team at Heilig Featuring the All-American team for 1929, "Maybe It's Love," opens at the Heilig Sunday for a three-day run. It is romance of college days, with a cast headed by Joan Bennett, Joe Brown and James Hall. A fast moving story of campus life, it presents an authentic picture of undergraduate days. Miss Bennett portrays a college belle, and Joe Brown has the

In Homecoming Concert

Washington Babe Finds Igloo Hard Place To Leave

A lone man, wandering around with a lost expression and a large piece of adhesive tape on his face, accosted one of the hard-working workers for the Journalism Jam-boree at the Igloo yesterday.

"Say, how in the world do you get out of here?" he inquired plaintively. "I've been all around and I can't find any doors."

The hard-working member of the dance committee gently took the bewildered by the hand and led him to the door. En route, she managed to find out that he was only a member of the Washington Babe football team (not crazy or delirious from wounds as she first thought), and that he was trying to reach the bus which was to take him and his teammates back to their alma mater. The piece of adhesive covered a badly bruised lip, result of the afternoon's game, and the bewildered look was caused by his attempt to gain freedom from the maze of McArthur court.

Campus Dance To Be Broadcast

ASIDE from its "pep" motif and rally decorations, tonight's Homecoming dance will go down in history as a pioneer occasion in a way all its own. Initiating a feature never before attempted in connection with any campus dance, the committee has arranged for a radio broadcast by remote control over KORE.

The dance will be on the air from 10 to 11 o'clock. Densmore-Leonard and DeNeffe's, Eugene stores, are sponsoring the broadcast. Slug Palmer has been chosen to take the microphone as announcer.

Other features planned for the affair include tap dancing by the Laraway twins and by Hal Hutton and Marian Camp, as well as songs by the "Oregon Blue Boys" trio, consisting of Sing Harper, Slug Palmer, and Tory Shell.

George W. Russell Speaks Monday in Music Building

Famous Poet-Economist To Lecture on Scientific Farming Methods

Students and faculty of the University will have an opportunity Monday evening to hear an address by George W. Russell, Ireland's most versatile, visionary, and generally influential citizen, who will speak at the music auditorium at 8 o'clock that evening.

Mr. Russell, eminent in cultural life as AE, is making a six-month tour of the country, during which he has been lecturing on the advantages that have been brought to his land through agricultural cooperation.

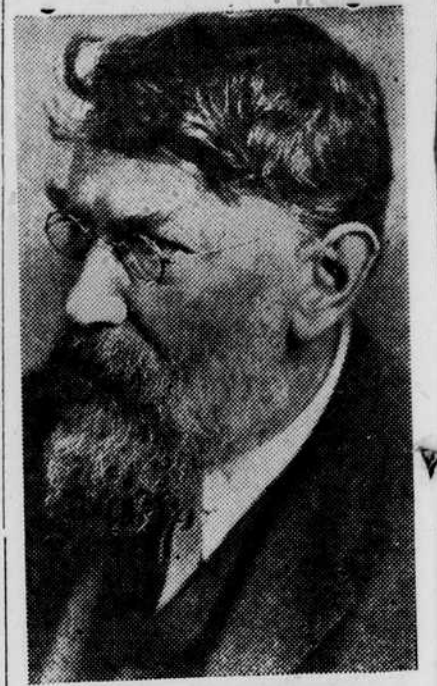

It is a doctrine of scientific farm organization that AE is giving America. His teaching is not theoretical, but based on a philosophy of rural civilization that he has proved practical in his own country.

Mr. Russell began his career in an accounting office. Later he began to write poetry, and it was at this period of his life that he became AE. His poems were hidden under a pseudonym, Aeon, but as his handwriting was none too legible, the typesetters, unable to read the signature, printed only the first two letters of the nom de plume.

Mr. Russell organized the Agricultural Cooperative society, has served as assistant secretary of the Irish Agricultural Organization society, and at one time was editor of The Irish Homestead, which later became the Irish Statesman. AE has written several books, including "The National Being," "The Interpreters," "The Candle of Vision" and several books of verse. The arrangements for Mr. Russell's visit here are in charge of Dr. Philip A. Parsons, dean of the school of applied social science, who is a member of the national committee of welcome also.
