McDonald—"Just Imagine, Musical comedy with El Brendel.
Colonial—Four Marx Brothers in "Animal Crackers." Wise-crack comedy.
Heilig—"The Bad Man," with Walter Huston. Comedy-drama.

The stage production ran two years on Broadway. Just the mention of the Marx's names is enough to fill any theater.

"Bad Man" Is Good Comedy

One of the finest pieces of comedrama acting is the characterization of "The Bad Man" by Walter Huston. The picture is playing at the Heilig this week. The film is based on the famous stage play of the same name. The latter enjoyed a long run on Broadway, the "road," and in stock. It was a favorite role of Leo Carrillo.

Walter Huston proves himself one of the finest of the new stars in the film firmament in this play.

Brevities

Jan Eagels is booked for the Colonial on Monday, playing the best film of her career in the movies, "The Letter." The picture was the first big box office success of the talkies. "Africa Speaks," a daring film record of the dark continent, is booked for a McDonald run starting Friday.

Colonial Has "Animal Crackers"
 Those famous brothers, Harpo, Groucho, Griffo, and Chico Marx, are playing at the Colonial this week in their latest comedy sensation, "Animal Crackers." It is a film that offers fine opportunity for the versatility of this team.

Pallett Is Elected Group Secretary

Registrars' Session Will Come Here Next

Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary and registrar, has been elected secretary of the Pacific Coast Association of Collegiate Registrars for the coming year. Mr. Pallett announced that the conference will be held on the Oregon campus next year. He returned Sunday after attending the last conference held November 6, 7, 8, in California.

The first day of the session was spent on the University of California campus at Berkeley where the delegates met in the International house, an $1,800,000 structure donated by John D. Rockefeller. Representing 36 different nationalities, 300 men and 100 women live there.

On Friday the conference met at the State Teachers' college at San Jose, and on Saturday the session was held at Palo Alto where the delegates were the guests of Stanford for the Stanford-Washington game. Mr. Pallett was much impressed with the Stanford campus and also with the game.

At the session, Mr. Pallett delivered a paper on "Higher Education in Oregon," explaining the creation of the state board in this state.

"Most of the work of the conference was routine work concerning transcripts and records," said Mr. Pallett, who has attended these meetings for three years.

Education Will Be Theme of Talks

Extension Division Faculty Will Speak

A report issued by the University of Oregon extension division reveals the fact that throughout the state there are 2,079 students enrolled in correspondence courses. They carry a total of 9,527 term hours which if reduced to the average number of term hours carried by a student regularly enrolled in the University, would mean that there are 635 extension students carrying full time University courses.

In one month, October, 161 students enrolled in 185 courses.

Exhibit of Etchings Now Being Held in Art Museum

An exhibit of etchings is now being shown in the museum of the architecture building, which includes prints of European scenes; and a group of Oregon etchings by W. F. Illwraith.

Some of these are done in crayon, others in pencil, some in ink, and a few in water colors. City scenes around wharves and bridges provide the inspiration for most of the group, though there are a number of landscape drawings.

The exhibit is open from 8 to 12, and from 1 to 4:30 on week days, and from 2 until 5 o'clock on Sundays.

Dorothy Thomas will speak on "European Student Attitudes." Janet Osborne is in charge of arrangements.

Harris Works on 'Holiday' Settings

The settings for "Holiday," which is to be presented on November 19, 20, and 21, are now under construction in the theatre workshop, Fred Harris announced yesterday.

For this modern comedy of American youth it is necessary to present two interiors in the home of a wealthy New York business man. Mr. Harris has so designed the sets as to give an impression of spaciousness to the Guild theatre stage, which is about one-half the size of a normal stage.

"Its limited area greatly increases the problem of production for the stage designer, the director, and the actors," he explained. "To give a semblance of free, easy movement without actually covering more than 18 inches is not easy. When eight or ten characters are involved for any length of time even a half inch often becomes precious."

The stage crew committees working under Mr. Harris are as follows: scenery, Norbert Jallings, Cathryn Snapp, Myrtle McDaniell; lights, Rosmund Stricker; and properties, Addison Brockman and Gwendolyn Foss.

Student Music Managers Announced by Joe Freck

Appointments for student music managers were announced yesterday by Joe Freck, senior music manager.

"All junior managers this year have been selected from men not participating in the musical activity itself. It has been found that those who do not play in the music organization for which they are selected as managers can devote more time to their work, and consequently, prove to be better managers," he stated.

Following are the appointments: Robert T. Miller, manager of the University orchestra; Jack Stipe, manager of the Men's Glee club; George Vaughn, manager of the women's Glee club; and Carson Mathews, acting manager of the University band in the absence of Donald McCormick, who was jun-

Weighty Question Perplexes Class

A DEADLY silence filled Dr. Boyer's 19th century prose class yesterday. Perplexing looks covered most faces. A serious matter was involved. To meet or not to meet—that was the question. Dr. Boyer left the room in order that the students might not be influenced by his views.

As he returned, one brave lad spoke up. "In respect to the American Legion," he exclaimed, "I think we had better observe Armistice day and not come to class."

for manager of the band. McCormick was forced to withdraw from school for the remainder of the term.

Hodge Questions Newspaper Story

Child Couldn't Be Brought Up by Baboons

"A child live among baboons? Not likely!" said Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of geology, when questioned regarding his opinion of a news story published a few days ago, that a baby had been kidnaped by a troop of baboons and brought up as one of them.

"In the first place I doubt if a human child could live on baboon milk," continued Dr. Hodge. "But even if he could there is another point that seems more improbable still. When a baboon is two years old he is almost mature. He is capable of swinging through trees at a dizzy pace. A two-year-old child would still be in the helpless stage, but it is likely he would be abandoned before he reached that age. It might be possible for such a thing to happen, but it seems very unlikely."

Speaking of College Bands

The Trojan band of the University of Southern California takes the lead on the Pacific coast with 150 playing members. Its colorful uniforms and "bag of stunts" have evoked considerable comment this season. The Washington State band has increased its membership from 50 to 100, and is wearing the new type uniforms designed last year.

Mothers Learn of Oregon Problems

Course of Study Is Given To Parents

Oregon mothers are now studying an outline prepared by Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, dealing with the problems and policies of the University. Dr. Hall, accompanied by his secretary, Mrs. Paul W. Ager; Dean Alfred Powers of the extension division; Mrs. Walter M. Cook, president of the Oregon Mothers; Mrs. F. W. Bond, vice-president, and Mrs. J. F. Hill, president of the Portland division of mothers, made a tour of the state this summer to talk to the mothers' organizations and present this syllabus.

The syllabus was compiled by Dr. Ralph Casey, professor of journalism on the campus last year; Dr. E. S. Conklin, head of the psychology department; Dr. C. V. Boyer, head of the English department; Dr. John F. Bovard, dean of the school of physical education, and Dr. H. R. Taylor, associate professor of psychology.

It is made up of ten parts, each constituting a lesson which the mothers are studying this winter. Lesson one, written by Dr. Hall, is an explanation of the ideals and aims of the University. Lesson two is on personnel work; the third, on lower division organization and the advisory system; the fourth, honors courses and opportunities for gifted students; the fifth, living conditions and influences; the sixth, personality training, and the seventh, training for vocations. The last three, written by Dr. Hall, deal with research, adult education, and relation of the University and state.

There are now fourteen mothers' divisions that have developed since the founding of the state organization three years ago. These mothers not only study for themselves the problems and policies of the University and student life, but make definite plans to inform mothers of prospective college students about the University.

Homecoming Sign Winner Entertained at Colonial

The current Register-McDonald newsreel, which contains scenes from the Oregon-U. C. L. A. homecoming and Oregon Frosh-Washington Frosh football games, preliminary ceremonies of Alpha Delta Sigma, and Governor-elect Meier and his son, Jack, will be held for Thursday it is announced by Russell Brown, manager of the Fox-McDonald theater, where the reel is showing.

The film, which was scheduled to open on Sunday, was late in arriving, and as all the topics have to do with University students, the theater will extend the opportunity to see it.

The local reel will run as a part of the program which includes the feature picture, "Just Imagine," with El Brendel.
