SCORE BOARD

By Jack Burke

FIFTY-SIX THEN
AND THIRTY-TWO NOW—

We have before us a copy of a roster of the University of Oregon football team compiled September 15, 1930, the opening date of the 1930 season.

On this list are 56 names distributed as follows: five centers, twelve guards, ten tackles, ten ends and the rest backs who are distributed, four quarters, ten halfbacks and three fullbacks.

All in all, it must be admitted that this is enough of a squad for any team to start the season with, however, it must be admitted that the number now remaining, thirty-two is as poor as fifty-six is good.

All of which brings us round to the consideration of what has happened to the twenty-four odd who have failed to survive for one reason or another.

INJURIES HAVE REMOVED
MANY FROM PLAY—

Injuries have removed a number of men most of whom fall in the backfield category.

Cliff Garnett was injured in the Willamette game having his skull cracked.

Don Watts was hurt in a scrimmage against the freshmen, having his collar bone broken.

Dan Sheehy was also injured in a scrimmage against the frosh which injury added to an old injury caused his retirement.

Thus the injury method has removed three men permanently. Besides these three, an equal number have been lost through other causes leaving half of the halfbacks that started.

Of these two, Johnny Kitzmiller and John Londaal have been hurt at one time or another during the season, Kitzmiller being incapable of playing in the O. S. C. game.

QUARTERBACKS ALSO FORCED OUT OF GAMES—

Going on to the quarterbacks. Of the four that started once, Al Browne was injured to such an extent that he was forced to go easy for a number of weeks while his shoulder healed. The loss of Browne made it necessary to make Erdley into a blocking back and thereby weakened the ends.

And now in conclusion let us pass over the fullbacks. Jack Rushlow, a member of last year's frosh and considered an admirable prospect for this year's team has been troubled all season by an injury and has yet not hit his stride.

What all this means we don't know. However, with all the crying that has been done for material and more material we don't see just what the matter is.

Injuries we know are like the weather. The coach has nothing to do with it and neither has anyone else. They come as surely as death and taxes, as the saying goes, and what is to be done about it.

STORY OF LINE
WILL BE TOLD SOON—

This treatise which we have attempted is concerned only with the backfield and what has happened to the line is another sad story which will be offered soon.

We don't offer this column as an attempt to justify any poor showing which the Webfoot team might make in San Francisco on Thanksgiving nor is it an attempt to justify last week's showing. We offer these statements for what they are worth.

What has been done in the way of football this fall it must be remembered has been done in the face of the foregoing facts and the Webfoot supporters should take heart.

something that is lacking there. We try to help the people of these communities to become independent, so that they can take care of their own problems. We make continual contacts, but if the people are not interested, we work with them until they show an interest in the welfare work that we do," Miss Annin explained.

Four graduates of both the University and the school of social work are now holding positions on the local Red Cross staff. They are Mrs. Catherine Reed Ross, Mrs. Martha Wyatt, Mildred Reynolds, and Thora Boesen. Martha Prothro, a graduate of the school of social work, also holds a position on the staff.

Three former students who took their Red Cross work here are now holding positions in other states.

4:00—A. B. C. vs. Phi Delt.
5:00—S. A. E. vs. Bachelordorn.

Three games within three days did not deter Beta from handing out a 23-8 defeat to their former conquerors, the Fijis, but on the contrary the hard schedule worked an improvement on their shooting and floor play. Not considered as a very dangerous antagonist a week ago, Beta should give the other league champions a stiff tussle in the play-off.

Chi Omegas Applaud
Two lovely Chi Omegas, the first women spectators at an intramural game this year, who came to cheer for the Betas, saw their favorites leap into an 8-2 lead at the quarter. Ken Schaefer demonstrated uncanny shooting accuracy throughout the first half and Beta was leading, 19-8, at the rest. Fijis fought back in the second half but failed to make any of their shots count, while the Betas took things easy.

Women's Hockey
Teams Selected

Names of Regular Players
Are Announced

Women's intramural hockey teams were announced by Mary Wilburn, manager, and Miss Woodruff, coach, last night. This announcement follows up a previous article which gave temporary team positions.

There will not be two frosh teams, as announced before, but all freshmen will play at the time of the first team's playing. There will be a junior team, and a combination sophomore-senior team. The number of points each girl makes will be announced later, according to the way she plays in the games. If a player cannot play she must tell her captain so a substitute can be secured.

The captains selected for the various teams are: freshman, Mildred Ringo; junior, Ella Redkey, and sophomore-senior, Lucille Hill.

The positions are:
Frosh—Center forward, Harriette Saeltzger; right inside, Mae Masterton; right wing, Margaret Morrison; left inside, Marion Vincent; left wing, Katherine Bisbee; center half, Joyce Busenbark; right half, Beatrice Wainscott; left half, Ann Kelly; right full, Mildred Ringo; left full, Katherine Leuck; goal guard, Mildred Marks. The following freshmen will play

Regular Linemen Moved To Positions They Formerly Held

With a mixed team of freshmen and reserves using St. Mary's grid formations, the Webfoot varsity went through a long scrimmage last night drilling for a strong defense against Gael plays. Passes, both long and short, and reverse plays seemed to be used chiefly by the "Gael."

Regulars Used
Doc Spears' decision to demote all the regulars either must have had a great effect or else the idea fizzled out, for the offensive squad was composed of the same lineup which has played throughout the season. Austin Colbert was back in his old position at left guard, the rest of the line being composed of Bailey and Fletcher, ends; Forster, center; Schulz, right guard, and Christensen and Morgan, tackles.

J. Turnbull Loans Group
Of Limited Editions

A window display of modern limited editions, loaned by J. Ed. Turnbull for the further observance of National Book week, is now on exhibition at the University Co-op.

The books include: Padraic Colum's "Orpheus," the seventy-third of an edition limited to 350 copies, designed and decorated by Boris Artzybasheff, and autographed by both the author and the artist; "Philip the King," by John Masefield, illustrated by Laurence Irving; "Gulliver's Travels"; "Lee," a dramatic poem by Edgar Lee Masters, signed by the author; "Decameron Tales," translated by Frances Winwar; Daudet's "Tartarin de Tarascon"; Fontaine's Fables, and even, for a lighter touch, "The Travels of Baron Munchausen," with engravings by John Held Jr.

Oregon Faculty Members
To Take Part in Meeting

Mrs. Clara Smertenko, associate professor of Latin and Greek, and S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English, will take part in the annual meeting of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast at Stanford, November 28 and 29, by reading papers.

Papers of Dr. Leavitt O. Wright, professor of Romance languages, and Juan B. Rael, instructor in Romance languages, will be read by title.

Other members of the faculty who are planning to attend are Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, assistant professor of English, Walter E. Hempstead, instructor in public speaking, and Dr. Ray P. Bowen, chairman of the Romance language department.

Church Clubs Will Unite
To Hear World Traveler

"What are you?"
This is the subject of a talk to be given before all student religious groups by Miss Lucille Day, representative of the student volunteers, at the Methodist church Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Miss Day, who has traveled extensively and risked her life by teaching religion in Turkey at a time when religious teachers were severely punished, has been speaking on many camps throughout the country. She will give the students a message of the challenge of world friendship.

The same backfield which was used Thursday started again yesterday. Kitzmiller, Parke, Rushlow, and Moeller formed the defensive secondary.

Reserves' Attempts Smothered
Joe Lillard led the offensive squad and along with DePittard, Ballard, Mulholland and Voegtli, ran off every play used by St. Mary's which has been gathered by Webfoot scouts. The varsity managed to smother most of the reserves' attempts, but a few tricky passes were completed. Lillard's long hurls gave the regulars something to think about, but practically all attempts to crash the line were quickly smeared.

Hermian Pledges
Two Junior Girls

Mary Wilburn, Vivian Coss
Selected by Honorary

Mary Wilburn and Vivian Coss were pledged to Hermian, women's professional physical education honorary, last night when the club held a social meeting at the home of Miss Florence Alden, head of the school of physical education.

Mary Wilburn is a junior in physical education from Walterville. She is well known in women's athletics, playing hockey, volleyball, basketball, and other intramural sports. This year she is managing women's intramural hockey.

Vivian Coss is also a junior in physical education, from Medford. She has held positions on many intramural teams, and is this year managing intramural tennis.

There are now nine members of Hermian, including the pledges. The club is sponsoring a physical education club that will be open to everyone, and that will be conducted solely on a social basis. Plans for it were discussed, in addition to the pledging.

With the selection of teams comes the announcement of team schedules for women's intramural hockey, given out by Mary Wilburn.

On Monday, November 24, there will be a general practice for all teams. Tuesday, November 25, the frosh team will play the juniors. On Monday, December 1, the seniors will play the juniors, and on Tuesday, December 2, the seniors will play the frosh.

An all-star team will be picked from the teams and will play a selected second all-star team after all the other games have been played.

If a girl is unable to play on the day that her team plays, she must tell her captain so a substitute can be secured. The captains selected are: freshman, Mildred Ringo; junior, Ella Redkey, and sophomore-senior, Lucille Hill.

New Plan Causes
Interest in Sport

Handball Instructor Places
Students on Teams

Russ Cutler, handball instructor at the gym, has worked out a novel idea for gaining his students' interest in the sport. Instead of resorting to the humdrum standards of instruction, he has arranged his charges into doubles teams and has just finished a tourney.

He reports that results are very gratifying. In the two month period of school there has not been over two absences in either of his classes, which is a record, for he has 60 men under his supervision. So keen is the competition that the men are turning out ten minutes before the hour to limber up for their match.

In Mr. Cutler's 11 o'clock class there are 12 teams and in the 3 o'clock section there are 18. The Ragan-Schneider duo came through with a clean slate in the first group and Roof and Stoddard were declared champions in the afternoon class.

"This tournament was mainly to serve for instruction purposes rather than for recreation," declared Mr. Cutler, "although the men received plenty of the latter. The student will absorb more training and advice if he is genuinely interested in the sport rather than if he is forced to go through dull class routine."

Donut Track and Field Meets Are Held Next Term

New Indoor Track Will Be Constructed on Hayward Field

An intramural track tournament will be held this year, probably during the middle of the winter term, on a new indoor track to be constructed beneath one of the grandstands on Hayward field, according to a statement issued by Bill Hayward, varsity track coach.

The track will be composed of loam sand and cinders and will be about 20 feet wide by 80 yards long. This will amply accommodate sprinters and hurdlers. It will be heated and lighted.

Final Meet To Be Outdoors

The intramural track schedule will be made up to fit in with the basketball schedule, so there will be no conflicts. The final meet will be held on the regular track outdoors during the latter part of the term.

The events which will be contested in these meets will be the 45-yard dash, 100-yard dash, quarter mile, half mile, high jump, pole vault, hurdles, and shot-put.

Track Prospects Given

"Prospects for varsity track this year are fair," states Mr. Hayward. Following is a list of track men who are expected to turn out: Sprints, Starr, Bale, Staver, and Chapin; distance, Hill, Steel, Hall, Eddy, McCaffery, and Edwards; quarter mile, Dolp, Marrs, Holman, Anderson, Newman; half mile,

Moran, Long, McKittrick; discus, Moeller, Hall and Zane, who is a transfer from W. S. C. and will be eligible next term; broad jump, Allen, Holman, Chapin; high hurdles, Siegmund, Allen; low hurdles, Siegmund, Holman; shot-put, Marion Hall, Moeller, Stadelman, Jesse; high jump, Allen; javelin, Edwards, Rushlow, Latenge; pole vault, Robinson, Maltby.

The absence of one or more names on this list does not mean that other men should not come out. It is merely a list of known prospective material. Several of last year's freshmen should make a good showing this year also.

Life-Saving Class To Be Given Canoeing Lessons

On Tuesday the Red Cross life saving class for women will have a canoe in the women's pool for instruction in the various canoe skills, according to Miss Ernestine Troemel.

Various forms of paddling will be demonstrated, as well as instruction in getting into a canoe in shallow water without filling it, pulling an unconscious person into a canoe, the use of a canoe full of water, and use of a canoe upside down.

Gunnelling and all other popular stunts that can be done with a canoe will also be taught.

Professor Abraham Harris, acting head of the economics department at Howard university, Washington, D. C., has completed the work for the doctor's degree in economics at Columbia university, and is believed to be the first negro ever to receive a doctor's degree in that subject in this country.

Department of Physics
Christmas Shops Early

The physics department celebrated its Christmas a little ahead of time yesterday, when it unpacked a new shipment of apparatus. Pieces ranging from models of steam engines to rows of magnets which balance on the point of a pin and wiggle like a snake when one of the pieces is disturbed, were received.

One piece of apparatus, a turntable on which one stands and, by revolving the arms, is caused to revolve, was particularly noticed, along with a device for making water run uphill, models of atoms and molecules, and electrical devices.

The instruments are for demonstration purposes and will be used in the general physics and survey classes.

St. Xavier university at Cincinnati, Ohio, was left more than $375,000 in the will of the late Thomas J. Logan, the fund to be used for the erection of a building for training, development and education of students in cooperative arts, crafts and labor trades.

Maybe--
You've Lost Them

THERE ARE TIMES when even the most thoughtful misplace their belongings. It even happens to you. Those dainty purses have a way of losing themselves in or between classrooms. Gloves drop unheeded from your pocket. Umbrellas are left standing in out-of-the-way places. Pens, pencils, notebooks, and no end of other things stray from your person. These losses are irritating in themselves, but they are doubly so if the lost property is never again found. But happily, there is an answer to the problem. ADVERTISE . . . and it's ten to one you'll see the favorite once more.

THE EMERALD maintains a classified advertising department that is formulated to help you recover your losses . . . express your desire to buy an article . . . or place before others something which you have for sale. The rates—20c for the first three lines, 5c for each additional line—are calculated to give you service at a reasonable cost. Make use of the classified columns by coming into the EMERALD business office in the Journalism building and leaving your problems with us.
