

25 Freshmen Basketball Candidates Participate In First Training Workout

nable Fordham line to ribbons . . . It looks like a busy day for Colbert and Christensen and the rest of the Webfoot forward wall. At the first of the year the Webfoots claimed to have one of the strongest lines on the coast. As yet they have to prove their ability. There is no doubt but what they have the ability but so far they have not shown anything to rave about. If they only live up to pre-season hopes, Oregon's chances for a victory will be greatly increased.

ANOTHER ALL-STAR TEAM IS PICKED—
Toward the end of every athletic season it has become the custom for coaches, press associations, newspapers, and anyone or anybody to make guesses, shrewd and otherwise, as to what players should constitute an all-star team. Since this practice of pinning the tail on the donkey blindfolded has become a universal one, the Emerald has decided to pick an all-star intramural basketball team.

Director Earl Bouche, who has scanned every team with a critical eye, has consented to be one of the judges while Referee Roy Hughes, Cliff Horner, and the Emerald intramural sports reporter comprise the rest of the staff. Hughes, who has done some very capable officiating, is also assistant to Billy Reinhart and so is ably qualified to pass judgment on the players. Horner, varsity basketball star, has witnessed a majority of the games.

Players will be picked with an eye to their floor play and teamwork rather than individual scoring ability.

U. C. L. A. COACH LAUDS WEBFOOT FROSH ELEVEN—
An interesting piece of information was given us yesterday by Claude Morgan, a visitor to the campus from Los Angeles. Morgan, a brother of Roy, who played tackle on this year's yearling squad, stated that on the return of Coach Bill Spaulding of the Bruins from their game with the Webfoots in Eugene, the U. C. L. A. coach made the statement in the Los Angeles Examiner that the Oregon Frosh squad was one of the strongest yearling elevens he had seen on the coast. Spaulding particularly praised Joe Lillard as being one of the best backfield prospects he had seen in a great while.

Claude Morgan was somewhat of a football player himself. He played end for the University of Arkansas, being named on the all-Southern, all-star eleven in 1923, besides receiving honorable mention on several all-American choices. After graduating from college he played pro ball in the East.

Morgan was loud in his praise of the University campus. "The University of Southern California campus cannot compare with yours. It is one of the most beautiful I have ever seen," he stated. At present Morgan is in business in Los Angeles.

from the position now held may petition the student relations committee in the event that he desires to hold another place in campus activities before the end of winter term.

The action against the students and the assumption of responsibilities by the executive council is a culmination of deliberation on the part of the committees involved since the Oregon-Oregon State game held November 15.

Callison Calls Players For Hoop Practice

Football Stars Report For Preliminary Session On Igloo Floor

Official Turnout Is Slated For Monday; Men Are Asked To Try Out

Coach "Prink" Callison opened the 1931 freshman basketball season yesterday when he called out more than twenty-five of the most promising hoop candidates for preliminary drill on the McArthur court floor.

The roster of this year's yearling hoop squad will read much like that of the frosh grid eleven if all of the ex-prep all-stars are considered. Among those who went through drill in fundamentals yesterday were men whose names have been familiar to hoop fans all over the Northwest.

Gridsters Turn Out
Several of the candidates were members of Callison's frosh football eleven. Joe Lillard, with four years of experience at center in Mason City, Iowa, is declared to be a better hoopster than football player. Mike Mikulak, flashy end, was an all-star guard in Minneapolis. Another football player turned hoopster is Roland Larsen, who was a member of the Astoria team which attended the state tourney at Salem last year. His stellar playing there gave him a position on the all-state quintet.

Abel Uglov, from Dallas, was named as the player most valuable to his team during the tourney. Johnny Jeffers, also from Astoria, was named on the second all-state team.

Portland Stars Here
Portland has sent its share of stars. Jack Robertson, ex-Lincoln high star, was one of the outstanding players in the city league last season. Ike Donin, also from Lincoln, was an all-city choice. Ralph Ray was a member of the Grant high varsity.

From San Francisco comes Jim Watts, who was chosen all-city forward while playing for Poly high. Cliff Lord, from Medford, was chosen as all-city forward while playing for Queen Anne high in Seattle.

Callison announced yesterday that the official turnout would be on Monday immediately after the Thanksgiving holiday. All those wishing to try out for positions are requested to report at McArthur court at 4 o'clock.

Hillbillies Win in Gridiron Classic

Game Is Feature of Hike to Baldy's Steep Slopes

In one of the greatest of football classics of the fall season Frank Smith's Hillbillies defeated Tom Johnson's Catamounts on one of Baldy mountain's steep slopes Saturday afternoon. The game was the feature of a very successful hike by members of Phi Epsilon Kappa, national physical education honorary, to the Coburg caves.

The game was featured by some unusual yardage losses by fumbling, one team trailing the ball down the hill for 250 yards before they finally captured the oval. With two out in the ninth inning and three men on base, that demon better half, Russ Cutler, drew his creaky flipper back and flung the ball into a young tree where Pee-wee Horner snatched it and gamboled the remainder of the way for a touchdown. The combatants then returned to camp for a lunch of buns, coffee, hot dogs, and other indigestibles.

Larger Turnout For Swimming Team Requested

Swimming Pool Is Open To Swimmers During Holidays

"I need more men for varsity swimming," states Jack Hewitt, varsity swimming coach. "There are plenty of places yet to fill and the man who comes out now and is willing to work is the man who is going to make the team."

Mr. Hewitt is very much pleased over the freshman turnout and expects to have a fine first-year squad. He earnestly wishes that every man eligible for varsity swimming would turn out, as he is sure that the material on the campus this year should earn for Oregon a recognized place in swimming on the coast.

Prospects are becoming brighter for the proposed coast swimming conference. At a meeting of delegates from the interested schools on December 10, in California, the matter will be discussed and decided. Mr. Rosson, graduate manager, has been actively interested in this conference and has spent considerable time in furthering interest in it among other schools.

Mr. Hewitt believes in hard, consistent practice and training. He is rapidly shaping his material into form. This week will end the practice sessions for the divers upon the mats. Next week they will begin regular work-outs in the women's pool.

In the regular practice sessions the past two weeks, the swimmers have been receiving a rigorous course of lessons in endurance. Endurance means a very great deal to a swimmer and Mr. Hewitt has required each man to swim at least 200 yards and is increasing the distance each night until every man later on will be swimming at least 440 yards.

"There will be no practice on Wednesday evening of this week," states Mr. Hewitt. "The pool will be open during the holidays except on Thanksgiving and all men who wish to may work out on those days."

Oregon Football Men Hurry South For Gael Tussle

Spears' Players Expect To Give Madigan's Team Battle Throughout

(Special to the Emerald)
KLAMATH FALLS, Tuesday.—The University of Oregon football squad, 35 strong, and Coach Doc Spears, with two assistants, passed through here early this evening in their special cars attached to the Klamath Flyer en route to San Francisco where the Webfoot eleven will meet St. Mary's in the Kezar stadium Thanksgiving morning.

The entire squad climbed out of their coaches and limbered up by trotting up and down the platform. Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon backfield ace and leader, tossed the ball with a group of his backfield mates while the linemen crouched and pranced up and down the length of the train.

Neither Doc Spears nor Kitzmiller would commit themselves to any statement but both said they expected to give the Galloping Gaels a stiff battle. The returned coach, members of the squad said, had given them a long session of skull practice, rehearsing plays and analyzing the tactical purposes of each play in their repertoire.

The squad will turn in early to get as much rest as possible. Manager Tom Williams said. After dinner the players had a little time to play cards or read magazines before orders to turn in were issued.

The game will go directly to their hotel as soon as they reach San Francisco and will then go to the stadium for a practice session and to get acquainted with the field.

Regular Hoop Practice Scheduled for Holidays

Varsity basketball will start in earnest during the latter part of the Thanksgiving holidays, with Coach Billy Reinhart utilizing all his time to the smoothing over of fundamentals and the squad beginning scrimmage sessions, according to present plans of the veteran mentor.

Reinhart will return from the St. Mary's game Friday and the squad will begin intensive work-outs then, both afternoons and evenings until classes are again resumed when practice will be devoted entirely to night sessions at the Igloo.

Benson and Deuel Are in Handball Tourney Finals

At last one of the intramural tourneys wended its way to a finish when Ted Jensen and Les Johnson won their second successive handball championship, this time defeating Stott and Deuel 21-

10, 17-21, 21-8. Harvey Benson became a finalist in the handball singles by eliminating Sol Director 15-21, 21-15, 21-19 and will play Fred Deuel for the school championship. Bob Stevens and Dick Near are scheduled to play for the right to oppose Rudy Bain in the finals of the golf tournament.

Women's Volleyball Game Schedules Announced

The schedule for the first regular intramural women's volleyball games to be played next week was released yesterday from the physical education department. The winners of this week's contests will play each other at a time to be announced some time the following week.

The games are as follows: Monday, senior first team vs. junior first team, and sophomore first vs. the frosh firsts; Tuesday, junior firsts vs. sophomores and seniors vs. frosh; Wednesday, seniors vs. sophomores and junior second team vs. the freshman second team, and the junior second vs. the sophomore second.

S. Stephenson Smith Will Attend Philology Meeting

Professor S. Stephenson Smith, of the English department, will be at Stanford university Friday and Saturday of Thanksgiving vacation at the annual meeting of the Philological association of the Pacific coast.

He will read a paper on "The Beginnings of the Psychological Novel."

Intramural Hoop Tourney Will End Next Wednesday

Beta, Phi Delt, SAM, SAE Play in Semi-Finals; SAM, Beta Favored

MONDAY'S GAMES
Men's Gym
4:00—Beta vs. S. A. E.
5:00—Phi Delt vs. S. A. M.

The intramural hoop tourney, which has been a constant procession of upsets and surprisingly good games, will come to a close on Wednesday, December 3, with the finals slated for 4:30 p. m. in the men's gym. Beta, Phi Delt, S. A. M., and S. A. E., who play in the semi-finals Monday, have proven themselves the class of the tourney and no one team has been installed as a certain winner.

Before the A. B. C.-Phi Delt game it appeared that the S. A. M. boys would have easy pickings with either team. However, the Phi Delt's exhibited a tight defense and a remarkably fast breaking center in Barber besides Rogers' usual scoring. The Sammies will have to play the same brand of ball they did in the last half of the Theta Chi scrap before they can successfully cope with the hurling Phi Delt's.

Beta will go on the floor against S. A. E. much more prepared than their opponents are apt to be.

Beta had some very stiff struggles before reaching the peak, and the harder the going, the better they played. Near, Gunther, Siegmund, Scales, and Chapman team well together. S. A. E., on the other hand, had so easy a schedule that they were ill prepared for the tough struggle Bachelordon gave them. Jack Robertson, star forward, was missing from their Monday lineup and his return will strengthen them considerably.

WIN OVER GAELS MEANS NATIONAL RECOGNITION—

After reading reports in the New York papers of St. Mary's victory over Fordham we are more than convinced that a victory over the Galloping Gaels tomorrow in San Francisco would give the University of Oregon more national publicity than a dozen wins over either Washington or Oregon State. Eastern sport writers were loud in their praise of "Slip" Madigan's fighting eleven. The Fordham team was considered the East's strongest team, having gone through 16 games without defeat.

During the last two years the Gaels have lost just one game, and that by the slim margin of one point. Last year their goal line was crossed only once, that by Oregon in their last contest of the year. If Doc Spears' team takes them down the line, a fact not to be sneered at, it will be a great feather in the Webfoot's cap. It would be a perfect ending to a very successful year and would prove a fitting climax to Coach Spears' first year at Oregon.

WEBFOOTS WILL HAVE TO WATCH BROVELLI—

A new threat in western football is St. Mary's plunging fullback, Brovelli. Coach Madigan declares that "I have never seen the like of 'im before. He's a veritable dynamo, a high-powered fighting fool, hell-bent for a score every time he gets that ball under his arm."

And to do more quoting, one eastern sports writer states: "After seeing Brovelli in action, we agree with Madigan to the letter. The moment the big, hard-smashing fullback went into the fray (with Fordham) his team took new life. His absolute abandon, his wild and reckless plunging and his flaming spirit held 40,000 spectators breathless while he slashed the formerly impreg-
