

The Emerald SCORE BOARD

By Bruce Hamby

WEBFOOT STARS

TO PLAY CHRISTMAS—

It is to be regretted that Johnny Kitzmiller will have a chance to show his heels to the East in general with all the support that the combined West can offer, only after all of the mythical all-American teams have been selected.

The team that Kitzmiller, Colbert and Christensen have been invited to play with will probably be the strongest that the West has assembled since the start of the annual Shrine contest some years ago. The rules governing the selection of the players have been changed last year allowing players who have completed three years to play and still be eligible for such spring sports as they may be interested in, and to allow the western coaches all the territory west of the Mississippi to choose their material from.

Bible of Nebraska is due to arrive in San Francisco in the near future with a number of men from his section of the country, and he will find Percy Loeck, the head coach of the western team, already has an imposing array of talent to offer.

What Andy Kerr, head coach at Colgate, will have to offer as a representative of the East remains to be seen but it is assured that the West will have no easy time with the eastern team. The East bows fairly consistently to the West in intersectional games but when a picked team is trotted on the field it is anybody's game.

HOOP TEAM TO OPEN SEASON SATURDAY—

Enough of football, however. Basketball will get under way Saturday night in the Igloo with the as yet undefeated Multnomah five as the first opponents of the untied Webfoots.

Many new faces will be seen on the varsity quintet although Billy Reinhart will have the services of the majority of last year's team to work with.

The frosh of last year should contribute a number of men, among them Bill Morgan who has finished with football as has also Bill Bowerman. Red Roberts should fill a position as sub center, and Cliff Garnett, who was injured early in the football season, will return to take a shot at basketball.

DONUT FINAL GAME ON THIS AFTERNOON—

Today at 4:30 in the men's gym will be staged an athletic contest which shouldn't be missed. We refer to the final game of the intramural basketball league.

The S. A. E.'s and the S. A. M.'s put on a rousing game in the final of the Deltas emerging a close winner by a score of 19 to 17. Nearly the same team has been playing for last year's runners-up this season and it is expected that they will have profited from the experience they gained last year.

However, with the announcement of the final game we gain call to your attention the success of the tournament as a whole. An entirely new system was inaugurated and the success of the tournament more than proves its efficiency.

S.A.M. Rates Three Men on Two Quintets

Phi Delt and S.A.E. Each Get Two Basketeers on Paper's Selections

Honorable Mention Given Twelve Intramural League Players

Five men, Earl Boushey, of the University gym, Coach Roy Hughes, Cliff Horner, varsity basketball star, and two members of the Emerald sports staff went into a huddle yesterday and emerged with two all-star intramural basketball teams, chosen from the 26 teams entered in the tourney which will close today. The final choice varied somewhat from the opinions of each judge, but nevertheless represents the combined selections of the officials.

Several of the judges were handicapped by the fact that they had not witnessed all of the contests. Another difficulty arose because players participating in one game did not always show up for the next. The participants themselves made the selection at best an approximation of the relative abilities by their inconsistent performances. Several men were neglected attention because they appeared in so few games. Among this number was Henry Simons, Bachelord, who was one of the sensations of the play-off and undoubtedly deserves the honor of being the most valuable player to his squad.

Finalists Rank High

The tourney finalists, S. A. E. and S. A. M., drew four men on the first string while Phi Delt copped the remaining position. Rubenstein and Boyle were unanimous choices for their respective positions while Director had the confidence of four of the jury. Roberts and Rogers eased into their berths by a narrower margin. Roberts was picked by three of the officials and Rogers by two. The latter, however, secured enough strength from second team mention to give him the nod over Jeffers.

The little need be said about the playing ability of these men. Rubenstein has outranked all other forwards as Director and Boyle have outclassed the defense men. Roberts has been the leading scorer for S. A. E. as well as a reliable pivot man. Rogers has done some very nice shooting and has otherwise played his position well.

Jeffers Gets Votes

The most popular player on the second team was Johnny Jeffers of Theta Chi, who was picked for forward or guard by every judge, but received more votes for forward and was accordingly placed there. The other forward position balanced between Art Minney and Jack Robertson before the die was finally cast for the former. Minney was the backbone of his team and nearly led them to a league championship. The speedy Phi Delt center, Jim Barber, ran a close race with Roberts for first string center honors. Barber is also an accurate shot. Schectman and Chapman were awarded the guard positions, Chapman for his floor play and Schectman because of his scoring and close checking.

players honorable mention: Bramhall, Theta Chi; McDonald, Fiji; Robertson, S. A. E.; Roland Larson, Sigma Nu; Ed Siegmund, Beta; Wilson, Theta Chi; Potter, Sigma Chi; Donin, S. A. M.; Moore, A. B. C.; Walgren, S. A. E.; Gunther, Beta; and Frank Smith, Sphinx. Some of these men were outstanding in some aspects of the game while others deserve recognition because of steady all-around play.

Johnny Kitzmiller, the "flying Dutchman" who brought fame to the Webfoots through his prowess on the gridiron, is Oregon's offering to the possible all-American team. Cap'n Johnny closed his football career under the lemon-yellow and green colors with the St. Mary's game at San Francisco Thanksgiving day, when he was the outstanding man on the field at all times.

Kitz will play on the West all-star team in the benefit game to be played in San Francisco Christmas day, and from his performance against the Gaels in the Bay City last week he is expected to prove a great drawing card.

The galloping Dutch halfback has won places on the United Press, Associated Press, and Pop Warner's all-Pacific Coast elevens, and the all-American choice is his next hoped-for goal.

phases of life in the United States today were taken—modern youth, the power of America and its effects, and the results of the machine age.

There are five contests this year the members of the varsity squad in oratory and extempore speaking will enter. They are the State Peace contest, the Old Line contest, the State Extempore contest, Pacific Forensic League Extempore contest, and the Pacific Forensic League oratorical contest. Definite assignments of the members of the squad to these contests will be made before the Christmas holidays.

Eleven Slated for Boxing Tourney

Match Commences Monday Ends on Thursday

Eleven names have so far been affixed to the entry list for the fall boxing tourney, which commences Monday, December 8, and extends to Thursday, December 11. The deadline for entries is Friday, December 5, at 6 o'clock, so Coach Knox warns the fighters to have their name on the dotted line before that time.

Harry Smith, Sterling Bailey, Max Pulido, Benny Pasion, Harry Siegel, Jesse Bradley, Don Weed, Don Thomas, Don Beeson, Gail Holzappel, and Cecil Buckingham are the men who have signed the sheet. Out of that list only Pulido and Pasion are veterans.

Pasion was the sensation of last year's tourney, going out of his class to give heavier opponents some rough sledding, while Pulido did not get into action because he was the only flyweight fighter in school. Last year Bernie Hughes completely outclassed the other heavyweights, but Gail Holzappel, a big blond chap, looms as a worthy rival if the slashing Medford scrapper enters the tourney.

appreciation of the noble purpose for which the delegates had been chosen.

"It was quite evident," said Mr. Acino, "that the Japanese government and the Japanese people were most favorably inclined towards the success of the London arms parley.

Portland's Japanese consul found it quite gratifying to note that the attitude of America last Armistice day was not along military lines, but that the feeling portrayed by President Hoover and the general public was one of international peace.

Mr. Acino graduate from the Imperial university at Tokio. He took a law course there but has never done anything in the strictly legal field. He has served in his consular position at Portland for the past eleven months.

Undefeated Hoop Teams Will Meet In Finals Today

S.A.M. and S.A.E. Game Will Wind Up Fall Donut Tourney

CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

Gym Today
4:30—S. A. E.-S. A. M.

Two powerful quintets, representing S. A. M. and S. A. E., have cruised through their preliminary games with an unblemished record and will face each other today in the final game of the annual fall intramural hoop tourney.

Both teams have a solid defense and a varied offense with S. A. M. unfurling a more consistent scoring game and a slightly less able breakwater than their opponents. Boyle and Walgren, S. A. E. guards, have spoiled the attacks of every team they have been pitted against and Boyle, in addition, has been a fairly active scorer. Director and Schectman of the Sammies are individually as good but their teamwork has not approached that shown by their antagonists.

Ike Donin, who is at home when playing guard, has been forced to play center opposite lanky Cap Roberts and in consequence the hill boys are at quite a disadvantage here. Red Rotenberg has yet to shake off the effects of football, but he and Rubenstein are more dangerous scoring threats than Bale and Robertson. Taking the teams as a whole, S. A. M. appears to have the more outstanding players but their combination has not worked as smoothly as the S. A. E. machine.

FORUM HOUR GLEANINGS

nomics, in discussing phases of international relations in the Orient last night at Sigma Pi Tau. "The population of Japan has doubled in the past 60 years, and is still increasing very rapidly. It is now about 63,000,000, with an annual increase of about 700,000."

Dr. Morris attributes this phenomenal growth to the enormous decrease in the death rate due to improvement in sanitary conditions.

"There are three possible remedies for this condition—emigration, decrease in birth rate, and a general industrialization of Japan such as has taken place in England. The probability is that the latter course is the one which will be followed," he said.

"Mexico, the most pre-Columbian of countries," declared Prof. L. O. Wright, who, with his wife, was a dinner-guest and speaker at Chi Omega, "is undergoing a Renaissance, one of the greatest and most astounding changes of which is the educational campaign being conducted by the Mexican government. This is accomplished by traveling teachers, who, by conducting open classes and assisting in founding schools, are rapidly lessening the appalling degree of illiteracy."

Stressing the fact that nationalism is the natural result of a development of group consciousness supported by sufficient funds and a strong army, Dr. Samuel H. Jameson, associate professor of sociology, spoke to members of the Alpha Xi Delta house last night as a part of the International week program.

The outgrowths of nationalism, according to Dr. Jameson, are imperialism, subjugation of a race for the purpose of exploitation resulting in the myth of race superiority, and conflict. Internationalism, he stated, is a direct result of nationalism.

"Our worship of our nation has become almost a religion," said Eric W. Allen at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house. "We have come to the time when we have to change, the nation is too small. . . . We must remake the whole business. We must have an entirely new set of ideas. The world has outgrown its old equipment. . . . I do not think it is possible for a person to go through our present educational process and not have a bias, a hatred for foreign peoples."

"We must have some organization to include the whole world, or we face, perhaps, extinction. We came close to just that 15 years ago."

"The international mind is the understanding mind . . . the unifying mind. Religiously it is the Christ mind. . . . The international mind aims to strengthen all international organizations, take definite steps in the direction of disarmament, break down high tariff walls, and subordinate nationalism to internationalism," said Rev. Clay E. Palmer in speaking at the Phi Psi house.

"I feel that one of the greatest tragedies of war is that we, who pride ourselves on being civilized, will resort to the methods of war to settle our disputes," said C. E. Rothwell, instructor at University high school, when speaking at the Sigma Kappa house on the subject "War."

Urging Oregon students to give a cheery "hello" to the foreign students on the campus, Mrs. Lucy Perkins, housemother at Alpha Delta Pi, spoke at Zeta Tau Alpha on her recent trip to Japan in company with Mrs. Gertrude Bass Warner, director of the fine arts museum.

"In Japan, the people enjoy all the beauties of nature. Whole families will go out to enjoy the cherry blossoms," Mrs. Perkins said.
