

Thielsen, Eva and Fisher To Sing in 'St. Cecilia Mass'

Performance To Be Given In Music Auditorium Next Sunday

Nancy Thielsen, Edward Fisher, and Donald Eva will be the soloists in the "St. Cecilia Mass," to be given at the music auditorium next Sunday afternoon by the University glee clubs, it was announced yesterday by John Stark Evans, director.

These three singers were soloists in last year's production of the "St. Cecilia," and the excellence of their performance is recalled by those who attended at that time. Sunday's concert will mark the eleventh consecutive year that a University chorus has presented Gounod's beautiful mass at Christmas time under the baton of Mr. Evans.

This is the fourth year with the glee clubs, formerly known as the University choir, for Miss Thielsen and Mr. Fisher, both of whom were featured soloists two years ago when the choir went to Portland for a concert with the Portland Symphony orchestra.

In the "St. Cecilia" Miss Thielsen will sing the soprano roles; Fisher the baritone, and Eva the tenor.

The performance, which will take the place of the usual Sunday afternoon vespers program in the music auditorium will start at 4 o'clock and will be free to students and the public.

What's YOUR favorite pipe tobacco?

Most PRINCETON men smoke—

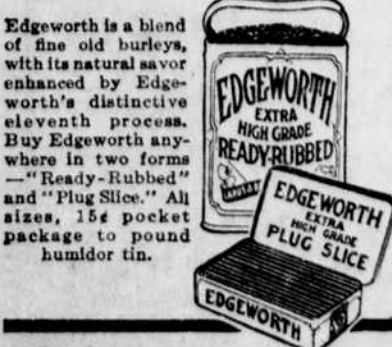

If you walk along Prospect Street in Princeton you'll notice how many men load their pipes from the familiar blue Edgeworth tin. At Senior Singing on the steps of Nassau Hall this spring the pipes will glow with Edgeworth.

A pipe and Edgeworth—this is the smoking combination that has won the college man. Yale, Dartmouth, Cornell, Illinois, Stanford... all agree with Princeton.

College men everywhere respond to the appeal of pipes—packed with cool, slow-burning Edgeworth. Be guided by their choice: Try Edgeworth yourself. Taste its rich natural savor that is enhanced immeasurably by Edgeworth's distinctive eleventh process.

You will find Edgeworth at your nearest tobacco shop—15¢ the tin. Or, for generous free sample, address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

eradication of trouble encountered. The standards as set by the tests also enable the professors to check upon their own efforts. If a large number of students are not coming up to the standards that the tests show them capable of doing, the professor, by careful investigation is able to determine where the weakness in his teaching may lie and thus be enabled to correct the fault.

Professor Stillman picked out a name at random from the scores earned by a student in his various aptitude tests, including the business apt test. The scores earned by the student in all the tests were far below the average; upon turning to the files it was found that the student had withdrawn from school. Another name was chosen that showed an above-the-average rating, but the records also showed that during high school he had done only moderately well; a check upon his business administration work showed him doing two-plus work, indicating that while he had not applied himself in high school, he was actually capable of doing far above the average work in the field for which he has an aptitude.

Oregon's Poems Wanted for Book

Mrs. A. H. Ernst To Select Verses for Class

The University of Oregon has been invited to be represented in the "Collegiate Anthology," which is being compiled at Washington and Lee university, at Lexington, Virginia. Dean Eric W. Allen, chairman of the publications committee, who received the invitation, has turned the matter of selection of material over to Mrs. Alice Hanson Ernst, who has a class in versification.

Six or seven poems of serious nature will be selected from publications of the last three or four years. During the past four years the versification class has participated in a number of publications. Three years ago it edited a column of the Emerald entitled "Peradventure." One year this class edited a page in the Webfoot, a campus publication.

Last year the versification class edited a number of the Troubadour, a magazine published in San Diego. Besides these miscellaneous opportunities for publishing their work, the versification class every year contributes something to the Oregonian and to "Old Oregon."

Awarding of Nobel Prize to Lewis Not Considered Insult

"I do not agree with Dr. Henry Van Dyke. The awarding of the Nobel prize for literature is not, in my opinion, an insult to America," said S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English, when asked for his opinion of the statement of the Princeton university man who said, "The award of the Nobel prize to the author of 'Main Street,' 'Elmer Gantry,' 'Arrow-smith,' and the rest of those novels that scoff at America and its traditions is an insult."

"The Swedish judges," continued Professor Smith, "recognized in Lewis' books the America they believe is typical but which is in reality only the surface appearance of American small towns—a very satirized and mimicked representation. A committee of American critics," he continued, "would probably have selected either Willa Cather or Theodore Dreiser as the most outstanding. But neither Willa Cather's moving nor Dreiser's solid style are so adapted to translation as Lewis'. It is rather difficult to transfer either Dreiser or Cather to another language, but satire is effective in any language and Lewis is without peer as a satirist and mimic. He sets out to make fun of, sneer at traditions, and he certainly does a yeoman job of it."

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

Heilig—"Escape," with Gerald Du Maurier. Drama. Colonial—"Anybody's Woman," with Ruth Chatterton. Drama. McDonald—"The Big Trail." Drama.

Galsworthy Play at Heilig "Escape," one of the most popular plays from the pen of John Galsworthy, England's most famous litterateur, has been made into a talking picture. Its first showing is scheduled for today at the Heilig theatre.

The script in play form was presented last season by the Guild Theatre Players, with Arthur Gray and Nancy Thielsen in the lead parts. With Gerald Du Maurier, stage star, in the leading role as the prisoner, the movie treatment does justice to Galsworthy.

Ruth Chatterton wears two wigs in "Anybody's Woman," current attraction at the Colonial theatre today and tomorrow. The wigs tell their own story of her transformation of character in the development of the film story. One of the wigs is "peroxide blonde,"

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

6-ton reels of cable distributed with the speed of perishable food

A carload of telephone poles laid down a thousand miles away within 36 hours after getting the order! Rush calls of this sort most frequently be handled by Western Electric, distributors for the Bell System.

But even more remarkable is the regular day by day flow of telephone supplies. The Chicago warehouse—one of 32 in the national system—handles 1,400 orders a day. In 1929 more than $400,000,000 worth of equipment and materials was delivered to the telephone companies. Distribution on so vast a scale presents many interesting problems to Bell System men. The solutions they work out mean much in keeping this industry in step with the times. The opportunity is there!

Dartmouth Man To Talk Monday

'Tradition and Modernism' Topic for Lecture

Dr. Wilbur M. Urban, professor of philosophy at Dartmouth college, will be the speaker of the first of a series of lectures provided by the committee on free intellectual activities taking place next Monday evening, December 8, at 8 o'clock in alumni hall of Gerlinger building, according to Dr. H. G. Townsend, chairman of the committee which is sponsoring the lecture series.

"Tradition and Modernism" is the topic on which Dr. Urban will speak. This subject should appeal to all students of philosophy and related subjects, such as literature and social science, Dr. Townsend believes.

This is the first of a series of lectures provided under the new arrangement, in which it is not the purpose of the committee to draw a large audience, including a number of 'uninterested people, but rather it is believed that each lecture will attract the students and faculty members that are especially interested.

and associate member of the chapter, will speak on "Advertising Aspects of the Recent Consolidation of the Register-Guard."

Harry Van Dine, active member of the honorary, will be the other speaker and will talk on "Outdoor Advertising." Van Dine won a scholarship last summer and worked with the Foster and Kleiser company in Portland.

A business meeting will precede the speeches. All members and associate members are requested to be present.
