Webfoots Aim At Win Against Husky Tonight

Conference Hoop Season For Two Quintets To Open in Seattle

Washington Heavy Favorite To Take Fourth Title In Row This Year

With one aim ahead of them, victory, ten Webfoot hoop representatives, Coach Bill Reinhart, and Senior Manager Norman Eastman, comprising a party of basketballing invaders, left for the stronghold of the Washington Husky last night at Seattle, to vie in the first conference struggle of the season.

Determined to squelch the local ideas that Oregon is "too small," Reinhart's men were cheerfully hopeful of taking the "Hec" Edmondson quintet, which runs around the maple court under the cognomen of Husky, into camp both Friday and Saturday, if it is at all possible. Reinhart, himself, was not so hopeful. The veteran Webfoot coach, not at all inclined to be overly pessimistic, was dubious concerning the first games of the conference.

Huskies Favorites Washington's quintet, heavy favorites to cop the Northwest division title for the fourth time in a row, is composed of rangy, tall, experienced men, all of them asserted to be over six feet. Hank Swanson, letterman of two seasons, is taking the pivot position for the Huskies and is backed up by a quartet of capable cagers, reports indicate. They are Swygard, Fuller, Cairney and West.

Just who will start in the lineup for Oregon had not been announced last night but it is safe to assume that Reinhart's practice lineup, composed of Jean Eberhart, center; Vincent Dolp and Winsor Calkins, forwards; and Kermit Stevens and Hank Levoff, guards, will get the call.

Nebraska Falls Washington has done about as much in the way of pre-season games as has Oregon. The Huskies have defeated Whitman and Nebraska in addition to several independent teams while the Webfoots have downed Multnomah club, and Gonzaga, the latter which recently beat Jack Friel's Washington Staters. Game for game Oregon and Washington are about evenly matched but team to team the Huskies have a decided advantage in height. What difference this will make will come to the fore in the first game. Oregon stands a good chance to cop one game if not both by virtue of conceded speed.

Thirteen Papers To Try for Cup

Fine Display of Weeklies Is Anticipated

With 13 entries already in, and more expected because of the extension of the closing date from January 7 to January 20, the Better Weekly contest, sponsored by the Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, promises to offer the finest weekly papers produced in the state of Oregon.

"Competition is going to be stiff," remarked Arne G. Rae, field manager for the Oregon State Editorial association and registrar for entries in the contest, in glancing over the papers submitted.

The following papers have been registered as entrants: Lakeview Lake County Examiner, Forest Grove News-Times, Cottage Grove Sentinel, Hood River News, Central Point American, Marshfield Southwest Oregon News, Monmouth Herald, Hood River Glacier, The Dalles Optimist, Free-water Times, McMinnville Telephone-Register, St. Helens Mist, and the Vernonia Eagle.

Last year the cup was awarded to the Hillsboro Argus, which is prevented from entering this year, as provided in the rules of the contest.

Presiding Officers of Prep Conference

Pole Conquerer To Tell of Flight Here Thursday

Admiral Who Conquered Antarctic Will Show New Trip Movies

Scientific research, not mere picturesque adventure or search for glory, was the motive behind the now-famous Byrd Antarctic expedition, the story of which will be told in an illustrated lecture to be given in McArthur court on Thursday evening, January 15, by the leader of the expedition, Rear-Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, who is to come to Eugene under the joint auspices of the associated students and the Register-Guard.

Using three airplanes, as well as a number of dog-team expeditions, the Byrd party explored and observed a total area which, if superimposed on a map of the eastern half of the United States, would extend in a wide belt from Chesapeake bay westward and around the head of Lake Michigan beyond Duluth, an area embracing Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and about half of Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Of this area more than 150,000 square miles were surveyed by aerial camera.

A total distance of 7100 miles was flown, climaxed on November 29, 1929, when Byrd and three others made a 1600-mile flight to the South Pole.

More than 9000 feet of film will be shown in connection with the lecture here. Nearly all of it is views which were not included in the picture shown in motion picture houses last summer.

Dean Allen on Committee Of National News Editors

Dean Eric W. Allen, of the school of journalism, has been engaged to work on a committee to negotiate with members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors next year. This committee will discuss the future policies in the matter of journalistic education.

Dean Allen, who appointed the members of the committee, is temporary chairman but will appoint another in the near future. The editors desire the members of the committee to meet at Washington next spring.

Matinee Dances Will Be Feature of Winter Term

Something new in the way of campus dances is to be inaugurated by the Coconut Grove Saturday afternoon. Every Saturday afternoon it will sponsor a matinee dance from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Cal Collins and his Troubadours will provide the music, and admission will be 50 cents. All students are invited to dance and play golf every Saturday afternoon.

Social Calendar To Be Out Soon

Social Chairmen who have corrections to make on the social calendar, or who have not yet scheduled their house functions with the dean of women, are asked to do so at once as the calendar will be released within the next few days.

It is especially imperative that changes of date be recorded in the office of the dean because of the orchestra schedule which is made to conform with the record kept there.

Press Delegates To Meet Ad Men

Alpha Delta Sigma To Hold Informal Discussion

To give the visiting managers of high school newspapers and annuals an insight into the workings of the business side of the Emerald and to permit them to gain further information and contacts in the work of advertising, Alpha Delta Sigma, national honorary advertising fraternity, will hold an informal meeting with the preppers in room 101, Journalism, at 4:30 p. m. today.

The opportunities offered for studying advertising will be explained very briefly at this gathering, by W. F. G. Thacher, adviser of the chapter here and professor of advertising. Presiding at the meeting will be Harry Tonkon, president of the organization.

Following a short informal discussion and question-box, members of Alpha Delta Sigma will accompany the visitors on a detailed inspection of the business department of the Emerald. During the tour, the high school managers will be told of the relationship of the advertising department to the other departments of the paper.

In charge of the entertainment of the high school managers are Anton Peterson, manager of the Emerald, and Larry Jackson, foreign advertising manager of the paper.

Social Worker Slates Visit for Conference

Miss Margaret Creech, who is in charge of the social work training division of the school of applied social science in Portland, will be on the campus next Tuesday, January 13, for the purpose of conferring with students who anticipate taking up social work as a profession.

Miss Creech will be at the office of the school of applied social science in the social science building from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 4 the day she is in Eugene. Students who wish to have a conference with her should make an appointment through Miss Mary Galey, secretary of the school of applied social science.

Funeral Services For Judge Bean To Be Held Today

Three Men Will Take Final Tribute From University To Rites in Portland

Final tribute to the late Federal Judge Robert S. Bean, most distinguished alumnus of the University and last member of the first class to graduate from Oregon, that of 1878, will be paid in Portland today when funeral services for the brilliant jurist will be held from Trinity Episcopal church.

Three men will represent the University at the last rites. They are L. H. Johnson, comptroller emeritus, who was associated with the late Judge Bean while the jurist was a member of the University board of regents, Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts, and Alfred Powers, dean of the extension division.

Messages of sympathy came to the Bean family yesterday from over the state and from many parts of the country. Federal courts in Portland and state courts will close for the funeral today.

The flag on the administration building on the campus was at half mast yesterday out of respect for the memory of the late judge.

Job Guidance Program For Women Ready

Vocational Studies Will Be Started Thursday With Mass Assembly

Campus Personnel Bureau Cooperating To Aid With Project

Plans for presenting the new vocational guidance program of the Associated Women Students to the women of the entire campus have been practically completed. It was announced at a meeting of the council of that organization last night.

A mass meeting for all women on the campus will be held next Thursday in Gerlinger hall at 4 o'clock, at which time a representative from the personnel department of Olds, Wortman and King's will speak. This meeting is in the way of getting all women of the campus acquainted with the new project being sponsored by the A. W. S. and to interest them in it. The speaker will remain on the campus for a day or two to meet girls who wish to have interviews with her. These appointments may be made through the dean of women's office.

Special Speakers To Come In the weeks following the mass meeting special speakers will be brought to the campus to meet smaller groups of girls interested in specialized fields. Nursing, foreign trade, commerce, journalism, law, medicine, and other professions will be discussed by women who are outstanding in their work. It is expected that in these smaller groups much information regarding various kinds of work that women may do will be brought out. According to present plans, each speaker will remain on the campus a day or two to hold private interviews with individuals who are particularly interested in their special field of endeavor.

Members of the A. W. S. council will visit the women's living organizations next week and announce the mass meeting Thursday. They will outline the project as it is planned and will indicate the particular advantages which every woman may get from it.

The personnel administration of the University is backing the A. W. S. in this new project and is giving it much assistance in securing unusual and outstanding women to come here as speakers. The administration is also offering its facilities to the use of the A. W. S. in the project.

Sigma Delta Chi To Meet Editors

FEATURING intimate and personal talks by members of the Emerald staff and by professors of journalism, the second annual "Chatterbox," sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism professional fraternity, will be held this afternoon at 4:30 in the men's lounge, Gerlinger building.

The "Chatterbox," established last year, endeavors to acquaint the editors of high school papers with that environment which, it is hoped, will later become their own. It introduces to the high school delegate some of the opportunities which are offered in the school of journalism, both from the standpoint of work under the faculty and from associations with the Emerald. The program includes talks from E. W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism; Neil Taylor, president of the local chapter of Sigma Delta Chi; Vinton Hall, editor of the Emerald; Tony Peterson, business manager of the Emerald; Clare Vause, president of the high school editorial association, and Rex Tussing, associate editor of the Emerald.

Crime Survey in Oregon Finished By Wayne Morse

Report Gives Picture From Arrests to the Final Dispositions

The first year's work on the Oregon crime survey, conducted under the direction of Wayne L. Morse, professor of law, has been completed and a report will be submitted to the legislature when it convenes Monday, January 12. Copies of the survey report are now being printed and will be placed in the hands of each legislator.

Statistical Study Given The study involves an analysis of all felony cases in Multnomah county during 1927-28 from the point of arrest to point of final disposition and gives a statistical picture of what happened to each of those cases. It compares findings in the Oregon study with those in other surveys. It is planned to extend the study to other counties in the state in order to give a cross-section picture of the disposition of felony cases in the whole state.

A program for further research is outlined in the report and the need of a comprehensive survey of the administration of criminal justice is discussed. Professor Morse was assisted in the survey by Ronald H. Beattie, research fellow.

No Interpretations Given Professor Morse emphasized in an interview that the motivating purpose of the Oregon crime survey is one of fact-finding and that the directors of the survey do not marshal data in support of or in opposition to any specific reform. The interpretations of the data are left to the reader.

"The moment a research worker recommends any specific reform, his views are discredited by those who are opposed to the reform and his position of impartiality is lost," Mr. Morse said in explaining his report.

The final report consists of more than 200 pages and will be published later as a supplement of the Oregon Law Review.

E. P. Lyon of the comptroller's office has been ill with a heavy cold and is not expected to be back at work for several days.

University to Entertain 600 Prep Leaders

Banquet, Vaudeville Head Special Entertainment Program for Tonight

Press, Officers and Girls' Divisions To Have Separate Talks

The eleventh annual high school conference, sponsored by the University of Oregon, will open this morning at 9 o'clock at the Music building in a welcoming assembly of the 600 delegates gathered on the campus for a heavily scheduled two-day session.

Bill Whitley, vice-president of the associated students, will welcome the prep school visitors in the absence of President George Cherry, and following talks by Dean James H. Gilbert and Hugh Rosson, of the University, the group will break up into three sections, the press conference, student body officers' conference, and the girls' league conference.

Banquet Day's Highlight Climaxing today's events will be the banquet at the men's dormitory for the entire delegation, commencing at 6:30. Madeline Gilbert, president of the girls' league; John Adams, president of the student body officers' association, and Clare Vause, president of the press association, will speak before the group, and Burt Brown Barker, University vice-president, will give the concluding address.

"A College Night," a vaudeville program at Gerlinger hall, will take up the remainder of the evening for the visitors. Numbers representing a wide variety of campus talent will feature the performance. "The Breaking of the Calm," judged as one of the best one-act plays produced on the campus in recent years, will be given by the drama department.

Varied Program Ready A two-round boxing match, a tumbling act, numbers by the Harmony Twins, and a number of humorous skits have been arranged by Barney Miller, chairman, and the men's and women's glee clubs will sing several numbers. This year, according to Miller, the program has been made as varied as possible to depict for the delegates work done in a number of school departments.

The high school press conference, which will be called to order for its initial meeting at 10:15 in room 105, Journalism building, by Clare Vause, president, will take up problems connected with prep school journalism. William M. Tugman, managing editor of the Eugene Register-Guard, will speak on "Newspapermen in Affairs."

The press delegates will be divided in the afternoon into four sections: editors of papers, editors of annuals, managers of papers, and managers of annuals.

Editors To Meet Vinton Hall, Emerald editor, will greet the editors of papers at their session, which commences at 1:30. George S. Turnbull, of the University school of journalism, will speak on "Writing the News"; Kay Yasui, editor of the Hood River Guide, will discuss "Problems of the Weekly Paper"; Robert C. Hall, superintendent of the University Press, will speak on "Make-up Counts." Other speakers include Jack Burke, former sports editor of the Emerald; Maude Riddle, of Lebanon, and Peggy Chessman, editor of the Astoria Post, Astoria high school.

A "Chatterbox," an informal program planned by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalistic fraternity, will entertain the men editors at Gerlinger hall at 4:30, and women
