Imagine Driving 50 Miles to Class; It's Being Done!

HOW many college students, would go to school if it meant driving over 50 miles to classes, and Saturday classes at that?

The interest in learning, however, is far from dead if we are to judge by a small group of Silverton enthusiasts. The superintendent of Silverton schools and several faithful members of his staff drive every Saturday to Portland to attend classes in history, under R. C. Clark, chairman of the history department; in education, from Nelson L. Bossing, professor of education; and literature, from Mrs. Mable Parsons. It seems, however, that so keen is the Silverton contingent's interest in things of scholarship, that the weekly pilgrimage to the city does not suffice. So Dr. L. S. Cressman, professor of sociology, journeys weekly to teach a class in Immigration and Assimilation, quite in keeping with the regular migrations of the citizens.

A Decade Ago

Thursday, Jan. 13, 1921.
 The addition of several pieces of new equipment makes the University of Oregon press one of the most complete print shops which any university in the West can boast.

Gibes and Scribes, an issue put out by the editing class, for the benefit of visiting newspapermen, will be distributed at the Newspaper conference banquet Saturday.

Smoke caused by taking a flashlight picture of the library at night drove busy students away from their tasks last night. The picture, it is rumored, was taken for the purpose of showing the crowded condition of the library.

The WETFOOT

"All the News That's Foot To Print"

"GOOD MORNING," AND OTHER SALUTATIONS, INTENDED PRINCIPALLY TO TAKE UP SPACE. TODAY IS A RED-LETTER DAY IN THE HISTORY OF THIS COLUMN. WE ACTUALLY RECEIVED TWO CONTRIBUTIONS, BELIEVE IT OR NOT, UNFORTUNATELY, HOWEVER, ONE OF THEM FAILED TO GET PAST THE BOARD OF CENSORS. WE LIKED THE THEORY, HOWEVER, AND WISH TO REQUEST THE AUTHOR TO TRY AGAIN.

Dead but unwept

 She said Rudy Vallee
 Was her ideal man.

RUDY VALLEE WAS BAD ENOUGH, BUT FEATURE PICKING A SAXOPHONE PLAYER TO BOOT.

OUR TERM'S FIRST CONTRIBUTION

Dear Flatfoot:
 I have just cum down from Cedar Knoll ter yer skule tew kit sum book learning, however, the boys are a tellin' me that a college education ain't no good unless I can get sum reel knowledge of life, sew, as I dont no no gals, I would like tew make a date with a blonde which I hev seen and would be much obliged if yew could tell me how as I don't no any gals here and have never had a date. I seen her in the library reedin behind a big stack of books which was sittin in front of her.
 'bliged,
 Wirt Wagon.

Dear Wirt:
 We plainly see that what you need most of all is advice. We will start out by telling you, inasmuch as the policy of this column has always been a helpful one, how to ask a young woman for a date. There are several intricate points in this seemingly simple thing which, nevertheless, is an involved science.

The first thing that you must learn, Wirt, is to never give her a chance to refuse you. Some of the cleverer ways of doing this are as follows:

"Madame, would you like to go to a dance tonight?"
 "Why I'm sorry, I already have a date."

"You have me wrong, I merely asked if you would like to go. I'm going out of town, this week-end."

The above, Wirt, is perhaps the best, but the one below is also good:
 "Madame, do you like to attend shows?"
 "Yes, but I'm sorry, I—"
 "Thank you, madame, that's all I wanted to know. I'm just gathering data for statistics class."

Now that you have that mastered, Wirt, you should start a conversation with the lady to lead up to the proposition.

The best way is to first discover her name. The most successful way is as follows: Borrow a bicycle, a Western Union cap, a pencil and a telegraph blank. Put on smoked glasses and false whiskers to conceal your identity. Rush in to girl in library; tell her that you have a telegram for Mr. Douglass, head librarian; Tell her you are in a rush and want her to sign for it. When you get signature, run out. Discard glasses, whiskers, pad, pencil, and bicycle. Come back in, call her by her first name. When she gives you the stony glare, tell her you met her at that party the night of the Portland game. She will look apprehensive and will unbend, rather than gain your enemy and loosen your tongue. Conversation is started. You are now on the road to success.

Yours truly,
 Wetfoot.

P. S.
 Dear Wirt:
 We have just been up to investigate the blonde you mentioned. Call us up in a couple of days and we'll have more material to offer.

Yours,
 Wetfoot.

WELL NOW THAT THAT'S OVER, WHAT'S THIS WE HEAR ABOUT THE S. A. E. HOUSE BOASTING OF AN ORCHID FINISHED ROOM WITH LACE CURTAINS?

OH, PERCIVAL, COULD I LURE YOU INTO A GAME OF CHARADES?

Well, thank heavens, we're drawing near to our close, as Lady Godiva remarked on the last lap of her famous canter.

Speedball Initiates New Idea in Team Selection

Approximately 35 girls have turned out for women's intramural speedball, according to Miss Marjorie Landru, coach of the sport, and there are still places open for more.

This week is being devoted to the technique of the game, and definite class practice nights will be assigned next week. Contrary to previous custom, teams will be chosen at the very beginning of the season and a great number of interclass games will be played. Practices are being held every evening at 4 on the field south of

A Tip for Busy House Managers

Every Friday you are confronted by the problem of serving fish in attractive ways, and every day you are confronted by the inelastic budget. Here's the answer to both questions on Friday.

Salmon Loaf Espanol
 Mashed Potatoes
 Buttered Peas
 Waldorf Salad
 Apple Pie Coffee

And Here's the "HOW" of It:

SALMON LOAF ESPANOL
 Three quart measures of cooked steelhead salmon. To this add three cups of bread-crumbs; 1-4 cup finely chopped green pepper; juice of one lemon; six or seven well-beaten eggs; salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and bake for one-half hour in individual custard cups, or in several large earthen-ware baking dishes.

Serve with Spanish sauce of tomatoes, chopped celery, green pepper, seasoned to taste.

You know the rest of the menu.

This loaf can be served to 36 persons for approximately $3.

We specialize in co-operating with your meal problems, and offer you the best in sea foods at the most reasonable prices.

Series of Plays Starts Next Week

Three One-Acts Will Be Given at Guild Theatre

The studio plays will open next Thursday afternoon at 4:15, with the first of a series of matinees to be given at Guild theatre each Thursday afternoon at the same hour. The first bill consists of three one-act plays. Louise Weber will direct "Phipps," by Stanley Houghton. The part of Lady Fanny will be played by Marguerite Blake; Sir Gregory by Martin Gallagher; and Phipps by Alvin McKelligon.

Willetta Hartley is producing the second play on the program, "Hearts Enduring," by John Erskine, with the parts of He and She played by Charles Shumaker and Celia Thoma. Eleanor Wood is producing "Catherine Parr." The part of King Henry VIII is played by Ken Lawson; Catherine Parr by Katherine Langenberg, and the page by Diane Flisler.

The second bill will include "How Perfectly Absurd," "The Beau of Bath," and "The Dog," directed respectively by Gene Love, Celia Thoma, and Florence Holloway. Most of the plays are already in rehearsal.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCEMENT
 Alpha Lambda of Kappa Delta announces the pledging of Mary Snider of Medford, and Helen Jones of Klamath Falls.

PLEDGING ANNOUNCEMENT
 Chi Psi announces the pledging of Edward Field, Sheridan, and Philip Fields, Portland.

'EAR AND 'AIR

Today's Question: "What Is Your Favorite Pastime?"

Note: This is a daily feature appearing for the first time today. Each day a new question will be asked and the answers printed in this column.

Ed Wells: My favorite pastime is making the utmost of an uncomfortable situation, dancing, or delivering hamburgers.

Philip Carroll: To ignore reserve library book throughout the evening, sit in front of a radio, smoke a cigarette, and sip from a glass of . . . milk is my favorite pastime.

Lois Nelson: I receive most enjoyment out of a thrilling bowling game. (Editor's note: This pastime was formerly called spinning.)

Barney Miller: I love to perch my feet upon a table, sit in an easy chair and have the pleasure of knowing that I own a full package of cigarettes.

All Ads Have Had Results, Dorothy Hughes Reports

The Emerald boasts the largest classified ad column of any college paper on the Pacific coast, and Dorothy Hughes, classified ad manager, reports that every ad has brought results. Miss Hughes, a freshman in journalism, has been largely responsible for the growth of the department, says Tony Peterson, business manager of the Emerald.

"Each student should read the classified ads and patronize them, inasmuch as they will be supporting the Emerald and at the same time benefitting themselves," said Miss Hughes.

Free passes to the Colonial theatre will be given every other week to each student whose name appears in the column.
