Library Adds Two Works By Hamsun, De La Roocke

"Portrait of a Dog," by Mazo De La Roocke, and "Vagabonds," by Knut Hamsun, are two of the latest books that the University library has received recently.

The book by Mazo De La Roocke is a story showing the friendship and the love which exists between a master and her dog. The author tells a story of her comrade, a Scotch terrier, whom she has had with her for 12 years, showing his loyalty and his almost human understanding.

"Vagabonds" by Knut Hamsun is given high credit by Percy Hutchinson of the New York Times. "It is a story of life's comedy as viewed by an Olympian, tears and laughter caught by a vast understanding, for the author is one of the Olympians and 'Vagabonds' is one of the finest and most truly profound of his works.

Graduating Students May Call for Red Grade Books

Those students who are graduating this month may secure their "red books" at the registrar's office, according to Miss Gertrude Stephenson, assistant registrar. Since these books contain grades of the students they may be convenient for those who plan to teach or would like to use the books for references.

HOOVER IS BLAMED FOR STATE OF AFFAIRS

(Continued from Page One) has made a number of appointments which are below the level of what one would expect. He has named men whose only qualification was that they hadn't stolen someone's silver when invited out to dinner.

International issues have been relegated to the background because this session, a short one, has been occupied with urgent local issues.

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

Colonial — Dolores Del Rio in "The Bad One."

Heilig — "Sisters," with Molly O'Day and Sally O'Neill.

McDonald — Charles Ruggles in "Charlie's Aunt."

Rex — Murray and Sidney in "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa."

State — Buster Keaton in "Doughboys," Jack Mulhall in "For the Love o' Lil."

Famous Comedians Return

George Sidney and Charlie Murray, known to their screen fans as Cohen and Kelly, are returning in their latest talking comedy, "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa," starting its run at the Rex today.

In the film, the team start out for darkest Africa to find ivory to use on the piano; they sell that article being scarce due to the depression. The trip turns into a veritable riot, particularly to their wives who are captured by a desert sheik and added to that stewart's harem.

Del Rio at Colonial

If one were to have prophesied a few months ago that the picture and modestly sedate Dolores Del Rio could vividly portray a hoydenish gamin of the water front cafes, few of that star's millions of fans would have thought it possible.

Yet this is exactly what Miss Del Rio has done in "The Bad One," the sensational comedy-drama of primal passions, playing at the Colonial today and tomorrow.

Famous Play at McDonald

"Charlie's Aunt," the talking version of the famous stage farce on life at Oxford university, and which stars Charles Ruggles who created the role for the first time, opens today at the McDonald theatre for a four-day run.

The film has been acclaimed by press and public wherever it has been played, the dialogue being a continuous series of laughs. Ruggles has won a good name for comic characterizations on the screen in interpreting roles as a drunken man. Some of his most

Play Production Class Entertains

Three Plays Presented at Guild Hall Tomorrow

Tomorrow the first three studio plays will be given at Guild theatre at 4:15. These one-act plays are the first of a series of plays entirely produced by the class in play production. They were started last year as a means of giving this class practical experience, but proved so popular with the campus as entertainment that they are being continued this term.

Directors of the first bill and the order of the plays to be given are as follows: Eleanor Wood producing "Catherine Parr," a historical burlesque; Willetta Hartley producing "Hearts Enduring," an ironic tragedy by John Erskine; and Louise Webber, producing "Phipps," a sophisticated social comedy by Stanley Houghton.

Other members of the play production class and the theatre workshop class are working on the stage and lighting.

There will be no admission.

Charles Ruggles in "Charlie's Aunt" recent films include "Gentlemen of the Press," and "Young Man of Manhattan."

Sister in "Sisters"

Sally O'Neill and Molly O'Day, sisters in real life as well as in their film of reel life, "Sisters," playing at the Heilig today, have a vehicle that is a splendid blending of comedy and drama. It is a story of night life on Broadway. In this picture their first together since "Forlorn," they head a cast which includes Russell Gleason and Jason Robards.

Briefs

Announcements of forthcoming films indicate a series of fine cinemas for Eugene audiences. Next Sunday the McDonald opens with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "The Man Who came Back." On the same day the Heilig is presenting Winnie Lightner's sensational hit, "The Life of the Party." Thursday of this week, the Colonial is bringing back "Byrd at the South Pole." Next week will see the Rex's showing of "The Painted Desert," much discussed because of its photographic excellence.

The different clubs have displayed their interest in the question and have expressed a desire to attend the debates.

Norris To Speak On Development Of Shale Oil Here

Shale oil is a potential source of energy hitherto little developed, according to Dr. Norris, of the physics department, who will lecture Thursday night on "The Distillation of Oil Shales."

Shale oil is obtained from shale rock, which contains all of the organic substances necessary for the production of the oil, but which is useless until the rock is heated in a closed vessel and the oil distilled. "This oil has all of the advantages of petroleum," says Dr. Norris, "and there is no reason why it should not become as common a source of energy as petroleum."

Dr. Norris will talk on the development of shale oil here and abroad since 1908, and will give a summary of the results obtained in researches at various universities. His talk will include details of the process of distillation, and a glance at some of the problems of production, which includes marketing and mining. Lantern slides of the different processes will be shown to illustrate the lecture.

Rec Cross Drive Is Short of Quota

Faculty Subscribe Nearly $300 for Relief

The drive on the campus to raise $500 for the Red Cross as the University's share in the Lane county quota of $3000 for drought relief was very near the $300 mark last evening, according to Dr. Philip A. Parsons, dean of the school of applied social science and chairman of the drive.

The amount contributed so far has been entirely from faculty members, and plans are now under way to obtain the remainder from the student body, University employees, and faculty members who have not yet contributed.

Dr. Parsons said that he was very pleased with the results of the drive as far as it had gone and was confident the remainder of the quota would be raised shortly.
