Bear Reports From Beavers

"Yes, it looks kinda dark around the Orange camp right now," says an article from yesterday's Oregon State Barometer. The darkness seems to have been aroused by an epidemic of injuries among the Beaver basketball players. Whether the Orangemen are badly crippled or not is hard to tell, but the chances are that the reports are merely the usual pre-game pessimism.

One man who is, or at least was, laid up over at Corvallis, is the tall center, Ed Lewis. This fellow has developed into a real star as a pivot man although only a sophomore, either, but he ranks 10th among the leading conference scorers. It has been published that Lewis is out of the game for sure because a pulled ligament in his knee has failed to heal. This injury kept him from playing in the second game over there against the Huskies.

It is also said by the Beavers that Ken Fagans, forward, has a very bad elbow, Howard Merrill has lost a lot of weight, and Rod Ballard, has a sore leg. All that can be said to this is that the Staters, despite their hospital list, just got through beating Washington, and any team that plays better with cripples than without can't be so badly off.

Webfoots All Feeling Fine

Oregon won't be hampered with ailments when the opening whistle blows over there at Corvallis Saturday night anyway. That is, of course, unless some member of the team steps off a curb in front of a gravel truck, or falls out of a second story bed tonight dreaming about getting the tip off. These things aren't likely to happen so the Beavers need do no worrying on our account.

Coach Reinhardt said last night that all the men were in good shape. They all looked it, and were in good spirits, too. Despite so many reverses, the Oregon squad has not lost any pep or confidence. Physically and mentally the team should be "right" for the Orangemen.

Coach Selects Starting Five For Beavers

New Combination Opposes Staters on Saturday At Corvallis

Calkins, Dolp, Eberhart, Stevens and Levoff Are Picked

The Webfoot starting lineup for the first Oregon State battle tomorrow night, a problem which has been causing Coach Bill Reinhardt considerable worry, has been decided at last, the Webfoot men announced last night. "Windy" Calkins and Vince Dolp will start as forwards; Jean Eberhart, center, and Kerm Stevens and Hank Levoff will handle the guard positions.

Reports from Corvallis that Ed Lewis, lanky center and one of the leading scorers of the league, was definitely out and that Ken Fagans, a guard who was switched to center for the Washington State series, was under a doctor's care, are the most logical reasons for the shifting of Eberhart back from forward to the pivot position.

Calkins, a letterman from last year's quintet, did not get going until the last two or three games. In the Washington series he was sent in and bolstered the Webfoot lineup with some close checking and long shots.

The battle between Cap Roberts and Eberhart for the center position is still on despite the announcement that Eberhart would start Saturday night. Roberts, a sophomore, has been developing with each game. In the last contest with Washington he managed to outjump Swanson, Husky pivot man, quite often.

Coach "Slats" Gill may have to make a big change in his starting lineup if Lewis and Fagans are not in condition to play. Either Lyman or Drager will take the center job. Lyman has an advantage in height and is the most likely starter. Rod Ballard will undoubtedly hold down one of the forward positions and either Jerry Thomas or "Kingfish" Bailey will take over Lyman's customary place. Two veterans, Buck Grayson and Swan Merrill, will start as guards.

SPORTS SHORTS

The Spokane Police five was scheduled to play the Liberty Park Athletic club team two nights ago. Three hours before game time detectives started rounding up chicken thieves in the Park district. By game time four members of the club team were in jail. The contest was called off.

These chambers of commerce will do anything to advertise. On the highway, near Hillsboro, Illinois, is a large sign that says, "12 miles to Nokomis, home of Jim Bottomley."

Dr. Meanwell, Wisconsin hoop coach, inserted an ad in the "help wanted" column of a city paper. It read, "Wanted, university man over six feet tall for Wisconsin basketball team." Stanley Holmquist answered the ad and has been the "find" of the season.

Florence Austral, Concert Soprano, Made Debut at 22

A. S. U. O. Concert Series Singer Appeared First In Opera

Coming to the Pacific coast from an eight months' concert tour of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, Florence Austral, the Australian singer who is acclaimed by English and American critics as the greatest soprano of this generation, is now in the United States and on her way to Eugene.

She is to appear in joint concert with John Amadio, her husband and concert flutist, at McArthur court on Thursday evening, February 5, under the auspices of the associated students.

Third on Series

She is the third artist to appear this winter on the concert series sponsored by the associated students. Her recital will be free to holders of student body membership cards.

All during her girlhood Miss Austral sang. But she lived in an isolated district of Australia, where great music was never heard, and she confined her musical activities to singing little songs and ballads at amateur concerts and church parties.

Made Operatic Debut

When she was 17, a particularly fine performance in a Christmas cantata caused friends to urge her to secure professional training for her voice. She went to a conservatory in Melbourne, finished the course there in 18 months, and went on to England, where she studied for four years before her sensational operatic debut as Brunnhilde in a Wagnerian opera.

Since that time she has sung nearly all the great soprano operatic roles with unqualified success. In 1925 she came to the United States for the first time, to appear in the Cincinnati music festival. Since that time she has come back to this festival twice and has made complete tours of the United States.

Psychology Lab Sections Are Dismissed for Week

All psychology laboratory sections, beginning tomorrow morning and continuing through next Thursday, will not meet on their scheduled days, the psychology department announces.

To take the place of the regular class period a mid-term examination for all sections will be held next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in Villard assembly.

Kitzmiller, Erdley Face Moot Courtmartial For Desertion

Having completed a short course in court-martial procedure, advanced students of the R. O. T. C. will take part in a moot court-martial trial to be held in the barracks at 9 and 11 o'clock today.

Kitzmiller

The purpose of the trial is to further familiarize the students with procedure in an actual case of court-martial, and to bring out points which they have been studying, according to Lieutenant Prouty. All details of the case have been put into the hands of the students.

A formal charge of desertion has been brought against two captains of the local unit, Johnny Kitzmiller and Jack Erdley, and it is up to them to prove their innocence through their defense counsel.

Kitzmiller will be tried at 9 o'clock with Captain Donald Flynn as defense counsel and First Lieutenant Elmer Pahl as assistant defense counsel. Erdley, whose trial is set for 11 o'clock, will be defended by Captain Raymond Bell with Captain Homer Smith assisting.

The court for the 9 o'clock trial, which acts as both judge and jury, consists of: Captain Harold Blackburne, president; Captain Donald Guild; Captain Arthur Rolander, law member; First Lieutenant Walter Adams, First Lieutenant R. C. Everts, First Lieutenant T. B. Swanton; First Lieutenant William East, trial judge advocate or prosecutor; and First Lieutenant Carl Moore, assistant trial judge advocate, all of whom are fellow officers of Kitzmiller.

Fellow officers of Erdley, Captain Carey Thompson, president; Captain Jesse Douglas, Captain Gaylor Cox, Captain John Londahl; First Lieutenant George Anderson, law member; First Lieutenant Fred Felter; Captain Harold Kinzell, trial judge advocate; and Captain William Ayres, assistant trial judge advocate, make up the court for the 11 o'clock trial.

Witnesses for the prosecution are: Lieutenant McCammon, Sergeant Conyers, Dave Totten, Nick Zylstra, Howard Stafford, Spencer Raynor; Sergeant Agule, Sergeant Deets, Fred Reems, Frank Long, and Harold Johnson are witnesses for the defense.

Previous court-martial trials have proved very entertaining as well as instructive, according to Lieutenant Prouty, and it is hoped this will be no exception. The trials are open to the public.

Debaters in High Schools Prepare For Contest Here

Annual Forensic Tourney In May Will Decide State Champions

High school debaters are now going into intensive training for the forensic season which will culminate in the contest on the campus sometime in May for the state championship. This contest, which has been held here yearly since 1908, will be on the question: "Resolved, that chain stores are detrimental to the best interests of the American people."

McLoughlin Union high at Milton-Freewater, is the present holder of the DeCou cup, given each year by Prof. and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, of the University, while Medford high school was winner in the western division last year. Those two schools are also the possessors of the Burt Brown Barker cups given each year to the winners in the eastern and western districts.

Local Debates Held

Local debates now in progress in the 11 districts will soon determine the winners in each, and district contests will continue until the winner in east and west is determined. An innovation which is expected to add interest this year is the fact that the same question will be used in every debate. Officers of the High School Debating league, in charge of the contest, are H. E. Tobie, Stayton, president; Percy M. Collier, assistant professor of English, University of Oregon, secretary, and Dr. Dan E. Clark, University of Oregon, treasurer. On the executive committee are C. A. Howard, state superintendent; Harriett C. Long, state librarian; Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University.

The districts, the counties which comprise them and the director in each follow:

- Columbia river—Clatsop and Columbia, John M. Jandrall, Seaside.
- Northern Willamette—Clackamas, Multnomah (except Portland), Tillamook, Washington, Yamhill, Charles E. Saverude, Gresham, director.
- Middle Willamette—Marion, Linn, Lincoln, Polk, and Benton; J. J. House, Corvallis.
- Springfield Man Directs
- Southern Willamette—Coos, Curry and part of Douglas; W. E. Buell, Springfield.
- Coos Bay—Coos, Curry and part of Douglas; W. V. Ferguson, Coquille.
- Southern Oregon—Josephine, Jackson and part of Douglas; J. F. Cramer, Grants Pass.
- South-Central Oregon—Klamath and Lake; Paul T. Jackson, Klamath Falls.
- North-Central Oregon—Hood River, Wasco, Sherman, Jefferson, Crook, Deschutes; G. W. Agor, Bend.
- Umatilla—Gilliam, Wheeler, Morrow and Umatilla; Austin Landreth, Pendleton.
- Northeastern Oregon—Union and Willamette; Roy Conklin.
- Southeastern Oregon—Grant, Baker, Malheur, and Harney; Hugh Coleman, Baker.

Card Collection Latest Addition To Oregon Lib

Miss Casford Spends Two Years in Gathering 3000 Pictures

A collection of 3000 picture cards is one of the latest additions to the University library.

The collection has been built up after two years of work and supervision by Lenore E. Casford, periodical librarian. The collection is now under her department. The pictures have been placed in seven filing cabinets and arranged under their proper headings. Miss Casford said, "In my work in Portland we had a large picture collection and it was constantly in use by many people of all fields of life, and that is what I have tried to build up here at the University, so that the faculty and the students may obtain pictures to illustrate their talks or for art classes or for the many other uses to which they can be put."

These pictures have been collected from all sources and posted alphabetically as nearly according to their nature as possible. On the card is the name of the picture, name of the artist and the subject, and on many of the pictures there is an explanation on the reverse side of the card.

Sometimes whole books are kept so that a sequence of illustrations may be kept together. These books show pageants, ideas for parties, costumes, boats, cathedrals, churches, Indians, and pictures of Japan and its beauties. The biggest part of the collection is given to art, showing beautiful buildings, various windows, and different

13 Mermen Land On Ineligible List

Reduced Squad Will Meet Multnomah Tomorrow

The strength of the swimming team has been somewhat diminished in the last few days as a result of a rather large ineligibility list. Five men on the varsity and eight men on the frosh squad have been placed on this list. Most of these are caused by incompletes and Coach Hewitt expects the majority to be made up by the end of the week in time for the Multnomah club meet.

The meet with the Multnomah club is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the women's pool tomorrow. No admission will be charged and the doors will be open at 7 o'clock. A large crowd is expected as it will be the initial meet of the season.

The Winged M swimming mentor, Jack Cody, is bringing his strongest combination. Johnny Anderson, ex-Oregon captain and star, will be here. Silverman, another ex-Oregon man and distance ace, will also swim for the club. The other swimmers making the trip are Oliver Doble, Art Hansen, Dana Thomas, Gene Stocks, Hugo Lundborg, Jonny Noon, Paul Westernoff, and Julian Smith.

Forum To Discuss Ideal For Church Service Here

"My Ideal for a Church Service" is the topic to be discussed this coming Sunday evening at Westminster house by the Westminster Forum, student discussion group. Following a critical examination of church services, the group will work out its own idea of what a church service ought to be, according to Rev. Max Adams, student pastor. The service worked out by the students will be used by a deputation team from the Westminster Forum in some of the communities of Lane county, which have no regular church services.

Other deputation teams will present a play and a music service at various communities in the county. The extension division of the University is arranging dates for these teams.
