Does Easter Bunny Really Lay Colored Eggs?

"Does the Easter bunny really lay eggs?" and "Will every co-ed have a new bonnet by Sunday?" are questions which will greet us tomorrow, and all of us are praying for fair weather, for Easter is the one time when every college student, who is not particularly devout, attends church ceremonies and blossoms forth in all his spring finery.

Phi Gamma Delta To Give Easter Breakfast

What is without doubt the most elaborate and beautiful of the season's social affairs will be given tomorrow morning when Phi Gamma Delta entertains with its annual Easter breakfast.

The Easter breakfast is a tradition which is celebrated in every chapter of Phi Gamma Delta, not only active but alumni. It was established in 1910 at the University of Washington, and was first observed on the Oregon campus in 1913.

The breakfast, which will be held from 9 until 10:30 o'clock in the Eugene hotel, has been worked out to the finest point of detail by Hal Leonard, general chairman, and by Paul Townsend, chairman for the committee on decorations.

The table is to be 110 feet long in the shape of the cross, and will be decorated with lilies, iris, tulips, cineraria, and daffodils, embedded in moss. The walls are to

T. W. Douglas Marries

Miss Lee Patricia Bohan Spring affects the faculty just as it affects the students, it would seem, for another instructor to fall victim to Mr. Cupid is Theodore W. Douglas, instructor in English, whose marriage to Miss Lee Patricia Bohan of Mexico City took place on March 21 in Los Angeles.

Edith Lake Weds At Lovely Ceremony

Miss Louise Storla, graduate of the University, sang "I Love You Truly" preceding service, which was read by Rev. Edwin Leake.

The bridesmaids, sisters of the bride, wore old-fashioned frocks of yellow organdy with green sashes and carried nose-gays of garden flowers.

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

Colonial—Saturday, "Adventures of Tom Sawyer." Sunday and Monday, Nancy Carroll and Frederic March in "Laughter."

Hellig—Saturday, "The Marriage Playground." Sunday and Monday, "Behind Office Doors."

McDonald—Saturday, "Lonely Wives." Sunday and Monday, Ruth Chatterton in "Unfaithful."

State—Saturday, "The Painted Desert." Sunday and Monday, "Drums of Jeopardy," with Lloyd Hughes.

Hellig Has Good Drama

One of the most successful in popular appeal of the novels of Edith Wharton, "The Children," has proved to be an entertaining talking picture. Retitled "The Marriage Playground," the cast includes Frederic March, Mary Brian, Lilyan Tashman, and a half dozen other well-known Hollywood names. Miss Brian takes the role of the oldest of the Wheaton children, who are nearly cast on their own through the selfish attitudes of their estranged parents. It is showing at the Hellig today only.

"Tom Sawyer" Goes Today

Today is your last chance to see the deliciously human comedy "Tom Sawyer," done from Twain's book, and with a cast which includes Jackie Coogan, Mitzi Green, and other well-liked child stars. The big laughs are still there, with pantomime even increasing the fun.

State Has Western

Bill Boyd, in "The Painted Desert," is the State attraction for Saturday. Chiefly outstanding for some very fine scenic effects, it has little in the way to offer except the usual stereotype western plot.

"Lonely Wives" Goes

Today is your last chance to see the laugh riot, "Lonely Wives," with Edward Everett Horton playing two roles. If you haven't heard everyone discussing and laughing about it, you haven't been around much. It is really a "wow," with good "American" humor interspersed with the rather more invigorating French variety. At the McDonald.

Prize Film at Colonial Sunday

"Laughter," the film that has won wide acclaim among theatrical reviewers as outstanding entertainment, and cited often as an example of talkie art, is the Colonial theatre's feature for Sunday. The cast includes Frederic March, most personable leading man today in Hollywood, and Nancy Carroll, revamped for artistic purposes. The story deals with the dramatic conflict of a wife's entanglement in scandal.

Chatterton at McDonald Sunday

A new Ruth Chatterton film at the McDonald, Sunday! Little more than the foregoing sentence need be said, so firmly has she entrenched herself with college audiences. However, this film adequately upholds her high standard. It tells the story of an unfaithful English gentleman whose wife discovers he is in love with his brother's wife. Complications make it necessary for her to involve herself in a ruinous scandal to save the husband.

er's wife. Complications make it necessary for her to involve herself in a ruinous scandal to save the husband.

State Has Premier

The premier Northwest screening of Lloyd Hughes' starring picture, "Drums of Jeopardy," is the State feature for Sunday.

Heilig Thriller Comes Sunday

Robert Ames and Mary Astor, who played leading roles in "Holiday," are co-starred in Heilig's Sunday film, "Behind Office Doors," a problem film dealing with the crises that face all office help when they find it impossible to remain completely objective toward their associates.
