

WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

COLONIAL—Charles Chaplin in "City Lights."
 Hellig — "The Lightning Flyer."
 McDonald — William Haines in "Tailor-Made Man."
 State — "Little Accident" and "Case of Sergeant Grischa."

Charles Chaplin in a scene from "City Lights."

Haines at McDonald
 William Haines, fast and glib, one of the best liked "wisecrackers" of the screen, appears for the last time today at the McDonald theatre in "A Tailor Made Man." In this comedy, Haines takes the part of a pants-presser who sallies forth to the elite parts of a big city in borrowed evening clothes. A series of laughably compromising situations, the main one centering around finding the "one and only" girl, makes pleasant amusement.

State Has Double Bill
 The weekly Tuesday double bill at the State theatre today includes Doug Fairbanks Jr. in "Little Accident," and "The Case of Sergeant Grischa." Both are well known features whose second run should draw large crowds.

Chaplin Film Is Sensation
 "City Lights," awaited for three years as a defiant gesture against talking pictures by Charles Chaplin, the last of the silent stars, is at last being revealed to Colonial theatre patrons today and the rest of the week.

No speaking voices, though the use of sound is made with striking effect, and the sensation of silent pantomime after these few years of talking pictures, makes this silent experiment of Chaplin's indeed a sensation. In his own words he describes the film as a romantic comedy in pantomime. It is indeed that, including many laughs, and a dash of exquisite pathos.

Hellig Has Thrill Film
 A daredevil race between a high powered automobile and a locomotive going full blast, the stirring spectacle of a wild freight dashing pell mell down a steep grade, are samples of stock thrills that bolster up the stock romantic story of "The Lightning Flyer," with James Hall, and featured at the Hellig Theatre today. Will please the average millions.

Wesley Students Present Drama, 'Cleopas' Sunday

Leading Part in Prize Play Of Drama League Taken By Lloyd Brown

"Cleopas," a religious drama, by Alice L. Barton, was presented before a large audience by the Wesley club, Sunday evening at 7:30 in the Methodist church auditorium. The play was directed by Esther Lisle.

The play, a drama of the time of Christ, tells the story of a young man, Cleopas, played by Lloyd Brown, who seeks to follow a vision even though his parents, played by Howard Lee and Ruth Ludington, cannot understand his willingness to forsake riches and fame. The part of the blind sister in the play was taken by Grace Fennell.

Donald Saunders was in charge of the lighting, and stage properties were in charge of Evan Hughes. Violet Adams and Carol Johnson had charge of costumes.

The play, which was a prize winner in a contest sponsored by the National Drama League of America, was presented in several large Boston churches before being given here.

The cast has been asked to put the play on next Sunday evening at the Methodist church at Wendling.

Preceding the play, the Wesley club discussed "How shall we observe laws" at its 6:30 meeting. Roger Pfaff was in charge of this discussion, and the worship service was led by Nellie Franklin.

Buy Book on Business By Banker, Says Dean

"Radical ideas from a conservative source," is the best way to explain the latest book on business, according to Dean David E. Faville, of the school of business administration. The book is "Business Adrift," by Wallace B. Donham, dean of the Harvard graduate school of business administration since 1919.

"The author, former vice-president and at present a director of the Old Colony Trust company, which is one of the more conservative institutions of its kind, advises business men to wake up to labor conditions," the dean said.

McGraw-Hill company published 3300 copies of the book which was released on the 27th of last month. Due to the heavy demand, 3,000 more copies are being printed.

Plants for Campus Use Are Grown Here

Already the miniature greenhouse back of the infirmary which was constructed by the University last term is being made to serve its purpose. Mr. Sam Nicklson, head gardener has more than a score of different annuals, biennials, and perennials growing in the little glass enclosure. When these become of sufficient size they will be transplanted to culture beds located at various places on the campus and from there they will be transplanted to their permanent location, Mr. Nicklson said.

University Band Gives Best Performance Yet at Concert

Stehn's Musicians Bring Large Audience To Hall

By DAVE WILSON

The increase in the size of the crowds which attend the concerts given by the University band is testimony of the constantly improving quality of its performance.

A near capacity crowd filled the music auditorium Sunday afternoon to hear John Stehn's concert bandmen give the best program they have presented in the past two years. Better co-ordination between the brass and wind sections, and considerably improved intonation were the earmarks of the general improvement, together with much smoother handling of the slow passages which in former years have made band audiences a bit uncomfortable.

The program opened with a march, "The Noble Commander," which was played with good martial spirit spiced with discriminating shadings of tone and volume which made it suitable hors d'oeuvres for a formal program.

Director Stehn explained the organization and the themes of Massenet's overture to "Phedre" before the band swung into it. His remarks stimulated the audience's enjoyment of the musical version of the old Greek legend as set had to purchase all shrubbery and other plants used in landscaping the campus, and it is thought that the establishment of the green house will result in a considerably saving. It may also be used in performing some botanical experiments.

Frosh Commission To Have Mass Meeting

Frosh commission will have a mass meeting Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock in Hendricks hall, Caroline Card, president, announced yesterday. This will be the last meeting of the year, and it will be in the form of a circus with the various groups putting on stunts.

Helen Binford is general chairman, and working with her are: Maxine Reed, group chairman; and Jean Robertson, social chairman. Ring leaders, appropriate decorations, punch, animal crackers and balloons will all be featured during the evening, Miss Card announced. All freshman girls are invited.

Mumps and Measles Infirmiry Ailments

Mumps and measles were the principal ailments causing confinement at the University infirmary yesterday. Neville Tatlo is suffering from the effects of mumps, and Geraldine Metcalf is confined to her bed as a result of measles. Neither case, however, is considered serious.

Other students at the infirmary are: Betty Jones, Ethel James, Nada Stocks, Raymond Force, and Myron Blackwell.

Force is improving slowly, and his condition is not as bad as it formerly was.

down in Racine's tragedy. The lament of Phedre was well done by clarinets and flutes, and the brasses showed to advantage in the storm scene.

Ethelbert Nevin's suite, "A Day in Venice," was done with the grace of a stringed orchestra. The catchy rhythm of "The Gondoliers" vied for attention with the graceful waltz time of "Dawn," and "Venetian Love Song" and "Good Night" were given a lyrical treatment in which the French horns did most of the work and did it well.

The "Blue Danube Waltzes" (Strauss) ran through all the variations, and were given a well-modulated Viennese sparkle which has made them world favorites for two generations.

Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody is a big mouthful for any band or orchestra, but the student musicians polished it off very creditably. Director Stehn's reading seemed a bit slower than the accepted standard in the first half of the work, but the last part and the finale were superbly done. The clarinets figured strongly in the success of the rendition, aided and abetted by some nice French horn technique.

Throughout the program percussion was ably handled, and the tubas climbed out of the football band class very definitely into the concert field.

Cross-Question Will Be Employed in Debate

Oregon varsity debate men will hold a non-decision debate with the University of Washington Thursday, April 16, Hobart Wilson, general forensics manager, announced yesterday. The debate will take place at 7:30 o'clock in Villard hall with Robert Gamer and Rolla Reedy upholding the negative of the question, "Resolved, that the expansion of the chain store is detrimental to the best interests of the American people," and James Bell and Robert Burns arguing the affirmative for the University of Washington. The Oregon cross questioning

'Peace' Is Topic Of Top-Sergeant

THE state contest for orations on "Peace" was won by Roger A. Pfaff, first sergeant in the local R. O. T. C. unit. The contest was held at Pacific (calm, quiet, peaceful) college, Newberg, Oregon, (also calm, quiet, peaceful).

"We plunged ourselves into the last war to make the world safe for democracy, yet nations are preparing, during this period of armistice, for a more devastating war," Pfaff declared. He is top-sergeant in the local military trains corps.

system of debate will be used. In this type of debate the contestants, figuratively speaking, put each other on the witness stand and cross-examine them. This is the first time this method has been used on the Oregon campus this year, although the Oregon debaters used this system in debating Washington while on tour.

60 BIG SISTERS ARE CHOSEN FOR FROSH

"We chose the girls on the basis of ability to work, interest in freshmen women, the general level of scholarship, personality, and the promise which they have shown in the past for probable accomplishment in the future."

The Big Sister plan has been revolutionized this year, and work is beginning immediately in order that it may be as efficient as possible. In the past it has been customary for girls to sign up to be Big Sisters, with about three hundred generally used. Each girl was then assigned one or two little sisters, and her main job was to help them with registration. This year the number of Big Sisters has been materially reduced, and each Big Sister will have about ten freshman women to help get adjusted to college life and activities. The Big Sister job this year will be one of personnel work, Miss Macduff declared.

YWCA Meetings Will Open With Singing

At 7:45 on every second and fourth Tuesday of each month this term, the Y. W. C. A. bungalow will ring to the tunes of popular melodies, of old favorites, and of Camp Fire songs. For all campus Camp Fire club meetings of this term are to open with a "song fest," in which one girl starts a song as soon as the last is finished.

At tonight's meeting, the first one of the term, there will be a short business meeting at which the committees on a possible new name and programs will make their reports.

"Sincerity or Sham," Bea Milligan's choice of topic for discussion, will be the subject tonight. Miss Milligan is the club's new adviser.

Foreign Trade Board Outlines New Courses

As a result of the meeting of the foreign trade board held in Portland last Friday, University students studying foreign trade will study actual cases that have occurred in that city. In addition to this, the board did preliminary work in outlining new courses on the subject. The new courses are to be given to best suit the needs of Portland business men, so that students may obtain a knowledge of northwest shipping.

Dean David E. Faville and Professor H. C. Hawkins, of the business administration school, attended the meeting as representatives of the University. The board was established this year to assist the school in its teaching of foreign trade and meets monthly to go over current affairs.

New officers elected at the last meeting were, L. W. Hartman, president; E. A. Valentine, vice-president; and A. J. Farmer, secretary.

Class Makes Field Trip

Three hundred students enrolled in survey of physical science made a field trip to Smith's quarry near Springfield Saturday. Half of the group went out in the morning under Mr. Wilkenson, while the rest came in the afternoon with Dr. Smith.

“I've seen Paris Fashions Born —says Chesterfield”

yet you take me shopping with you every day”

The great Paris designer has turned out another creation. A model of good taste! But good taste is no less desirable in a cigarette. What you taste in Chesterfield is milder and better tobaccos—nothing else—in a blend and "cross-blend" that cannot be copied! Just as there is only one Paris... there is only one Chesterfield.

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.
