University Will Make Effort To Keep Sciences

Dr. Hall Outlines Plans At Assembly

Great School Is Impossible Without Department, President Says

A vigorous effort to keep pure science courses at the University instead of transferring upper division and graduate work in them to Oregon State college, as proposed in the recent federal survey of higher education in Oregon, will be waged before the state board at its meeting Monday, Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, told students gathered in a general assembly yesterday at Gerlinger hall.

The statement of the president brought applause and cheers from the students. "We can't have a great University without a great science department," Dr. Hall said. "To take away the department is unheard of in the history of education. There is not one state university in the country but has full sway over such work."

Rumors Cleared Up
The assembly was called by George Cherry, president of the associated students, after conflicting rumors about the federal survey had gone the rounds of the campus and interested students had asked that existing misunderstandings be cleared up.

Explaining the difficulties confronting the University, Dr. Hall urged a renewal of confidence and loyalty on the part of students and faculty members. Courageous, whole-hearted support of a serious-minded student body and faculty, imbued with the heroic spirit of the past built up by the late Prince L. Campbell when president of the University, will bring the University through its present crisis, Dr. Hall said.

Large Cut Necessary
The University may have to cut expenses heavily as its share in the economy program of the state board of higher education that the schools under its control reduce their budgets $1,200,000 in the last 18 months of the biennial period, the president said. This must bring serious curtailment of University activities.

Four Results Outlined
Present financial difficulties began with the veto of $500,000 of the legislature's $1,181,000 appropriation, and when taxpayers' leagues decided to invoke the referendum against the remainder.

Four possible results of the loss of finances were outlined by Dr. Hall as follows:
1. The University will have to get along without a faculty mem-

Warm Spring Air of Eugene Praised by Visiting Chemist

"Oregon brings to me memories of the Black forest and Baden," said Dr. Heinrich Wieland, German chemist and Nobel prize winner for 1927, as he stood on the steps of Villard hall, sniffing the warm spring air appreciatively. "This is my first visit to America, but I intend to come again if I possibly can."

Dr. Wieland is a large and imposing figure, wearing a broad, black derby, and dressed otherwise in European fashion. But beneath his austerity, he is genial and kindly. His warm smile appears frequently.

"I hope that my work in the field of bio-chemistry will be of benefit to science," continued the doctor. "I have been studying bio-chemistry of free radicals and have spent a long period of work on bile acids. It was for the latter that I received the Nobel prize. My time

Buy Your Vodvil Ticket Via Mail

WAYS, means, and requisites for obtaining seats for the Junior Vodvil, to be presented May first and second at the Hellig theatre, as enumerated by Bob Holmes, ticket manager for the event, are as follows:

First, all orders must be placed either through the mail or at the box office of the Hellig.

Second, cash and self addressed stamped envelope must accompany all mail orders.

Third, in order to obtain the best seats it is necessary that orders be placed at once. All orders to be filled in the order in which they are received.

Fourth, houses ordering in blocs will receive personal delivery service.

Last night over 250 orders for seats had been received and any number of persons had called in asking for information, Holmes said.

A.W.S. Listens to New Constitution Read at Meeting

Six Officers Are Installed; Committee Chairmen Are Appointed

The proposed revised constitution and by-laws of the Associated Women Students were presented to the women students for the first time at the installation mass meeting of the A. W. S. yesterday at 5 o'clock in Alumni hall.

The constitution will be printed in full in the Emerald and a special election will be held within the next two or three weeks to pass the document. A committee headed by Bess Templeton, in charge of the revision, which was one of the major undertakings of the A. W. S. this year.

Six officers of the A. W. S. were installed and three standing committee chairmen were appointed. Officers are: president, Ann Baum; vice-president, Virginia Grone; secretary, Ellen Seranus; treasurer, Lucille Kraus; sergeant-at-arms, Nancy Suomela; reporter, Madeleine Gilbert.

Louise Ansley was appointed chairman of the foreign scholar committee by Ann Baum. She succeeds Carolyn Haberlach. Carol Werschkul was announced as chairman of the Peters Lodge committee, succeeding Bess Templeton. Big Sister chairman will be Betty Anne Macduff, who follows Dorothy Eads in this position.

Following the meeting Margaret Cummings, retiring president, was hostess at the Pi Beta Phi house for 25, including members of last year's executive council, this year's officers and committee chairmen, Mrs. Hazel Prutsman Schwering, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, and Miss Eula Duke.

Student of Underwood Adjudged Best of 226

Frances Brockman, a violin student of Rex Underwood, member of the school of music faculty, won a distinct honor at Spokane last week when she was adjudged to be the best musician of a 226-piece orchestra recruited from the best high school players of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Montana.

This recognition carried with it a $150 scholarship in the summer orchestra camp at Interlachen, Michigan. The formation of the orchestra and the competition between its members was a feature of the Northwest Music Supervisors conference which met for three days in the Washington city.

Miss Brockman is a senior in University high school, but is a member of the University Symphony orchestra. She recently attracted much favorable attention on the campus with a recital she gave at the music auditorium. She is the daughter of Mrs. A. E. Brockman, a teacher in the Eugene city high schools.

Commonwealth Meet To Begin With Luncheon

President Hall To Speak To Representatives

Four Sections To Consider Problems; Sizable Crowd in View

Coming from all parts of Oregon to discuss problems of community, city and state, representatives will arrive on the campus this morning to attend the annual Commonwealth conference today and tomorrow.

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, will give the address of welcome at the joint luncheon at 12:15 p. m. today in the new men's dormitory. R. A. Booth, of Eugene, will preside.

Registration of all delegates will take place in the Administration building at 10:30 this morning.

Allen To Head Group
At 2:30 this afternoon the delegates will divide into four sections to consider problems common to the individual groups. Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, will preside over a group which will discuss conservation of Oregon's scenic and recreational resources. One section, presided over by Thomas Potwin, editor of the Albany Democrat-Herald, will hold a round-table discussion on community organizations. Another group, presided over by A. L. Barbur, president of the League of Oregon cities, will discuss city and town problems. At the same time administration of public welfare and relief will be discussed by a group to be led by Miss Lucille Montgomery, executive secretary of the Linn county chapter of the American Red Cross.

Lampman Will Speak
Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, will preside at a dinner to be given in the new men's dormitory for all visiting delegates at 6:30 this evening. Ben Hur Lampman, editorial writer, Morning Oregonian, Portland, will be the speaker. Students of the school of physical education will present a folk dance, members of the drama department will present a one-act play, and music will be furnished by students of the school of music.

At 8:30 p. m. the delegates will be entertained at the concert in McArthur court given by the University Glee club and the University orchestra.

Interest Is Aroused
Tomorrow the groups will be again divided into four sections, for round-table discussions, addresses, and considerations of topics of special interest to the various groups. At noon each of

ASUO Concert Season Ends With Fifth Program Tonight

100 Conference Delegates To Be Guests at Glee, Orchestra Recital

Tonight the official concert season of the associated students closes. At 8:15, in McArthur court, the combined University glee clubs and the University symphony orchestra will begin at concert program which is to be the last of the series of five sponsored during the winter by the A. S. U. O.

This is to be the only concert of the series to be given by the campus' own musical organizations, and for that reason is attracting widespread interest among the student body.

Students will be admitted without charge, but must present their student body membership cards at the door, warns Ronald Robnett, assistant graduate manager.

Debaters To Face Washington Men At Villard Tonight

Oregon Cross-Questioning System Will Be Used For First Time

The Oregon cross-questioning system of debate will be used for the first time on this campus this year in the non-decision debate between the men's teams of the University of Oregon and the University of Washington tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Villard hall.

The question is to be, "Resolved, that the expansion of the chain stores is detrimental to the best interests of the American people."

Robert Gamer and Rolla Reedy will uphold the negative for Oregon, and James Bell and Robert Burns will maintain the affirmative for Washington.

Arne G. Rae Leaves On Newspaper Trip

Arne G. Rae, field manager of the Oregon State Editorial association, left yesterday on an extended trip throughout Oregon to visit many Oregon newspaper offices. He will be absent from the campus ten or twelve days, returning about April 28.

Eleanor Lewis Elected Queen Of Week-End

Dorothy Illidge, Velma Powell Run Close

Coronation To Take Place On Royal Float at Canoe Fete

Queen Election Winners
Eleanor Lewis Queen
Dorothy Illidge Princess
Velma Powell Princess
Alice Redetzke Princess
Jane Munk Princess

With a substantial majority of votes, Eleanor Lewis yesterday won the campus-wide election for Junior Week-end queen, and will rule over the annual class festivities as Queen Eleanor.

Princesses attending the queen will be Dorothy Illidge, Velma Powell, Alice Redetzke, and Jane Munk, runners-up in the voting.

Crowned at Fete
Queen Eleanor will be officially crowned at the Canoe Fete, to be held Friday night, May 8. The royal float will be one of the outstanding features of the evening, Canoe Fete officials said.

A formal appearance at the Mothers' Day tea will be made by the royal family consisting of Queen Eleanor, her princesses and their mothers, who will go down the receiving line together. They will appear sometime in the afternoon on Saturday, May 9, as guests at this tea in honor of Oregon mothers.

Honored at Banquet
At the banquet Saturday evening the royal family will be seated at a table of honor. Later, at the Junior Prom, the queen and her princesses will be seated on their thrones on a raised platform.

At a signal from two heralds, the male attendants of the royal party will take their partners and the prom will be officially opened.

"All events of Junior Week-end will be in honor of Queen Eleanor and her princesses," Ann Baum, chairman of the queen committee, said last night.

Emma Belle Stadden Is Chosen Teminids' Head

Chopin's Work Included

Lucille Hill, president of Master Dance group, will present a composition, "Victory of Death." Youth does not recognize death, but later realizes its existence and defies it. In the following conflict death is the final victor, but not in entirety, for youth is immortal.

At first the piano is used as a percussion instrument and gradually, as the dance progresses, works into Chopin's "Frelude No. 22."

Glady's Clausen has created a delightful composition to "Lento" by Cyril Scott, from two "Pierrot" pieces. The old Italian conception of Pierrot was that he is the man who came down from the moon. She will also dance a study to "Humoresque" by Tchaikowsky, a bit of humor.

Meeting of Big Sisters Put off

THE Big Sister meeting scheduled for 4 o'clock today in Alumni hall has been postponed until next week, it was announced late last night by Betty Anne Macduff, Big Sister chairman.

The first meeting at which plans for the entire Big Sister program for next year will be outlined probably will be called next Tuesday, Miss Macduff added in making the announcement. At that time all girls whose names appeared in last Tuesday's Emerald as Big Sisters will receive their first instructions.

Two Advertising Fields Open for Women Workers

Theatre, Clothing Trades Offer Opportunities, Says Speaker

"Advertising today is subject to all the changes in industry and invention that are occurring, and two special fields—theatrical and clothing advertisements—call for the work of women," Miss Eleanor Cannon, advertising manager of Bedell's in Portland, who is visiting on the campus, said yesterday in a short talk at a luncheon given for her at the Anchorage by Gamma Alpha Chi, women's national advertising honorary.

"Floyd Maxwell, head of Fox theatres in the Northwest, told me that he was particularly interested in seeing women go into the field of theatre advertising because theatre managers want to reach the women of a community and get the matinee crowd," Miss Cannon continued. "The appeal of a picture to women determines its financial success."

Retail Clothing Offers Chance
"Women advertisers are even more necessary in the clothing field, because of the necessity of understanding constant changes in textiles and popularizing fabrics with women buyers," she stated.

"I would recommend a thorough knowledge of the textile industry for business women in advertising. The wit and human interest of different types of women are proving more and more valuable to complement those of men in this developing of an advertising field," Miss Cannon said. "When I first went into business the advertising manager was called the 'ad-man,' but now this person is always called the 'advertising manager,' because as often as not, it is a woman."

Six Guests Present
Miss Cannon is a member of Gamma Alpha Chi and has been very successful in her work. She was introduced at luncheon by

Spring Gets Psychologists; Ball Game Challenge Issued

By JACK BAUER
The soft spring breeze and mellow sunshine of yesterday had terrific effect on the faculty of the psychology department. Witness the following:

To members of the faculty of the school of education:
We, the undersigned, hereby challenge the school of education, both professors of and students majoring in education, to play a game of baseball with the undersigned, under the rules and supervision of the school of physical education faculty, on any date, following two consecutive days on sunshine, and at any time that may be agreed upon by the contesting parties.

Signed: Faculty and majors in psychology department.
The degenerative influence on intramural and faculty athletics is evident in the specification that the game be played under the rules of the physical education de-

Council Finds Decision About Position Hard

Long List of Candidates Brings Deliberation

Present Managing Editor Chosen From Field of Six Applicants

In the hands of Willis Duniway, of Portland, managing editor of the Emerald, will be placed the reins of editorship for the 1931-1932 Emerald administration, according to an announcement made last night by the executive council which acted upon the recommendation of the publications committee. The decision of the committee was unanimous. Editor of the Oregona and managers of the Emerald and the Oregona were not chosen.

Candidates All Qualified
Duniway was chosen from six candidates for the office who were nominated last week by the Emerald staff and petitions. In making this recommendation the publications committee announced that the decision was difficult in that each candidate was particularly well qualified for the position. The committee expressed the opinion that the student publication might safely be trusted with any of the six aspirants. The candidates, besides Duniway, were Robert Allen, Merlin Blais, Ralph David, Harry Van Dine, and David Wilson.

Active on Publication
Since the latter part of fall term, Duniway has been acting in the capacity of managing editor of the Emerald. Previous to that he was one of the editorial writers, a day editor, and reporter. Since entering the University he has been active on the student publication.

Outside of his work on the Emerald, Duniway has been in the employ of the Morning Oregonian and News of Portland, and during the past two years on the campus has acted as correspondent for the Portland News.

Others To Be Chosen
Although the executive council has appointed the Emerald editor nearly two months before the end of the school year, Duniway will not officially assume office until the beginning of next fall term.

The publications committee announced that its recommendations for the remaining officers of campus publications will be turned over to the executive council soon. A definite date has not been set, however.
