Oregon's Case To Go Before Board Monday

Hall To Submit Revised Budget and Plan

Education Body Meeting At Salem Expected To Be Vital One

To present the University's case to the state board of higher education, Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, will go Monday to Salem, where the board will meet. At the conference, Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of Oregon State college, is expected to offer his findings, and recommendations are looked for from the presidents of the three normal schools at Ashland, La Grande, and Monmouth.

Three things are due from Dr. Hall when he appears before the board. These are the revised budget, a plan of operation to conform with the federal survey, and a plan worked out with President Kerr outlining a single administration for the two schools.

Meeting Is Awaited

Persons interested in higher education in the state are looking forward to Monday's meeting of the board, which supervises the five institutions in Oregon, as one of the most important since the establishment of the board in 1929. As stated to the students gathered in general assembly on the campus Wednesday morning, Dr. Hall is expected to make a vigorous effort to retain science courses at the University. The recent federal survey on higher education in Oregon proposed that upper division and graduate work in the pure sciences—geology, chemistry, physics, zoology, botany, and mathematics should be transferred to Oregon State college, where a "great school of science" would be founded.

University Needs Sciences

The loss of sciences from the University's curricula would break down the framework of the true University, it has been pointed out by the Oregon president. "The University should be maintained as a place for a well-rounded and thorough education for students, and sciences are certainly essential," Dr. Hall told members of the faculty two weeks ago in a meeting at which he received a whole-hearted vote of confidence. "Many phases of higher education are as dependent upon sciences as any other branch of learning, and we earnestly hope that this can be retained for the University," Dr. Hall said.

The president further stated his stand on the science question at the assembly Wednesday when he said, "We can't have a great University without a great science department. To take away the department is unheard of in the history of education. There is not one state university in the country but has full sway over such work."

A request to the state board to reject the proposed science shift was sent to the board Wednesday by six prominent Portland men in an open letter. "No university worthy of the name can maintain

Hoover, Helen Wills Moody Relatives of Oregon Student

The reporter approached the southeast corner of the Emerald copy room. With one foot on the typewriter and the other in the wastebasket, Jim Yergen, senior in journalism, indulgently leaned back against the wall.

"What's this I hear about you being related to Helen Wills Moody through Herb Hoover?" the writer questioned.

"Oh, yes," began Yergen. "Helen Wills Moody is one of my favorite relatives."

"Is that why you are such a good tennis player?" the reporter inquired.

"Well, I wouldn't want to say it's why I'm such a good tennis player. Rather, it must be why I'm such a poor golfer. But this is getting into technicalities," he replied.

"Really?" the writer exclaimed. "Yes, we must by all means steer clear of any technicalities."

Scandal Sheet Plans Forming; Staff Selected

THE 1931 Green Goose, annual "scandal sheet" publication of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, which will be issued on the campus after the final edition of the Emerald this term, will be under the leadership of T. Neil Taylor, senior in journalism, named editor-in-chief yesterday.

On the staff of the feature edition will be: Vinton Hall and Harry Van Dine, editorial writers; Robert Allen, managing editor; Ralph David, business manager; Phil Cogswell, assistant; Barney Miller and Mack Hall, chief muck rakers; Ralph Yergen, Rex Tussing, Vic Kaufman, and Thornton Gale, scandal hawks; Merlin Blais and Ted Montgomery, picture hunters; and Willis Dunaway, circulation manager.

Vodvil To Stage Entire Program For First Time

Complete Rehearsal Slated For Sunday Afternoon At Cocoon Grove

The first complete rehearsal of the Junior Vodvil, to be presented on the Heilig theatre stage May 1 and 2, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Cocoon Grove.

The entire personnel of the production will go through the program in the order in which the events will appear in the final presentation. This rehearsal, though rather early, will be of great importance in figuring the time element, the stage settings, the best order of appearance for various pantomimes and short acts which will be presented before the curtain between the main acts, Barney Miller, co-director of the event, said.

The early rehearsal will also give both the participants and the faculty a general idea of how the finished production will look, Miller maintained.

"I wish to impress upon the members of the various casts, in

OSEA District Meeting Scheduled for Today

The second district meeting of the Oregon State Editorial association this month will be held today at La Grande when publishers of the Umatilla, Union, and Wallowa district will gather for their meeting.

Arne G. Rae, field manager of the association, who left the campus Thursday, will attend this meeting and also the one next week at Baker. He will also visit many of the newspaper offices of the state.

The first district meeting was held last Saturday at McMinnville and was featured by a newspaper "review," led by George Turnbull and Robert Hall, professors of journalism.

Now take President Hoover. I wouldn't want to say the reason he was elected president was because he happens to be my step-uncle's brother-in-law. Of course, that may have had its influence, but I really wouldn't want to claim any credit.

"Now as to the former Miss Wills. Traced down to actual facts, she's my father's step-brother's wife's brother's (Herbert's) son's wife's cousin's wife. To simplify the thing we must condense it. Then she becomes my step-uncle's nephew's cousin-in-law, or my father's step-sister-in-law's niece's cousin (by marriage), or my step-uncle's brother-in-law's daughter-in-law's cousin-in-law."

"Yes, yes. But let's not take it to court," pleaded the writer, fighting for some air mixed with his habeas corpus. By this time

Emerald Radio Hour Will Open New Air Studio

Remote Control Station Is Near Campus

Editorial Broadcast Listed For Tuesday at 4:45, David Announces

A remote control studio, to be located at the Cocoon Grove, has just been secured and will be put into use for the first time during Tuesday's broadcast of the Emerald editorial hour, Ralph David, radio director, announced last night. The broadcast is given daily over KORE at 4:45 for 15 minutes. The studio will be used regularly in putting on the Emerald program, which, up to the present, has been put on in the downtown studio rooms.

"The new arrangement has been the result of several months' effort to obtain for the University a campus broadcasting location. We shall be able to secure better and more varied programs in the future, and we hope the change will prove a worthwhile improvement," David said.

Speakers Being Secured

A series of well-known campus speakers is being lined up for a continuation of winter term's policy of introducing faculty members speaking on popular subjects connected with their respective fields. The first will appear on Tuesday.

Among last term's speakers were Wayne L. Morse, of the law school; Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism; Dr. Edwin T. Hodge and Dr. Warren D. Smith, both of the geology department; Dr. John R. Mez, of the economics department; and John T. Ganoe, of the history department.

Musical Groups To Appear

The speakers for this term will appear regularly on Tuesdays and Thursdays to afford variation from the news broadcasts. As an added feature, a number of campus musical groups will appear, among the first on the schedule being the

Kwama Pledging To Be Feature of Mortar Board Ball

19 Members To Be Chosen For Soph Honorary Weber To Play

The big feature of the Mortar Board ball, formal dance to which everyone on the campus is invited, will be the Kwama pledging, a custom instigated last year, according to plans released last night by Dorothy Eberhard, chairman of the ball.

The dance will be held on Friday evening, April 24, in the Eugene hotel. It is an affair of Leap Week and only the women will do the inviting—the men waiting at home until asked.

Kwama, sophomore service honorary for women, will take in 19 new members from the freshman class, these 19 being chosen on a basis of campus activities, scholarship, and general attitude.

Assistants Named

Miss Eberhard is being assisted by the five other members of Mortar Board: Kathryn Langenberg Colin, Mildred McGee, Daphne Hughes, Bess Templeton, and Margaret Cummings. She announced that the decorations would be kept secret until Friday night, but said that George Weber's orchestra had been procured for the affair.

Patrons and patronesses will be: Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Leslie Schwering, Dean and Mrs. Hugh L. Biggs, Mrs. Nelson Macduff, Mrs. Prince L. Campbell, Miss Consuello McMillan, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. DeCou, and Miss Beatrice Milligan. Miss Milligan, who was graduated from the University last year, was an active member of Mortar Board all during her senior year.

A great deal of enthusiasm has been aroused on the campus for the dance, Miss Eberhard said, and many houses have planned formal dinners to precede it.

Rare Bargains Await Bidders At Annual AWS Auction Sale

Great Variety of Articles To Be Sold Wednesday By Young and Crew

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Hear Ye!—Come one, come all to the library Wednesday to witness the grand auction sale of that august body, the Associated Women Students.

Your choice, ladies and gentlemen, of the finest line of umbrellas in assorted colors—blue, lavender, yellow, black—with carved and painted handles; of the longest lot of overcoats, slickers, trench coats; of every variety of kid and cloth gloves, and a dazzling selection of the world's most precious jewels including bracelets, rings, compacts, pins (to whom it may interest: there is one shining Girl Scout pin). All Phi Beta Kappa and campus scholars will find the auction a fine place to stock up on various diverting and amusing

Wesley Students Will Convene at Newport Meeting

Foundation's Annual Event Slated for Week-End Of April 25, 26

Newport will be the Mecca of the Wesley Foundation, organization of Methodist University students, the week-end of April 25 and 26, when members of the organization and their friends will take part in the annual University of Oregon Wesley Foundation retreat, sponsored each spring term.

Discussion leaders at the event are to be Rev. Clay E. Palmer, pastor of the First Congregational church of Eugene, and Rev. Hugh B. Fouke, pastor of the Jason Lee Methodist Episcopal church of Salem. Dr. Charles G. Howard, professor of law, and Frederick K. Davis, of Eugene, will also accompany the group.

The Wesley group plans an informal church service on the beach Sunday morning. Dr. Fouke will deliver the sermon. The club is also planning for discussion groups at 1:30 Saturday afternoon and 7 Saturday evening, with a bonfire service on the beach at 8:30, Margaret Atwood, president of the organization, has announced.

Committee chairmen appointed for the event are Evan Hughes, transportation; Donald Saunders, devotions; Thelma Shuey, social affairs; Lloyd Brown, recreation; Jack Belling, publicity; Jeanette Smith, secretary.

Sunday evening the club will stop at Corvallis on the way home to attend the social hour and evening meeting of the Wesley Foundation of Oregon State college.

This Sunday evening, Wallace Campbell, varsity debater, will lead the meeting at 6:30. The discussion topic will be "Christianity in Industry."

In the morning services at 9:45, in charge of Miss Dorothy A. Nyland, Wesley Foundation director, an accredited course in art in religion is being given.

The Wesley club will present "Cleopas," a drama of the time of Christ, Sunday evening at Wendling. Those taking part are Wilbur Sohm, Lloyd Brown, Howard Lee, Ruth Ludington, and Grace Fennell. Esther Lisle is directing the play.

Former University Student Is Injured

Thrown from the driver's seat when the truck he was driving on the McKenzie highway about three miles above Walthersville, Thursday afternoon, left the road, Joe Campbell of Clatskanie, former student in the University, sustained concussion of the brain, a broken leg, broken arm, and serious internal injuries. Campbell was taken to a Portland hospital.

Cause of the accident is not known. The truck went down a 40-foot embankment and was virtually demolished, it was reported. Campbell was working for the Atwood Construction company with a crew graveling a new stretch of the highway above Walthersville. In the accident, the truck driver was hurled from the machine, and landed on some rocks.

as well as instructive text books on every subject from higher mathematics to harmony and home economics.

Your spring wardrobe should feature the smart line of felt hats, and bright printed silk scarfs, that we are offering to the highest bidder. Handsome tooled leather purses, small novelty coin purses, note books, check books—all are available for a trivial sum—each and every student in the University of Oregon has the rare opportunity of testing his bargaining power on the momentous occasion of the A. W. S. auction sale of all articles that have been turned in to the lost and found department on the campus.

The chief auctioneer of the day will be Freeman Young, who will have as his assistants: Keck McKean, Chuck Thomas, Ed Schweiker, Pete Peters, and Kenneth Vail. The A. W. S. chairman for the sale is Jean Failing.

Gladys Clausen Is Chosen To Handle Leap-Week Events

Program Set for April 23, 24, 25; Mortar Board Ball Highlight

Senior Leap Week, when senior women will be queens of the campus for three days, April 23, 24, and 25, will be under the direction of Gladys Clausen, it was announced yesterday by Bill Pittman, president of the senior class.

"Senior Leap Week is entirely in the hands of senior women, and the position of Gladys Clausen of chairman will demand work of unusual pep and ability. Miss Clausen has been closely associated with the women of the campus during her four years, and she has shown by previous work on a number of committees that she is able to take over the job of organizing the Leap Week program," Pittman said in making the announcement.

Women will take the initiative during the three-day period by getting their dates and paying the bills afterward, according to the traditional custom which has been built up around it. An elaborate program is being worked out by the girls' living organizations, and an interesting time is in store for the lucky masculines, Miss Clausen said last night.

The Mortar Board ball will be the highlight of the series of events, while the Kappa Koffee, Co-ed's Revenge, and Barroom Bust will be included among the leading social affairs being planned by various organizations.

Best Dresser To Be Announced Tonight

The four winners of the Emerald-Fox McDonald best dressed man contest will be kept secret until tonight at the midnight collegiate idea to be featured with the midnight matinee of Will Rogers in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." Until then the names which were chosen last night after the polls closed at 10 o'clock, will be kept secret, according to Russell Brown, manager of the Fox-McDonald theatre.

The competitors, Walt Baker, Bart Slegfried, Joe Hughes, Bill Barendrick, Jack Spencer, Phil Fay, George Vaughn, Hunt Clark, Art Rolander, Don Eva, and Slug Palmer, all appeared on the stage last night at the college night showing of the Ten Commanders in a Plantation Idea.

The man receiving the most votes will win a double prize of a month's pass to the Fox McDonald theatre and the pick of the prizes to be given by four men's clothing stores. The other men who win second, third, and fourth places will receive the other prizes being offered by the clothing stores. The stores giving prizes are DeNeff's, Paul D. Green's, Wade Brothers, and the Phelps-Terkel College Shop.

Prof. Ruckmick To Deliver Two Local Lectures

Psychology To Be Topic Of Famous Scientist

Iowan in Public Address Tuesday Will Talk On Emotions

Prof. C. A. Ruckmick, of the University of Iowa, on an extensive tour of Pacific coast universities, will be on the campus Tuesday, April 21, to give two addresses under the auspices of the committee on free intellectual activities. A public lecture will be given by Professor Ruckmick in Villard hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening on the subject, "Facial Expressions in the Emotions." This will be open to all interested. Professor Ruckmick is a national authority in this field, and has spent the last six years work in the Iowa laboratory. At the December meeting of the Psychological association he conducted a composition on emotion, with the result that he was invited to make this tour.

Will Address Students

Professor Ruckmick will be a guest at the psychology luncheon club at noon, and will speak to the psychology staff and majors of the department at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in Condon hall on "The Measurement of the Galvanic Reflex in a Study of Emotions."

"Dr. Ruckmick's lecture should be of interest not only to psychology students, but also to those interested in dancing, poetry, and other arts which express the emotions," Dr. H. G. Townsend, professor of philosophy, and chairman of the committee on free intellectual activities, said yesterday, in speaking of Professor Ruckmick's visit to the campus.

Is Author of Books

Professor Ruckmick has been editor of the University of Iowa "Studies in Psychology" since 1928, and has served as cooperating editor of the American Journal of Psychology since 1926. He is a member of a number of national psychological societies.

Dr. Ruckmick's books include: "Breivik Book on Psychology," 1920; "German-English Dictionary of Psychological Terms," 1928; "The Mental Life," 1928. He has also contributed many papers to psychological publications and to the "International Year Book."

Roosevelt Junior High May Be Used For Teaching Lab

Proposal Is Said To Have Been Considered at Meeting Friday

Proposed changes in the system of teacher training now in force in the school of education, to be carried out in conjunction with the Eugene public schools, were reported to have come up for discussion last night in a joint conference of members of the education faculty with members of the school board.

Certain recommendations of Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, were the subject of discussion by the group, it was revealed late last night by Dr. H. D. Sheldon, dean of the school of education. However, no final measures have yet been passed upon, he declared, and he refused to make any further statement on the matter.

H. R. Goold, city superintendent of schools, who is said to be working with Dr. Sheldon in consideration of the proposals, stated when questioned last night that as yet nothing is ready to make public in this connection. "No definite action has been taken," he said, "and in the present stage the question must be treated as confidential."

The unconfirmed report was current yesterday that extensive use of the Roosevelt junior high school as a laboratory for practice teaching by education students is one of the proposals under consideration by the faculty and the school board. The questions, it is said, are being taken up in relation to the recent report of the federal survey on Oregon's higher educational system.

Do Drum Major Applicants Know Left Foot, Stehn?

FOUR men have signified their desire to become drum major for the University band next year by handing in their applications to Sergeant Conyers at the military barracks, who is receiving all applications for the position.

Claude Conder, Aiden Schwabauer, E. E. Hyde, and R. E. Olsen have turned in applications stating that they can read music and have an understanding of it, have had military training and feel that they could learn to maneuver with the band. Conder and Schwabauer have both played in the University band.

Of the other two desirable qualifications listed by John Stehn, band conductor, that the applicant should have some suspicion as to which is his left foot, and should be tall and well built, no mention was made.

Eagle Scout Club To Make Awards At Igloo Tonight

Two Hundred Merit Badges Will Be Presented To Scouts

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock 500 Lane county Boy Scouts will assemble in McArthur court for a court of honor at which hundreds of awards for achievement will be presented. The Eagle Scout club, composed practically entirely of University men students, will conduct the ceremonies.

During the afternoon, scouts from all sections of the county will participate in a rally and field day at Riverside park which the Eagle Scout club is sponsoring. John Allen, senior in geology, will direct the field events, while the court of honor in the evening will be in charge of Gordon Day, sophomore in social science.

The Eagle Scout club is offering to the troop winning the rally an engraved plaque which will be presented in the evening at McArthur court. At the same time, achievement and contest banners will be awarded to two Lane county troops. Two hundred merit badges will be distributed to the scouts.

Judge G. F. Skipworth will be the speaker of the evening, and will present the Eagle badge, highest award in scouting, to Jack Hitchcock of Troop 1, Eugene.

Robert Allen, junior in journalism, is chairman of the publicity committee, and Tom Johnson, junior in physical education, heads the field committee.

Law Students To Hold Dinner Dance April 29

The law school student body is planning a dance and cafeteria dinner at Midway, April 29, it was announced yesterday by Francis E. Coad, president of the organization. This is the first major social event of the student body for spring term, and it is expected that a large number of law students will attend.

Puff Ball Usurps Curbstone Habit in Barristers' Hearts

No longer can the law students maintain their well-known aloofness. No longer can they covet their well-known curb smoking room. The law students have come off the pedestal. They have stooped to mingle with the common run of college inhabitants, the herd, the rabble, the great unwashed, business ad majors. All of this because King Baseball, god of all good Americans, raised his voice and said, "C'mon, youse guys. How about some kitten ball with the business ad school?"

Father Baseball has tumbled monarchs from his thrones, caused most of the spring hockey playing in grammar school, caused office boys' grandmothers to die a thousand deaths so that they could get a half day off; but who would ever think that it would break down the stern wall that the law school has thrown about itself? To get right down to the point,

Annual Frolic Awaits Women, Guests Tonight

Classes To Offer Stunts In Prize Competition

'Cops' To Prevent Invasion Of Males at Co-ed Costume Party

The annual all co-ed April Frolic, a costume ball where anything from a stately Colonial costume or a reproduction of the gay nineties to what the modern bathing beauty will wear, will be the order of the evening at Gerlinger hall at 8 o'clock tonight.

Keenly-contested stunts presented by each class will lend variety to the evening's entertainment.

Prizes Are Offered

First prize of a silver loving cup, won last year by the junior class with the stunt "A Pek-in a Chinese Tea Garden," will be awarded the class staging the best stunt. A committee of six judges will make the choice. Honorable mention will be voted the second best stunt. Two prizes of $5 and $2.50 will go to the girls with the best costume to be judged on cleverness, originality, and general effectiveness. Last year six girls, Jennie Piluso, Juanita Demmer, Frances Sale, Olga Sadleir, Virginia Wentz, and Alice Holmback, dressed in dirty overalls and slouch hats to represent members of a section gang, divided first honors.

Jean Williams, senior in English, won second prize.

Six Judges Chosen

Judges tonight will be Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall, Dean Hazel Prudman Schwering, Mrs. Alice Macduff, Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher, Dr. Mildred Mumby, Mrs. Rudolph Ernst, and Mrs. Ottlie Seybolt.

What happens inside a small boy who goes to a circus and eats too many popcorn balls and bags of candy, will be revealed in the freshman stunt of which Helen Shingle is director. Speaking roles will be taken by Virginia Smith, Nancy Suomela, and Betsy Steiwer.

Toiland To Be Featured

Spectators will be transported to toiland in the sophomore stunt, according to Lucille Kraus, chairman. Assistant chairman is Ellen Sersanus, and Frances Drake will have charge of music. Nancy Taylor and Louise Ansley will impersonate teddy bears. Little Red Riding Hood will be played by Anna Pauline Ray. Ty Smith is a Raggedy Ann and Dorothy Esch will be King Cole. Phyllis Stokes, a clown, and a chorus of paper dolls will complete the sophomore stunt cast.

Elizabeth Strain, director of the junior stunt, announces that the performance, "Blue Monday," will present a view of freshman life during pre-initiation. The junior cast includes Barbara Barker, Carol Hurlburt, Eleanor Lewis, Annette Kern, and Jane Garcelon. Elizabeth Fletcher is property manager for the event.

Seniors Have Play

A play featuring an English lady, Dorothy Hollister, her daughter, Alice Carter, and a fortune teller, Wilma Enke, will be the senior production, according to
