

Library in Each Living Organization on Campus Aim of Oregon Mothers' Association

Plan Is Voted Unanimously On Saturday

Home Atmosphere Wanted For Students With Books in Houses

Women's Organization To Aid Dads' Group in Work for School

Creation of a library in each living organization on the campus is the aim of the Oregon Mothers' association for the coming year voted unanimously at a meeting of the group Saturday afternoon in Guild hall.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Walter M. Cook, who was called to California Friday on account of the death of her sister, Mrs. J. F. Hill, secretary, outlined the project to be undertaken by the mothers.

It is the purpose of the organization to furnish the same atmosphere for students while on the campus as they have in their homes, where good books on various topics are available any time.

Home Study Wanted

To place such a library in the living organizations would make it possible for students to study at home in the evenings and in spare moments rather than go to the libraries. Books both for technical knowledge and diversion are to be supplied.

A committee is to be appointed by Mrs. F. W. Bond, the new president, to complete plans for the project.

Intention was expressed on the part of the mothers to unite their efforts with the Oregon Dads in helping the University to deal with such problems as student ownership of cars, regulation of social functions, smoking and drinking, the situation in Portland during games, and courses to equip women for the home.

Committee To Work

A group composed of five members will take action under the direction of the executive committee in working out these problems which were submitted to the organization by the personnel bureau.

Mothers were urged to work with their boys and girls in correcting the conditions on the campus and especially those arising in Portland during the fall football games. Rather than have students staying in hotels it was suggested that parents living in the city entertain them in their homes.

Study groups organized a year and a half ago were reported as proving very successful by representatives from Pendleton, Grants Pass, Klamath Falls, Medford, and Portland. These organizations made up of mothers with children attending Oregon or expecting to go to school here meet once a month to become better acquainted with the problems and policies of the University.

Fourteen in State

Fourteen of these now exist in the state. Booklets containing an outline of college work in a simplified form which may be easily understood have been sent to 1500 mothers by the University.

Officers submitted by the nominating committee headed by Mrs. F. C. Felter, Portland, were unanimously accepted.

Mrs. F. W. Bond, Pendleton, who was vice-president the past year, is the new president.

Others elected were: Mrs. John L. Travis, Portland, vice-president; Mrs. O. F. Stafford, Eugene, treasurer; and Mrs. Paul W. Ager, Eugene, executive secretary.

Members of the executive committee include: Mrs. Wilson H. Jewett, Eugene; Mrs. F. B. Kistner, Portland; Mrs. Horace Fenton, Portland; Mrs. H. C. Gale, Ashland; and Mrs. C. W. Keene, Silverton.

In appreciation of her untiring work for the past two years that she has served as president of the Oregon Mothers' association, Mrs. Walter M. Cook was made honorary president of the group.

A program of musical numbers opened the meeting. Several piano selections were played by Mary Gale, and Agnes Petzold sang.

Gift for Lodge Presented At Breakfast Honoring Mothers Saturday

A leather-covered guest book was presented to the Associated Women Students for use at Peters lodge, A. W. S. retreat on the Willamette river, by Mrs. George Peters of Portland, mother of Helen Peters, president of the A. W. S. in 1929-30, and for whom the lodge was named, at the breakfast of the executive council of the Oregon Mothers, their daughters, members of the A. W. S. executive council, and their mothers at the lodge Saturday morning.

The presentation of the gift was made by Mrs. J. F. Hill, retiring secretary of the Oregon Mothers, in the absence of Mrs. Peters, who was unable to be on the campus for the week-end. Mrs. Hill added that the Oregon Mothers were planning a gift for the lodge also. She spoke also on behalf of Mrs. Walter M. Cook, retiring president of the Oregon Mothers for the past two years, who was called to California on account of the death of her sister. Mrs. J. F. Bond, new president of the Oregon Mothers, also gave a short talk, and Carol Werschul, Peters lodge committee chairman for the A. W. S., accepted the gift of the guest book for the A. W. S.

Thirty-two attended the breakfast, of which Carol Werschul was in charge. Marjorie Bass had charge of invitations, Marguerite Tarbell of menu, and Jean Failing of the transportation.

In appreciation of her untiring work for the past two years that she has served as president of the Oregon Mothers' association, Mrs. Walter M. Cook was made honorary president of the group.

A program of musical numbers opened the meeting. Several piano selections were played by Mary Gale, and Agnes Petzold sang.

Jim Munholland Better, Hospital Attaches Say

Jim Munholland, freshman in pre-law who was seriously injured in an automobile accident Friday night, is reported to be recovering nicely, the Eugene hospital stated last night.

He suffered a fractured skull and it was feared at first the injury might be fatal. Munholland's parents flew to Eugene Saturday to be with their son.

Mother, Children Need Sympathy For Each Other

"As old as the hills is the institution of mother and child, and in this world of laughter and tears, joys and sorrows, we can blend everything for happiness if we but have sympathy one for the other," said Mrs. Max Hirsch, Portland, speaking at the Mothers' day vesper services Sunday in the music auditorium.

Mrs. Hirsch, in a short talk on the relations of mothers and their children, said that in this day, not possession of one by the other, but joint ownership was the ideal by which we seek perfect understanding and happiness.

The program opened with an organ solo by John Stark Evans, "Adagio Pathetique," by Godard.

"The Swan," by Saint-Saens and Fourth Concerto of Vieuxtemps were given as violin solos by Esther Wicks, accompanied by Helen Robinson.

John Maxwell Adams, University pastor, gave the prayer, and the organ solo, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," by Diton, concluded the program.

fun, both because of their imitative nature and their splendid discords.

"While the program is pretty heavy, the Handel gavotte and the Chopin Etude in octaves along with the Casella satires will give sufficient brilliance to dispel the gloom of the Beethoven, Dohnanyi, and Tchaikowsky numbers."

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, urged the Mothers present at the banquet to visit the University and to study the conditions here and the problems of their children in an effort to help the University and the students in their cooperative work. Mothers were asked by Dr. Hall to interest parents of prospective students in the work of the University, not with a view to recruiting students, but in order to help these mothers learn the problems their children will have to meet at the University.

Goodwill Message Sent

The Mothers sent a message of good will and friendship to mothers of Oregon State students who were assembled at the same time at the Memorial Union building on the Corvallis campus. The message pointed out that both organizations are working for a common goal, that of providing for the best interests of the boys and girls in higher educational institutions, and Oregon Mothers pledged themselves to cooperate with the Oregon State mothers in every way.

Greetings from the state board of higher education were brought by F. E. Callister of Albany. O. Laurgaard, president of the Oregon Dads, brought greetings from that organization to the Oregon Mothers. Welcome and greetings from the associated students to their Mothers was given by George Cherry, president of the A. S. U.

Psychologists To Have Picnic on River Banks

The staff of the psychology department, students majoring in that school and their friends will take a few hours off from their work tomorrow evening to hold a picnic on the banks of the Willamette.

The picnickers will leave the campus at 5 o'clock and expect to return by 8. Those wishing to attend are asked to notify Sig Seashore, who is in charge of arrangements. A 35-cent fee will be levied on those at the picnic.

War Prevention Council Leader Here Tomorrow

Frederick J. Libby To Talk In Villard Hall on Thursday Morning

This imposing title—"National Council for Prevention of War"—may suggest to the average person anything from long-haired pacifists to reds of a dangerous cast, in the opinion of members of the Eugene council.

And since the organization's executive secretary and original organizer, Frederick J. Libby, is soon to visit this city, local officers are particularly keen on seeing that the work of the council is understood.

Council Is Clearing House

According to the Rev. Clay Palmer, president, the council is a clearing house through which many American organizations carry on their educational programs for peace. Among these he cited the American Association of University Women, The American Federation of Teachers, American School Citizenship League, National Educational association, National W. Y. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women.

The planks of the council's program, Mr. Palmer said, are world-wide reduction of armaments, by international agreement, progressive world organization and world-wide education for peace.

As for Mr. Libby, Mr. Palmer, as well as other Eugene townspeople familiar with his work, is enthusiastic about the service he has done since organizing the national council in 1921. Speaking in hundreds of cities, Mr. Libby has reached school children, business men, church leaders—Americans from many walks of life.

Grainger Work Chosen

"Then there will be Percy Grainger's paraphrase on Tchaikowsky's 'Nutteracker Suite,' and Dohnanyi's 'Fourth Rhapsodie,' an interpretation of the great religious poem, 'Dies Irae.' "Of course, the Casella 'Satires' will furnish humor of the program. They are biting satires on various forms of musical composition, written as children's pieces. "Alfred Casella is one of the very modern composers. He is a young Italian, and wrote the 'Pieces Enfantines' in 1920. They include a typical prelude, as played by a 7-year-old, a 'Valse Diatonique,' or lesson three in Book One of the Piano Student Series, and a Carillon, which sounds like the Methodist church chimes. Mrs. Arnold Bennet Hall Given Jeweled Oregon Mothers' Pin

Mrs. W. Bond of Pendleton Is New President of Organization

To Phi Mu went the Mrs. Frank Heitkemper trophy for having the largest percentage of mothers of any women's living organization, and to Beta Theta Pi went the Mrs. Charles Hall trophy for the second time for being the men's living organization with the largest percentage of mothers here for the week-end. The awards were made at the Mothers' day banquet in Gerlinger hall Saturday evening.

Alpha Chi Omega, Sigma Kappa, and Alpha Omicron Pi were given honorable mention among the women's organizations, and Delta Tau Delta and Kappa Sigma were ranked similarly among the men's groups.

Mrs. Hall Honored

For her work with the Oregon mothers during the past year Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall was given a jeweled Oregon Mothers' pin by the Mothers' organization. The presentation was made by Mrs. W. F. Bond of Pendleton, new president of the Oregon Mothers. Mrs. Walter M. Cook of Portland, for the past two years president of the Oregon Mothers, was unanimously named permanent honorary president by the group. Mrs. Cook was unable to attend the sessions here this week-end, having been called to California by the death of her sister.

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, urged the Mothers present at the banquet to visit the University and to study the conditions here and the problems of their children in an effort to help the University and the students in their cooperative work. WHAT SHOW TONIGHT?

Colonial — Adolph Menjou in "The Front Page."
Hellig — Loretta Young in "Too Young To Marry."
McDonald — Robert Montgomery in "Shipmates."
State — Double bill. "The Fall Guy," "Ladies of Leisure."

"The Front Page" Makes Hit

For many months we have heard the "Front Page," playing now at the Colonial theatre, as one of the finest films ever to come from Hollywood. That judgment is correct. The play of Ben Hecht and Charles McArthur is actually improved upon.

All the cynicism, romance, callousness, drama, and melodrama of newspapering are packed into this picture. It is ironic, brutal, hilarious, tragic, all at the same time. It is not a tribute to the profession, by any manner of means, but it conveys in a clear way just exactly what it is that attracts some men's passionate devotion.

Double Bill at State

The regular weekly double bill at the State theatre today and tomorrow includes "The Fall Guy," and "Ladies of Leisure," both comedies of second run here, but worth seeing over if you missed them.

Medford Debate Team Champions In Contest Here

Prineville Speakers Bow To Affirmative Talkers On Chain Store Topic

Decrying the tactics and abuses of chain stores, Helen Wilson and Donald Darnelle, representing the Medford high school, won the Oregon State high school debating championship here Saturday night in a contest with Prineville high school. The Medford students upheld the affirmative stand of the question, "Resolved, that chain stores are detrimental to the best interests of the American people."

Arguing against the winners while pointing out the advantages of the chain store idea were Catherine Coshow and Frances Mays, of Prineville. They were coached by Vernon I. Basler, while the winners were coached by Ralph R. Bailey. Medford was runner-up in the state contest last year, losing in the finals to Milton-Freewater.

For winning the championship, Medford gains the E. E. DeCoti cup, given annually. The Buft Brown Barker trophies, donated by the vice-president of the University, were awarded to both schools as winners of the two main divisions—eastern and western Oregon.

Judging the debate Saturday night were Robert Prescott, Eugene; George W. Robbins, of the school of business here; and Carlton Spencer, of the school of law.
