Students Get Warning For Grade Standing

Mid-Term Slips Fewer This Quarter

Advisors Must Be Seen, Warns Dean Onthank; Activities Hit

Mid-term grade warnings were sent yesterday by the personnel office to 31 women and 160 men. This is 59 less than were mailed for the winter term to students whose work is unsatisfactory.

"Warnings to those active in campus affairs seemed to be most numerous," said Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel administration. "Student elections interfered with many students' grades. This is why the University is interested in distributing the activity load."

Three Notices Sent

The warning slips go to students having two V's or two F's, or a V and an F. Those students who are on probation received warnings if they had one V or one F. These notices are sent to the student, to his advisor, and to his parents. The duty of the student is to see his advisor and try to determine his difficulty.

This system has been tried before but was not as useful or well recognized, Dean Onthank pointed out. This year there are a smaller number of failures and flunkouts which may be attributed to this.

Students on Own

The students are on their own initiative and it is up to them to realize their own responsibilities. He further mentioned that the personnel organization is for the use of the students and it is for

Senior Class To Hold Last Business Meeting

The senior class will meet in about two weeks for a final discussion of problems, particularly the disposal of surplus funds which have accrued during the year, Bill Pittman, class president, announced yesterday. At that time the expenditure of the surplus will be determined by a vote of the class, and in the meantime any suggestions from seniors as to the way in which the funds should be spent will be welcomed, Pittman said.

He also announced that today is the dead line for ordering both commencement announcements and caps and gowns at the Co-op, and that after today no more orders will be taken.

Dorathi Bock Tells Why She Gave Up Career For College

Oregon has acquired among its other campus celebrities a versatile young woman who has been a professional character dancer, singer, actress, and is now writing for a woman's magazine published in Chicago.

She is Miss Dorathi Bock, who is having a glorious time, she admits, taking up the college education she gave up for a professional career. She was 14 when she started character dancing, and since then she has achieved a varied professional success. She will play the leading feminine role in "Hotel Universe," spring production of the University drama department, which opens Saturday.

"I thought if I were going to write, I had better come to college and learn to do it artistically," Miss Bock explained. She has been taking short story and magazine writing.

Need for New Party To Be Debated Tonight

The need for a new political party will be voiced at the meeting of the Congress club this evening. The title of the discussion, "The realignment of Political Parties in the United States," has attracted nationwide attention since its proposal by John Dewey, well known philosopher and professor at Columbia university.

George Bennett, freshman in social science, and Stephen B. Kahn, freshman in journalism, will present the subject, after which there will be open discussion. This topic has been chosen for varsity debate next year by the Pacific Coast conference, and several members of the squad will state their views at the meeting this evening.

Nominations for candidates for next term will be made, and Otto Vonderheit, secretary, has requested all members to be present. The meeting will be held at 7:30 this evening over Colleg Side Inn.

Oregana Staff Jobs Open To All, Says Gale

Applications for Work On Book Requested

31 Positions on Editorial Board To Be Filled; Art Theme Talked

All members of the student body who are interested are eligible to turn in their applications for positions on the editorial staff of the 1932 Oregana, Thornton Gale, editor of the Oregana, announced yesterday.

The applications should contain the name of the candidate, his address and telephone number, his previous experience, either on the Oregana or in any journalistic field, and the position desired. This information is to be placed on the Emerald bulletin board or turned in to Thornton Gale at the Oregana office immediately.

Staff Choice Due

Over the week-end most of the staff appointments will be made from this group of applicants. There are 31 positions open for the editorial board, there being 19 section editors and 12 assistant section editors to be appointed. The editors of the future are always picked from the yearbook staff and the major is not necessarily limited to journalism.

Four art themes are being considered for the 1932 yearbook. Some reorganization will be made in the staff and changes in the sections are planned. It is necessary, according to Gale, that most of the staff be chosen this year so that plans may progress during the summer months. These appointments are very good activities, said the new editor, and those who are willing to work are the ones who will receive them. Those picked will be the most eligible of the group, will be the best fitted for their positions and have the best qualifications to make the Oregana a successful book, Gale said.

Honoraries Plan Big Conclave for Advertising Folk

Gamma Alpha Chi, Alpha Delta Sigma Invite All Members

Plans are now being shaped for the advertising conclave sponsored by Alpha Delta Sigma, national men's advertising honorary, and Gamma Alpha Chi, national women's advertising honorary, to be held on May 23 and 24, it was announced by W. F. G. Thacher, advisor.

Speakers for the occasion will be Frank H. Skipper, executive of the Pennzoil company at Los Angeles, and Joe Hosmer, of the Hearts newspapers, established in Seattle. Skipper is now in retirement and is writing a book, Hosmer was one of the founders of both Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.

A banquet will be held on May 23 and a breakfast is scheduled for the 24th. Those who are to be delegates to the convention are the active members of the two honoraries, the associate and alumni members in Eugene, the actives of the local chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma at Oregon State, the associate and alumni members of the alumni chapter in Portland, representatives of advertising clubs, and alumni and associate members in the Northwest. A delegation is expected from the University of Washington.

Harold Ayers' Piano Recital Gets Approval of Audience

Senior Music Student Is Splendid in Touch, Tone And Interpretation

By JACK BAUER

Harold Ayres last night received the hearty applause of more than four hundred people for his splendid piano recital. He displayed a surety of touch, strength of tone, and sound interpretation seldom encountered in a player so young.

The program was long and difficult, and his execution did honor to his teacher, Louis Artau, and to his own talents. Ayres, senior music student, reproduced 100 minutes of sparkling music from memory with flawless technique and engaging style. He speedily put the audience in a receptive mood with Bull's "The King's Hunting Jig" and Handel's "Gavotte." Then he uncovered a surprise, in the Beethoven "Sonata Quasi una Fantasia." The first movement was the well-loved Moonlight Sonata, and the alle-gretto of the familiar Minuet. The rendition was marked by the singing melody which Ayres read into it.

Annual Picnic of Sophomores Will Be Given May 23

Bart Siegfried Appointed Chairman of Last Social Affair

The annual sophomore class picnic will be held in two weeks, on May 23rd, at Swimmers' Delight, according to Jim Travis, president of the class of '33.

This event, which will be the last social function to be sponsored by the class this year will be under the management of Bart Siegfried. "In placing Siegfried at this committee, I am confident that he will be capable, and will put the picnic across successfully," Travis said, in making the appointment.

The picnic is being held on Saturday in order to avoid conflict with classes. Committee selections will be completed and announcement of appointments will be made in a few days. Transportation will be provided by chartered buses. Swimming, dancing, eating, and novelty events will feature the affair, with George Webber's orchestra secured for the dancing. If possible prizes will be offered for various events, however, definite plans have not matured as yet.

Oregon Yeomen Plan Shirt Sleeve Dance

A "Shirt Sleeve" dance, to be held in the dance room of Gerlinger hall Friday evening, sponsored by Oregon Yeomen, will be a prominent feature on this week's social calendar, it was announced last night by Merlin Blais, president of the organization.

There are only two requisites for admission, Blais said. One is that no man shall wear coat or tie. The other that each couple present a ticket or $1 at the door. Plans for the dance have been progressing for the past two weeks and one of the best small dances of the year is assured by the committee in charge.

Clifton Culp, Yeoman social chairman, who is heading the committee working on the dance, declined last night to release complete plans for the dance. It was learned, however, that the decorations would represent a woodland scene, and that liquid refreshments, in the form of punch, would be served.

This is the second dance which the Yeomen have sponsored this year. The first, coming in the winter term, was principally for members of the organization.

Tickets may be purchased from: Merlin Blais, Ted Montgomery, Bob Walden, Ralph Yergen, Rex Tusling, Jack Bauer, Francis Pallister, Clifton Culp, Francis Rickert, Bob O'Leary, Ray Olsen, Wallace Campbell, or Claud Conder.

The Dohnanyi "Fourth Symphony" opened the second group. The slow and measured beat of the introduction led into a sonorous minor melody carried over major arpeggios in the bass. Ayres played quietly, and with a deep reverence. By syncopation and a delicately poised musical structure, the piece shocked the audience to attention. The representation of distant choirs was vivid.

The Casella satires were very entertaining, and the pianist played them with fitting gravity. The prelude sounded like a Chinese gone modern, the Galop like a race against time. The Carillon was a reproduction of all chimes—never in tune, and the other numbers were like some people's singing—never quite up to pitch.

Ayres moved swiftly back into the charming octave study by Chopin. It was, however, in the Grainger paraphrase on the waltz from Tschalkowsky's "Nutmacker Suite" that he did his most brilliant work. Up and down the keyboard he ranged, certain of the rhythms, the divergent modes of

Pledges To Show Wares For A.D.S. Initiation

If a man with a wild gleam in his eye, wearing a derby, peeping from behind huge advertising signs, and ringing a cowbell accosts you this morning, do not be alarmed, for it will only be a pledge going through the throes of initiation.

After wandering over the campus all morning displaying their wares, the five men who are being initiated into Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising honorary, will gather on the library steps at 10:50 a. m. and entertain the students with a few well-chosen words.

The men who will wear the derbies, signs, and cowbells are Hal Leonard, senior in business administration, Bob Holmes, Victor Kaufman, Phil Cogswell, and Harold Short, juniors in journalism.

Leonard and Holmes have been active in advertising on the campus. Kaufman has worked on the Emerald and at present is promotional advertising manager of the daily. Cogswell is the sports editor of the Emerald. Short has been active in professional advertising, having written ad copy for various advertising concerns. Kaufman is in charge of the ceremony.

Senior Oratory Contest Plans Are Disclosed

Failing-Beekman Prize Meets To Be June 12

All Graduating Students Eligible To Speak On Own Topics

Plans for the Failing-Beekman oratorical contest for graduating seniors were disclosed yesterday by the speech division office. Although the date has not been definitely set, it is probable that the contest will be held Friday, June 12, at 8 p. m. in the music auditorium. All graduating seniors are eligible for this contest which has two prizes, of $150 and $100. The orators may select their own topics, but their orations are not to be more than 1500 words in length.

Prize Income From Gift

The Failing prize of $150 is the income from a gift of $2500 made to the University by Hon. Henry Failing, of Portland. It is awarded "to the member of the senior class in classical, the scientific, or literary course prescribed by the University, or such courses as may, at the time, be substituted for either of said courses, who shall pronounce the best original oration at the time of his or her graduation."

The Beekman prize of $100 is the income from a gift of $1600 made to the University by Hon. C. C. Beekman, of Jacksonville. It is awarded under the same conditions as the Failing prize, for the second best oration.

Miss Edmundson Winner

Last year Margaret Edmundson and James Lyons won the two prizes. At that time a number of topics were presented including orations on education, religion, civic responsibilities, and eulogies on Oregon. "A keen interest has always been shown in this contest," Dr. Hoerber, head of the speech division, said yesterday, "and this year the competition is expected to be good."

Those wishing to enter the contests must be signed up in room 2, Friendly hall, by noon of June 5. In case more than six sign up, which is probable since four seniors have already signified their desire to enter, a preliminary contest will be held on June 9 at 4 o'clock in room 2 of Friendly hall.

Berries Served At Tennis Court Festival Tonight

THE Strawberry festival is scheduled for tonight, to be held on the faculty tennis courts, or, in case of rain, at the men's gym. This rat-racing, strawberry-sundae serving event is sponsored annually by the Women's Athletic association. The affair tonight promises to be unusually good, for preparations have been made for 1000 people, the courts have been especially prepared, and the Midway orchestra is going to play. And, in addition, the jitney dances of 5 cents each can be obtained at the rate of six for a quarter.

Women To Hear Eleanor Sense on Home Economics

Vocational Series Feature Well-Known New York Dietitian Today

The field for the woman in commercial home economics will be the subject discussed by today's A. W. S. vocational guidance speaker, Miss Eleanor Sense, chief dietitian and educational director for the Knox Gelatine company at Johnstown, New York, who will speak at 4:00 o'clock in Gerlinger hall.

Miss Sense took her undergraduate work from the University of Wisconsin where she majored in household arts and carried her minor work in journalism. She received her master's degree from Columbia university.

Teaching experience and social service work have been Miss Sense's preparation for the commercial field.

With the Knox Gelatine company, her work has included a great deal of public speaking, the writing of bulletins, and general research work in the field of home economics. The latter field, according to Miss Sense is rapidly expanding, and there is considerable opportunity for individual initiative in the creation of positions.

Miss Sense plans to explain the qualifications for the successful worker, the necessary specialized and general preparation, the opportunities for remuneration and advancement, and new developments which will effect the woman in commercial home economics.

Quiet Union of Churches Is Ideal Situation, Says Adams

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of articles being published in the Emerald concerning united student religious work and its relation to the Oregon campus.)

BY JACK BELLINGER

"The union of Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches in a United University church, lacking any stigma of denominationalism and giving a university Protestant appeal to the campus, seems to be the ideal that we might work to in formulating a program of religious work on the campus," said Rev. John Maxwell Adams, University pastor, in an interview yesterday.

Such a church building and program would supplement the work of the Christian associations and would incorporate the present program of the Westminster Foundation, Wesley Foundation, and similar groups, Mr. Adams said. "We can visualize a magnificent church auditorium and church house, possibly located at the cor-

Freck To Head 15 Senior Man Speech Group

Executive Council Picks New ASUO Body

Another Committee To Be Chosen Next Fall, Says Chairman

With the appointment of 15 senior men by the executive council, membership of the speakers committee, newly created A. S. U. O. body, was made known last night by George Cherry, student body president. Joe Freck, of Portland, is chairman of the new committee. The other members are Ken Curry, Vinton Hall, Tony Peterson, Hal Paddock, Bill Pittman, Harry Tonkon, Bill Whately, Stan Brooks, George Stadelman, Bob Bishop, Jim Dezenendorf, Chuck Laird, Hal Fraundorf, and Henry Baldrige.

These men will take office immediately, Cherry said, and will make up the membership of the committee up to the end of the current school year. Next fall, and each year thereafter, the A. S. U. O. executive council, with the assistance of the student relations committee, will select speakers committee composed of 15 senior men, to hold office for a year. The new committee was provided for in a permanent resolution recently added to the A. S. U. O. constitution, by action of the council.

Freck Gives Functions

In a statement last night, Freck set forth the purpose and most important functions of the new group:

"The speakers committee is formed for the purpose of affording direct contact between the students and their own student government. Many times during the school year occasions arise when it is necessary for the student president and student officers to gain the active support of the members of the student body in carrying out important proposals. We feel that the new speakers' committee, going directly to the students, can be of material assistance to the student officers, and the executive council.

House Speaking Controlled "Control over all speaking in houses, including the appearances of the speakers committee, is vested in the student relations committee as a result of the recent permanent resolution of the executive council dealing with this subject. It is not the purpose of this resolution to forbid speaking in houses, but rather to limit the number of appearances and to raise the quality of the talks given, in order that organizations giving the talks and living groups may both profit by the regulation."

On account of the fact that ner of Fourteenth and Kincaid, covering the third of a city block which is now owned by the Westminster Foundation. Since the Christian associations find their present facilities inadequate, it is highly possible that they could find a place for offices, social rooms, and classrooms in this church house, and thus center the Protestant work in one building.

"Such a building, should be a neighborhood as well as a University church. It should not be strictly a University church, first, because there should be a continuing constituency when the University is not in session; second, because the students need the experience of contact with members of the normal community that are both older and younger than themselves," Mr. Adams continued.

Mr. Adams believes that the present membership of the Congregational church, plus those members of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches who live in this neighborhood, or whose inter-
