WEBFOOTS WIN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

Oregon Loses Pitchers' Duel To Washington

Huskies Win Third Tilt In Row From Ducks
Score Is 3 to 2; Webfoots Are Nosed Out in Final Inning

(Special to the Emerald) UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, May 15.—The Husky baseball team plunked Oregon on the chin for the third straight time here this afternoon by a score of 3 to 2. The game was a pitchers' battle between Dave Bloom of the Webfoots and Arthur, the Washington hurler.

The Huskies won out in the ninth when with the score tied at 2-2 the first man up smashed a triple and the next batter drove him across the plate with a hot single.

Arthur's Pitching Feature
The pitching of Arthur, lean and lanky right-hander, featured the game. Arthur has been used in relief roles before, going in twice against Oregon in the games played at Eugene and stopping the Webfoots cold both times.

Huskies Score First
Losing no time in getting acquainted with the Oregon infielders, the Huskies pushed one man around the bases in the first inning. A walk started the runner on his way. He continued on to second when the following batter went out. A single put across the tally.

Bloom tightened up after the first and became stingy with the blows. Oregon tied the score in the third on a walk, a sacrifice, and a hit.

Again in the first half of the eighth, Oregon put on a brief splurge. Lee Chester singled, and (Continued on Page Two)

Munholland Improves Fast; Damage Suit Filed

Jim Munholland, freshman in the University, who suffered a fractured skull in an automobile accident a week ago Friday night, was reported to be improving rapidly at the Eugene hospital last night.

Munholland's condition was pronounced "very good" by nurses at the hospital. The injured youth was sued for $20,000 this week in two complaints filed against him by Ben Squires and Vera Thomas, occupants of the car Munholland struck on the highway near Judkins point.

The plaintiffs asked $10,000 personal damages each.

Debate Tour Correspondence Pile 2 Feet High Typewritten

Mildred Collins, Junior Co-ed, Is Home Agent For Travelers

If you would like to know how much stenographic work is connected with preparations for the 35,000 mile Pacific basin debate tour to be taken by a University forensic team, ask Mildred Collins. Mildred, junior co-ed from Albany, is serving as secretary for Robert T. Miller, Roger Pfaff, and David Wilson, the three members of the team, who are leaving on their long trip the first of June.

She took over her novel position as an extra-curricular activity about six months ago, and had been actively assisting Bob Miller in handling his voluminous correspondence for months before the tour was announced.

Proficient in shorthand and in typing, Miss Collins has given professional assistance, and is probably more familiar with the two-foot high pile of correspondence regarding the tour than anyone on the campus with the exception of Miller, who is manager for the Pacific basin forensic project.

The Oregon team, which will fill about 60 speaking engagements in New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon, India, Siam, the Philippines, China, Korea, Japan, and the Hawaiian islands, will not return to this country until the opening of winter term. During their absence Miss Collins will act as "home agent." She will be advised by cable of all changes in plans or itinerary, and will be about the only person who will know just when and where to forward the tour's correspondence.

"I do enjoy doing the work," the young secretary said, when she (Continued on Page Three)

Barker Speaking Contest Planned By Congress Club

Extemporaneous Talks To Draw $25 in Prizes; Date Not Set

An extemporaneous speaking contest, with prizes amounting to $25, presented by Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University, is being sponsored by the Congress club this term to correspond to a similar contest held last year.

A prize of $15 will be given the winner in the freshman division and $10 to the winner in the upper-class division. The date has not yet been set but will be the latter part of this month, according to John Long, member of the committee making the arrangements and also winner of the contest last year.

The contest is open to everyone who has attended three meetings of the Congress club by the time of the competition, and the topics to be used will be those which have been discussed by the club this school year.

The judges for the event and the date will be announced soon.

Spring Drama Opens Tonight On Guild Stage

Presentation First of 3 Showings Slated

New Play of Philosophical, Psychological Plot Declared Unique

The opening performance of "Hotel Universe," major drama production of the spring, will be presented to the University campus this evening in Guild theatre by a group of the most experienced actors on the campus.

This evening's presentation is the first of three scheduled for the play. Attention is called to the fact that the second and third performances will follow at one-day intervals, on Monday, May 18, and Wednesday, May 20. Tickets are on sale at the Guild theatre box office and reservations may be made by telephone, according to "Cap" Roberts, business manager.

Play a New One
This last and principal dramatic event of the college year has been described as the most unique play ever undertaken by the Guild theatre players. It is also the newest, for it is being offered to the University campus within a few days of a year after its opening in New York.

The story of the play is characterized by an intense philosophical and psychological complication among the characters, and for this reason demands of its cast the highest concentration of action. The audience will find also that the story demands undivided attention and thought. For this reason, Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt, director, has asked that everyone make an effort to be on time in order not to interrupt the performance.

Setting Same Throughout
The play is rather unique in arrangement, since it is not divided by intermissions. The time from the rise of the curtain until the end of the play is about two hours with continuous playing and no change of setting.

Dorathi Pierre, better known in the eastern professional drama circles as Dorathi Bock, will take the leading feminine role. Many of the other members of the cast are well known for their work in the University drama department.

They are Carl Klippel, who will play Stephen Field; Addison Brockman as Pat Farley; Norma Jacobs as Lily Malone; Jean Williams as Alice Kendall. The part of Tom Ames will be taken by Walden Boyle and Jack Stipe will appear as Norman Rose. Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt will play Hope Ames and Felix will be played by Felix Legrand, of the Romance language department.

Strawberries Are Traditional Fare For Senior Class

Strawberries, sausages, potato chips, and coffee—such has become the established menu for the Junior-Senior breakfast which will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock in Gerlinger hall.

Here we find campus traditions extending their influence into an unexpected field—that of food. For almost 20 years the above bill of fare has been the same—as much a custom as any other feature of this occasion.

During the reign of President P. L. Campbell this strawberry breakfast was held in the shade of the beautiful trees on the Campbell lawn on a Saturday morning. If it rained the breakfast was served in the Campbell house.

Then came Saturday classes. Now this traditional breakfast is held on Sunday, no longer out in the open, and far from the kindly hospitality of the Campbell home, but the spirit of this custom, like the bill of fare, remains unchanged.

Phi Delt's Wrong About House Pet; 'Tom' Has Kittens

MEEOWW RHH! Meeooow-rhh!

For months Tom has been a favorite of the Phi Delt house. Student body presidents and Koyl cup winners and rally leaders stopped to pet him. Visitors furnished rough pants against which to rub the sacred fur.

Tom reigned supreme. But someone seems to have made a mistake. In the wee, small hours yesterday, Tom gave birth to a mess of kittens. Tom and his (her) kittens are resting nicely.

Advertising Meet Program Drawn By Honoraries

Gamma Alpha Chi, Alpha Delta Sigma To Sponsor Conclave May 23

Featuring Frank Skipper and Joseph Hosman as principal speakers, the program for the annual Oregon advertising conclave to be held Saturday evening, May 23, is causing wide interest.

It was announced last night by Fletcher Udall, chairman of the affair, that the meeting would be held at the Osburn hotel starting at 6:30 p. m. The conference is sponsored jointly by Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, and Gamma Alpha Chi, women's honorary in the same field.

Skipper A. D. S. Member
Frank Skipper, who is director of personnel, the Pennzoil company, will speak on the subject, "Thinking Through." Mr. Skipper, who is an associate member of the local chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, will make a special trip from Los Angeles to appear on the program. He is engaged at the present time in writing a book entitled, "Better Dividends Through Better Thinking." His speech will embody the best features of this book.

Joseph Hosmer, of the Hearst newspapers, will come from Seattle to the meeting. His talk will be on the question, "Is Advertising a Profession?" Mr. Hosmer is a noted advertising economist.

Breakfast on Sunday
On the Sunday morning following the convention a breakfast will be held for members and associates of Alpha Delta Sigma. The cost of the dinner Saturday night will be $1 a plate.

Many representative advertising men of the state, their wives, and friends will attend the convention. Visitors from Portland will include, among others, several members of the Portland Advertising club.

The program at the dinner will be open to all Oregon students, members of the faculty, and townspeople who may be interested in advertising. Special entertainment to be furnished by students is being arranged. This will add a "collegiate color" to the program.

High Hat Shelf at Co-op Gets Three New Books

Right off the press are these three newest books on sale now at the High Hat Co-op book shop: "Fatal Interview," by Edna St. Vincent Millay; "John Mistletoe," by Christopher Morley; and "Craft of the Critic," by S. S. Smith. All three are highly recommended, and the latter should be of particular interest as the author is a professor of English here.

The following are suggested readings from the rental shelf: "House Party," by E. M. Delafield; "Big Money," by P. G. Wodehouse; "Flemenco," by Eleanor Smith; "The Veiled Woman," by Achmed Abdullah; "Men Dislike Women," by Michael Arlen; "Grand Hotel," by Vicki Baum; "Rachel Moon," by Lorna Rex; "The Owl in the Attic," by James Thurber, and "Gin and Bitters," by A. Riposte.

Mimnaugh and Cherry Leave Today on Trip

Men To Attend Meeting Of Presidents

Tucson, Ariz., Convention City for Pacific Coast Student Body Heads

Brian Mimnaugh, president of the associated students, and George Cherry, ex-president, are leaving today for Tucson, Arizona, where they will attend the annual conference of the Pacific Presidents' association, May 20 to 23.

The University of Arizona is to be host to the delegates, who will represent some 70 universities and colleges of the Pacific slope. Each school sends both its incoming and outgoing student body presidents to the conference, just before the close of every year.

The purpose of the convention, Cherry explained, is to discuss and exchange viewpoints on the various problems of student government, including particularly athletics, publications, and other major projects undertaken by the student bodies of educational institutions throughout the West.

Other business will include the election of officers of the association for the coming year. Gilton Viereck, president of the student body at the University of Washington, will be the retiring president. The conference is to be conducted in the main by the student body presidents who have held office during the year 1930-31.

The two Oregon delegates expect to return to the campus about Wednesday, May 27.

Band and Choir To Give Concert Tomorrow Night

Singers Number 153; Band Will Have 40 Pieces

Tomorrow night the band and the second division of the Polyphonic choir will present an hour of music from the stand across the mill-race, beginning at 7 o'clock.

An extension has been built on the platform to accommodate the 153 singers and the 40-piece band. Graduate Manager Hugh Rosson authorized the work, to make available outdoor concerts by the large singing groups in the school.

John Stehn, director of the band, said after last week's concert that he was well satisfied with the acoustics of the outdoor platform, and Roy Bryson, who will direct the choir Sunday night, said that, after investigations during the past week, he was certain that the best work of the choir would not be lost.

"The large body of water between the singers and the audience will only add to the effectiveness of the performers' work, I believe," he said.

Frosh Commission To Hold Party Thursday

As the last social function of the year, the frosh commission has planned a "Frosh" for Thursday afternoon. Caroline Card, president, has appointed Maxine Reed chairman, and Edith Peterson assistant chairman.

Those working with Miss Reed are: Nancy Suomela, secretary, and her assistants, Marjorie Pain-ton and Dorothy Hughes; Virginia Hartje, entertainment, and Helen Binford and Helen Ray, sub-committee; Jean Failing, transportation; and Jean Robertson, food.

Canoes, leaving the Anchorage at 4 o'clock and returning at 7:30, will carry the girls to the portage, where there will be a picnic supper. There will be a charge of 15 cents to pay for the canoes, and the tickets will go on sale Monday in all the women's houses.

Will of Oregon Sets Pace in Medal Play; Cardinal Is Second

Individual Championship Play To Begin Today

By HAL RUSHTON
WITHSTANDING the assault of the highly touted Stanford university golf team, the Webfoots yesterday won the Pacific Coast conference championship at the local course. The tourney was the most closely contested in years, the totals being only two strokes apart, Stanford 627, Oregon 625.

Not until the last match was finished was the issue decided. Bob Hammond, playing No. 6 for Oregon, came to the eighteenth hole needing a five to win the title for the Webfoots. In a dramatic finish, he recovered from behind a tree and sank a birdie four to give his teammates the two-stroke margin and the match.

George Will Stars
In a class all by himself, George Will led the field by six strokes. Next to his 149 was Malcolm MacNaughton of Stanford with 155. Evidently George is near the top of his game at this time. He has been playing consistently good golf this season, and is going to give the collegians a battle for the conference championship starting tomorrow.

The officials have adopted a new policy in this year's tournament. The 36-hole play of yesterday determined the team winner and also served as a qualifying round for the individual championship. The low eight of yesterday's play are to meet in match play today over 18 holes in the quarter-finals. The four winners will then meet in the afternoon in the semi-finals to determine the men to meet in the 36-hole finals on Sunday.

Draw Is Poor
The draw for today's match play is an unfortunate one. Captain Vince Dolp, defending champion, meets George Will, Oregon number one man in the first round. It is always close when these two meet and much interest will be centered on these two colorful players when they tee off this morning.

Other Webfoots who qualified are Frank Shafer who had 158 and Bob Hammond. Shafer encounters Mal MacNaughton, ranking Cardinal and Hammond plays the longitudinal. (Continued on Page Three)

Rose Queen Candidate Is Remembered Here

Virginia Cooper, Grant high school student in Portland, chosen to represent her school as queen candidate for the Rose Festival in June, is well remembered here in Eugene.

Miss Cooper was on the campus during the high school conference in January at which time she was elected state president of the Girls' League. She was president of the Grant high school Girls' League. While on the campus she made a great number of friends.

Trade Honorary Holds Initiation and Election

Pan Xenia, foreign trade honorary, held initiation and election of officers Thursday night. Walter Williamson and Henry Levoff were the two men initiated.

Orville Garrett was elected president, Lionel Lane, vice-president, Henry Levoff, secretary, and Fred Ken, treasurer.

Walt Evans Tells of Ambitions To Improve Student Affairs

(Editor's note: This is the second of a series of personality interviews with recently-elected student body officers.)

By THORNTON GALE
Walt (Cap) Evans, affable vice-president of the A. S. U. O., had at an early age strong yearnings to be a locomotive engineer. Later he had various other ambitions. Being a mechanical engineer was one of them, and then finally he decided once for all that he wanted to become a lawyer. The reason for this he attributes to a greater fondness for talking than working. Evans is the son of Judge Walter Evans, now in the U. S. customs court in New York City, and this may in part explain his preference for the bar.

Probably more life insurance agents have attempted to sell Evans than any other man on the campus. Eleven have rung the doorbell at the Sigma Chi house in the last month, cornered Evans on the davenport, and attempted to force the inevitable policy on him. "I am so full of mortality statistics," said Evans, "that my whole future looks gloomy. I don't know whether they think my health is failing or not, but I intend to consult a doctor in the near future." He coughed experimentally for the interviewer's benefit.

Chemistry, public speaking, boats, swimming, and automobiles are Walt's chief hobbies. He alleges that he has no definite pigging prejudices, and is willing to (Continued on Page Three)
