

For Sale Cheap One Durant Car Says 'Happy' Joe

For sale: One Durant car. See Joe Lillard. That might be an advertisement, but it is in reality history.

It seems that sometime ago when the "Midnight Express" was on his way to the University of Oregon from the East, he had a very good Durant. But like all good things, it had a bad quality. The carburetor just happened to be Joe's particular trouble.

The other side of Oregon and between St. Louis and the Pacific coast things began to happen to the car. It was taken into a garage and the carburetor mended. Such a simple thing. Then "Happy" Joe settled himself behind the wheel and set out merrily on his way. He was on his way to Oregon to play football. But his happiness was short-lived. It lived just long enough for him to get far enough from civilization so that human aid was not to be considered.

It was the carburetor again. Joe couldn't fix it and the car wouldn't run. Well, athletes do things that people don't expect of other people, so Joe set out with his faithful car ahead of him, only this time he was pushing. Again he was on his way to play football.

Thus it happened that the "Midnight Express," after a series of pushes and rides, arrived in Oregon. A trip to the scales showed that he had lost 13 pounds. If anyone wants a Durant, Joe may still have it around.

TALKIE TOPICS

McDonald—"Personal Maid," starring Nancy Carroll.
Heilig—"Five Star Final," with Edward G. Robinson.
Colonial—"Subway Express," with Jack Holt.

"Personal Maid" at McDonald

By ROY SHEEDY
Nancy Carroll works her way from a simple Irish family to a place in New York's 400 in short order in her latest picture showing at the McDonald. Nancy, or rather, the character she plays, also demonstrates that there is a little legitimate graft in even the personal maid business.

The picture has a good cast, but not up with the actress' best films. She has small opportunity to exhibit her fiery Irish temper, her dramatic ability, or her sense of comedy. Supporting her is a newcomer, Gene Raymond, who appears to good advantage in a rah-rah college boy part. Pat O'Brien, whom you'll remember played the lead in "The Front Page," has a part, and George Fawcett, who is seen altogether too seldom these days, provides comedy.

The story concerns a maid who is hired by her mistress to escort the latter's son from New York to Virginia in order that the head of the house will not learn that he has been forcibly removed from the ranks of the boys at Yale. The girl makes a success of the job except that she falls in love with her prisoner on the way.

A comedy, "Beach Pajamas," and news reel complete the bill.

Ruth Chatterton at Colonial

Ruth Chatterton does some remarkable impersonation in "The Magnificent Lie," showing for the last time at the Colonial today. The picture is filled with tense situations, sobs, laughter, and dramatic emotion.

Miss Chatterton's characterization is vivid, realistic, and sincere. Playing opposite her is Ralph Belamy, a recent Broadway star.

"Gold Dust Gertie," starring Winnie Lightner, is coming Friday and Saturday. Watch for "The Viking," a gripping, first-run picture of the arctic, coming to the Colonial next week.

Jack Holt at State

"Subway Express," featuring Jack Holt as a police inspector, is crammed with rapid-fire action, suspense and mystery, culminating with a sensational climax. "Subway Express" is showing today and tomorrow at the State.

A first-run picture, "Women Go On Forever," will be shown at the Saturday night preview.

"Five Star Final" at Heilig

With Edward G. Robinson as the hard-boiled managing editor of a tabloid newspaper, "Five Star Final" has a strong lead and if it were not for some minor weaknesses it would stand a fine chance of being one of the good shows of the year. Aline MacMahon, George Stone, Marion Marsh, and H. B. Warner are other important members of the cast.

Actual photographic reproduction of three of the Co-op's invoices from large publishing companies. Note the wholesale prices listed to the Co-op and compare them with the price you paid.

Compare Your Cost With Our Cost

Notice in each instance in the above invoices the quotation of list price to the Co-op, then compare that price with what you paid for your books. This is not a testimonial advertisement, but merely a proof to the students of the University of Oregon that their own student-owned store is not realizing a profit on text-books. The only margin realized is the 20 per cent allowed by a trade discount which in turn gives the Co-op management a small margin to defray the handling and service costs. Textbook prices paid here are identical to those on leading Eastern campuses such as:

PRINCETON * * HARVARD * * YALE * * CHICAGO * * NORTHWESTERN

This Is NOT the Only Service We Render

It is an honor to be able to serve the Oregon students with a store that satisfies your every school want, and it is an added privilege to be able to give you the advantage in price on all general School Supplies, made possible through the combined buying power of the 21 leading college and university cooperative stores on the Pacific Coast.

COLLEGE BOOK STORE ASSOCIATION

Among the supplies purchased through the C. B. A. are Note-books, Note-book Fillers, Bluebooks, Inks, Law Note-books, Typing Paper, etc. Supplies are specially made for the association and are selected and designed by the managers of the member-stores.
