

Straub Appeals To Frosh For Bonfire Taboo

Homecoming Tradition May Be Broken

Wood To Be Distributed To Unemployed Families Of Eugene

An appeal to the freshman class to forego the building of the traditional Homecoming bonfire on Skinner's butte this year and to use the wood collected for distribution among the poor families of Eugene was issued yesterday by Dr. John H. Straub, dean emeritus of men, and for many years adviser to each entering freshman class.

Letter Is Given
Dean Straub's letter is as follows:

"My Dear Young Friends:
This is going to be a hard year for the poor jobless of the land. Many a house will lack food for the kiddies, and clothes to keep their thin little bodies warm. Their homes will be cold for lack of fuel, and their sufferings will be intense. Now, this is where my appeal to you comes in. When the time for the big bonfire comes on, collect all the wood you can, as usual, and put it on a lot along the edge of the town. Then I think we can get all those having wood saws to donate a day or two in cutting this into stove size, and then turn it over to the Salvation Army for distribution to the poor and thus make many poor cheerless homes comfortable and happy.

Act of Unselfishness

"It will be an act of great unselfishness and sacrifice on your part to do this, I know, Frosh, but don't you think it worth while? You can still have the 'noise fest' and the fireworks and the marching. Won't you please think this over? If I were strong enough, I would like to talk to the class and I know I could talk a full half hour and give you a hundred reasons why you should do this. Such an act will be broadcast all over the land and bring honor to the class and to the University. I have seen bonfires on the campus, 75 to 100 feet high, containing not less than 40 to 50 cords of wood. I am not strong enough to help much, but I will gladly cooperate with you to the limit of my strength.

"Sincerely your friend,
—JOHN STRAUB,
Ex-Frosh Adviser.

Howard Steib, freshman class president, said yesterday a meeting of the class would be called soon to consider Dean Straub's appeal.

Time Budget Discussed By Westminster Frosh

"How Shall We Budget Our Time?" was the topic discussed by the freshman group at Westminster House last Sunday morning. The discussion, which was led by Bill Gearhart, treasurer of the group, developed many debatable points, and a continuation of the same general topic will be the subject for next Sunday.

The group's plans for this year include disarmament canvassing, deputation work, and numerous social events.

Architecture Graduate Gets Apprenticeship with Wright

Honors and recognition of his ability in architecture came thick and fast this week for Glen N. Gardiner, of Helix, graduate of the school of architecture and allied arts, who completed his work for a degree at the University of Oregon this summer.

An apprenticeship in the office of Lloyd Wright, Hollywood, California, is probably the most valuable recognition of all. Mr. Wright is the son of the world-famous architect, Frank Lloyd Wright, and association with his firm is the ambition of aspiring young men in this field the country over. Gardiner will leave soon to take up his new position.

An article entitled, "Why not

A Few Shots From Annual Dads Day

(1) The annual Dad's Day banquet. (2) The president of the Oregon Dads, W. Lair Thompson (center), and two former presidents, O. Laurgaard (left) and Paul T. Shaw (right), all of Portland. (3) A few of the Dads who could be persuaded to have their pictures taken. (4) The executive committee and officers of the Oregon Dads for the coming year. From left to right, they are: Sam H. Baker, Grants Pass; Allan F. Hunt, Burlingame, California; Carl Haberlach, Tillamook; Dr. George A. Massey, Klamath Falls; Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University; Charles Hall, Portland; Mrs. Marian Phyllis Ager, executive secretary of the Oregon Dads; C. C. Hall, Portland; O. Laurgaard, Portland; J. C. Stevens, Portland; W. Lair Thompson, Portland, president; Wilson H. Jewett, Eugene, secretary; Paul T. Shaw, Portland; W. C. Reugnitz, Portland. (5) A scene from the smoker Saturday afternoon. (See back page for writeups of events.)

Recital Tonight To Open Series Of Fall Concerts

Piano and Violin Numbers To Be Given by Local Students of Music

Frances Brockman and Elaine Moore, both Eugene students in the school of music, will open the student recital series for the fall term tonight at 8 p. m. at the music building with a program of classical and romantic numbers.

Miss Brockman is, in the words of Dean Landsbury, "one of the most talented young violinists in the Pacific Northwest." Miss Moore is an advanced piano student of Aurora Potter Underwood.

The program will open with Mozart's "Sonata in D-Major" for piano and violin, played by Miss Brockman and Miss Moore.

Next will be a group of violin numbers including Drigo's familiar "Waltz Bluettes," arranged by Mischa Auer, famous violin virtuoso of the present day, Beethoven's "Romance in F," Lubin's "Caprice," for violin alone, and Sarasate's "Spanish Dance No. 8."

Miss Moore's piano group will contain two numbers by the American composer MacDowell, "Song, Op. 55, No. 5," and "To the Sea," (Continued on Page Three)

Large Attendance Marks Second of Evans' Recitals

By JANET FITCH

The Music building was filled to capacity for the second of John Stark Evans' twilight organ recitals Sunday.

Opening with two numbers by Guilmant, Mr. Evans contrasted the dreamy Lamentation with the stirring Marche Religieuse. The second consisted of contrapuntal variations on a theme by Handel, which reached an interesting height in the latter part where the voices intercrossed, and the pedal carried the thunderous melody.

Clair de Lune, by Debussy, the familiar piano composition, became entirely different when played on the organ; it had a much greater diversity of tone, and more range of expression, but it seemed to lose a little of its liquid simplicity.

Yon's the Primitive Organ amused the audience with a sort of sophisticated mockery of naive, and the careful wicked false note at the end provoked a wave of laughter.

The program ended with Cesar Franck's Piece Heroique, which had all the strangeness and hugeness of a Gothic cathedral, even to the almost grotesque harmony reminiscent of gargoyles that peer over cornices.

Upperclass Commission Meets Tonight at YWCA

Officers Will Be Introduced; Helen Binford To Talk

An important meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Upperclass commission will be held at 6:45 tonight in the bungalow at which time the new officers will be introduced.

The results of yesterday's elections are as follows: president, Virginia Hunt; vice-president, Margaret Hunt; secretary, Jean Failing; treasurer, Evelyn Kennedy. The new president will announce the members of her cabinet later in the week.

Tonight Helen Binford, who is very much interested in this newly formed group will entertain the members by an account of her travels abroad this summer.

Alumni Committee Starts Organizing For Homecoming

Portland Publicity To Be Handled by Group Named By Homer D. Angell

The first meeting of the local alumni committee on Homecoming was held in the Miner building last night in the office of the chairman, Edward F. Bailey, '13.

The alumni committee, according to Jeannette Calkins, alumni secretary, was appointed by Homer D. Angell, '00, president of the alumni association, for the purpose of working out plans for the alumni convention and other details of Homecoming having to do primarily with the alumni. All student entertaining is under the direction of the Homecoming directorate.

Members of Mr. Bailey's committee include the following Eugene alumni: Roy Booth, Mrs. F. L. Chambers, Mrs. R. S. Bryson, Mrs. Lawrence T. Harris, Dr. Gavin C. Dyott, Charlotte Winward, Frances Elizabeth Baker, Dr. Victor P. Morris, Mrs. F. K. Davis, James K. King, Anne Whiteaker, Mrs. A. K. Quackenbush, Karl W. Onthank, James Baker, Lynn S. McCree, Jeannette Calkins, Dr. Del Stannard, and Edward F. Bailey, chairman.

The committee plans to take up matters connected with the alumni convention and with an alumni luncheon at this first meeting.

A second committee in Portland, headed by Lamar Toozee, is handling publicity in that city for these events. Other members of the Portland committee are Clarence Bishop, Edgar E. Smith, Harold Young, Mrs. Alfred Krohm, and Mrs. Waldemar Spliid. They were appointed by Homer D. Angell, president of the alumni association.

According to Miss Calkins, they are expecting a larger number of alumni back for this Homecoming than ever before.

HALL TO SPEAK

President Arnold Bennett Hall left Monday morning for Walla Walla, Washington, where he will speak before the Washington State Teachers' Institute. He will return to the campus Wednesday.

Homecoming Luncheon With O.S.C. Planned

Special Trains To Bring Beaver Supporters

Fischer To Have Charge Of Sign Competition; Committee Named

Tentative arrangements for a huge joint Homecoming luncheon of Oregon and Oregon State grads and promotion of a new era of good will between the two schools were the results of a conference at Corvallis last Saturday between the Oregon and Oregon State Homecoming committee heads.

John Penland, Barney Miller and Roger Bailey, of the Homecoming directorate, composed the Oregon delegation, while Oregon State was represented by Milton Leishman, student president, and Martin Redding, chairman of Homecoming committee.

Special trains are planned to run from Corvallis and arrive at Willard station in Eugene, from which point the visiting Oregon State contingent will proceed en masse to the Igloo for the box luncheon which will be served by a committee in charge of Alexis Lyle.

This luncheon promises to be the biggest of its kind ever held, with the entire crowd of supporters of both teams mingling together in a mammoth social event before the classic battle. Dancing will be the order of the day in addition to the lunch. The O. S. C. student body as well as the alumni will participate in the big get-together.

Intense enthusiasm on the Oregon State campus is reported by the Oregon visitors as being conducive to a successful day. The Homecoming directorate is also in high spirits as a result of the unprecedented interest in the affair on this campus and in the whole of Eugene.

George Kotchik has announced the appointment of Larry Fischer to take care of the Homecoming sign contest. "Houses will submit their ideas to the committee for approval before the contest takes place," said Fischer yesterday, "and any attempt to 'razz' Oregon State will be given absolutely no consideration." The judges for the signs will be announced later by the chairman.

Fischer has for assistants on his committee: Kathryn Felter, Portland; Ruth Hubbs, Silverton, and Leo Baker, Pendleton.

Reedy Speaks Before Wesley Group Sunday

Address Is First of Series on Economic Problems

The first of a series of meetings which will consider the present economic situation, took place Sunday evening at the Wesley club, when Rolla Reedy, president of the campus Y. M. C. A., spoke on "Christ's Answer to the Economic Question."

Reedy, together with Wallace Campbell, one of the University's candidates for the Rhodes scholarship, spent the summer in a speaking tour of California, under the leadership of J. Statt Wilson, noted economist. Campbell will have charge of the discussion next Sunday evening, when another phase of the economic situation will be discussed.

John L. Casteel, director of the speech division of the University, read four poems dealing with the laboring men's side of life.

Dr. John H. Mueller, professor of sociology, will address the Wesley club for the third meeting of the series. Mr. Mueller spent the summer in Russia, and will talk on the economic situation there.

Five Patients Confined to Infirmary; One Leaves

There are five patients in the infirmary now: Arleen Dyer, Bob Setters, Francis Humphrey, Wilberta Wilson, and Carlisle Smith. Bob Chilton, who was hurt in the Frosh-Rook game Saturday night, left Monday morning.

Sinkers To Sell Two For Nickel At Y.W.C.A. Sale

Dunkers by Dozen To Dip Doughnuts Daily Till Demand Is Done

Plans are progressing rapidly to flood the campus with doughnuts tomorrow, when the Y. W. C. A. will sponsor its Oregon Doughnut Day under the chairmanship of Nancy Suomela.

Already 115 dozen doughnuts have been ordered by various living organizations, according to Miss Suomela, but tomorrow attention is being centered on campus sales with the idea of appeasing the appetites of the hungry mob.

The sinkers will be sold two for a nickel at booths to be placed in front of the College Side, Oregon hall, and the Old Library. Preparations are being made to sell 1000 dozen in the next three days. Tomorrow will be Oregon Doughnut Day, and on Thursday and Friday the Y. W. C. A. will concentrate on selling to living organizations and townspeople.

Joyce Busenbark, campus sales chairman, has named the following girls to sell at booths: College Side—Edith Korhonen, Josephine Waffle, Alma Tye, Bernice Walo, Helen Nelson, Margaret Jamie, Annabelle Tullock, Caroline Card, Evelyn Kennedy, Elizabeth Benstrap, Dorothy Steeple, Peg Gullion, Marian Sheldon, Dorothy Dodds, Virginia Hancock, Aileen Kelley, Roberta Wilson, and Louise McClintock.

Oregon hall—Virginia Horton, Gail McCredie, Dorothy Folsom, Helen Scruggs, Virginia Kibbee, Marygold Gardison, Jean Failing, Nancy Suomela, Teresa Nelson, Bobbie Bequeath, Betty Goodman, Myra Helen Gaylord, Clara Mary Fuson, Jean Starr, Harriet Smith, Mildred Kissing, Patty Geiser, and Mary Stewart.

Old Library—Eleanor Wharton, Edwina Anderson, Frances Haberlach, Janet Simonen, Kate Cochran, Louise Stein, Teresa Dressler, Mary Teresi, Mildred Carson, Lucy Ann Wendell, Virginia Howard, Peg Nebergal, Gladys Burns, Virginia Grone, Mary Owensby, Kathryn Taylor, Althea Peterson, and Angela Bruce.

Military Group To Hear Clark At Lunch Today

Members Will Celebrate Scabbard and Blade Day Here

R. C. Clark who was closely connected with the original chapter of Scabbard and Blade, national military science honorary, shortly after its formation at the University of Wisconsin in 1904-1905 has been selected to speak before members of the local organization at a lunch to be given today noon at the Anchorage, according to John Painton who is in charge.

Mr. Clark will speak on the early days of the fraternity and its ideals.

Today, which is national Scabbard and Blade day, 78 chapters in 46 different states will gather at similar luncheons to celebrate the founding of the society.

The purpose of the organization is to unite in closer relationship the military departments of American colleges and universities, to preserve and develop the essential qualities of efficient officers, and to spread intelligent information concerning the military requirements of our country.

All members are expected to attend in uniform and any alumni who happen to be in or around Eugene are also urged to come.

University Depot Collects Campus Strayed Articles

Lost or misplaced books, hats, gloves, beads, etc., are now pouring into the U. of O. depot, according to reports of that department.

Many of these articles are never claimed by their owners because the students come once, and of the lost property is not on hand they fail to return at a later date. The missing article is often turned in a day or so after the owner has called, it is declared, and if students would make two or three calls at the depot they would regain much of their lost property.

Magazine Article On Conditions Here Fails To Tell Truth

All College Girls Asked To Attend Tonqued Dances

Entertainment Plans Made For Students Remaining During Vacations

Coffee and dancing will feature the first social function of the term for Tonqueds, Eugene girls' organization, tonight at the Westminster house.

All college girls living in Eugene are invited to come from 7:30 to 8:30 and get acquainted. Big Sisters are especially urged by the president, Marian Chapman, to bring their Little Sisters.

Helen Garrison is in charge of arrangements. Assisting her are Bernice Ingalls, Dorothy Parks, and Mary Garrison.

This is the first of a series of affairs planned by the group for the year. Mass meetings are scheduled for the fourth Tuesday of every month with a council meeting on every second Tuesday.

Tonqueds is an organization of all town women, including those who are affiliated with sororities and those who are not. Its purpose is to furnish hostesses for the University during the summer sessions and during vacations. Elaborate plans are being made to sponsor the annual Thanksgiving vacation dance for students remaining on the campus and a Christmas ball.

AWS To Auction All Lost Articles On Library Steps

Proceeds for Traditional Sale To Go to Foreign Scholar Fund

All articles turned into the lost and found depot on the campus are to be auctioned on the Library steps all day Friday by the Associated Women Students, it was announced last night by Margaret Hunt, chairman for the event.

The five men who will be in charge of the auctioneering are Ferd Fletcher, chairman; George Vaughan, Ed Schweiker, Al McKelligan, and Ned Kinney.

Sale proceeds will go to the foreign scholar fund which is maintained by the A. W. S. to bring outstanding women students from other countries to the University campus for a year's study. The foreign scholar this year is Miss Nella Roster from Florence, Italy.

"Everything from textbooks and fountain pens to coats, gloves, and jewelry, will be offered for sale Friday," said Margaret Hunt. "The sale will give students an opportunity to recover their own articles as well as acquire new ones," she commented.

"The auction sale is a traditional part of A. W. S. activities and should be of a great deal of interest to all students on the campus," according to Ann Baum, president of the association.

(Continued on Page Four)

Miller Brands Charges As Unsupportable

Well Known Periodical Publishes Tale of Poor Work in Colleges

Charges hurled against the University of Oregon health service by Dr. Barbara Beattie, in an article in the November issue of Good Housekeeping, failed to arouse any great outburst here. First of all, the "investigator" dropped in here about two and one-half years ago, had a meal on the campus, informally discussed health problems with Dr. Wilmoth Osborn, University physician, and then skipped on, stopping for a few hours at Oregon State college at Corvallis.

The most serious charge made against the University is: The most sensational and inexplicable thing that I found was six cases of small pox at the University of Oregon." The good doctor did happen to arrive just the time two years ago, when there were a few cases of small pox here. Previous to this time, in the memory of Dr. Fred N. Miller, University physician, there had been but one light case of this disease and it had never been a problem. When the mild epidemic hit here, however, authorities immediately went to the state board of education, and a rule was passed making vaccination compulsory. Not a single case of small pox has developed on the campus in the past two years, a fact that the author completely overlooked.

Poor Food Hinted

The only other charge made was an indirect reference to the health giving qualities of food served here. Dr. Beattie lunched here on "macaroni, dried beans, cabbage salad, bread, tea and cookies." Just what was wrong with this, she did not state. However, students at the University, whether they eat at the dormitory, in fraternity or sorority houses, do get a wider variety of food than this, and no general complaint has been heard. University doctors regularly inspect the menus of all organizations, and a look at the students themselves would probably be the best indication of whether the students are suffering from malnutrition.

Dietitian Employed

A University dietitian is employed to see that menus are nourishing and properly balanced. Breakfast menus always contain fruit of some kind, both prepared and cooked cereals, toast, all kinds of beverages, jam and often sausage or bacon. A typical luncheon menu is as follows: cream of celery soup, scrambled eggs, bacon, browned potatoes, cottage cheese and pear salad, bread, butter and beverages. Sunday dinners are more elaborate.

"Dr. Beattie, a doctor of whom no one of my acquaintance has ever heard, started out with a prejudice that health conditions were not all they should be in colleges," Dr. Miller says. "She argued," (Continued on Page Four)

League of Nations Embargo Offers China-Japan Solution

Economic pressure in the form of an embargo on the part of the members of the League of Nations and the United States to bring about cessation of hostilities between China and Japan is seen by Dr. Victor P. Morris, professor of economics.

"Agreement of the league to back up its efforts to get Japan and China to arbitrate with an embargo, would certainly have effect on the powers of both countries," Dr. Morris said. "There is considerable support on the part of students of political economy for such a movement."

While the economic pressure would not have much effect on China because of the comparative self-sufficiency of that nation, it would have appreciable effect on Japan, Dr. Morris believes. Japan is largely dependent on other countries for raw materials and sends a vast amount of exports to the United States and would consequently feel the effects of an embargo to a much greater extent.

"The kick-back in relations between nations would not be as bad in the invocation of economic pressure as in that of armed pressure," it was commented by Dr. Morris. "While there would be hard feelings and resentment for a time, it would not be as universal in the people of Japan for the passions would not be aroused to the extent they are in case of war."