ELL, it looks like the wolves are howling again. This time it's Billy Stepp in the Portland News - Telegram who has a lot of fact and fabrication to spread on pretty thick to the gullible public. This boy Stepp seems to have it in for Oregon—I can't find a single thing in any of his writings for about a month back that even looks like an even break. Perhaps he got into the crying habit when the old News was running wild up in Portland a few years back—or then perhaps it's just another bad case of cranium-colic. At any rate, all the guff that came out the other day from this source about Doc Spears being about ready to give up the ship as the Oregon football mentor is, as far as I can determine from a fairly close contact with the goings-on in the football world here, just so much space-filler. Perhaps even Stepp runs out of things to say every now and then, and that sort of twaddle makes good reading.

NODAKS-WEBFEET TIE
The howling Sioux from North Dakota, in the intersection game with the Oregon Webfeet, struck a snag in their conquest for scalps last Saturday. And 0-0 was the final result. From press dispatches received from that part of the country, the Webfeet were the underdogs, although here it's hard to figure that out. Probably the 53-0 licking from U. S. C. had something to do with it. Anyhow,

Oregon Grid Squad Arrives at New York for Tilt With N. Y. U. Saturday

Oregon kept the boys jumping from start to finish, had the ball in North Dakota territory for most of the afternoon, knocked vainly on the 10-yard line for four successive downs, and, all in all, provided the strong North Dakota team with a lively afternoon.

FROSH LOOK GOOD

The boys have done it again. The Frosh-Rook football game, although it was a wet and muddy-sounding affair, showed up just how much power there is wrapped up in this year's yearling. Witness the fact that the highly headlined Heikenin only reached the line of scrimmage once during the first half, when the Oregon first string was on the field. The entire Frosh line piled in on every Rook play and made quick work of everything that the O. S. C. boys could think up. Only once did a Rook scrimmage play get out of control—when Norm Franklin got under way for a nice 38-yard run.

It was hard to tell in the mud just what was coming off down on the field, and who was doing it. Peppinjack was clearly the outstanding ball-packer for the Frosh—getting away for five runs that totaled over 100 yards, besides some other shorter gains.

PROSPECTS GOOD

The way it looks now, there isn't anything outside of an avalanche that has an even break of stopping the freshmen—as sweet a football team as has been here for a long time. Even with the rain pouring down all through the game and the field like a Scotch bog, they got around like all-Americans. What's going to happen when they meet the Rooks again on what we hope will be a dry field? No telling. But there's another angle to the thing. It's a great habit for the freshmen around here to get the swell-head, quit wearing lauds, and coast along on their laurels. If this bunch lets down like that, Oregon will probably have lost one of the finest freshman football records in history here. We are inclined to be gloomy about the outlook this way.

In addition to his talk on city planning, Gardner will have a reel of motion pictures illustrating his points on city planning. While in the University, Gardner specialized in city planning and was an associate member of the Eugene City Planning commission. He was president of the Architectural club and of the Allied Arts league student body. He was a member of Theta Chi social fraternity and several other organizations.

Large Crowd of Alumni Greet Team on Arrival at Quarters in New Rochelle Club House

Kitzmilller, Christensen Among Group Welcoming Traveling Webfeet

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—(Special to Emerald from football special train.)—Arriving at their final destination last night at 7:30 o'clock, the Oregon football team moved into their quarters at the Travers' Island club house. Pulling in at the depot, situated 15 miles from New York, the train was met by a large group of Oregon alumni from that part of the country and Johnny Kitzmilller and George Christensen, ex-Oregon stars, playing pro football for the New York Giants this season.

Kitzmilller

All afternoon, during the short ride through Pennsylvania, the members of the squad were the guests of the railroad in the cab, and ringing bells, shoveling coal, manipulating levers, and locomotive in lieu of a work-out. Choppie Parke did his part of the coal heaving, prowling around on the "hurricane deck" of the locomotive, doing a little sight-seeing.

As yet, there has been no change in the Webfoot lineup as it started in North Dakota last week-end, although as today is early in the week, there is still time for Doc Spears to do any shifting that he undoubtedly will do. Tuesday, the team will work out twice, once for two hours in the morning and then again in the afternoon from 2 to 5, in order to get the long train ride out of their systems before Saturday.

In Minnesota, Mikulak found time to stop off during a car change and say hello to his family, and Erdley and Watts got off in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, to let their respective families know that they still had sons in college.

In New York, this early in the week, the weather is clear and brisk, good football weather, and with any kind of an even break the Webfeet will show plenty of stuff to the New York Violets.

The ending of the message from Dant ran as follows: "Game in North Dakota not so hot. Team didn't click when had chance to score. North Dakota plenty good but should have beat them. Telegrams before game were very beneficial. Players will greatly appreciate any word this week, also Emeralds."

International Relations Group Will Meet Tonight

Anyone interested in the International Relations group of Philomela, women's hobby organization, is urged to attend the short business meeting which the group will hold tonight at 9 o'clock in the recreation room of Susan Campbell hall. A president to take the place of Margaret Hunt, who did not return to school will be elected at this time.

The first meeting of the International Relations group was held last Wednesday, when Dr. John R. Mez, associate professor of political science and economy, gave an informal talk about obstacles to international peace. The group plans to hold a breakfast meeting a week from Sunday.

Mrs. Miller, Secretary of Art Course, Is Better

Friends of Mrs. J. M. Miller, secretary in the course in art appreciation, who has been ill the past week with pneumonia, were pleased to hear yesterday of her improved condition. Mrs. Miller will be confined to bed for some time yet, however.

Water Polo Tilts To Begin on Day After Tomorrow

THE intramural water polo tournament begins Thursday, October 29, at 4 p. m. Fourteen teams have been entered in the race for the water polo championship. They are Kappa Sigma, Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, Friendly hall, Omega hall, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Nu, Yeomen, Theta Chi, Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Pi, Chi Psi, and Sigma Chi. The Fijis are defending champion.

The Betas and Phi Deltas will be the teams to commence activities in the tournament on Thursday. Other matches scheduled for that day also are the ATO-Friendly hall and the Omega hall-Phi Psi tilts.

during the remainder of the season, as following the New York game they tangle with St. Mary's in their annual contest at Los Angeles. "Doc" Spears has been grooming his men all season for these two big games, and should have them at the peak of their strength when they go out to stop these potential champions.

Yeomen Complete List Of Officers at Meeting

The election of officers was completed by the Oregon Yeomen at its meeting last night. Lloyd Greene was elected secretary; Ethan Newman will act as treasurer; and Blayne Brewer will serve as sergeant-at-arms. Merlin Blais, president, and George Bennett, vice-president, were named at a previous meeting. Ingram Kjosness will head the group's athletic activities for the year. Kenneth Shumaker was named as faculty adviser for the club.

It was announced that Oregon Yeomen social membership cards will be issued before the end of the week, and they will be distributed by Robert O'Leary, Newman, Bennett, and Blais.

Bazzini's "Rondo de Lutins" will be played by Miss Brockman as the concluding number. Helene Robinson will accompany here.

Student recitals will be given every Tuesday evening for the rest of the term, and are open without charge to the students and public. A large crowd is expected tonight, due to the previous work of Miss Brockman on the campus and throughout the Northwest.

Oregon To Face Real Opposition In Coming Frays

N. Y. U. Defeats Colgate; Saint Marys Blasts Gonzaga Hopes

Two of Oregon's future opponents had great days last Saturday and emerged from closely played contests on the long end of the score. New York University, whom the Webfeet play this week-end in New York, took the measure of the strong Colgate eleven with a score of 10 to 0. The Colgate team up to that time had not lost a game and was considered a logical contender for the national title. This victory brings the Violets' total to five wins for the season and still leaves them undefeated.

Madigan

St. Marys Beats Gonzaga
St. Mary's, the only undefeated team on the coast, nosed out a hard fighting Gonzaga squad to win 13 to 7. The Bulldogs had a good day and gave "Slip" Madigan's boys a lot of fight, but the sturdy Gael attack was too much for them, and they weakened in the final period.

Opponents Are Strong
These two victories virtually put these two teams at the top of the heap in their respective sections of the country. Oregon has a chance to stop the onrush of each of these

Nodaks Hold Webfeet for Scoreless Tie

Temple Leads Oregon Scoring Threat

Webfeet's Forward Wall Shows Offensive Power Against Dakota

Oregon's first inter-sectional grid tilt of the eastern jaunt turned out to be one of the toughest games Oregon has struck in many a year, according to reports received from the team. For four quarters Spears' men and the heavy Nodaks battled to a scoreless tie.

Great defensive work on the part of the Webfeet flung the Richmond, Sioux fullback and the outstanding play of Felber, North Dakota's all-American bid for an end position, started for the hometowners. Mark Temple, sophomore half, was the main cog in the Duck running attack.

The Nodaks made seven first downs to Oregon's six, but the Ducks continually threatened the North Dakota goal. A blocked punt on the Nodak in the fourth period gave the Webfeet their greatest opportunity to score but two line plays and a pass failed to get the ball over the line.

Oregon Line Superior

Oregon's line consistently outwaged the heavier Sioux forward formation and opened large holes for Gee and Temple. An off-tackle slant, which proved effective against Idaho and Washington, was the best ground-gaining formation for the Ducks. Gee's punting featured the Oregon defensive work, mainly due to the manner in which the Duck line held.

Felber was the greatest obstacle to the Webfeet. Time and time again he threw Oregon backs for big losses behind the line and broke up Oregon's running plays by crashing up the interference.

Spears and his squad of 33 men left Grand Forks immediately after the game for New York City where they meet the New York university Violets next Saturday. The team will have several days in the "big city" in which to acclimate themselves and drill for the game. The next appearance of the Webfeet on Oregon ground will be November 14, against Oregon State.

Referee Winner In S.A.E.-Sigma Chi Grid Classic

Playing in a veritable ocean of mud, two great football machines fought furiously last Saturday night to a scoreless tie. Fighting desperately, every man giving everything he had, they ripped and tore in night attempts to get to the goal line but to no avail. It was a titanic struggle—especially on the part of the referee.

In other words the S. A. E. and Sigma Chi football feudists slid around on the mud of Hayward field between halves of the Frosh-Rook game long enough to enter the Dads and manage to cover themselves with mud as well as collect a few bruises. Some screwy refereeing on the part of Mickey Vail, the Sigma Chi's hired referee, wrecked the game as far as the teams were concerned, for they managed to hide the ball every time a play was started.

While there was no scoring, the S. A. E.'s gained a victory on one count—they had the droopiest uniforms. Parts of gorgeously-hued pajamas, that must have been stolen from some sorority, berets, turbans and house-slippers composed the outfits. Where they were obtained is a question of some delicacy; any person owning up as the former owner would need plenty of gall.

But still the fraternity grid feuds go on. The Sigma Nus are the latest to enter into the challenge-hurling. But the Sigma Chis still demand a regulation return game with the Sig Alphas. Quo Vadis, etc. More publicity hounds!

Yeomen, first; Bartle, S. A. E., second; Bale, S. A. E., third. Time, 0:29 3-5.
120-yard medley relay—Won by Yeomen. Time, 1:25.
60-yard individual medley—Won by Sears, Yeomen. Time, 0:47.
120-yard free style relay—Won by Yeomen. Time, 1:08 2-5.

Emerald Reporters Win Colonial Theater Passes

For the best news story and the greatest number of stories, three Emerald reporters were awarded passes to the Colonial theater, through the courtesy of the management, Jack Bellinger, news editor, announced yesterday.

For his story, "Spencer denies Press Statement," Julian Prescott, junior in political science, received the award for writing the best article in the Emerald.

Donald Fields, freshman in journalism, and Maximo Pulido, junior in journalism, tied for the most stories, each having eleven stories published in the student newspaper during the week.

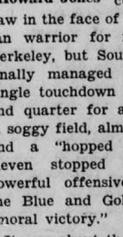

This contest will continue throughout the term as an incentive to members of the reportorial staff, Bellinger said.

U. of W. Ties Stanford Red; Trojans Win

Ingram's Men Put Up Game Fight

Montana Staves Off Cougar Attack Three Periods; Succumb in Fourth

Old Jupiter Phuvius played quite an important part in last Saturday's activities on the Pacific coast football front. His indiscreet handling of the rain can, while causing no change in the conference standings, was responsible for two startling upsets. California's Golden Bear cuffed a muddypaw in the face of the mighty Trojan warrior for four periods in Berkeley, but Southern California finally managed to put over a single touchdown late in the second quarter for a 6-to-0 victory. A soggy field, almost bald of turf, and a "hopped up" California eleven stopped Howard Jones' powerful offensive machine and the Blue and Gold won another "moral victory."

It was about the same story up in Seattle when the Washington Husky jumped his traces and tied up the invading Indians for an 0-to-0 tie. Pop Warner's deceptive passes and reverses were buried deep in the quagmire while Washington bungled an almost sure chance to score and wipe Stanford from the league race. Even so, a great deal of the Cards' prestige faded before the comeback of Phelan's men.

Little Montana came through with surprising resistance to the Washington State attack and the Cougars had to rest content with a 13-to-0 verdict to round out the conference games for the week.
