

Journalist Hop Scheduled For November 13

Blais Has Charge of All Campus Affairs

Annual Jamboree Follows Homecoming Parade; To Be Informal

Plans for the New 1931 Edition of the Journalism Jam began to smoulder yesterday when the committees for the big dance were announced by Merlin Blais, general chairman. Friday, November 13, is the date, so that with just two weeks to prepare for what is probably the biggest hop of the year outside of the year-outside dances, the various working groups will have to swing into action immediately. The jam is being sponsored jointly by Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, journalism honoraries.

The following appointments have been made by Blais to assist him with preparations for the annual event.

Ted Montgomery was named assistant general chairman, and Alice Cook secretary. Chairman of programs committee will be Eleanor Jane Ballantyne, while decorations and floor will be handled by Jay Sehorn. Betty Anne Macduff will manage the features of the evening.

The concessions committee will be headed by Willetta Hartley, cleanup by Carl Webb, and publicity by Roy Sheedy.

Blais, aside from being general chairman, will also have charge of music, and Montgomery will handle finances.

To Be Informal

"The dance is to be an all-campus, no-date affair and will not be a costume dance as in previous years," Blais said. "It will be informal, with rally clothes in order."

The place at which the dance is to be held will be announced at a later date, he stated.

A meeting of all committee heads has been called by Blais for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in room 104, Journalism.

Thespians To Give Party At Gerlinger Saturday

Thespians, freshman women's service honorary, will give a Halloween party Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the sun room of Gerlinger hall. All freshman women are invited to attend.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the party is composed of Charlotte Eldridge, chairman; Jean Starr and Marie Saccomanno, in charge of all publicity. Decorations will carry out the Halloween idea with orange and black candies, confetti, and other similar schemes. The program will consist of several songs by Miss Saccomanno and Lucille Cummings. Lucy Wendell will give a tap dance.

Eugene Has Also Had Whale Visitors In Past, Hodge Says

People of Portland have been stirred up over presence of a whale in the mud flats opposite the mouth of the Willamette river. According to Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, professor of geology, this is not the first time a whale has made such a long journey from his natural playground to visit the fair state of Oregon.

"About 20 years ago," said Professor Hodge, "a prominent citizen of Florence, finding a large whale about 30 feet long, decided that it would be a patriotic move to present the whale to the University of Oregon. This he did; whale, blubber, and all. While the usual climate prevailed at Eugene, it was not at that time as moist as the ocean. The effects of Eugene climate were not beneficial to the whale, in fact he rapidly deteriorated. Neither the University nor

Last Chance For Upperclass Hop Tickets Offered

A LAST reminder to unaffiliated students to secure tickets for the first annual Junior-Senior dance from John Panton, at the Theta Chi house, or Ned Kinney at the Sigma Chi house, was issued last night by Ferd Fletcher and Gordon Day, general chairmen for the upperclass informal. The dance will be held Saturday night at Coconut Grove.

Houses may make table reservations for the dance through Cecil Espy at the Sigma Chi house, it is announced.

Large Collection Oregon Birds on Display in Deady

An ornithological collection on display on the upper floor of Deady hall includes representatives of nearly all types of birds found in this section of the Northwest. This collection is the result of the work of University of Oregon bird collectors of past years and the gifts of outside individuals to the school. Several groups have been donated in past years by Dr. A. G. Prill of Scio, Oregon.

The collection includes specimens of the Raptorial birds of prey, various species of hawks and owls, as well as two golden eagles.

Water fowl and shore birds are also well represented in the group, there being many species of ducks, a swan, geese, and numerous plovers and snipe. Several mountings of gulls are also included in the collection.

Upland game birds are also included, there being specimens of grouse, doves, quail, pheasants and songbirds and non-song birds.

The nests and eggs of many species of birds are also a part of the collection.

Y. W. C. A. Upperclass Commission Named

Announcement of the cabinet members of the newly-formed Y. W. C. A. Upperclass commission was made Wednesday by Virginia Hartje, president. They are: program chairman, Dorothy Morgan; social chairman, Evangeline Miller; project chairman, Emma Belle Stadden; and personnel chairman, Gwen Elsemore.

About 50 active members attended the first meeting of this commission held last Tuesday, at which time the new officers were introduced. Helen Binford entertained the group with an account of her experiences abroad this summer.

Wesley Foundation Will Give Hallowe'en Party

A Hallowe'en barn party will be sponsored by the Wesley Foundation Friday evening for all students who desire to attend, it is announced by Thelma Shuey, social chairman. Lloyd Brown is assisting with arrangements.

Those attending are asked to meet at the First Methodist church, 12th and A Street, at 8 o'clock in the evening, and to wear campus clothes.

Philomelete Group Will Discuss Indian Poetess

The life and work of Sarojini Naidu, poetess of India, will be discussed at the meeting of Prose and Poetry group of Philomelete tonight at the Kappa Delta house from 9 to 10.

Of Mrs. Naidu, Edmund Gosse says, "She springs from the very soil of India; her spirit, although it employs the English language as its vehicle, has no other tie with the West." Miss Margaret Pollitt, president of the group, will read selections from "The Bird of Time" and "The Broken Wing," as well as giving a brief sketch of the life of the Indian poetess. All women interested are invited.

Sigma Delta Chi Names 9 Pledges For Coming Year

Prominent Students Bid National Journalism Honorary Group

The Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, international journalism fraternity, yesterday announced the pledging of nine men. Those wearing the limotype slugs which designate them as pledges of the fraternity are: Walter Baker, Edgar Goodnough, Sterling Green, Oscar Munger, Jack Bellingier, Estill Phipps, Jay Sehorn, Carl Webb, and William Puustinen.

Walt Baker, Portland, is a senior in business administration and is sports editor on the Emerald this year. Bellingier, Lebanon, junior in journalism, was an Emerald reporter in 1929-30 and in '30-31. He is at present news editor of the Emerald, editor of the Wesley Pioneer and editor of the R. O. T. C. section in this year's Oregonian. Carl Webb is editor of the Law section of the yearbook.

Edgar Goodnough is a third-year man in the school of journalism and in 1929-30 and '30-31 he was on the sports staff of the Emerald. He is sports editor of the Oregonian this year.

Sterling Green, Portland, is listed as a sophomore in journalism. In 1929-30 he was a reporter on the Emerald and is this year day editor on that paper. He is also editor of the Law section of the Oregonian.

Oscar Munger, Fossil, has been in the school of journalism three years. He spent two years reporting on the Emerald, and is at present a day editor. William Puustinen, Astoria, is a senior in the school but has not been connected with the Emerald. He writes regularly for a number of trade publications. Jay Sehorn, Willows, California, is a transfer from Sacramento Junior college.

Penland Predicts Success of Plans For Homecoming

Lyle Tells of Progress on Campus Luncheon; Interest Large

Plans for the 1931 Homecoming are going forward with incredible speed and a check up with Jeannette Calkins, Alumni secretary, has revealed the largest number of letters asking for particulars on the week-end from grads, John Penland, directorate chairman, announced last night. Also the graduate manager's office has reported an unusually heavy advance sale on tickets for the game.

All rooms in the Eugene hotel have been reserved in advance for six weeks and those in the Osburn for two weeks, the managers announced yesterday. Carolyn Haberlach, in charge of welcoming and accommodations, is directing the securing of extra rooms in private homes and boarding houses and has announced that all students who have friends or parents coming to the game and have not as yet secured a place for them to stay can do so by getting in touch with her.

Luncheon Planned

Alexis Lyle, in charge of the Homecoming luncheon, has announced that several food vending concerns are bidding for the job of supplying the food for the luncheon and that the name of the company selected will be announced in the near future. "We are arranging the tables differently and are organizing the help so that we can serve the people with even greater efficiency and speed than has been done in the past," she said. "We are also planning on having a superior brand of food this year."

Plans and civic organizations for the decoration of the business section are taking definite form and promise to be the most elaborate and lavish in years, Roger Bayley, (Continued on Page Two)

Wires To Cheer Ducks Must Go To Astor Friday

ALL those wishing to wire Oregon's wandering football team messages of cheer, should send these telegrams in care of Hugh Rosson, at the Astor hotel, New York City.

On account of the change in time between here and the Atlantic coast, all messages should be sent Friday night before 1 o'clock in order to reach the team on the field.

Doughnuts Flood Oregon Campus As Selling Starts

Sinker Sale Hits Stride As Second Day of Drive Opens

"Buy a doughnut? Just think, you get two for only a nickel. They're really awfully good. Thanks!"

This was the general war-cry heard over the campus yesterday when the Y. W. C. A. put on its Oregon Doughnut Day, under the chairmanship of Nancy Suomela. Eating and dunking doughnuts was the rage, and more than one face was covered with powdered sugar as its owner devoured a sinker.

The reports last night showed that 275 dozen were sold on the campus yesterday, bringing the total up to 570 dozen for campus sales and living organizations. The sale will continue among the townspeople today and Friday, and it is expected to reach the goal of 1000 dozen by Friday night.

"Thanks to the weather and the apparent fondness of the students to dunk doughnuts, the sale yesterday was a big success," Miss Suomela said. "I wish to express my thanks to everyone that is working in conjunction with us. They have all worked hard and cooperated wonderfully."

Gilbert Discusses Single Tax Before Local Lions' Club

Address Is Second on Pro And Con of System; Both Sides Cited

As the second discussion on the single tax, Dean James H. Gilbert spoke yesterday before the Eugene Lions' club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting. His talk last week presented the advantages of the single tax system. This week he explained its disadvantages.

"Contrary to the benefit claimed by supporters of the single tax, it will not solve the labor problem," Dean Gilbert stated. "The taxer exaggerates the extent to which the demand for labor will be stimulated by this change in the form of taxation."

"Furthermore," the speaker stated, "the revenue, intended to meet local, state, and national expenses, would be decidedly insufficient even to cover the needs of local government alone."

"The single tax program would be hard to apply in practice, because of the difficulty of distinguishing between the bounty of nature and the industry of man as factors determining the value and income from real estate," Dean Gilbert said.

He then explained the chief objection to the single tax as ethical. "It would confiscate the value of property and land honestly acquired by some persons and entirely relieve from taxation others who ought to share the burden."

Suspension Is Penalty For Unpaid Course Fees

Suspension from the University is the penalty to be imposed upon any students who have not paid their course fees by noon on Saturday, October 31, the registrar's office announced Wednesday. Late payment fees are being demanded this week from over 100 students who failed to pay their fees between October 14-24.

Cut In Budget Makes Closed Library Fact

Few Use Reserve Books Friday or Saturday

Opinions of Students To Be Presented by Onthank, Says Minnaugh

Drastic Reductions in the budgets of all departments of the University necessitated the closing of the libraries at 6 o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights, it was explained yesterday by Matthew H. Douglass, University librarian.

Preparations were being made yesterday by Brian Minnaugh, president of the associated students, to place before the administration through Dean Karl Onthank, statements of the opinion of students on the matter.

Budget Cut Large

Mr. Douglass pointed out that $25,000 had been cut from the library budget for the year and that nearly one-third of this had to come out of operating expenses. Payroll reductions amounted to $4500 in the regular staff and $3000 in the student staff for the whole year. Operating expenses such as light and heat are handled under the building and grounds account.

"We cut as much as possible from the book, periodical, and supply budget items before we touched the operating expenses," he explained. "As a last item, we shortened the number of hours the library would be open, in cutting the operating expenses."

Friday Load Light

In making the selection as to whether to close on Friday, Saturday or Sunday nights, it was found, from figures of last year, that the load on Friday night was the lightest. The number of students using the library on Sunday afternoon and night was considerably heavier than on Friday or Saturday nights. At this point, Mr. Douglass pointed out that while only a few students used the library on Friday night, they were exceptionally earnest students and should be given every consideration possible.

The cost of operating the three reserve libraries, business administration, Condon and English, for the remaining Friday nights of the school year would be $96 for help. This does not include the Friday nights of two closed week-ends just before final examinations, as it was planned to keep the libraries open on these nights.

'Industrial Democracy' Topic of Congress Club

'Prohibition' Will Be Discussed at Next Meeting

"Maladjustment between the factors of production would be partially removed by closer contact between the worker and the ownership of industries," said Ted Pursley in his introductory speech to the Congress club last night on "Industrial Democracy."

The modern laborer has practically no realization of his relation to the consumer of the products he makes. If he had a part in governing the production of these articles and shared in the profits of the industry, the unemployment and great inequalities of wealth that characterize the present system would tend to be reduced, it was pointed out.

That apparent democracy is not real democracy in industry or politics, was an opposing argument offered by George Bennett, sophomore in economics, in the general discussion which followed the introductory speech.

Pursley, who is a freshman in law, was admitted to the club as a member, having fulfilled the requirements by presence at three meetings and presenting a topic for discussion.

"Prohibition" will be debated at the club's next meeting, Wednesday. John Pennington and Ed Reames, both sophomores in law, will present opposite sides of the question.

THREE NEW PATIENTS

There are three new patients in the infirmary, Litton Bivans, Robert Dodge, and Alfred Wolfe. Thomas Tongue, Harry Elde, Catherine McEntee, and Katherine Dunbar are also ill.

Stop, Look, Buy! Auction Offers Good Investment

AUCTION! Auction! Auction! Don't let the depression depress you. Name your price and pick the article on the Library steps Friday. "Step right up, folks—Who's the highest bidder for the handsome leather bound notebook, never been opened. And now we're offering only slightly used text books, jewelry that will make you as glamorous as any movie star, and gloves especially adapted to handshaking. Don't be all wet this season. Invest in our long line of slickers built for the Oregon mist. Positively everything must go—drastic reductions! Going, Going, Gone! The little lady on my left wins the kewpie doll."

Disappearance of Kitten Blamed On Zoology Students

She came to Friendly hall one dark night, did this kitten, in the prime of adolescent cathood, with a full and promising life of midnight serenades before her. And her plaintive mew, and coat of velvety blackness so affected the (kindly?) lads of the hall that she was granted welcome admittance.

For two days her abode was Friendly hall and during the time she was well fed. (Later it was rumored that this feeding was simply a fattening process preparatory for the slaughter.) And then on the third day she disappeared, vanished.

Her disappearance to many of the boys was not the disquieting fact, but instead was their knowledge of the demand that exists among certain zoology students for prime, well-fed cats, or maybe even a choice kitten, for sad is the lot of the feline that falls into the hands of said students.

In all likelihood the cat will give up its life in the interest of science.

Haberlach Announces WAA Membership Drive

The Women's Athletic association will conduct a membership drive during the remainder of this week until next Tuesday, according to an announcement by Frances Haberlach, president of the organization.

W. A. A. representatives have been appointed in all houses. Girls possessing 75 points or over earned in intramural sports and who are eligible for membership, may sign up with them.

Independent women desiring to join W. A. A. may do so by getting in touch with Carolyn Hollingsworth, 2127-W, chairman of the drive, or Frances Haberlach, 1780.

Night Watchman Conkey Passes Away Tuesday

H. H. Conkey, relief night watchman on the Oregon campus, passed away Tuesday night, according to George E. M. York, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Mr. Conkey was employed as a grounds man for several years and was just recently transferred to relief night watch.

Bonfire Still In, Say Frosh At Mass Meeting

Oregon's Grand Old Man Favors Compromise

Mimnaugh, Penland Tell Views on Result of Yearling Vote

The Homecoming bonfire is still one of Oregon's traditions!

At a meeting of the freshman class last night a unanimous vote was cast in favor of the bonfire.

Dean John Straub, the "grand old man of Oregon," made his first appearance of the year before students of the University, and was given a rousing ovation.

"I do not want you to discontinue the bonfire," said Dean Straub. "I realize that for sixteen years this has been symbolic of Oregon spirit. However, I do want to see some move taken by the freshman class to aid the poor in our city."

Dean Straub suggested that the freshman class sponsor a series of informal dances during the later part of this term, the proceeds of which would be turned over to the Salvation Army in order that the strained conditions which exist in certain sections of the city may be relieved.

The suggestion was accepted wholeheartedly by the class. Howard Steib, president of the class, expressed appreciation to Dean Straub for his never-failing interest in the students of the University and the freshman class in particular.

Brian Minnaugh, president of the associated students, when apprised of the outcome of the meeting, said:

"I am very much interested in the freshmen's decision to maintain this tradition. It is the only chance which is given the freshman class to prove its worth to the University. Undoubtedly a function of this kind tends to unite the class into a smoothly working body."

John Penland, chairman of the Homecoming directorate, was very enthusiastic upon learning that the tradition was to continue.

"I know that the homecoming alumni will be glad to see that the traditions which they have established are to be carried on. The bonfire is one of Oregon's best traditions and I am exceedingly glad that it is to be continued," he said.

Discussions Sponsored By Wesley Foundation

A series of discussions on "The Meaning of Worship" are being sponsored by the Wesley Foundation this term under the leadership of Rev. Cecil F. Ristow, new pastor of the First Methodist church, it is announced by Donald Saunders, devotions chairman of the organization.

The series is being held at the apartment of Miss Dorothy A. Nyland, director of the Wesley Foundation, 613 E. 11th avenue. The meetings are open to all students interested. Mr. Ristow, who is a graduate of Northwestern university, came to be pastor of the local church at the beginning of fall term, succeeding Dr. Roy Leslie Smith.
