

1932 Concert Series Opens With Violinist Georges Enesco To Play Here January 10

Five Programs To Include Portland Symphony, Kedroff Quartet

A. S. U. O. CONCERTS FOR 1931-1932

Jan. 10, Georges Enesco, violinist.
Jan. 24, Eugene Gleemen.
Feb. 14, Kedroff Male Quartet.
March 6, Portland Symphony orchestra.
March 20 (tentative), University Symphony Orchestra.

Five concerts, to be given on Sunday afternoons during January, February, and March, comprise this year's A. S. U. O. concert series, Ronald Robnett, assistant graduate manager announced last night, after the A. S. U. O. executive council had approved the selections of the music committee.

All concerts will be given in McArthur court. Students will be admitted free on presentation of student body cards. Because of insistent demand, the concerts were scheduled for Sunday afternoons, since last year several concerts conflicted with University examinations held the following day.

Because of the crowded fall term social calendar, Robnett said, the first of the concerts will not be given until after winter vacation. Student conveniences determined the time of the concerts, since student money largely supports them.

Georges Enesco, Roumanian violin virtuoso and internationally famous musician, will open the series on January 10. Enesco played on the campus in 1927, and electrified music lovers with that concert. This is the first time since 1927 that he has been available for a return appearance on the campus.

The second concert will be given January 24, with the appearance of one of the finest male choruses in the West—the Eugene Gleemen. Consistent demand for their engagement on the A. S. U. O. concert series has been made to Robnett's office. It will be the first time that students have had the opportunity of hearing them at low prices.

The world-famed Kedroff quartet, on their farewell tour, will sing at the Igloo February 14. Acknowledged by every music authority as the finest male quartet in the world, the Kedroff group will sing here after their Portland engagement. Last year they sang at Stanford and the University of Washington, and were applauded thunderously by the students of those schools.

The traditional appearance of the Portland Symphony orchestra will come on March 6. Their concert last February was the high spot of the musical year, and a repetition of that success is anticipated by the music committee, of which Wally Baker is chairman.

The final concert will present, as in other years, the University Symphony orchestra. Rex Underwood, director of this student activity, has brought the University orchestra to a high degree of artistry, and a growing demand to keep them on the concert schedule has been made.

That the University orchestra is worthy of its place by the side of the Portland Symphony, under Willem van Hoogstraten's baton, is the opinion of many in Eugene, and the great conductor, during his last visit in Eugene, confirmed that opinion when he characterized Rex Underwood's musicians as "undoubtedly one of the finest college or university music organizations in the country today."

The date of the University Symphony orchestra concert has not yet been settled definitely, but will probably be late in March.

Lectures Given at Church By University Professors

The last of a series of lectures on the subject, "How an educated man finds God through the world," which was sponsored by the Central Presbyterian church of Eugene, was given last Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock by Dr. Samuel H. Jameson of the sociology department. Professor Jameson spoke on what he termed, "a discovery via social realities."

Professors A. E. Caswell of the physics department and Warren D. Smith of the geology department were two other prominent members of the faculty who gave lectures in the series.

Charge-O-Meter Tests Linemen's Driving Power

Dummy Made by Spaulding Registers Each Player's Charging Strength

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—Football players usually fight shy of the heavy bone-bruising charging sled, that grand old conditioner of linemen and blocking halfbacks, but W. H. "Bill" Spaulding, head coach of football at the University of California at Los Angeles, believes that he has perfected a machine that will solve the problem of making charging work-outs a matter of competition. The new type sled is said to do all that the conventional juggernaut did to harden muscle and prevent brittleness, and in addition give the coaching staff an accurate measure in selecting squad candidates.

Spaulding, who has perfected a machine that will solve the problem of making charging work-outs a matter of competition. The new type sled is said to do all that the conventional juggernaut did to harden muscle and prevent brittleness, and in addition give the coaching staff an accurate measure in selecting squad candidates. The "Charge-O-Meter," which Spaulding perfected this year after 24 seasons as a coach, is modeled after the customary sled, but adds several improved and patented features. Each dummy, of which there are seven representing opposing linemen, is padded with a pneumatic cushion and connected with a plunger attached to a spring capable of resisting 1000 pounds pressure. Each dummy has its own indicator which registers the amount of shock thrown against it.

Provided with a machine that will accurately register the charging strength of each man, Bruin players have displayed a great competitive spirit in outcharging their teammates, with the result, according to Spaulding, that the squad as a whole is already stronger and better "shock-hardened" in shoulders and legs than it has ever been before.

In addition to its value as a conditioner, the 1000 pound machine will enable the coaching staff to gauge accurately the leg drive of team candidates and to assist them in working out improvements.

Getlow Kalberg Teaches At Pierre, South Dakota

According to a letter received by Dr. John T. Ganoe, associate professor of history, Getlow Kalberg, who graduated last June is now employed by the U. S. Department of Interior, as a teacher in a junior high school for Indian children at Pierre, South Dakota. Miss Kalberg, who majored in history passed the civil service examination which she took last spring. Early this summer she was notified by the federal government to fill the teaching job in the Indian school.

In her letter, Miss Kalberg says that the school has an enrollment of 350 children. She finds her work interesting and speaks of her pupils as "unusually shy."

TALKIE TOPICS

McDonald—"Guilty Hands," with Lionel Barrymore and Kay Francis; showing for the last time today.

Heilig—"The Gay Diplomat," with Ivan Lebedeff; showing till Friday.

Colonial—"Lawyer's Secret," starring Clive Brook and Richard Arlen; showing for the last time today.

State—"Raffles," with Ronald Colman and Kay Francis; showing Thursday and Friday.

By RALPH MASON

Ivan Lebedeff at Heilig
Ivan Lebedeff, who appears in his first starring picture, "The Gay Diplomat," bids fair to become one of the most popular actors of the screen—that is, with the women. Lebedeff's handsome features photograph well, and his slightly accented voice is reproduced with unusual clearness.

"The Gay Diplomat" casts Lebedeff in the role of an army officer whose duty is to discover the identity of an enemy spy. The mission proves a dangerous one, beautiful women beset him at every hand and enemy bullets whine eagerly for him. Lebedeff handles his part well; he is unquestionably a lady's man, but he can also deal with men on occasions.

Supporting Lebedeff are Genevieve Tobin and Betty Compson, who play their parts charmingly. The scene is laid in St. Petersburg, the mysterious city teeming with secret service operatives and filled with beautiful women. The plot moves rapidly and there are few moments when something is not happening.

Law Staff Names Editors of Review For Coming Year

William Kuykendall To Be Chief; Howard Green Business Manager

William Kuykendall has been named student editor-in-chief of the Oregon Law Review, it was announced Monday by Dr. Charles G. Howard, editor-in-chief. The first issue of the Review for this year will be published on December 15.

Other members of the student staff will be Howard Green, business manager; Roy L. Herndon, note and comment editor; Joe McKeown, recent case editor, and Francis Shimanek, book review and statute editor.

In addition to 24 lawyers of the Oregon bar who are to act as associate editors, the following students will serve in that capacity: William East, William Knight, Thomas Chave Jr., Delmas Richmond, Malcolm Wilkinson, and Avery Thompson.

Readers To Learn Names Of Emerald Advertisers

List Will Be Posted on House Bulletin Boards

A campaign to bring readers of the Emerald in closer contact with Eugene merchants advertising in it was announced yesterday by Dick Goebel, promotional manager on the Emerald business staff.

A classified list of all local advertisers has been prepared, and will be sent out to all living organization managers this week. They will be requested, Goebel said, to put these lists on the house bulletin boards.

The campaign is being organized under the newly-created market service department of the Emerald, managed by Dick Goebel. The purpose of this department is to aid both foreign and local advertisers with surveys and statistical matter pertaining to results of their advertising.

One of these surveys has already been made, Goebel said, in connection with the advertisements of ice cream manufacturers. All houses on the campus were contacted and statistical information gathered as to where and what brands house managers were buying. The results were sent to the ice cream firms. This is the type of work the department is expecting to do in the future, Goebel explained.

"As several thousands of dollars surplus from the Emerald advertising activities are turned over annually to the student body fund," Goebel pointed out, "every student should feel it in his interest as to what merchants he buys from."

Ivan Lebedeff and Genevieve Tobin in "Gay Diplomat," showing at Heilig till Friday.

Clive Brook at Colonial

"The Lawyer's Secret," with an all-star cast composed of Clive Brook, Richard Arlen, Charles Rogers and Fay Wray, is showing at the Colonial for the last time today.

"Sit Tight," with Joe E. Brown, is coming Friday.

"Guilty Hands" at McDonald

"Guilty Hands," starring Lionel Barrymore and Kay Francis, is a mystery picture with unusual treatment. One of the leads plays most of his part, believe it or not, as a corpse.

"The Spider," with Edmund Lowe and Lois Moran, is coming to the McDonald tomorrow and Saturday.

"Raffles" at State

Ronald Colman and Kay Francis are starring in "Raffles," thrilling picture of a man who couldn't be straight till—. Showing today and Friday.

Formal Tea on Saturday Phi Chi Theta To Give

Phi Chi Theta, women's national commerce honorary, met last night at 106 Commerce to complete plans for a formal tea to be given at Alumni hall next Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The chairman of the various committees gave their reports to the meeting, Verna Smolinsky, invitations, Margaret Walstrom, serving, and Lara Webb, decorations, after a discussion of programs for future meetings the group adjourned.

Dr. Bossing Leaves To Attend Two Conferences

Dr. N. L. Bossing of the education department will leave this afternoon to attend the Pacific Northwest Y. M. C. A. field council meeting in Portland on Friday, and the Pacific Northwest Student-Faculty conference at Government

Camp hotel, Mount Hood on Sunday and Monday.

The Student-Faculty conference, according to Dr. Bossing, who will have charge of one of the discussion groups, is planned for the purpose of carrying forward processes begun at the National Student-Faculty conference held in Detroit last December. The entire program will be informal.

"Since I lent him my pen it has never been the same!"

Often said, but NOT of Parker Duofold

Don't make yourself unpopular by borrowing students' pens. Unless the pen is a Parker Duofold, your hand is apt to foul the point, or change its action. Don't expose yourself.

Stop at the nearest pen counter and pick the Parker Duofold that fits your hand to a "T." You'll be prepared then for any emergency—even for lending—graciously.

For no style of writing can foul, or alter Parker's miracle Duofold point. Still it writes as easily as you breathe —with amazing Pressureless Touch!

And even the Parker Duofolds at $5 have 22% to 69% more ink capacity than some pens of other makes priced 50% higher. Yet none has Parker's stylish, balanced, streamlined design—"America's Shape-liest"—or Parker's Invisible Filler, or Patented Clip that lets the pen set low and unexposed in the pocket.

The only guarantee you'll need for life is the name on the barrel—"Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD."
