Beery at Hellig
One of those exciting, red-blooded action stories, which were so much a part of the silent era, but which unfortunately were relegated to the background while drawing room talkie dramas held sway, is showing at the Hellig for the last time today.

story of a young and able seaman and the beautiful daughter of the cruel old Yankee skipper will move you.

Walter Huston at State

"Shanghai Love" has an all-star cast including Norman Springer, Richard Cromwell, Noah Beery, and Sally Blane. For honest-to-goodness adventure, it has them all stopped. Battles with the angry sea, mutiny, a fist fight, and a battle of emotions, all contribute to making "Shanghai Love," as tempestuous as the sea itself. This saga of life on a vessel that was known as the "Hell Ship" will set your blood tingling, while the love

D. W. Griffith's spectacular production, "Abraham Lincoln," which is showing for the last time today at the State, is more than the mere marshalling of interesting facts into a pattern work of sympathetic romance and vivid drama; it is the life of Lincoln, not merely the saint of the copy books, nor yet the Lincoln of lusty jokes and tragic moods, but the man of destiny, the mystic and the prophet. It is impossible to point the fin-

Oriental Women Likened to Cows By Lucille E. Day

Student Mission Secretary Speaks Last Night In Gerlinger

Lucille E. Day, traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, emphasized the low status of women in the Orient and how the missionaries in China, India, and Turkey are doing things to overcome the situation, in her address, "What Christianity Can Do for the Orient," last night in Alumni hall.

Women are the property of their husbands just as cows are, Miss Day pointed out. Their place in the household is no better than that of a servant, and in most cases the men do not trust their wives as much as they do the servants.

Men Do Marketing

The men do the marketing and send the purchases home by servants, Miss Day told in way of illustration.

In many instances the women in the Oriental countries try to kill their daughters because they know that death is better than the life of drudgery that they have to live.

The missionaries in that country are improving these situations through education, which formerly the women were not allowed to enjoy. Higher standards of living are being taught to the people of these countries, Miss Day continued. Monogamy is being introduced in place of the former custom of polygamy.

The missionaries are trying to dispel the fear these people hold in the natural forces such as rain, rivers, and the sun-god. They meet this with teaching scientific farming.

Nationalism Strong

A strong feeling of nationalism is noted in all of these countries, Miss Day said. The Christian missionaries are teaching that one nation should consider itself a member of a family of nations. In this respect they are being helped by the leaders in the countries that are Christians. Gandhi was mentioned as one belonging to this class.

Students who heard the address and any others who are interested may learn more about the missionary field by attending the round-table discussion which is being held in the women's lounge in Gerlinger hall this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Personal interviews may be scheduled with Miss Day through Margaret Edmondson, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

Miss Day is traveling on the Pacific coast visiting the different colleges and universities. Her visit on the Oregon campus is being sponsored by the Student Christian council.

NO, the geology department hasn't gone "House of David," nor have "Calcite" Cliff and "Pyrite" Peck lost their razors. It's just the initiation requirements of the Condon club, geology honorary. The fall term pledges, Fred Cliff, Norman Gonzales, Quinton Harris, Francis Peck, and Howard Stafford, are required to present the appearance of a "Forty-Niner," hence the hirsute adornments.

All the initiates will also have to dress their best (or worst) as an old-time trapper or prospector on Friday the 13th of next month as one of the requisites for membership in the club.

Gamma Alpha Chi Names Six Women on Pledge List

Six students active in journalism and advertising were pledged to Gamma Alpha Chi, women's national advertising honorary, it was announced yesterday.

Those pledged are Caroline Card, sophomore, an Emerald reporter; Dorothy Cunningham, sophomore in commercial art; Helen Evans, senior, president of Phi Theta Upsilon, upperclass service honorary for women, and now doing direct mail advertising for the Valley Printing company; Caroline Hahn, sophomore on Emerald advertising staff; Velma Hamilton, sophomore in journalism; and Mary Lou Patrick, sophomore in journalism.

EMERALD of The... AIR

Eugene Pearson, baritone, will be featured on this week's Music day program when he presents 15 minutes of singing over KORE during this afternoon's Emerald of the Air, regularly scheduled for 4:15. Pearson was presented in recital Tuesday evening, and his presentation was acclaimed as one of the best given on the campus recently. Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea," made popular by Lawrence Tibbett, and one of Pearson's most successful numbers, will be repeated during his broadcast today. "Trade Winds," a number associated with the singing of Mark Danlies, has also found a place on his list of selections.

Pearson is a member of the first polyphonic choir, and the men's polyphonic chorus, as well as lesser musical groups.

Barnett Explains Results of Recent National Election

Whether the Democrats had a majority in the House of Representatives of Congress or not, it wouldn't be hard for them to dominate the house because there are a number of Republican insurgents who would line themselves up with the Bourbons, according to Dr. James D. Barnett, chairman of the department of political science of the University.

The Republican insurgents have been clamoring for a liberalization of the house rules in various ways, and Dr. Barnett predicts that such a change will be effected now that the Democrats have a majority in the House of Representatives.

Dr. Barnett pointed out that the three ranking positions in the house, namely the speakership, that of the floor leader, and chairmanship in the committee on rules will be filled by Democrats. It is also likely that Representative Hawley of Oregon, co-author of the Smoot-Hawley Tariff law, who is at present chairman of the committee of ways and means, will also be replaced.

As Representative Garner has been for so long a time floor leader of the Democrats in the house, Dr. Barnett thinks that he is the most logical one to be elected speaker of the house should the Bourbons succeed in electing their own man this time.

Joint Picnic Announced For Two Wesley Groups

A hike to the top of Spencer's butte on Wednesday, November 11 is planned for the Corvallis Wesley foundation and the local group, Thelma Suey, chairman of the social committee, announced yesterday.

A sunset vespers service at the top of the butte and a picnic lunch are the plans being made by the committee.

Word has been received that 25 of the Corvallis group have already signified their intentions of coming to Eugene for the Armistice day hike, Dorothy Nyland, Wesley foundation director said. However, a larger delegation is expected when the hikers arrive.

New musical jars at $6.00, and small powder boxes for $1.00! Combination cigarette-and-powder boxes are clever—at only $1.25.

Food from Home?

How everyone loves it! It's so good—especially with a cup of the Jasmine tea that they have at McMorran's. It's imported from China in tins and baskets, and has a delicious, spicy flavor. And would you like a dainty to go with it? Try their sliced ginger. "Sue" declares it completes the perfect tea-party! You'll find these imported delicacies at McMorran's candy counter—where you get your cigarettes.

Letters Home--

Can be good-looking as well as practical. The Oregon Pharmacy can supply you. They have heavy Bond paper—and at such reasonable prices! There's 72 sheets and 50 envelopes for 89 cents. Do you like to write on the small-sized note paper? You'll find it, in the same good grade of paper—96 sheets with 25 envelopes for 69 cents. Stop in at the Pharmacy on your way down Thirteenth and see these for yourself. You'll like them!

Another Scotch Story

It's a fact. All Scotchmen grow homesick when they see the new robes in reversible Scotch plaids at the Broadway, Inc., 30 East Broadway. You'll know the reason, girls, when you see these values at $4.95 and $7.95! Your boy friend or Dad will want you to have one for the Homecoming game. Just the thing to use afterwards on your day-bed or in the rumble seat, and in soft warm colors to blend with your outfit, room, and car!
