

Plans Nearing Completion To Greet Alumni

Mathews Lists Plans for Rally Tomorrow Night

Merchants Cooperate To Put Town in Gala Attire For Homecoming

Plans for the hugest Homecoming celebration in the history of the University of Oregon are practically completed, according to John Penland, of Pendleton, chairman of the event.

Pajamas of all colors, sizes and patterns will be the order of the evening for the serpentine Friday night which will form on Alder

Carson Mathews between Eleventh and Thirteenth at 5:30 for the trek down town, Carson Mathews, rally chairman, revealed.

This year, he announced, a new feature will be added by allowing the co-eds to march also, and urged that every Oregon woman don her low-heeled shoes and prepare to hike along with the rest.

In order that the rally may form at this time, all organizations will hold 5 o'clock dinners. He later added that pajama garb would apply only to men and to the band, the co-eds being excused from this mode of dress.

Prizes To Be Given

Instead of the usual one prize to be given for the noise parade, which will immediately follow the down-town rally, Mathews stated that two cups are to be awarded.

Roger Bailey, in charge of campus decorations, said that the decorations, more lavish than ever before, would be put up today. This year, instead of the one arch, there will be four arches across Thirteenth street. The rest of the decorations will consist of banners, streamers, pennants and posters.

George Kotchik and Larry Fischer, who are in charge of the Homecoming sign contest, have announced that all budgets must be in by noon tomorrow, and that all ideas and motifs must be in at noon today.

Town Decorations Good

From all indications, Penland said, the down-town decorations will be the best in recent years. Students from the campus will be on hand tomorrow to help with the down-town decorating, which is being directed by one of the force of the Buster Brown Shoe company.

Registration Prize Offered

Elizabeth Scruggs, who is in charge of the registration for the alumni, has announced a $5 prize to the representative of any living organization who succeeds in bringing the largest number of alumni to the Ad building to register. Representatives of the following organizations are to meet with her at 4 p. m. today in 110 Johnson:

Colored Lights To Feature At Journalism Jamboree

Interplaying Spotlights To Give Novel Effects

Colored lights, blue, green, yellow, red, purple, and every other shade known will be the principal decorative feature of the annual Journalism Jamboree to be held Homecoming eve, Friday the 13th. Baby spots are to be placed all over the men's gymnasium, where the dance will be held, and the blends and contrasts of colors are expected to give the big floor a veritable night club effect.

In keeping with the rainbow color scheme, serpentine will be used freely in adding to the atmosphere. Everything is being done by the committee in charge, headed by Merlin Blais, to add gay spirit to the dance and make it the most talked-of affair of the season.

FROSH MEN!

ALL frosh men report to the College Side at 10 o'clock and at 1 o'clock today. Help is needed.

Absolutely every man must be at the "O" on Skinner's butte by 9:30 tonight to stave off a possible attack. Oregon State has sent its warning.

Meet in front of the College Side at 9:15 with cars.

CHUCK CLAY,
Bonfire Chairman.

Open Season For Ducking Lidless Sophs on Today

Today's the day! And it's also open season on the sophomores who have not purchased their rooters' lids. From today on, all sophs that appear on the campus sans lids will be eligible for either a mill-racing or a ducking in the peanut pond at the side of the libe—the penalty to be carried out by the frosh who are already attired in the lids.

The freshman class responded practically to a man to the Order of the "O's" request for the reviving of the Oregon rooters' lid tradition and they have expressed their willingness to further cooperate with the lettermen in seeing that all underclassmen wear lids for the remainder of the week.

Also starting this morning, the proprietors and employees of the commercial establishments in the region of Thirteenth and Kincaid will further help to put the idea across by wearing the lids during the business hours of the various stores.

Prospectors To Dispense Free Pancakes Tomorrow

Five Condon Club Initiates Will Impersonate Miners

Tomorrow morning at 9:40 a. m. on the field just east of Condon hall a group of bearded prospectors will pass out free pancakes to anyone venturesome enough to eat them. Shortly thereafter, it is rumored, there will be a gun battle among them. One of the characters announced his intention to jump the claim of another.

This bewhiskered, unkempt, gun-toting outfit will be only the pledges of Condon club, Oregon chapter of the National Geological and Mining Societies of America, of which President Hoover is a member.

The initiation will be carried on before a group of tents which the neophytes will erect on the vacant ground. Everyone is urged by members of the club to come around and get their pancakes. The men responsible for them will be Howard Stafford, Francis Peck, Norman Gonzales, Fred Clift, and Quinton Harris.

Inland Printer Accepts Article by T. Neil Taylor

Journalism Graduate Explains Use Of Phone-Card

The Inland Printer, a business and technical journal in the printing and allied industries, has accepted an article from T. Neil Taylor, graduate in journalism, '30, and has published it in the October issue.

"Campus Phone Card Profitable for College-Town Printers," is the title of the article, which contains technical information concerning the campus phone card which has been successfully developed by a number of students during the last two college years at the University of Oregon.

Taylor was president of Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalism professional, and also worked as news editor on the Emerald.

Turn In Oregona Order Books Now, Is Bailey's Edict

ROGER BAILEY again demands that representatives from all living organizations for the Oregon drive turn in their order books immediately so that an estimate can be made of the number of copies sold. These books must be turned in to the A. S. U. O. office now, Bailey said.

Chrysanthemum Sale To Continue For Rest of Week

Golden Flowers Available At Various Prices From Representatives

The A. W. S. sale of chrysanthemums for the homecoming game is underway in every living organization on the campus and will continue through today. Louise Webber, chairman, announced last night through today, Louise Webber.

The houses representing are expected to turn in money to the chairman by 5 o'clock this afternoon but the Co-op will continue the sale through Friday.

"Mum's" are priced at 50 cents, 75 cents, and one dollar. Proceeds from the sale will go to the foreign scholar fund according to Miss Webber. Students are instructed to pay the representative in their house for the flowers, which will be delivered Saturday morning.

Committees appointed to work on the sale are: Jane Cook, publicity; Co-op sales, Dorothy Clifford; house representatives, Marguerite Tarbell. Working with Miss Tarbell in the living groups are: Caroline Card, Alpha Phi, Beta Theta Pi, Gamma Phi Beta, and Phi Kappa Psi; Lucille Kraus—Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, Zeta Phi Alpha, Alpha Delta Phi; Kathleen Felzer—Sigma Phi Epsilon, Alpha Upsilon, Sigma Pi Tau; Marjorie Swafford—Sigma Chi, Alpha Xi Delta; Phoebe Greenman—Phi Sigma Kappa, Chi Psi, Beta Phi Alpha; Helen Shingle—Pi Beta Phi, Phi Mu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Esther Hayden—Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Chi Omega; Edith Peterson—Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, Delta Zeta; Betsy Steiwer—Alpha Chi Omega, Pi Delta Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha; Helen Binford—Delta Gamma, Alpha Omicron Pi, Sigma Kappa; Madeleine Gilbert—Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Tau Omega; Margaret Roberts—Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Theta Chi; Nancy Suomela—Hendricks, Susan Campbell, Friendly halls; Margaret Hunt—Alpha, Gamma, Omega halls; Jean Failing—Sherry Ross, Sigma, Zeta halls.

Prose and Poetry Group To Hold Meeting Tonight

Prose and Poetry group of Philomete will meet tonight from 9 to 10 at the Alpha Omicron Pi house for a social and business meeting.

The affair is planned as a get-acquainted meeting, and a vice-president is to be elected. Margaret Pollitt, president, will announce the names of committee chairmen.

Tea will be served by members of the Alpha Omicron Pi house.

Oregon Blue Book Prints Article by Geology Prof

"Oregon's Outstanding Geological Features," an article by Warren D. Smith, professor of geology and geography, has been published in the 1931-1932 Oregon Blue Book.

The article describes quite briefly many scenic features and geological formations of Oregon.

Big Jamboree Scheduled For Friday 13th

Men's Gym To Be Scene Of Post-Rally Hop

Rooters' Caps and Campus Clothes in Order at Informal

Friday the 13th may be unlucky in other parts of the world but it will mean 17 kinds of good luck on the Oregon campus this Homecoming eve when the Journalism Jamboree, annual post-rally dance, swings into action at the men's gym to the music of Kampus Knights, eight-piece orchestra. All but last minute preparations have been completed, Merlin Blais, chairman, announced last night, and about all that remains is for the orchestra members to take their places tomorrow evening just before 9 o'clock, the time for the dance.

Gala Event Assured

A gay crowd, composed of both Oregon and Oregon State students as well as those hardy alumni who can stand the pace, will be in carnival mood as they dance among the multi-colored spotlights, confetti and serpentine with which the big men's gymnasium is to be decorated. A great orchestra, a smooth floor, and the old-fashioned rally spirit is expected to put the Jam over in spectacular manner.

Wear your rooters' caps, suggests the committee, and wear campus clothes if you like. There will be just enough time to slip out of those rally pajamas into campus garb before the dance gets under way. It's a no-date affair, and 50 cents admits anyone. Some real features are to be presented during intermissions, the least of which will be numbers by the famous "Max" trio. Ample quantities of refreshments have been procured and the committee promises that the congestion usually found around refreshment booths

Requirement for Honor Role To Be 2.0-Point Average

Faculty Committee Makes Standards To Fit New System

A grade average of B will entitle the student to be listed on the honor roll this year, the registrar's office announced yesterday. This is a point average of 2.0, two points being given for every hour of B, and the average being computed by dividing the total number of points by the number of term hours.

Previously the honor roll consisted of students who had received no grade below a II, and students have been kept from the honor group by having perhaps one or two hours of III, but now grades below B may be brought up to the necessary average by a corresponding number of hours of A.

This system now has been passed upon by faculty committee legislation, the previous system having been worked up through usage, and as a means of continuing publicity for excellent work after the dropping of the "Scandal Sheet" in which all students' grades were published.

It is not thought that basing the computation on averages will make it any easier to attain the honor roll. About 20 per cent of the students have been listed on a honor rolls each term, according to the registrar's office records.

Francis Reeder, Alumnus of 1930, Campus Visitor

Francis Reeder, business administration major who graduated from the University in the class of 1930, visited Eugene recently with his wife, formerly Sadie Pondalik. Mr. Reeder is traveling for the Commercial Credit company.

Reports have come from other Oregon graduates in business administration. Miss Velma School, '26, has returned from a year's stay in London, where she worked in the offices of the Jantzen Knitting Mills.

Hal Paddock, '31, is working for the Aetna Life Insurance company in Los Angeles. Henry Baldrige, also a '31 graduate, is working in the credit department of the Lipman and Wolfe department store in Portland. Dorothy Fox, another member of the class of '31, is a stock control clerk at Lipman and Wolfe's in Portland.

Mez Argues For Arbitration As Way To Universal Peace

"Exactly thirteen years ago, the bells were ringing and the hearts of men were rejoicing, for the World War had then come to an end. People began to hope that the world would be safe for democracy, that the era of world peace had dawned once more, and that competition for armaments was competition for forever."

Thus spoke Dr. John R. Mez, professor of economics and political science in the University, and who, for the last two decades, has been active in the movement for world peace and disarmament, when interviewed yesterday.

"The United States," Dr. Mez said, "has always been for the outlawry of war as an instrument for settling international disputes. She was dragged to the World War, fought for a noble cause, and helped, to an incalculable extent, to bring that conflagration to its abrupt end on November 11, 1918. America restored peace with an expensive means. President Wilson's dream of a League of Nations became a realization and the world court is still in existence, but in order to have a perfect world organization, it is fervently hoped that America should join these bodies."

Professor Mez thinks that it is comforting to note that the peace sentiment has made stupendous progress since the past war, mainly an achievement of the League of Nations and the world court during the last 12 years. "It is gratifying," he said, "to see that the United States is taking an active leadership and initiative in the preparation of the forthcoming disarmament conference of 1932 to be held in Geneva."

Dr. Mez believes that an economic disarmament should follow military disarmament because the tariff walls interfere with the commerce of the world.

"As provided in a manifesto issued recently by the International Bank Commission which met in Basle, Switzerland, the world can't get out of its economic depression and return to normalcy and prosperity without an economic disarmament," Professor Mez concluded.

Mueller Explains Russian Theories To Rose City Club

Professor Makes Study of Communism During Tour of Soviet

"To many, Russia represents an experiment in communism," said Dr. John H. Mueller in his speech at the Portland city club, Friday noon, November 6, at the Benson hotel, "but fundamentally Russia is a country without traditions of any kind. Dr. Mueller made, in his trip into the interior last summer, an extensive study of the industrial and welfare program of Russian communism movement."

"Her economic theory, her social philosophy, her educational procedure, her religion and morality, her penal practices and all other social policies represent a unique deviation from the corresponding practices in western civilization. She is after all, attempting to solve in her own way, the same problems with which we are concerned: unemployment, poverty, crime, education, and economic crises," believes Dr. Mueller.

The purpose of the Portland city club is to inform its members and the community in public matters and to arouse them to a realization of the obligations of citizenship. There has been an increased interest in public affairs as a result of the economic depression. According to the City club bulletin, the club finds that never before has there been so much general interest in our problems of business, government, education, taxation, social service. With so much interest taken by the general public in these affairs the club is faced with a much greater opportunity for the achievements of its purposes. Many committees are being organized to look into tax reduction, city planning, old age pension, unemployment reliefs, public school economics, world court, and many other current problems.

Professors To Examine Public Utility Regulations

Beginning this week Professors Crumbaker, Erb, and research assistant Joyce of the economics department of the University will make a series of trips to Salem and Portland to examine departmental records of public utility regulations now on file in the libraries there.

These files consist of publications in Oregon pertaining to public utility regulations which date back to the '40's and are in the form of legislative journals, codes, and court reports.

The three men will arrange the data in a concise form and the study will be submitted upon completion to the research council of the University.

Robnett Reminds Late Students To Purchase Tickets

A REMINDER that special student tickets will be required for the game Saturday with Oregon State, and that these tickets can be procured now at the Co-op on presentation of signed student body cards, was made yesterday by Ronald H. Robnett, assistant graduate manager.

Nearly 800 special tickets had been issued by 3 p. m. last Tuesday, according to the Co-op.

Annual P.I.P.A. Meeting Opens At Lunch Today

Representative of Five States at Conclave

Dean Allen To Be Speaker, Dance for Delegates Set for Tonight

Opening a three-day session of the eleventh annual convention of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press association will be a luncheon today noon at the Green Lantern Tavern. At this initial gathering of 24 editors and managers of college newspapers on the Pacific coast, Dean Eric W. Allen, of the school of journalism, will extend greetings and talk on "College Newspapers." Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Sigma Delta Chi, and Emerald officials are invited.

Delegates Arriving

Coming from points in California, Nevada, Idaho, and Washington, many of the delegates arrived late last night and others are expected to arrive this morning. Robert Merriman and Joseph Jackson, editor and manager of the U. of N. Sagebrush in Reno, were the first of the delegates to arrive. Late yesterday afternoon Richard Friendlish and M. Lewis Thompson, of the Stanford Daily, dropped off at the S. P. station to be second of the week-end guests to arrive.

During the next three days these delegates will be guests of the associated students and will be entertained at associated student expense. A dance is to be given in their honor this evening at Lee Duke's cafe. Sherwood Burr's orchestra will entertain with dance music throughout the evening.

Hall To Preside

This afternoon the first business meeting will be held. Business of the past year will be presented to the delegates of the conference, both editors and managers. Vinton Hall, president of the association, will preside. At the meetings of the managers Larry Jackson, vice-president, will preside.

David To Appear For Sigma Delta Chi at Convention

Oregon Places Second in Efficiency Contest Last Year

When the Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalism professional hold their annual convention November 16, 17, and 18 on the campus of the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis, the local Omicron chapter will be represented by Ralph David, president of the chapter.

David will leave Friday afternoon on the Cascade limited for Portland and from there will take a Great Northern train for Minneapolis.

Last year the convention was held in Columbus, Ohio, and Neil Taylor was the representative from Oregon. At this convention the local chapter placed second in the national efficiency contest, which is based upon activities engaged in by the different chapters, and by the members both on the campus and the graduates. This was the highest place in the annual contests that this chapter had attained since the founding of it in 1913.

Latest Wesley Pioneer Will Be Released Today

Paper Is Published on Campus by Bellinger

The November issue of The Wesley Pioneer, publication of the Wesley Foundation, will be released on the campus today, it is announced by Jack Bellinger, editor. Bellinger was assisted in publishing the paper by Genevieve Dunlop, news assistant, and Maximo Pulido, circulation assistant.

The November paper is considerably larger than the last one issued. It contains interviews with Dr. Titus Lowe, resident bishop of the Portland area of the Methodist church, and Rev. Cecil F. Ristow, pastor of the First Methodist church of Eugene.

The publication also contains pictures of Rev. and Mrs. Cecil F. Ristow, the Wesley council, and the pioneer statue.

World Fellowship Group Of YWCA Meet Tonight

"Gandhi and World Peace" To Be Topic of Discussion

"Gandhi and World Peace" will be the subject of a talk by Reuben B. Porter, executive secretary of the campus Y. M. C. A., at the Y. W. C. A. World Fellowship fire-side discussion to be held tonight at 7:45 at the Y. M. C. A.

"While India can never return to the relationship she used to have with Great Britain, one would be foolish to try to predict an immediate future for India with British politics as they are today," commented Mr. Porter. "I shall confine myself, therefore, to what has happened rather than any forecast of events."

The general phases of the nationalist movement, how it came into being, how it works, and the contribution of Gandhi to world peace, are a few of the topics which Mr. Porter will touch upon. An invitation is extended to all interested in this subject to come to the Y. M. C. A. tonight.
