

Oregon Football Squad Leaves Today for Contest With U.C.L.A. at Los Angeles

Spears Takes 32 Gridsters On Trip South

Webfeet To Be at Full Strength for Tilt

Two Workouts End Drill For Bill Spaulding's Aroused Uclans

Off on the final road trip of the year, Coach Doc Spears and 32 Oregon football players will leave Eugene today at noon bound for Los Angeles, where they meet U. C. L. A. Saturday in the Olympic stadium.

RICHARD MULHAUPT

The regular practice session yesterday was augmented by a long drill on the floor of the Igloo after dark. A light scrimmage with the freshmen and signal and skull practice at night wound up the home work for the Ducks. The team will arrive in Los Angeles Friday morning in time to take a workout on the turf field there before facing the Bruins.

Ducks in Good Condition

Oregon will be at full strength for the Uclan contest. Orville Bailey, with the broken nose, will wear a specially prepared helmet in the two coming games. The headgear covers his entire face, with the exception of holes for his eyes. The remainder of the squad is in excellent condition.

Doc Spears plans to start the same lineup against the Bruins that he used Saturday against Oregon State. Mark Temple, Leighton Gee, Mike Mikulak and Bill Bowerman in the backfield, and Bailey, Nilsson, Schulz, Forsta,

Hughes, Morgan and Wishard on the line. This combination seems to be the most powerful Spears has brains to use. For almost all the touchdowns they have scored this season, the Bruins have used long forward passes, most of them originating in the long right arm of Leonard Bergdahl. They have not employed many line-plungers and their power attack is not all it might be. Mulhaupt and Wellendorf, guardians of the U. C. L. A. flanks, have been on the receiving terminus of the majority of the Bruins' aerial maneuvers. In 1930, when Oregon won, 7 to 0, the Bruins lost a possible tie when Richard Mulhaupt, another end, bobbled a snap pass over the Webfoot goal line. The Bruins never neared touchdown sod after that.

Former Professor Writes Book About Disarmament

Benjamin H. Williams, former professor at the University summer session at Portland and now of the University of Pittsburgh, has recently written a book entitled, "The United States and Disarmament." Dr. John R. Mez, associate professor of economics and political science in the University, has just received a copy of the book from the author himself. Professor Mez says that the book treats of the changing attitude of the world and the United States towards armament and sea power. It also discusses the forthcoming disarmament conference and the possibilities and obstacles to an effective reduction. The author thinks that the time is near when nations will be cooperating for disarmament.

Len Bergdahl, Star Bruin Quarterback, Will be Out Of Oregon Tilt Saturday

Uclans Weakened by Loss of Stellar Ball Carrier; Johnny Fletcher To Fill Vacancy

By STUART WELLS, Sports Editor, Daily Bruin.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(Exclusive to the Emerald.)—With Len Bergdahl, star first string quarterback, confined to the bench for the rest of the season with a chipped ankle bone sustained in the St. Mary's game last week, Coach Bill Spaulding's U. C. L. A. Bruins face "Doc" Spears' Oregon Webfoots here Saturday in a greatly weakened condition. The Bruins beat St. Mary's on Bergdahl's playing. Of that there can be no doubt. The clever Uclan signal caller out-thought and out-manuevered the highly touted Gael backs completely throughout the game. It was he who tossed the two passes which resulted in scores. Bergdahl was just beginning to find himself in that game, and then the unfortunate injury occurred which may blast Westwood grid hopes for the 1931 season.

Spaulding not only loses an excellent quarterback in Bergdahl but an accurate passer. Bergdahl has been on the sending end of most of the Bruin passes which have played such havoc with the opposing secondaries. The loss of Bergdahl is equal to a reduction of 50 per cent efficiency in the offense of the U. C. L. A. team. All of which makes the Westwood cause a gloomy one.

Fletcher To Fill Post
Spaulding indicated early this week that he would probably use Johnny Fletcher, reserve quarterback, to fill Bergdahl's shoes. Fletcher is a fiery player with great ball carrying ability, but can neither pass nor punt. He is a daring signal caller and always dangerous.

With the winning of the St. Mary's game, a new spirit has come to Westwood. Student interest is at a high pitch, which, together with the fact that the Oregon battle is the annual homecoming game, makes Saturday's tussle the high-water mark of the football season for the Bruins. A crowd as large as that which saw the Bruins defeat the Gaels is expected to view the contest, which would place the attendance at between forty or fifty thousand.

Spaulding Works Team Hard
Bill Spaulding is not letting any let-down occur among his men. After giving his men a two-day vacation after the St. Mary's game, he put the Bruins back to work, preparing for Oregon as hard as he has for any foe this season. That 14-6 triumph of Oregon over New York U. makes Spaulding uneasy, and the wary head mentor is not taking any chances. He realizes that his team may be a bit cocky after trouncing St. Mary's, and is doing everything to make the Bruins realize that in Oregon they have one of the toughest assignments of the year.

The game will mark the fourth between the two institutions, Oregon being the only team in the conference, with the exception of Stanford, to face the Bruins every year. Scores of the past games follow:

1928—Oregon, 26; U. C. L. A., 6.
1929—Oregon, 27; U. C. L. A., 0.
1930—Oregon, 7; U. C. L. A., 0.

U.C.L.A. Backs

Two of Bill Spaulding's star ball-carriers. Top, Len Bergdahl, quarterback, who was injured in the St. Mary's game last week and is reported out for the rest of the season. Bottom, Norm Duncan, who does most of the heavy ball carrying for the Bruins.

Frosh Finish Season With Clean Record

Oregon Yearlings Get 36 Point Average

Impressive Showing Made By Callison's Men in Schedule

The University of Oregon freshmen have completed their schedule for the football year and can lay the moleskins aside until next spring, at which time they will be considered varsity prospects. The record established this year by the yearlings is the best in many years and Coach Callison deserves a great deal of credit. He molded a real football machine.

For the first time in a number of years the Frosh won both encounters from the Oregon State Rooks. Previous to this year the two-game series was divided without fail. Other games taken in stride were the Washington Babe contest and the Oregon Normal reserves breather.

Frosh Average 36 Points

The Frosh for the season ran up 144 points to their opponents' 40 in four games. This is an average of 36 points per game, and quite a record when one stops to consider that the freshman football battles are usually close and hard-fought.

Callison built a formidable eleven from individual men in the short time allotted. It is no easy task to build a team that will click as the Frosh have clicked all season. He has done this in the most satisfactory manner and should be praised highly.

The Frosh squad will disband today following the varsity's departure for the South. They have stayed out the fore part of the week in order to give the varsity some real competition.

Moore To Give Illustrated Lecture on Greece Tonight

Dr. A. R. Moore, professor of animal biology, will give a stereopticon lecture on "Greece" tonight at 8 o'clock in room 107 Oregon hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore have just recently returned from abroad where they spent much of their time in Greece. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Two Days Remain To Enter Choices In Co-ed Contest

Free Votes To Be Presented With Tickets Purchased At Colonial

Only two days remain for University students to nominate their favorite co-ed for the popularity contest being sponsored by the Emerald and Colonial theatre in order to determine the most popular girl on the Oregon campus.

A decided interest in the contest is being displayed by the students, judging by the number of ballots cast yesterday at the box inside the old library. A large number of ballots containing the names of many prominent girls on the campus were turned in. The ten co-eds receiving the largest number will be selected as contestants, and their names will be announced Friday.

The popularity contest will run for four weeks with votes being given out with every ticket purchased at the Colonial theatre beginning Friday. The various stores on the campus offering prizes will be announced at a later date.

Students will have until 6 p. m. Thursday to cast their choice for the co-eds to enter the contest.

Eight Girls Awarded 'O' By Athletic Association

At the mass meeting of W. A. A. Tuesday night awards were presented to the girls who earned sufficient points in W. A. A. activities last semester.

The girls who earned 500 points and were awarded the small "O" were: Katherine Leuck, Katherine Bisbee, Helen Dunshee, Gwen LaBarre, Doris Payne, and Mildred Marks. Dorothy MacLean, who earned 1000 points received a sweater with a large "O" and Frances Haberlach, who had 1500 points received a stripe for her sweater.

Reports from the heads of sports were also given. Virginia Hunt, chairman of the health week committee discussed the health week program being held November 16 to 20.

Close Contest Attraction of Hoop Games

Sigma Nu Noses Out Fiji In Overtime, 15-14

Sigma Chi, Phi Delta Theta And Phi Psi Capture Other Tilts

TODAY'S SCHEDULE
8:45 P. M.
S. A. M. vs. Theta Chi.
4:30 P. M.
Zeta hall vs. S. A. E.
5:15 P. M.

Sherry Ross hall vs. Chi Psi. One of the best, if not the best, games so far in the intramural basketball tourney was dished up to the fans yesterday when Sigma Nu eked out a victory over the Fiji quintet, 15 to 14, in a game which required an overtime period. The score was knotted at 13 points at the end of the regulation time.

Roland Larson sank a Sigma Nu basket from near the center of the floor to give his team a lead of two points in the overtime period, and then a Sigma Nu hoopman fouled Bob Rourke of the Fijis, who was allowed two foul shots. The first went astray, but the second was good. Before the teams could line up again for the tipoff, the game ended.

Phi Delta Defeats Gamma. Three other games were played. The Phi Delta squad defeated Gamma hall, 17 to 12. Wes Clausen led the scoring by sinking eight points for the victors.

A total of 12 points was scored by both teams in the Phi Psi-Alpha Upsilon game, the Phi Psi capturing the contest by a score of 8 to 4.

Cliff Potter, Sigma Chi center, featured the Sigma Chi-Sigma hall tilt by registering 20 points, the highest score compiled by a single hoopster in the tournament so far. His spree helped considerably in the defeat of the hall aggregation, 39 to 9.

IN THE PRESS BOX with Walt Baker

THIS afternoon the Webfeet leave on their last quest for football recognition during the coming season—U. C. L. A. this Saturday and St. Mary's on Thanksgiving Day finish out the present season for the University of Oregon as far as football is concerned. Neither one of these last two games will be a walk-away for the Northern team, whose sophomore squad is by this time hitting its stride and playing football like a set of veterans. The Uclans provided a major upset on Armistice day by downing the Gaels of St. Mary's and won the reputation of being the only collegiate team to defeat the powerful squad that whipped the Trojans of Southern Cal. Here is a fact that can't be overlooked. While the Gaels have always been before the Bruins on the list of tough teams on "Doc Spears' schedule, their loss just makes the Bruins' showing that much harder to figure out for the coming game with Oregon.

U. C. L. A. EXPECTING TO WIN
Stuart Wells, sports ed. of the Daily Bruin down there, writes me that the St. Mary's game "may have been the best game of the season, but the Bruins have now played four best games of the season—Washington State, Northwestern, Stanford, and St. Mary's. Anyway, we're cocky enough to think we're good enough for Oregon. It's up to you and the Doctor to make us see differently." We echo heartily that Mr. Wells has a firm foundation for his opinion that the Bruins are comers in conference football. They've been getting better and better all season and, in their Stanford game, had the powerful Red team tied, with 18 seconds to play, when the Indians completed a pass over the U. C. L. A. goal line to pull the game out of the fire.

BRUINS ON THE UPGRADE
Washington State beat them in their first conference game this year, and then they put up a tough scrap against Northwestern, to lose 19-0. But these two last games are the ones in which we are interested at the present time. True—it looks like the Bruins have arrived—as the optimistic Mr. Wells predicted in the Emerald yesterday. And at that there's no reason why they shouldn't. They have a wonderful plant there—better than U. S. C.'s pastures. They have a strong monetary backing—which is just the number for the production of a football team. And, perhaps, the most important of all, they have the backing of Los Angeles, who seems to be turning away from the University of Southern California in favor of the "baby of the conference," who is having such a struggle getting started. More power to them.

WEBFOOT VETERANS WINDING UP CAREERS
Getting back to the Oregon-U. C. L. A. game, it would seem that the Webfeet, even with the entire squad in the pink of condition, are going to have their hands full. Full, yes, but not overflowing with a '71-0 score as a Portland paper figured out according to comparative scores of the two teams. Oregon will win—and for three good reasons, Red Bailey, Captain Irv Schulz, and Eric Forsta, who are going into the home stretch in their performance for Oregon. These veterans, the big guns on the Oregon forward wall, graduate, and both these final games will see them in a last endeavor to wind up their collegiate careers in a blaze of performance that cannot be denied.

That's what the Bruins will run into along with the battering of the now-veterans, Gee, Temple, Mikulak, and Bowerman, and the performance of Captain Schulz, Wishard, Nilsson, Hughes, and Morgan. Here you have what will likely be the starting lineup, and if the Bruins can put a better aggregation on the field next Saturday, they'll deserve everything that they can take away.
