

Phi Beta Kappa Announces List Of 'Senior Six'

Scholastic Honors Bring Mention by Society

Mueller Named New Head Of Oregon Chapter of Scholar's Group

Students elected as the "Senior Six" for the fall of 1931 by Oregon Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the meeting yesterday afternoon are:

Mary Katherine Fenton, English. Elizabeth Shields Hall, English. Arthur Paul Ireland, law. Thelma Eleanor Lund, education.

David Carnahan Williams, mathematics. Margaret Elaine Williams, biology.

"Election to 'Senior Six' is the highest academic honor granted undergraduates during the University year," Dr. John H. Mueller, newly elected president, commented in announcing the selections. "Scholarship is the principal quality considered, although character shown in work is considered."

Dean Rebec Elected Officers elected at the meeting are Dr. Mueller, president; Dean George Rebec, vice-president; Mary E. Kent, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Marion F. McClain and Ronald H. Robinson, executive committee; Clifford L. Constance, new member of nominating committee.

Mrs. Richard Kriebel, formerly Ruth Miller, was named representative of the Oregon chapter at the celebration of the 150th anniversary of Alpha chapter of Massachusetts to be held at Harvard university on December 5. The Harvard chapter is one of the oldest of the academic honorary. It is expected that practically all of the more than 114 chapters will be represented.

Revisions to the constitution of Oregon chapter were adopted at the meeting and will be announced later, it was said by Miss Kent. A bulletin giving detailed explanation of the requirements for election to the society and to honors conferred by it is expected to be issued later.

Play Will Be Presented by Campus Spanish Club

"El Criado Astuto," a Spanish playlet, will be presented by La Corrida de Todos, the campus Spanish club, tonight at 7:30 at Westminster house. The members of the cast are Doris Stamps, Ladrew Moshberger, and Robert W. Wilson.

Following the playlet, the club will listen to a radio program broadcast from Mexico. Announcing over this station is in both English and Spanish.

Concluding the program, the members will sing a variety of Spanish songs. All students or former students of Spanish are invited to attend.

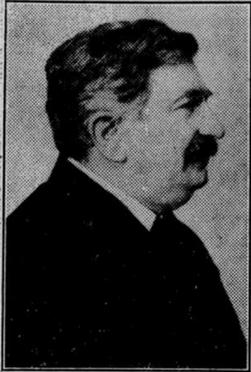

Pictures Needed For Extra Pages Of New Oregona

CLICK, click — you're captured! What for?—the 1932 Oregona, of course.

Word has come that the good year book is again clamoring for snapshots and pictures to make the snap-shot section of the Oregona the peppiest little place in the whole periodical, and now is the time to dig up those screeching funny pictures you took this summer of the girl friend in old clothes or yourself on that camping trip to the beach, mountains, or where were you. Then, with the other hand full of campus snaps from last spring or this fall, rush down to the Journalism shack where Jack Bellinger will be waiting for you with open arms (for the snaps, you understand). Jack is the school year editor and wants a lot of good, clear, peppy snaps.

Then the next thing is to wait till the Oregona comes out next spring and, well—you'll be surprised!

Speaks Tonight

Herr M. Fischer, from Budapest, Hungary, who will speak tonight at 8 o'clock in Villard hall assembly on "Hungary's Contribution to World Civilization."

Herr M. Fischer To Speak Tonight At 8:00 in Villard

Hungarian Railway Officer To Tell Contribution Of His Country

Herr M. Fischer, international railway welfare worker of Budapest, Hungary, is to lecture on "Hungary's Contribution to World Civilization," tonight at 8 o'clock in Villard hall assembly. The talk will be illustrated with motion pictures and lantern slides.

"Herr Fischer brings to the campus a view of international relations from a new angle," Professor Victor P. Morris, of the economics department, said. "He is a loyal Hungarian but able to take an objective attitude toward the vital problems which must be solved before conditions in Europe can be stabilized."

A graduate of the Politechnical university of Budapest, he has for 30 years been connected with the Hungarian state railways. His intense interest in the welfare movement among railway employees has taken him to many countries, including visits to England, Italy, and Uruguay, and he has, of course, traveled extensively through the Balkan states.

"Herr Fischer is personally interested in students as individuals as well as in the work of the International Relations clubs as a whole," Professor Morris added. "He is always willing to answer questions regarding his country and its relations to its neighbors."

Under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Herr Fischer came to the United States recently to lecture before International Relations clubs, sponsored by the foundation in the various colleges and universities of the United States. The local International Relations club invites all students, faculty members, and Eugene people interested in international relations to attend his lecture here. No admission will be charged.

Last night, Herr Fischer spoke before the International Relations club of Oregon State college in Corvallis on "Economic and Cultural Life in Hungary."

He will be entertained at dinner tonight by Dr. John R. Mez, of the department of economics and political science.

Claire To Discuss Fault of International Arbitration

Fortnightly Club Meeting Is Set For Thursday Noon

"Why international arbitration is not as successful as it might be" will be the general topic of Prof. Guy S. Claire of the school of law in speaking to the Fortnightly club at the Osburn hotel this afternoon.

Mr. Claire bases his arguments on "the fact that there are too many reservations in actual cases that could not come before an arbitration board." The existence of the world court is proof of this fact, he contends.

As opposed to arbitrable questions of points of international law, the greatest reservation that stands in the way of arbitration is the question of "national honor and vital interest," he believes.

Mr. Claire will utilize current international events in presenting his topic.

Sigma Delta Chi Names Oregonian National Official

May Honored at Conclave Of Journalism Group; Oregon Places High

By RALPH DAVID MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 18.—(Special to the Emerald).—The Pacific coast and the University of Oregon were signally honored by the selection of Walter P. R. May, associate editor of the Portland Oregonian, as executive councilor of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, at the seventeenth national convention in session here today. Mr. May is an associate member of the Oregon chapter of Sigma Delta Chi.

Oregon placed eighth in efficiency and thirteenth in professional achievement among the 44 chapters represented at the convention. The chapter was especially commended before the assembled delegates for the excellence of its books and the appearance of its exhibit.

Pacific coast journalism received further recognition when Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Call-Bulletin, was elected to honorary membership in the fraternity—an award given yearly for distinguished newspaper service.

Ralph David, president of the campus chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, is attending the national convention of the professional journalism fraternity, in Minneapolis, as Oregon's representative.

U. of O. Debaters Even Score By Victory Over Philippines

By DAVE WILSON MANILA, P. I., October 19.—(Special to the Emerald).—A debit entry of four years' standing has been removed from the University of Oregon's international debating ledger. When the Pacific Basin god-will debate team defeated a University of the Philippines' forensic trio on the night of October 13, the score was evened between the two universities.

Four years ago, when the Oregon round-the-world debating team visited Manila, a University of the Philippines team won an audience decision from them on the Philippine independence question. This year's team was more successful with a somewhat similar question:

House Heads Flay Emerald Co-ed Contest

Popularity Nominations Cancelled as Result

Organization Terms Event Detrimental to Spirit Of Friendliness

The heads of women's houses on the campus unanimously voted not to support the co-ed popularity contest being sponsored by the Emerald and Colonial theatre at a meeting held yesterday. Janice Hedges, president, announced to the Emerald last night.

"As a result of this decision the contest will be called off," Bill Duniway, editor of the Emerald, stated, "as neither the Emerald nor the Colonial theatre wish to sponsor anything which will not meet with the approval and interest of the students."

Competition Declared Unfair The opinion was expressed at the meeting of the heads of houses that such a contest would be detrimental to the spirit of friendliness among women's organizations on the campus. It was felt that such competition was really not fair in every sense of the word, as after all it would be difficult to honestly decide the most popular girl on the campus. As a result it was unanimously voted not to support it.

The popularity contest was to begin tomorrow with the announcement of the candidates. Students on the campus since Wednesday have been handing in their choice for a candidate in the ballot box placed inside the old library. It was planned to select the ten co-eds receiving the highest number of nomination blanks as participants in the contest. It was to last until December 18, at which time the winner would be announced.

Brown Regrets Disapproval "I'm very sorry that this contest was cancelled," said Brown.

New Volumes Increase Business School Library

Many Interesting Titles Appear on Reading Shelf

The school of business administration library has several interesting new books on its "free reading shelf." This shelf is maintained to give opportunity to students for supplementary reading on fields of business outside of regular textbook assignments. Books on this shelf may be taken out for a week.

There are many interesting titles among the new books. "The Story of the Films" contains a series of lectures by such well known producers of motion pictures as Cecil B. de Mille, William Fox, Adolph Zukor, and Jesse L. Lasky. "Fifty Hand Picked Stocks" and "Investment Policies That Pay" offer some sound advice for the would be speculator. "The Story of Money" should prove interesting in these times of abandoning the gold standard.

"J. C. Penney, the Man With a Thousand Partners," "The Making of a Merchant," and "Selling by Telephone" should find readers among prospective merchandisers. Other titles are "King Cotton Is Sick," "Business Adrift," Peru From the Air," and "They Told Barron."

What Next? (EDITORIAL)

WHAT sort of student government does Oregon have when a man may hold an important appointment from the president of the student body and still NOT BE REGISTERED IN THE UNIVERSITY?

Carson Mathews, chairman of the rally committee this fall by appointment of Brian Minnaugh, A. S. U. O. president, has never been a student in the University this term, and therefore has never, at any time, been eligible to hold the appointment he has enjoyed these past seven weeks. This is a serious state of affairs. Are we to assume from this case that there might be other appointees in the student administration who are not enrolled in the University and therefore not eligible to hold their offices?

"I didn't know that Mathews wasn't regularly enrolled. I have seen him around the campus frequently and just assumed that he was a student. He didn't say anything to me about it." This was Minnaugh's defense last night when the Emerald laid its revelations before him. A pretty weak defense when there are many ways open, as the Emerald found yesterday, to determine if a student is enrolled in school or not.

The spoils system has long been an odious feature of campus politics. Mathews' appointment as rally committee chairman, although he was not eligible for the job, is another case of spoilsmen getting into office. Mathews engineered and managed the noisy rally parade for Minnaugh last spring term on the eve of student body elections so well that he received the campus rally appointment this fall in return. A man in position to know volunteered this information to the Emerald yesterday.

ARE WE TO LET THIS SORT OF THING GO ON?

Phi Theta Upsilon To Present Party For Philomelete

Janet Osborne Announces Affair for November 21 At Craftsman Club

Final preparations for the Thanksgiving party sponsored by Phi Theta Upsilon, junior-senior women's service honorary, for the Philomelete hobby groups are now well under way with the announcement of the committees by Janet Osborne, vice-president of the honorary and chairman for the annual event.

The party will be held Saturday, November 21, from 3 to 5 at the Craftsman club. All women who are interested in the hobby groups but have not attended any meetings are urged by Helen Evans, president of Phi Theta Upsilon, to be present at this get-together.

The committee of Phi Theta Upsilon members who are assisting Miss Osborne are Eleanor Lonergan, who will announce the program; Aimee Sten, who is in charge of invitations and Gwendolyn Caverhill, chairman of the decoration committee.

Skits and stunts, which are to be part of the afternoon's entertainment, are being prepared by the drama, music, travel, folklore, arts and crafts, and prose and poetry groups. Music for dancing and singing will be furnished by the music group.

Members of the charm school group are to be hostesses for the afternoon and they will register all the women attending. The International Relations group is in charge of the patronesses. The decorations and refreshments will be taken care of by the nature study and the woman in her sphere groups, respectively.

The list of invited guests follows: Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, Mrs. Alice B. Macduff, Mrs. Maxwell Adams, Miss Margaret Edmuns, Mrs. Henry D. Sheldon, Mrs. Kenneth Shumaker, Mrs. Karl W. Onthank, Miss Eula Duke, Mrs. Prince L. Campbell, Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall, Mrs. Charlotte R. Donnelly, Mrs. Sally Elliot Allen, Mrs. Alice Ernst, Miss Marian Lowry, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson and Dr. Clara M. Smertenko, members of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, and all Big Sisters.

Bailey Chosen Advertising Manager of Old Oregon

The appointment of Roger Bailey as advertising manager of Old Oregon, alumni magazine, has just been announced by Jeannette Calkins, alumni secretary.

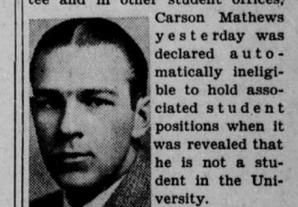

Mr. Bailey is a junior in business administration and a member of Phi Delta Theta and Alpha Delta Sigma. He was business manager of the Oregonian last year and was reappointed to that position this year by the publications committee of the A. S. U. O.

Mathews Out As Rally Head, Band Manager

Campus Political Head Found Not Student

Minnaugh Avers Complete Ignorance of Affair; Campus Deceived

After serving practically a term as chairman of the rally committee and in other student offices,

Carson Mathews yesterday was declared automatically ineligible to hold associated student positions when it was revealed that he is not a student in the University. Mathews is not enrolled in the Carson Mathews University this term, it was definitely learned in checking with the registrar's office to verify a chance remark made by a student at the rally yesterday. He took out his material at the beginning of the term but did not complete registration, it was said by a clerk in the registrar's office.

Minnaugh Takes Stand

"If he isn't in school, he is automatically out as a member of student committees," Brian Minnaugh, student president, stated when told of the registrar's confirmation of the report. "I didn't know that Mathews wasn't regularly enrolled," the president continued. "I have seen him around the campus frequently and just assumed that he was a student. He didn't say anything to me about it."

Efforts to reach Mathews at his home and fraternity house last night were futile.

Mathews was also manager of the University band and Monday was appointed a member of the committee to work with the National Student Federation of America to study problems of student government. He has also been active in student politics during the past two years.

Constitution Quoted

No provision is made in the A. S. U. O. constitution for eligibility for positions on special committees, but it has been the accepted practice that none but students could hold the positions. Article IV, section 3, clause 2 of the constitution, might be construed to apply in the case of a non-student holding office, it was pointed out. It reads:

"Students refusing or failing to pay dues and/or fees shall not be eligible to enjoy any of the benefits of membership in this association."

Beta Psi Alpha Concludes Homecoming Celebration

The local chapter of Beta Psi Alpha, second oldest accounting honorary in the country, has decided to make Homecoming luncheon an annual event, so successful was the affair given the alumni members last Saturday, Ernest Alne, president, said last night.

While the active chapter is small because there are few accounting majors in the business administration school, the contacts established at the meeting were highly satisfactory to the alumni members. Phil Janney, of Portland, was toastmaster at the luncheon. There were no speeches, which contributed to the immediate success of the venture, in the opinion of Rolf Bodding, vice-president, who was in charge of the arrangements. Informal remarks took the place of after-dinner sermons on business.

Wally and Kenny sang popular songs during the meal, and the Oregon Yeomen quartet gave several Oregon songs.

J. D. Leo, Portland head of Hasikin and Sells, national accounting firm, Spencer Collins, Eugene accountant, and Phil Janney, professor in the University extension department in Portland, and other prominent Oregon C. P. A.'s were present.

INFIRMARY HAS FOUR Four students are ill in the infirmary. They are Bob Riddell, Helen Parish, Harriette Chase, and Charles Marshall.

St. Mary's Game Reserved Seats On Sale at Co-op

RESERVED seats for the St. Mary's-Oregon game are now available at the Co-op and the graduate manager's office. Plenty of good seats are still obtainable, although advance reports indicated that Kezar stadium, San Francisco, will be occupied by a capacity crowd, according to Ronald H. Robnett, graduate manager. The tickets are all in one section to facilitate the centering of all Oregon rooters in one group as they have been in former years.
