

Thirty-Two Oregon Players Arrive at Westwood Amidst Din of UCLA Homecoming

Webfoots in Optimistic Mood as Time Nears for Chance at Last Conference Win

By STUART WELLS, Sports Editor, Daily Bruin
 LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—(Exclusive to the Emerald.)—Homecoming day! Bruins of Westwood vs. the Ducks of Eugene! The campus clattered with old grads. The big bonfire! California spirit at its peak! That's this week-end at Westwood—the biggest week-end of the year.

While Westwood was in feverish excitement this morning over the prospects of the biggest homecoming day in history, one of the main characters in the celebration quietly and unostentatiously made its appearance on the scene.

Oregonians Arrive
 Mr. Espee's classy West Coast Limited pulled up at the Glendale station at 8:05 this morning. Thirty-three men, their pudgy little coach, and a few camp followers got off the train. It was the Oregon football team which plays the Batling Bruins of Westwood in the homecoming climax at the Olympic stadium tomorrow.

A small crowd was on hand to greet the Oregonians. Newspaper photographers lined the invaders up for a few pictures, then Doc Spears bundled his men off by bus to the exclusive suburban Beverly Hills hotel.

Optimism reigned supreme in the Oregon camp, as the Webfoots, already possessor of the mythical championship of the Northwest, anticipated a victory in their final conference game of the season.

Webfeet Work Out
 After setting themselves up at the Beverly Hills hotel, the Ducks traveled out to the stadium where Spears sent them through a final and exhaustive practice. It was not a stiff workout, but it was all-inclusive.

While the Ducks worked out in the quiet confines of the huge bowl, excitement reigned supreme at Westwood. A large crew of enterprising U. C. L. A. freshmen were putting the finishing touches to a huge pile of lumber and packing boxes which late tonight sent its roaring flames licking into the sky as thousands of alumni and students vociferously acclaimed their alma mater.

Spears and his men were unperturbed by all the hustle and bustle of homecoming, and went at their duties with a vigor that bodes ill for the Bruins on the morrow.

While the student body joyously looked forward to a victory, Spaulding and his assistants gloomily surveyed the prospects as one veteran is certain not to start, while two others may be held out.

The certainty is Lenny Bergdahl, first string quarterback, who piloted the Bruins to a 12-0 victory over the Gaels. Bergdahl is out for the season. There is also a possibility that Captain Norman Duncan, fullback, and Wally Wellerdorf, end, may not start because of injuries.

Spaulding says the game will be tough, and that's that.

Arrangements Completed For Thanksgiving Dance

Repeating their annual Thanksgiving dance, Tonqueds, Eugene girls' organization, will be hostesses at a matinee dance next Friday at Cocoonat Grove for all students at the Cocoonat Grove for all students remaining on the campus.

General chairman for the affair, which is to carry out the traditional no-date idea, is Katherine Liston, who is being assisted in making arrangements by Margaret Nelson, Florence Nobalais, Thelma Bean, Dorothy Parks, and Helen Garrison.

Out for Ducks

Head Coach Bill Spaulding, of the Uclans, believes that he has figured out a way to avenge his team's 7-0 defeat by Oregon last year, in the game today.

New Grading Explained by Compilations

Registrar Office Issues Point Average Table

Mystery of ABCDF System Made Clear by List of Requirements

In order to make clear the whole matter of the new grading system and the consequent changes in scholastic regulations, and to correct any misunderstandings aroused by previous reports, the registrar's office yesterday released the following compilation of revised requirements:

"The fundamental point in the new system is that the grade point average, to be commonly spoken of as the GPA, becomes the basis of many University requirements. Points are figured in the same way as before, by multiplying the hours of credit given for a course by the number of points corresponding to the grade earned. These are: 3 points for A; 2 for B; 1 for C; 0 for D; and -1 for F. The GPA is then computed by dividing the sum of grade points by the total hours taken; it is a measure of quality. In all computations, incompletes are disregarded as to both points and hours, as they are considered temporary marks.

Honor Roll Requires B Average
 "For mention on the honor roll a GPA of 2.0, a B average, is required.

"The house rating on the term grade list is the GPA of the median member of the organization; that is, the standing of the organization is determined by its average member.

"A GPA of 1.5 (midway between B and C) is required to receive more than 16 hours credit in any term.

Hard To Reconcile Old and New
 "The faculty recognized the impossibility of accurately combining the grades given under the old and the new systems; so the new regulations apply only to the new grades, beginning with the present school year. This is much like drawing a line at the starting of this year, applying the old rules to all grades earned previously, and applying the new rules to all grades earned in 1931-32 and subsequently.

"A grade point average requirement is added to the conditions which must be met for the junior certificate with upper division standing and for the bachelors' degrees from the University. From now on, students must have a GPA of 0.75 or better, based on all grades under the ABCDF system, to receive a junior certificate with upper division standing. In addition, the other requirements as to number of term hours (93), groups cleared, and specific course completed, must be satisfied as before.

C Average Needed To Graduate
 "Similarly, a GPA of 1.0 (a C average) is an added requirement for the total 186 hours needed for graduation. This, again, is in ad-

Gaels Get Biggest Gates of This Fall On Western Coast

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE, San Francisco, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—According to unofficial figures, the Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's college are perhaps the greatest gate attraction on the West coast.

Having played eight games to date, the Gaels have drawn approximately $47,000 fans through the turnstiles, although two important games—Oregon and Southern Methodist—are yet to be played.

The largest crowd of the year was the St. Mary's-California contest when 73,000 fans saw the Gaels defeat the Bears. Despite the fact that rain cut into two crowds, an average attendance of 42,000 spectators per game has been maintained.

dition to major and other requirements.

"All new regulations in terms of grade point average will necessitate much more consistent scholastic performance than in the past. Previously a student might continue until he had earned 140 hours of grades above V; now not only more hours but also higher grades will be needed to raise the average to 1.0. Consequently, the faculty considers that these changes mean higher standards for the University."

"J.C." Requirements To Be Studied

Requirements for a junior certificate with honors privileges, and standards for graduate students under the new grading system are to be taken up by the Honors council and the Graduate council respectively.

Standards for house initiation have been recommended by faculty committees, but the final decision rests with the Pan-Hellenic and interfraternity organizations.

Chemistry Students Given Exams for Degree Work

Preliminary examinations for master's degrees were held today by the chemistry department. The following candidates took the examinations: Drew W. Perkins, of Eugene; Robert Dery, of Eugene; Robin E. Moser, of Salem; Vernon M. White, of Portland; Shailer A. Peterson, of Eugene; and Henry G. Otto, of Albany.

These are written examinations, in preparation for the final test which will be oral.

U.C.L.A. Out After Him

Doctor Spears, the Webfoot mentor, who will endeavor to keep the Bruin from a Duck dinner today in Los Angeles. The Doc is entering his last week of his second season here at Oregon.

IN THE PRESS BOX with Walt Baker

SEEMS that the foul breath of deep and dark secrecy pervades the atmosphere whenever a collegiate sport writer attempts to probe the depths of professionalism and subsidization as it exists at the present time in amateur sports. Yesterday we were prepared to run a comparatively mild article upon the subject, but it was finally decided by the powers that be that the thing was of a libelous character and would possibly tread on too many toes for the good of Oregon, and so forth, and so forth.

It matters to be pretty bad when nobody can say a word concerning a matter of this kind for fear of starting a probe that would bid fair to rip the whole affair as wide open as an unbuttoned overcoat. Perhaps the best thing to do is to turn mollycoddle and write rah, rah stuff about which people know nothing and care less.

OREGON FIGURED TO WIN

Now that we have been properly chastised, we'll settle down and try to version a bit on the U. C. L. A.-Oregon game this Saturday. Perhaps we'll even try another prediction—although the wide miss on the U. S. C. struggle still irks—say 12-0, Oregon. This outcome is perhaps based on the fast-rising squad from down there that has shown a world of development since the start of the season. For this Saturday's game, their defense will be intact, the entire first-string line will be on the job and ready to go. It has been this line, coupled with the Uclans' two backfield stars, Duncan and Bergdahl, that has been the main reason for the aforementioned rise. This Saturday, Bergdahl, the boy who practically beat St. Mary's single-handed, will be on the bench with an injured leg, and Captain Duncan, according to Coach Bill Spaulding, may not get in. Here's the offense with a big hole in the attack—it may be true or not—all we get up here is biased dope from there as a build-up for the game. With these two luminaries either in or out, I believe that Oregon is still the better team because when the Webfoot line clicks again, as it is all set to do today, it has enough stuff to stop most anything that U. C. L. A. can put on the field.

FINAL LAP OF SEASON

Oregon, the champion of the Northwest part of the conference, is in the South for two very tough squabbles within a week for the determination of second place on the coast. Winning these two ball games will put the Webfeet right up in the running with a most successful season behind them—only one defeat. Losing both of them downs the Oregon squad to the class of mediocrity.

Spears has pulled a new and unbalanced team through the hardest schedule in the history of the school and so far this season has put out a team that has eclipsed every hope of even the most optimistic. As far as winning ball games, the Oregon coaching staff has had plenty to do—more to do in figuring out how to win ball games and traveling here and there than to be dragged into the squabbles that have been going the rounds this year. Win, lose, or draw, the Webfeet have picked a few feathers from the tails of the country's best and, while these final games of the season have everything to do with the standings, football at Oregon has come through.

St. Mary's Gaels Will Come Back, Affirms Madigan

U. of Oregon and Southern Methodist Remain on 1931 Slate

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE, San Francisco, November 20.—A St. Mary's team can come back.

So says Coach Slip Madigan as he grooms his Galloping Gaels for the Oregon and Southern Methodist games, the two remaining contests on the St. Mary's schedule.

Back from a trip to Dallas, Texas, where he scouted the Southern Methodist eleven last Saturday, Madigan today gathered his separated forces and began preparations to bring the Gaels back to the top of the gridiron heap.

Rested mentally and physically in preparation for the final test which will be oral.

Del Thom, the vicars' center, established a record for garnering tallies in this year's tourney by shooting the casaba through the hoop for a grand sum of 22 points. Ingram Kjosness, playing only during the second half for the Yeomen, put on another scoring spree to harvest 14 points for his day's labor.

S. P. T. nosed out Sherry Ross hall by a count of 18 to 15. The fray was featured by the high-powered scoring activities of one member on each team, Wayne Emmett for the winners and Joe Walsh of the hall team, each scoring 13 points.

The Spice casaba pursuers defeated Friendly hall, 20 to 6. Arne Lindgren, S. P. E. tipoff man, led the scoring array by manufacturing seven tallies.
