McClain Flays Co-op Charges As Unfounded

Alleged Wage Complaint Branded False

Manager Avers Assertions Result of Ignorance Of Conditions

Editor's Note: The Emerald procured the following story when a complaint was registered against the Co-op through the medium of the "Safety Valve," student opinion column. The letter may be found on page two.

In refutation of charges that the University Co-op store had lengthened its employes' working hours without increasing salaries, Marion F. McClain, manager of the Co-op, declared yesterday that the accusation arose only from lack of knowledge of the true situation.

The charge was caused by the fact that the Co-op recently started the policy of remaining open in the evening, the employes apparently working longer hours without any increase in salary.

Profit Small
"In order that the situation may be completely understood," Mr. McClain declared, "it must be remembered that the profit obtained from the sale of the Co-op's main stock, text books, is not large enough to wipe out the overhead. Therefore the remainder of the stock must be depended upon to clear up the deficit."

"In an attempt, therefore, to combat the present economic depression as well as the competition presented by local merchants in the school supply lines, the board decided to open the store evenings."

In accordance with the past policy of the store, the situation was then discussed with the entire staff and it was decided by the group that the day a member was to work in the evening, he need not come to work in the morning until an hour after the regular opening time.

"Each employe works eight hours a day and has one afternoon off a week. The new system increases the working time of the Co-op clerk one hour a week," Mr. McClain pointed out, "which brings the total working time up to 45 hours a week, three hours below the maximum working limit of 48 hours as defined by state law."

Salary Level Maintained
Mr. McClain also declared that the Co-op is one of the few business establishments in Eugene which has not been forced to reduce salaries and lay off workers.

In attempting to cope with the present economic situation, therefore, the Co-op employes agreed to donate one hour's time a week and Mr. McClain did not take a $300 increase in salary this year as scheduled in his contract. This donation amounts to $35 a week.

Early Oregon Graduate Passes at Home of Son

Joel N. Peary, Lawyer, Poet, Dies in Portland

Joel N. Peary, a member of the second class to be graduated from the University, died recently at the home of one of his sons. He received his M.A. degree from the University in 1882 and in the same year was admitted to the bar in Salem.

Mr. Peary practised law in Portland from 1899 until a few years ago, when he moved to Kelso, Washington. He was a member of the committee that bought the first available library for student use. He was also one of the founders of the Laorean Literary society, which started in the first years of the University.

Mr. Peary graduated from Portland high school, then the only high school in the state, and entered the University at the age of 16. Both in the University and in high school he studied under John W. Johnson, first president of the University.

Poetry was one of Mr. Peary's hobbies. Old Oregon has had some of his poems printed and in 1927 published an article of his in which he recalled his memories of the entire first faculty and told many interesting stories of early student days.

Tonqueds to Hold Holiday Matinee Dance on Friday

EUGENE University women suggest that students can shake off that Thanksgiving torpor and additional avoid-empois from too much turkey by "tripping the light fantastic" at the Tonqued matinee dance on Friday.

Give yourself a real holiday treat, they say, by enjoying an afternoon of good music, good floor, and good features for the small sum of 25 cents.

Where? At the Craftsman club. When? Friday, November 27, at 2:30.

Schurz Memorial Foundation Starts All-College Contest

In commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the death of Goethe, the greatest German poet, the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation announces a national essay contest, open to all undergraduates at colleges and universities throughout the United States. The Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation is interested in the development of cultural relations between the United States and Germany.

One of the following subjects may be chosen: "Goethe's Conception of Personality," "The Art of the Youthful Goethe (to 1776)" or "Goethe as a Lyric Poet."

The papers may be written in English or in German and must not exceed 5000 words. There are two first prizes, each $200; two second prizes, each $100; third and fourth prizes, each $75; fifth, sixth, and seventh prizes, each $50. Honorable mention will be awarded to a small number of meritorious essays.

The essays must reach the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, Inc., 225 South Fifteenth St., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, not later than September 15, 1932.

No name of the candidate must appear upon the essay. A name, plume or motto should appear in its stead and the name of the university or college.

Announcements of rewards will take place in December, 1932.

Students wishing to learn more about details of the contest should consult Professor Schmidt of the German department, who says that he hopes some of the awards will be given to some students of the University of Oregon.

The University library has an excellent collection of Goethe's works in English and German, and numerous biographies.

Frosh Swim Through Soph Team in Mermaid Fray

Women Vie for Pool Honors; More Meets Scheduled

In an exciting swimming meet, the freshman women's swimming team won a close victory from the sophomore team yesterday afternoon in the women's swimming pool. The deciding and last event of the meet was the relay, which the freshman team won, thus annexing the victory, 35 to 32 points.

The results were: single over-arm, Eleanor Thurston, sophomore, first; back stroke, Harriet Saeltzler, sophomore, first; crawl, Gerry McGillicuddy, freshman, first; racing back stroke, Isabelle Jenkins, sophomore, first; free style, Elaine Untermyer, freshman, first; plunge for 30 seconds, Isabelle Jenkins, first; diving, H. Saeltzler, sophomore, first; relay, freshmen.

Other intramural swimming meets are scheduled for the week following Thanksgiving holiday.

Stanford Dean to Counsel Business Ad Majors Here

Hugh J. Jackson, dean of the Stanford university school of business administration, will visit the University of Oregon Monday, November 30. Dean Jackson's visit was announced by Dean David E. Faville of the school of business administration, who said that the Stanford professor would interview students or faculty members interested in graduate work at the Stanford school of business.

Persons interested may arrange for an appointment by calling local 313, or by seeing Miss Bailey at 205 Commerce building.

Eleven Make Men's Varsity Debate Squad

Wage Cut Problem Offers Weighty Arguments

Casteel, Hempstead, Oliver In Charge of Forensic Work for Year

Hopes are high for success in men's varsity debate for this year, as a squad of eleven men were chosen from the sixteen who competed in the tryouts held last night at Villard hall. They debated the question, "Resolved, That the cutting of wages has materially retarded the recovery from the present depression."

Those meeting the approval of the judges were: Robert Caster, Gordon Day, W. Ray Clapp, Stephen Kahn, Thomas Tongue, Cecil Espy, George Bennett, Emery Hyde, Rolla Reedy, Wallace Campbell, and Arthur Potvin.

Men Are Experienced
Most of these men have had considerable experience in this work in the fields of previous varsity and freshman work.

Judges for the tryouts were John L. Casteel, associate professor of English; Walter Hempstead, instructor of English; Robert Oliver, graduate assistant; Dean James Gilbert and Dean W. L. Morse of the law school.

Wage Cuts Limits Buying

The chief argument advanced by the affirmative side was that the cutting of wages has paved the buying power of the consumer, which in turn means that less goods will be bought resulting in

YWCA Regional Secretary To Visit Campus Sunday

Marcia Seeber To Hold Group Conference Here

Marcia Seeber, regional secretary of the student Y. W. C. A., arrives in Eugene Sunday to spend Monday and Tuesday on the campus meeting people and attending conferences.

Monday Miss Seeber will meet with the members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, the advisory board and the Frosh Commission officers, and the Frosh Commission officers, and at 4 o'clock with the leaders of the various freshman discussion groups.

For five years Miss Seeber was the student Y. W. C. A. secretary at Washington State college. Last year she attended Columbia university and the Yale Divinity school in New York where she studied international relations, philosophy of religion.

This will probably be Miss Seeber's only visit to the campus this year.

Yeomen Will Hold Final Meeting of Term Monday

The Oregon Yeomen will hold the last meeting of the term Monday evening at the men's lounge of Gerlinger hall, Merlin Blais, president of the organization, announced yesterday. Plans for an extensive winter term social program will be discussed, and reports of a number of standing committees will be presented. General business of the group is to be the order of the evening.

Ingram Kjosness, sports chairman, and Robert O'Leary, in charge of social events, will make reports. A short musical program has been planned for the meeting.

Prose and Poetry Group Hears Works of Tagore

Poems from "Song Offerings" by Rabindranath Tagore were read by Eleanor Wharton, freshman in English, last night before the fireplace in Susan Campbell hall drawing room, at a meeting of Prose and Poetry group of Philomela. Miss Wharton also read a short description of the life of the Indian poet.

Virginia Endicott, of Eugene, entertained the group with two violin solos, "Song of India" by Rimsky-Korsakoff and "Frasquita" by Franz Leher. Alice Briggs accompanied Miss Endicott.

Miss Wharton announced that poets of the Near East will be studied at the next meeting of the group.

Students To Vacate Campus For Thanksgiving Holidays

Many Social Affairs for Week-End Planned; Dance Slated

Tomorrow students will be thankful for the first respite from the rigors of university life since the last week of September, almost two months ago.

In the homes of many freshmen there will be rejoicings at the return from the first long period away from the family circle. There will also be many reunions with old chums, boy friends and girl friends at the old haunts.

Only one or two of the sorority houses will be kept open during the holidays, so many of the women are leaving. Only about 150 men will remain at the fraternity houses, a poll yesterday indicated.

At least 200 students and four faculty members will attend the Northwest Students' International conference to be held at Reed college Friday and Saturday. Representatives from all institutions in the Northwest are expected to attend.

Oregon Students To Attend N.S.I.C. Meet at Portland

Aspects of Disarmament, Chinese Problems To Be Subject

Various aspects of disarmament and problems of China will be considered at the Northwest Students International conference to be held Friday and Saturday of this week at Reed college in Portland, under the auspices of the Northwest councils of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Four professors and more than 20 students will represent Oregon at the conference. Dean George Rebec, of the graduate school, Professor Alexander Goldenweiser, extension school, and Professors Victor E. Morris and John R. Mez, of the economics department, will be among the speakers and leaders of the conference.

Students planning to attend are Rolla Reedy, president of the campus Y. M. C. A., Helen Binford, chairman of the World Fellowship

Many students are planning to attend the Jefferson-Marshfield high school football game in Multnomah stadium tomorrow afternoon. The mythical state championship is at stake in the big game and many Oregon students besides Jefferson grads are expected to be in the stands.

In Portland, dances or parties will be held by several of the fraternities and sororities. Several of the other cities will also be scenes for such affairs. No general University social function has been planned as the time is too short.

The Tonqueds have planned a matinee dance to be held at the Craftsman club on East Fourteenth street Friday afternoon. All students staying in Eugene over the holidays are invited. It is to be a no-date affair.

Nearly 200 seats have been sold here for the St. Mary's-Oregon game to be played in San Francisco tomorrow. The majority of these have gone to students who will be at their homes in the bay region for the holidays.

Magazine Starts Literary Contests In Coast Colleges

Prizes To Be Given for Best Stories and Articles About West

The Westerner magazine, published in Portland, has announced its initial trial of a short story and magazine article contest to be conducted individually in the Universities of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and California.

The contests are open to all undergraduate and graduate students regularly enrolled in the four universities. Prizes of $20 for first place, $10 for the second best story, and $5 for the third best, will be awarded in each contest on the four campuses.

The restrictions have been made that the articles or short stories be based on a western background or theme. Also the manuscripts must be typewritten, on one side of the paper with name of author accompanying it. The deadline of the contest on the local campus has been set at January 1. All manuscripts must be handed in to W. F.

Council Adopts 0.75 Average For Initiation

Interfraternity Group Lists Grade Counts

Minor Points Left to Living Organizations for Own Decision

INITIATION REQUIREMENT SHOWN GRAPHICALLY

The table of hours and points given below shows the minimum quality of work required of pledges to make the 0.75 grade point average for fraternity initiation:

Hours Carried	Minimum Points
13	10
14	11
15	12
16	12
17	13
18	14
19	15

A grade point average of 0.75 was adopted by the interfraternity council yesterday as the minimum requirement for the initiation of pledges. This is a grade average of approximately C minus. A minimum of 12 term hours is also required.

A few of the houses are expected to require a 1.0 average for initiation. This is done to encourage higher grades on the part of freshmen and to impress upon them the necessity of making an average equal to that specified for graduation.

Foreign Trade Classes To Visit Port of Portland

Professor Alfred L. Lomax of the foreign trade department of the school of business administration, and the foreign trade classes will visit the Port of Portland Friday, November 27. The visit will include the freight terminals where the loading of ocean going freight will be observed and the ships themselves visited.

A similar trip was taken last year and proved both interesting and educating, Professor Lomax declares.

Who Gets Turkey?

The meeting of Coach Slop Madigan and Dr. Spears is assured for the next six years. The Doctor appears serious, while Madigan smiles expectantly.

Library Worker, Former Dean of Women, To Retire

At noon today, Mrs. Ellen M. Pennell will retire from her work in the library after having given it 13 years of faithful service. Since the year of the Armistice, Mrs. Pennell has been working in the basement of the library in the office of the librarian, Mr. M. H. Douglass.

Mrs. Pennell came to the University from Monmouth in 1908 as instructor in English and assistant dean of women. Luella Clay Carson was then dean of women. Mrs. Pennell knew P. L. Campbell in Monmouth, so when he became president of the University she dropped her work there and became a member of the faculty on the Oregon campus. In 1911 she became dean of women as well as an instructor in English. The next year she began teaching a course in art for the girls in the University. There are many former students of the University who best remember her in this teaching position, for she taught this course for about six years. Then in 1918, she began her work in the library.

In a fall a few years ago she broke her hip so it has been necessary for a taxi to bring her to and from her work each day.

Faculty Members Asked To Confer With E. Lindsay

The state board of higher education has asked various members of the University faculty, representing different departments and activities, to confer with Dr. E. E. Lindsay, executive secretary of the board, and representatives of other Oregon colleges to discuss common problems.

Dr. Howard R. Taylor, director personnel research, and Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, were in Salem on Monday, November 23, to meet with Dr. Lindsay, David E. Faville, dean of the school of business administration, and Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, will confer with him today.

GRIFFIN MADE PRESIDENT

Myron Griffon, senior in journalism, has been elected president of Ye Tabard Inn, men's national writing honorary, to take the place of Victor Kaufman, who did not return to the University this year.

Webfeet Carry Grid Banners To Gael Camp

St. Mary's Tilt Final Play On Oregon Schedule

Spears, Madigan To Watch Wits in Annual Turkey Day Clash

SAN MATEO, Cal., Nov. 24.—(Special to the Emerald)—Here, in the polo citadel of the Far West, the University of Oregon football team started practice Monday for its final game of the season. Near the celebrated Burlingame country club, where Eric Pedley and the late Jim Colt rode to fame on the turf, the Webfeet will prepare themselves for their last 1931 chance to scale the football heights.

Ducks Leave Thursday
The Ducks leave here Thursday morning for San Francisco where they will match skill with St. Mary's college, previous conqueror of Southern California, victor over mighty Notre Dame. Victory means much in this annual Thanksgiving day classic. Triumph for either club will go far towards erasing the stain of previous defeats.

To date St. Mary's has dropped two games. Oregon has been on the short end once. The Gaels were blanked successively by the Olympic club, 10 to 0, and by U. C. L. A., 12 to 0. Oregon suffered its only defeat to Southern California, but it was a decisive one. The final score was 53 to 0. St. Mary's via the aerial route, licked the Trojans, 13 to 7, in an early season encounter. Neither team has met any other mutual opponent.

Regulars Will Start
Both elevens will be at full strength for the contest. For the first time in its last three starts, the Gaels will have every first stringer on the starting line, while the Webfeet came out of last Saturday's U. C. L. A. game without a casualty. Leighton Gee, stellar right half for the Ducks, will bolster the Webfoot lineup. He was kept out of the Bruins game because of a strained leg muscle.

Tomorrow's game will end the 1931 season for the Webfeet. St. Mary's still has the strong Southern Methodist eleven on its schedule.

Fire Drills Suggested for Campus Living Groups

A plea to all fraternities on the campus to hold fire drills one or more times a month and so comply with recommendations of the state fire marshal's office was issued yesterday by Virgil D. Earl, dean of men, at a special meeting of the interfraternity council.

"We are anxious to cooperate with the state fire marshal's office and always be prepared for an emergency in case of fire. We can best show our spirit of cooperation by actually rehearsing fire drills occasionally," Dean Earl told the council.

December Issue of Alumni Monthly To Appear Monday

The Christmas issue of Old Oregon will be off the press the first of next week, said Peggy Boyer, managing editor of the alumni magazine. It should reach alumni the first part of December to carry to them the holiday greetings extended by the Alumni association.

"This issue will really be almost a Homecoming number," said Miss Boyer, "for it will carry news of the graduates and former students who returned for Homecoming, and stories of the events that marked the week-end."

In addition, Miss Boyer pointed out, there will be special feature articles to interest the grads. One article by Dr. John H. Mueller, associate professor of sociology, deals with the Russia of today. Dr. Mueller is well qualified to write on this subject for he recently returned from a trip to Russia in which he studied conditions there. He was accompanied on the trip by an economist from the University of California and by a professor from a Russian university who acted as interpreter and guide. The article will be illustrated by photographs which Dr. Mueller himself took on the trip.

Dr. J. R. Mez, associate professor of economics, writes on "Oregon and Orient" for this issue of Old Oregon. Dr. Mez is well known as a speaker and writer to students, but is not so well known to alumni, since he has been on the Oregon campus only since 1929.

Mrs. David M. Graham suggests a new name for the Oregon Webfeet in an interview with Robert K. Allen. Mrs. Graham says that alumni have long looked for a better name than "Webfeet" to denote the Oregon teams, and she makes here a pertinent suggestion. Other articles include sports, news of the classes, campus news, and pictures. Miss Boyer is editor of this issue, and Roger Bailey is advertising manager.

Will They Dine on Duck Thanksgiving Day?

Here are five more Galloping Gaels who will be on hand when Oregon faces St. Mary's tomorrow morning in Kezar stadium. Dopesters on the coast are predicting a close contest.
